Wood, Chief of Staff of made this announcement following a conference over the transportation with President Taft at Beverly. President Taft told Gen. Wood he would let him know later whether one or two regiments are to be sent to reinforce Brig.-Gen. Steever's border patrol.

MARCHING ORDERS.

In anticipation of a quick reply, Gen. Wood wired marching orders to the Ninth Cavalry at Ft. D. A. Russell, Wyo., to the commanders of the Twelfth Cavalry at Presidio, Cal., and the Thirteenth Cavalry at Fort Riley, Kan.

Gen. Wood sent instructions to have their regiments ready for field service. It is probable the Ninth Cavalry will get under way for El Paso, Tex., some time tonight.

Gen. Wood was prompted to take this action by nature of the dispatches he received from the frontier. Gen. Steever sent a telegram urging the detail of more troops. He now has approximately 4209 men stretched along the border; with the addition of the Ninth and one other regiment of cavalry, the forces guarding the border would have close to 6000 men. This number is not deemed too large, as the Mexican frontier extends a distance of over 2000 miles.

The War Department received a dispatch this morning from Sergt. Funk of the Third Cavalry, commanding a detachment of men at Hachita, a small place near Douglas, Ariz.

FUNK ON THE JOB.

Sergt. Funk's dispatch said: "Had rub with four rebels; wounded one, killed one, and captured one horse."

Later Sergt. Funk telegraphed he had encountered a small force of rebels at Culberson's ranch and had shot down four who opened fire on the American cavalrymen.

A force of fifty-six men and four officers were sent to the relief of Sergt. Funk.

REBELS CROSS THE BORDER.

Other dispatches to the War Department state that at several points along the border east and west of El Paso, Tex., the rebels are crossing into the United States and raiding ranches. Forage for man and beast and the capture of horses are the objects of the raid.

OUR TROOPS IN MEXICO.

Senor Manuel Calero, the Mexican Ambassador, who is speeding to Mexico City with a message to the Mexican government that the United States has reached the limit of patience, is carrying also a request from the United States government that it be allowed to send American troops across the border in pursuit of the rebels following raiding in the United States.

The request states that the action desired is similar to that granted the United States under treaty when this government was rounding up the Apache Indians. When the Apaches went across the border to escape the American cavalrymen the latter chased them into Mexico.

It is not expected this request will be granted, as Mexico's constitution specifically prohibits it.

DO NOTHING POLICY.

It was reported from the border that no evidence of President Madero carrying into effect the demands made upon him yesterday to send troops into Northern Mexico to protect Americans had been seen. It was reported that not a Mexican Federal soldier had been moved in forty-eight hours.

INTERVENTION.

Officials of the State and War Departments are coming to the opinion that intervention in Mexico by the United States is inevitable. Several army officers said they were of the opinion that Madero has reached the end of his resources and that he cannot protect the Americans in Northern Mexico.

President Taft is keeping a close watch and he has constant connection by telephone with the War Department. Gen. Wood said he would remain at his office until late tonight.

The officials here fear that the shooting of the rebel raiders by Sergt. Funk will add to the bitterness between the rebels and Americans and that the latter may suffer. He said this would not be tolerated.

ORDER FOR TROOPS SENT BY TELEPHONE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BEVERLY (Mass.) Sept. 7.—President Taft this afternoon authorized Maj.-Gen. Wood, Chief of Staff of the United States army, by telephone to dispatch at one two more regiments of cavalry to the Mexican border. No authorization was given by the President to have the troops cross the border. The President regards the situation as grave.

The President directed the dispatch of one regiment from Ft. Riley, Kan., and one from Ft. D. A. Russell, Wyo.

It was stated that while no more troops were to be sent during the next few days the situation has become quite alarming to the Washington authorities.

It can be stated on authority, however, that intervention will not be considered by President Taft except as a last resort. He has told many of his advisers that he would not send the army across the Texas border until every possible move had been made to afford protection to Americans by the Madero government.

AMERICANS WARNED TO AVOID FIRING LINE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CANANEA (Mex.) Sept. 7.—Another attack on Cananea is expected daily. Rafael Campa, the rebel leader, has sent word for Americans to keep away from the firing line. He also sent word here that he had killed six of his men for assaulting women and girls.

One hundred and fifty Federal reinforcements arrived here last night. Federal troops were sent out today to locate Campa's band.

MEXICANS ASK LEAVE TO CROSS THE LINE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 7.—For a second time the United States government will be asked for authorization for the transportation of Mexican troops across American territory. The plan of the War Department to conduct a campaign against a large body of rebels necessitates moving soldiers through El Paso.

Mayor Rolph of San Francisco yesterday suspended Police Commissioner Spiro and Fire Commissioner Donohue, who, he alleged had promised to resign and who are under charges, the former with soliciting orders in favor of a bottling company and the latter with violation of civil service laws.

Thirteen hundred head of cattle were seized Thursday night on the Arizona border near Nogales, it being charged by the customs officials that they were being smuggled into the United States ffrom Mexico.

GENERAL EASTERN. Gov. Stubbs of Kansas yesterday appealed directly to President Taft for Federal assistance to stamp out the mysterious epidemic that is killing thousands of horses and that is believed transmittable to man, as a veterinarian attending horses died with symptoms of spinal meningitis.

United States Senator Catron said yesterday in Kansas City that the United States will have to send the army into Mexico to save American lives and American interests.

Reports received yesterday at both Republican and Democratic headquarters indicated that Roosevelt's trip had failed of its purpose and that he will poll small vote in November.

President Taft in Beverly yesterday held a conference with Chairman Hilles and Treasurer Sheldon of the Republican National Committee. His lame ankle is on the mend.

A Johns Hopkins physician rushed yesterday on a special train to attend Mrs. John R. McLean, who is ill in Bar Harbor.

WASHINGTON. Officials of the State Department have urged upon American contractors the desirability to bid on harbor improvement work for which millions of dollars are to be expended by American cities.

FOREIGN. The Mexican government, it is believed, has again asked for permission to send troops across United States soil to Sonora and the rebels threaten that if this permission is granted that they will destroy towns across the border. been massacred by eight rebels.

The Mexican government has canceled all fishing concessions on the Pacific Coast, including that to the Japanese in Magdalena Bay.

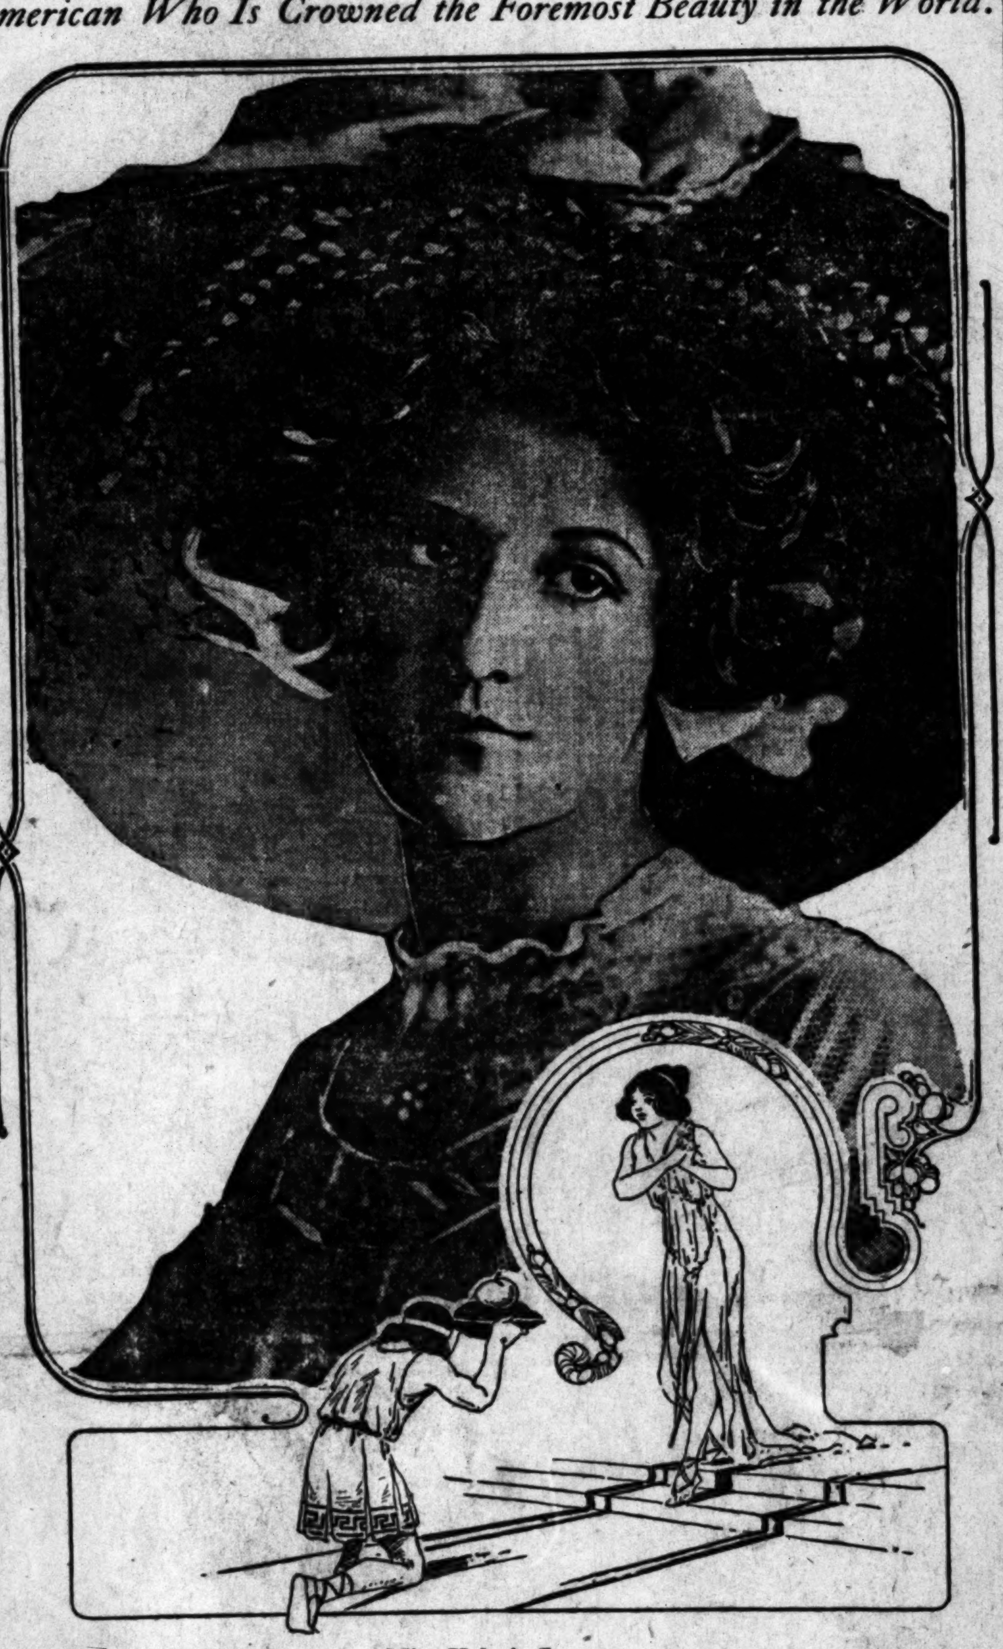
On the New York Stock Exchange yesterday the movement of shares was listless. Metropolitan banks make better showing, owing to contraction of loans.

American Who Is Crowned the Foremost Beauty in the World.



Miss Valerie Lange,

An American girl who has been crowned by Viennese judges as the handsomest in the world and in Vienna "they" are supposed to know a beauty when "they" see one. Vienna itself is ranked as one of the handsomest cities in the world and while the women there are noted for their beauty it remained for an American miss to capture from them the prize in a contest in which "peaches" from all nationalities were "also present."

False Prophets.

BRITISH COUSINS ARE STILL RILED.

ENGLISH PRESS AND CARTOONS LAMPOON PRESIDENT.

London Journals Seem to Have Idea that Because Panama Legislation Does Not Specially Help British Shipping It Should Be Declared Null and Void.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—There is something supremely ludicrous about the seriousness with which the English daily and weekly publications take themselves. The Saturday Review, which has been insisting for several years that Germany will declare war upon England in the spring of 1913, now moves the date forward to September, 1914.

The Nation continues to be practically the only publication willing to allow America any rights at all in the Panama Canal or any right to enforce and interpret her own laws. According to all the other English newspapers, American laws must be declared null and void when they conflict in any degree with British interests. Otherwise, America would be guilty of the most heinous international perfidy.

THAT HELPLESS FEELING.

The Saturday Review, which last week indulged itself in "limehousing" President Taft, says this week: "By exempting American shipping from duties, foreign ships will be unduly taxed. To this there is no real answer except that the United States feels it can safely defy foreign opinion."

SLAM AT BRYCE

Sir Frank Gould ("F. C. G.") has a cartoon in the Westminster Gazette, suggesting that "the diplomatic attack of James Bryce will settle it all, but we feel no certainty that Mr. Bryce is a match for Taft's electioneering gifts. Our Ambassador's popularity in the United States is due to his persistent encouragement of their insane national vanity."

PUT BRYAN AT THE TAIL END.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Democratic campaign mangers here were notified today that William Jennings Bryan would stump California probably near the end of this month.

NEW YORK GIRL WINS WORLD BEAUTY PRIZE.

Miss Valerie Lange, Competing With Misses from All Parts of the Globe and of All Nationalities, Obtains the "Prix de Beaute" in Vienna, and the Judges Didn't Have to Debate Long in Picking the Winner.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

VIENNA, Sept. 7.—One of Uncle Sam's fair daughters, in the person of Valerie Lange, a 17-year-old New York girl, is the winner of a beauty contest just held here, in which "peaches" of almost every nationality took part.

The "Prix de Beaute" and title of Queen of Exquisiteness and Grace were awarded to Miss Lange after the shortest of deliberations by a conscientious jury and since then a gift has been bestowed upon her by no less a person than the Emperor, the venerable Francis Joseph.

Never in the memory of the oldest inhabitant of this gay town was there such a beauty contest as that just won by Miss Lange. It was a real world congress of feminine youth and good looks and the brief absence of the jury of experts on pulchritude was a trying time for the bevy of fair contestants, though each was convinced that she was the winner, and that to her alone belonged the golden apple.

Then came the announcement. The 17-year-old American girl had won!

A blanching of cheeks, an incredulous stare, a frigid silence!

Then the pretty rosy-cheeked girl from the British Isles, who depended principally on her perfect coloring of creamy white and brilliant red, turned to the contestant next to her and remarked, "the jury must be color blind," adding that the Yankee "had no complexion at all."

Mlle. Lucue Chartier, the trim little bit of French femininity, hair coiffed in the latest mode and a gown that denoted the "last cry" from the shops of her beloved Paris, sniffed the air like a thoroughbred race horse as she glanced at the juvenile prize-winner in a simple school girl hat of straw and a dress that never saw the mark of a swell dressmaker.

"Impossible!" she exclaimed. "What tastes these barbarian Austrians have!" And with a contemptuous shrug she settled back in her seat, wishing herself back in a land that recognized beauty in its artistic sense.

The Emperor's gift to the lucky American girl took the form of an expuisite necklace. Dinners and all sorts of entertainments in her honor have followed in swift succession, and the picture postcard makers can't keep up with the demand for her fair lineaments.

SIZZLING SUNDAY FOR CHICAGO.

Three Die from Heat Despite Drop in Temperature—Milk, Meat and Ice Go Up in Price.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 7.—[Special Dispatch.] Despite the temporary respite from the torrid wave, three more deaths occurred in Chicago today. Weather predictions for tomorrow give promise of a steady rise in the temperature. As a result of the latest heat wave, prices of meat and ice have already advanced and a raise in the price of milk is threatened. The demand for ice is so great that it cannot be supplied.

Louis Sufker of Beecher, Ill., dropped dead at West Sixty-third and South Halsted streets while on his way to the Englewood railroad depot.

John Brennan was found dead in an alley in the rear of No. 218 West Fifty-ninth street.

NO NEWS IN THIS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] "Suspender Jack" McGee, who put Oscar S. Straus in nomination at the Progressive convention, is better known in New York as the "Cowboy Cop."

Marching In.

THEY TAKE THE CITY.

Grand Army Forces Enter Gates.

Commander-in-Chief, Staff and Five Departments Already Here.

Ten Thousand Visitors on Hand, Many Special Trains Due.

First Reception by Ohio Veterans in Churches This Day.

TEN THOUSAND veterans of the Civil War and other visitors arrived in Los Angeles yesterday for the forty-sixth annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Six special trains over the Salt Lake, the Southern Pacific and the Santa Fe railroads brought the vanguard of delegates here.

Delegations now in Los Angeles represent the departments of Illinois, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Iowa, Colorado and Wyoming.

Three hundred delegates from the different departments registered at headquarters yesterday. Altogether there are more than 7000 visitors registered.

Enthusiastically welcomed by cheering thousands, bands playing rousing martial music, showers of flowers, waving flags and banners and hosts of special committees trying each to offer the warmest demonstration of hospitality, the vanguard of the Grand Army of the Republic invested Los Angeles yesterday to find the city joyously capitulating, and the Stars and Stripes they fought and bled for greeting them from every window, housetop and street.

Never were these survivors of the civil strife that separated mothers from sons who took up arms one against the other so completely made to feel the love and devotion of the public. Never in the forty-six years that these defenders of the Union have assembled at annual encampments have they so fully been brought to the realization of what thew stand for to the United States of today. And it is improbable that anw other city in the nation will be able—in the few years that remain before the passing of the last of that great army—to ouer more homage to the veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic.

No Los Angeles demonstration of welcome paralleled that which the citizens tendered the different departments of the Grand Army as the first of the many arrived at the different railroad centers yesterday.

When the Pennsylvania delegations arrived at the Salt Lake and the Santa Fe stations last night they found not only the Reception Committees appointed to meet them but the cheering, welcoming crowds, waiting automobiles bedecked with flags and flowers, and the Mayor anxious to turn over the keys of the city.

COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF IN.

The crowning feature of the day was the coming of the Commander-in-Chief Trimble's special bearing that distinguished official and staff and 200 members of the Illinois delegation. When the long train rolled into the Arcade station at 3 o'clock the greatest single reception of the National Encampment took place. Bands played martial airs, veterans cheered and waved their hats and the engine whistle shrilled loudly in honor of the Commander's arrival.

The Commander-in-Chief and members of his staff and party were tendered a royal welcome. It was a welcome that made the veterans wrinkle their faces in happy lines as they alighted from their de luxe train.

They and their wives were showered with sweet scented flowers grown in this smiling land, and huge baskets of fruit were presented to various members of the party. All of the G.A.R. posts of Los Angeles and 200 members of the Reception Committee, including men and women were on hand to extend the glad hand to the Commander-in-Chief, his friends and aides and Mrs. Trimble.

Members of the party were escorted to twenty waiting automobiles beautifully decorated with blossoms and bunting and headed by a band of fifty pieces marched up Fifth street to the Alexandria, the national headquarters. The Commander-in-Chief and all the veterans were given an ovation by the tens of thousands on the streets along the line of march. When the automobile bearing Commander-in-Chief and Mrs. Trimble, Executive Director Ozborne and the Mayor reached the hotel, the great crowd congregated at Fifth and

EX-PRISONERS OF WAR FOREGATHERING TOO.

AN ENCAMPMENT within an encampment is that planned by the National Union Ex-Prisoners of War Association, the leading spirits of which arrived yesterday at the Alexandria in the cheerful personages of Gen. Harry White of Indiana, Pa. and Adjt.-Gen. J. D. Walker of Pittsburgh.

Around Harry White the bitterest fight of the history of Pennsylvania politics during the Civil War period centered, and the powers espousing peace were sufficiently strong to keep him in Libby in 1864 while the party backing the struggle, through the Federal government offered to surrender a Confederate officer, even the son of Gen. Robert E. Lee, but to no avail.

Gen. White, then a major, was apprehended in trying to make his escape from the prison. Several of the Federal soldiers had been exchanged, among them a surgeon, and the surgeon offered to trade places with White. After passing through the prison gate, boarding the little vessel that was to carry him to safety and his friends, and feeling assured that his ruse had worked, it was discovered, and just as the boat was pulling away from the wharf the guard rushed out and demanded Maj. White and he was returned.

Col. Walker was a prisoner during a great part of the war. He was incarcerated in Raleigh, Danville and Libby on various occasions. He began with Knapp's Pennsylvania Battory which stayed with Hooker's Twelfth and Twentieth Corps and traversed every State of the Confederacy. He was one of the men exchanged in the last detachment that left Libby previous to the fall of Richmond.

The two men are among the founders of the Prisoners Association, which will be well represented at the encampment. It is expected that 400 or 500 ex-prisoners will attend the formal meeting of the association, which will be held next Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Armory Hall, Eighth and Spring street. The meeting will be called to order by Gen. White, who having been a friend of Clay, Webster, Calhoun and Lincoln, is expected to show some of the oratorical power of those men and some for which he became famous as a Senator from Pennsylvania and a denouncer of the old Copperhead party of that State in the troublous days.

OREGON VETS ON THE WAY.

Special Train With Hundreds on Board Will Arrive at Los Angeles Tomorrow.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Sept. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] On their own special train the Grand Army veterans of Oregon left this afternoon for Los Angeles to attend the forthcoming reunion. The party includes veterans, their wives, sons and daughters to the number of 250, and of these 150 are Grand Army men. The famous Oregon Veterans Drum Corps is on the train.

"Recruits" will be enlisted at various points along the Southern Pacific, Salem, Eugene, Roseburg, Medford and Ashland. One car on the special came from Seattle, bringing a happy party of battle-scarred heroes from the Puget Sound country. Many came from other posts in the State, among them being S. A. Blythe of Hood River, Past Commander of the Department of Oregon.

In recognition of the honor that is due the veterans, the Southern Pacific had prepared every facility possible to add to the comfort and convenience of the party. The magnificent train of sleeping cars carried an observation car which ordinarily is attached only to standard Pullman trains. It has two diners, is electric lighted throughout, has a library, writing desks and various conveniences that will be of service to the passengers.

The Portland special train is due to arrive in Los Angeles at 9 o'clock Monday morning. The Oregon party promises to take an active part in all the fun and will have the drum corps to lend enthusiasm to the occasion.

PIN ON CARNATIONS.

How High School Girls Can Help to Graciously Welcome the City's Veterans.

The Mayor issued the following appeal to Los Angeles high school girls yesterday to take a gracious part in the welcome to veterans by pinning upon the breasts of the visitors red carnations:

The various Woman's Relief Corps of this city have requested me, through Mrs. Jennie Heffelfinger, president of the Bartlett-Logan W.R.C. No. 7, to ask your assistance in decorating the breasts of the visiting members of the Grand Army of the Republic next week with red carnations. It is proposed to have this event occur on the occasion of the great parade to be held Wednesday, September 11 at 10 a.m. It is with pleasure that, as Mayor of Los Angeles, I urge all of you who can possibly do so to cooperate with the Woman's Relief Corps on this occasion.

In order successfully to carry out the scheme you are urged to report to the committee at Mammoth Hall, No. 517 South Broadway, at 9 o'clock a. m. sharp on the date mentioned, where flowers and pins will be furnished. This is a patriotic service which will redound to the credit of the young ladies of the present generation in Los Angeles, and in all probability it will be the last occasion when the high school girls of this city will be asked to perform a similar service for the rapidly-dwindling Army in Blue.

Commander-in-Chief and Mrs. Trimble on Arrival in Los Angeles Yesterday Afternoon,

With Executive Director Osborne of the general committee of management of the encampment, in the center, extending a welcome. Above is Mrs. Cora E. Davis, National President of the Woman's Relief Corps, who came on the same train.

NAVAL VETERANS, TOO.

Sea Fighters of the Civil War Will Hold Their Encampment Here This Week.

The few who remain of the naval fighters of the Civil War will share with the land fighters the honor and glory justly due those assembling in their national encampment. The annual reunion of the National Association of Naval Veterans, U. S. of A., 1861-1865, will be held at the same time and place as the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Headquarters for the naval veterans has been established at the Hotel Hollenbeck, and a position in the great parade has been assigned them. The sailors propose to show they are still on deck and ready for action.

One of the interesting features of the reunion will be the annual dog watch of the naval veterans, corresponding to the camp fire of the soldiers. The dog watch will be held Wednesday evening at eight bells in Blanchard Hall, No. 233 South Broadway. A programme of music and "yarn spinning" promises to be interesting.

NO PENSION URGENCY.

Nothing Important Along That Line Coming Up, First Time in Years, Says Colorado Commander.

For the first time in years no urgent pension matters will be brought before the National G.A.R. encampment, according to Col. H. M. Minor, Department Commander of Colorado and Wyoming. The principal questions at issue, Col. Minor says, are the choice of a National Department Commander and the selection of a meeting place for the 1913 encampment.

Col. Minor was stricken with a form of vertigo yesterday upon his arrival in Los Angeles, and is confined to his room at the Hotel Lankershim. His condition is not serious and he expects to convert his suite at the hotel into department headquarters Monday morning.

Mrs. Sadie M. Likens of Denver, president of the Colorado and Wyoming Department Woman's Relief Corps, and Mrs. Cora Smith, president of the Ladies of the G.A.R., accompanied the Department Commander and his wife to Los Angeles and will open headquarters for the auxiliary corps at the Lankershim.

YOU CAN BE WHAT YOU WANT TO BE

Any man or woman can be a success—a big success—if he or she has ambition, energy and is not afraid. Our aspirations are the measures of our possibilities, and achievement is merely a matter of determination and work-hard, conscientious, untiring work.

Do the thing necessary to be done, and do it quickly and efficiently; keep your tongue bridled, your eyes and ears open, maintain a receptive mental attitude, co-operate with your fellows, and success, satisfying and complete, will mark you for its own.

The Times, the biggest and one of the most prosperous newspapers on the civilized globe, was established when Los Angeles had a population of only 11,500. It has succeeded, achieved power, prestige, distinction, and is known throughout the world because its principal owner and his associates have worked, struggled and fought for the right, been square in their relations with their kind and true to the public interests.

Today The Times is read and believed in by all sorts, classes and conditions of men and women; its circulation is larger and has a greater purchasing power than that of any of its local contemporaries; it is the only newspaper that thoroughly covers Los Angeles and tributary territory, and in profitable, "traceable" results to its advertising patrons, it is unrivaled.

Aim high, labor diligently, be true to your ideals, and success will crown your efforts just so surely as night follows day.

HE PREFERS WILD STEERS.

Or Would Break Bronchos Rather Than Dodge Hatpins.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO (Cal.) Sept. 7. — [Exclusive Dispatch.] Breaking wild bronchos and bulldogging steers is a mild pastime compared to dodging clocks and sidestepping hatpin thrusts, according to the way of thinking of J. W. Nevius, a cowboy. For this reason, he has brought suit for divorce from Edna Nevius, alleging cruelty as the ground of action. Mrs. Nevius is said to be slight of stature. The couple were married in August, 1911, after a courtship of a few weeks in Los Angeles. They separated in December.

THEY TAKE THE CITY.

Spring streets let out a roar of greeting that could be heard for blocks. Hundreds of ex-soldiers and delegates to the encampment crowded about Trimble, shook his hand and patted him on the back as he made his way into the hotel foyer.

"I am mighty glad to be in Los Angeles again," said the Commander-in-Chief as he edged his way through the crowd. "I was here last January and fell in love with this great and hospitable city. We are looking forward to a delightful and successful encampment and I feel certain that it will be the most enjoyable ever held."

The Commander-in-Chiefs staff includes the following officers:

C. R. E. Koch, Adjutant-General; W. A. Ketcham, Judge Advocate General; William P. Wright, Chief of Staff; J. M. Vernon, Senior Aide-de-Camp; W. H. Armstrong, C. B. Wilson, F. M. Sterrett and L. W. PENNSYLVANIA STRONG.

The first G.A.R. special conveying the Pennsylvania delegation here arrived at the Salt Lake station at 5:30 o'clock and the second pulled into the Santa Fe depot at 6:55 last night.

The two Pennsylvania trains brought approximately 100 delegates and 400 visitors from the East. Commander-in-Chief Thomas Cole, who arrived on the Santa Fe, was met by the Mayor and reception committees from the Woman's Relief Corps and the Ladies of the G. A. R., as well as by a score of Los Angeles veterans. These reception committees also welcomed the Pennsylvania delegation.

As fast as possible under the circumstances, the veterans were placed into automobiles and carriages and whirled uptown to the Alexandria, where the Pennsylvania delegation has headquarters. A major portion of the crowd, many of whom came to the station in machines, followed the visitors through the streets, cheering.

Gen. Daniel E. Sickles of Boston, who is a candidate for Commander-in-Chief, and who was expected here with the Pennsylvania veterans, was not on the train. He will reach Los Angeles today.

Storms along the road delayed all G.A.R. special trains.

ILLINOIS WELCOMED.

Equaling the reception accorded the Pennsylvania veterans was that tendered the members of the Department of Illinois, who arrived on the second section of the Illinois special at 3:05 o'clock yesterday afternoon. There were thirty-six delegates and several hundred other veterans and their families aboard, under Commander T. H. Gault. More than 100 ladies are in the Illinois party, the majority being members of the Woman's Relief Corps of the Ladies of the G.A.R.

At Denver the Illinois delegation was tendered a surprise, being received at the station by G.A.R. committees and taken to the Denver Brown Palace Hotel, where a banquet and reception was tendered them.

DRUM CORPS DELAYED.

Cook's Drum Corps, which is on its way here from Denver, was scheduled to have reached Los Angeles at 9:50 o'clock last night, but officials of the Southern Pacific announced that the special train is delayed and due to arrive this morning.

Gen. G. W. Cook, who is in command of the corps, is bringing the organization here en masse to boost for Denver as the 1913 annual encampment city. It is generally conceded that Denver will succeed in being selected as the place of the next encampment.

No little disappointment was expressed by the waiting thousands at the railroad stations last night when it was learned that Cook's Drum Corps would not arrive on time, and that it was likely the crowd would be prevented from tendering an ovation owing to the early hour at which the train is expected. Railroad officials said last night that while the time is not certain, the corps should reach the Arcade Station about 7 o'clock this morning.

In addition to this disappointment, the crowd was given another, when the Arizona and North Dakota delegations, which were stated to be due in Los Angeles on regular trains some time during the evening, failed to arrive.

OHIO IN EARLY.

Friends of Ohio, Colorado and Wyoming veterans were not subjected to the chagrin felt by the Arizona and North Dakota residents here, however, as the Ohio veterans arrived in Los Angeles over 300 strong early in the morning.

Rev. Dr. C. W. Blodget, commander of the Department of Ohio, with his staff, led the delegation.

Mrs. G. B. Speers and Mrs. C. D. Gilbert, representing the Ohio Society of Los Angeles, who went to San Bernardino to have the honor of being the first Los Angeles women to greet the veterans from the Buckeye State, returned to the city aboard the special.

The Ohio veterans will assemble at the Westminster Monday night to attend a big camp fire. An extensive programme is being arranged.

Just after the arrival of Ohio, the special train carrying the delegates and visitors representing the Department of Colorado and Wyoming came into La Grande Station. There were seven coaches in this train and seventy-five delegates, with many relatives and friends, as well as the Woman's Relief Corps and Ladies of the G.A.R. Col. H. M. Minor was in command. WEST DIGS UP MORE TROUBLE.

Gathers Whisky Samples in His Metropolis.

A Broadside for Sheriffs and County Courts.

Curious Concoction Tested by University Chemist.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Sept. 7.—Not satisfied with attacking the social [illegible], the breweries, the blind pigs and [illegible], the Governor is today preparing a broadside for the sheriffs, county clerks and county courts throughout the State for allowing [illegible] halls to operate without a license.

SAMPLES WHISKY.

By way of diversion in his sweeping anti-vice campaign, Gov. West has been quietly gathering up samples of the concoctions labeled "whisky" and "wine" and sold by the bottle houses and family liquor houses in Portland. His agents have made [illegible] of a large number of such [illegible], and today he shipped samples of this stuff up to the chemistry department of the University of Oregon for analysis. One sample of "whisky" already tested shows it is a mixture of tobacco, cheap wine, a little alcohol, some sugar and other ingredients.

HEAD NEARLY SEVERED.

Room in Which Murdered San Francisco Woman Is Found Just Like a Shambles.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—With head nearly severed from the body and the arms and trunk frightfully slashed, the body of Lydia Berger, known as a beautiful woman, was found in her apartments by her maid today. The walls of the room in which the body lay were covered with blood and the carpet was saturated with it.

Thousands of dollars' worth of diamonds and other jewels worn by the woman are missing and it is believed robbery was the motive for the crime.

The Berger woman was killed while in bed. Her hair was wrapped tightly about her throat and a kimona she wore was twisted about her body. The scene that confronted the maid when she went to her mistress' room indicates the struggle that must have taken place. It is thought before death overtook her the woman tried to give an alarm, as the window curtains and the window pane are covered with bloody finger prints.

The slayer washed his hands in the [illegible] JURY IN BREWERY CASE.

[illegible] Fails to Secure Conviction of [illegible] Indicted at Roseburg on Charge of Making Standard Beer.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ROSEBURG (Or.) Sept. 7.—The jury in the case of the people vs. the Roseburg Brewery and Ice Company was discharged early today, being unable to agree on a verdict. The jury is said to have stood six to six. The brewery company was indicted for the alleged manufacture of a standard beer, whereas its charter permits the manufacture of a "near" beer.

This is one of the brewing companies which Gov. West is prosecuting in his campaign against the brewery and liquor interests of this State in connection with his campaign against [illegible]

It is intimated that there will be no trial of the case in the next term of the court.

[illegible] FOR PHILIPPINES.

San Francisco Mint will Next Month Turn Out First Nickels Made on the Pacific Coast.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7. — Superintendent Frank A. Leach of the United States Mint of this city, says the mint would be opened shortly for the coinage of silver [illegible] for the Philippines. After a [illegible] run the coinage of nickels will begin. This will be the first coinage of nickels on the Pacific Coast. The work will be in charge of Assistant [illegible] P. A. Kearny. The mint is now closed, pending the examination of the vaults by F. P. Dewey of Washington, D. C., and W. O'Connor of the United States sub-treasury in this city.

DRYGOODS MEN ORGANIZE.

Los Angeles Retailers Among Officers Elected at Convention Held in San Francisco.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—The California Retail Drygoods Association which will carry on a State-wide campaign for the advancement of the retail interests, was formed here today. Members of the retail drygoods associations of San Francisco, Los Angeles, Oakland and Sacramento attended the local meeting.

The following officers were elected: President, B. F. Schlesinger, San Francisco; vice-president, Arthur Letts, Los Angeles; directors, R. M. Walker, [illegible]; J. H. Lashbrook, Los Angeles; Irvin Kahn and T. B. Hink, [illegible]; L. Prager and R. W. Costello, San Francisco.

Fifty members of the four organizations of San Francisco in the interest of the fashion show were present.

PONTOON AT GOLDEN GATE.

LARGEST IN THE WORLD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—A [illegible] pontoon, said to be the largest in the world, was towed through the Golden Gate today on the way to Pearl Harbor, where it will [illegible] a 150-ton floating crane, to [illegible] in connection with the government dry docks. The pontoon is [illegible] long, seventy feet wide and [illegible] deep. It will take the ocean-going tug Hercules twenty days to [illegible] the tow.

HORSE PROVES VALUED FRIEND.

ACT OF SAGACIOUS ANIMAL SAVES VETERAN'S LIFE.

Equine Instinct Leads to Discovery of Spanish-American War Soldier Who Had Fallen Over Cliff on the San Bruno Road. Victim Loses Small Sum of Money.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Edward J. Meaney, a Spanish-American War veteran, owes his life to the sagacity of Mounted Policeman A. J. Ross's horse. Ross was riding along the San Bruno road this morning when his mount suddenly stopped. Spur and whip failed to move the animal, which pranced about the road, snorting in fear.

Ross dismounted. The horse walked to the edge of a nearby ditch, where, with quivering nostrils and up-standing ears, he attracted the attention of his rider.

When Ross arived at the spot he heard moans and, upon going into the ditch, found Meaney with his body submerged to his throat. The man was removed to the Emergency Hospital. From papers found on his person it has been established that he has been an inmate of the Soldiers' Home at Yountville and that he is subject to epileptic spells. His purse contained $12. A pension receipt and $50, which he claimed to have had in his pockets, could not be found.

WOMEN BOOST FIGURES.

Increase in Population Helps Make a Good Showing in Stockton's Registration List.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STOCKTON (Cal.) Sept. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] At noon today the total registration of voters in the city of Stockton and county of San Joaquin was 17,733, or approximately 7000 more than at this time last year.

The big increase in registration is attributed to the fact that the women of the city and county are showing a decided interest in all things political and are taking advantage of the suffrage laws enacted by the last Legislature.

Another cause for the increase is the natural raise of population. It is asserted by the officials that many persons of both sexes have not taken advantage of the opportunity to register, these persons showing little interest in primary elections; so it is believed by the officials that when the books close previous to the November election the total number of registrations will be several hundred in excess of the count today.

TAKEN UP UNEXPECTEDLY.

Piedmont Citizen Who Declares He Would Sell Property for Less Than Assessment, Gets Prompt Offer.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PIEDMONT (Cal.) Sept. 7.—A. A. Moore's declaration before the Board of Equalization of this town that the assessment of $59,000 on his residence here was too high and that he had offered it for sale at $30,000, brought him an unexpected offer.

Hugh Craig, chairman of the Piedmont Board of Trustees, has been leading a campaign to compel the payment of what he terms just taxes, the assessments having heretofore, he says, been underrated. Hearing of Moore's statement that he had attempted to sell his residence for $30,000, he sent a formal offer to the latter yesterday to buy the property for that amount. He says he is awaiting an answer.

BLIND WOMAN ATTACKS WILL.

Inmate of King's Daughters Home at Oakland Lays Claim to Eighty Thousand Dollar Estate.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—Adele Brun Delaporte, an aged blind woman, is contesting the will of the late George Delaporte, who left an estate valued at $80,000. She testified Delaporte, who, she said, was her husband, deserted her for another woman when she became blind and helpless. She is an inmate of the King's Daughters Home in Oakland.

Delaporte's estate was left to Helen Doherty, his bookkeeper, and other friends.

The beneficiaries of the will attacked Mrs. Delaporte's testimony, declaring she had admitted she was not Delaporte's widow and that she had signed a release to any share in the estate when she was admitted to the King's Daughters Home.

OUR DIPLOMACY IS VINDICATED.

State Department Is Proud of "Dollar" Plan.

South American Cities to Spend Millions.

Government Is Anxious for Home Firms to Bid.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Officials of the State Department have become proud of the characterization "dollar diplomacy" first applied to their work in a spirit of derision, and almost daily are pointing to some illustration of the value of that work. Today the department is engaged in an effort to attract the attention of American contracting firms and engineers to the great field for exploitation afforded by the decision of the Uurguayan government to spend the enormous sum of $30,000,000 in eight years for the improvement of the harbors of Montevideo.

There is the keenest rivalry between Montevideo and Buenos Ayres for supremacy in shipping, and Montevideo has already spent $18,000,000 to improve its port facilities. But the improvements have not kept pace with the growth of shipping and at present Montevideo carries more tonnage than any port on the western hemisphere, excepting New York, though it is only half the size of Boston. The Argentine government is about to dig a thirty-foot channel in the River Platte, costing millions of dollars, to enable Buenos Ayres to compete with the Uurguayan port.

The State Department failed to interest American firms in the competitive bidding for the Montevideo harbor improvements in 1909, but is now making a determined effort to have American contractors and exporters of dredging and other harbor machinery respond when these new bids are called for in a short time.

STRIKE IS BROKEN.

NEW BEDFORD (Mass.) Sept. 7.—The New Bedford Textile Council ordered all employees who are operatives in the twelve mills against which a strike of weavers has been in progress for eight weeks, to return to work today. The manufacturers have announced their intention of reopening the mills today.

TWO OFFICERS SUSPENDED.

Police and Fire Commissioners Under Charges Promised to Resign Declares San Francisco's Mayor.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—Police Commissioner Spiro and Fire Commissioner Donohue were suspended this afternoon by Mayor Rolph on charges of malfeasance in office. The Mayor in making the announcement said that both had promised him to resign before September 1.

Spiro is charged with soliciting orders in favor of a bottling company. Donohue is charged with violation of the civil service laws. Spiro's hearing has been set for September 10 and Donohue's for the day following.

STRIKE RIOTER KILLED.

Coal Miner Shoots Once Too Often from Ambush at Militiaman and Has to Bite the Dust.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHARLESTON (W. Va.) Sept. 7.—Artificer George Long of Co. B. West Virginia National Guard, shot and killed one of an attacking party of striking miners while on picket duty near Sharon, in the Kanawha coal field today. It is the first fatal shooting since martial law was declared by Gov. Glasscock in the strike region.

Long was on sentry duty near a wood and had been fired on a number of times from ambush. He noted the spot from which the firing appeared to come and fired one shot.

Shooting is also reported to have occurred at Burnwell on Paint Creek, but details are not available. Additional troops have been hurried to Sharon and Burnwell.

VACANCY FILLED.

SACRAMENTO (Cal.) Sept. 7.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] The appointment of Otto Rinaldi, Supervisor of the third district of Kern county, to fill a vacancy created by a death was announced at the Governor's office today.

DEFEAT FOR SYNDICALISM.

British Trades Union Congress Crushes Movement Similar to That of I.W.W. in United States.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

NEWPORT (Eng.) Sept. 7.—Syndicalism was crushingly defeated at the trades union congress here by the adoption by an overwhelming majority of a resolution which the syndicalists strenuously opposed, pledging the support of the independent working class of Great Britain to political action in the industrial fight for a more equitable share of the wealth of the country.

HE SEEMS A BLUEBEARD.

Man Said to Have Confessed to Two Murders Is Now Accused of a Third.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SHREVEPORT (La.) Sept. 7.—Evidence tending to show a third mysterious death in connection with the killing of Charles C. Malley at Metcalf, La., Monday night for which Al Watson and Mrs. Bailey are in jail here, was unearthed when Richard Wilcox, a tinner of Shreveport told Sheriff Flourney that Bailey was accused by his first wife of having contrived her death by poisoning.

Mrs. Bailey and Watson, according to the police, have given a written confession of the murder of the former's husband and the latter's wife. According to the story told by Wilcox just before she died, Mrs. Bailey repeated the accusation to Wilcox's wife and, turning to Bailey, declared he was responsible for her condition. Bailey, Wilcox states, made no reply.

On the day after the woman's death, Wilcox said, his wife found a three-ounce bottle partly filled with chloroform among the coverings of Mrs. Bailey's bed and hidden in the mattress was another phial labeled "poison."

Seeley, Who Fitted Czar of Russia, Called To Angelus

Spermatic Shield Pad Do You "C" the Groove?

F. H. Seeley of Chicago and Philadelphia is at the Angelus Hotel and will remain in Los Angeles this Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. He says: "The Spermatic Shield Truss as fitted to the Czar of Russia and now used and approved by the United States Government will not only retain any case of Hernia perfectly, affording immediate and complete relief, but closes the opening in ten days on the average case." This instrument received the only award in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, harmful injections, treatment or prescriptions. Mr. Seeley has documents from the U. S. Government, Washington, D. C., for inspection as to the perfection of this instrument. If any interested call, he will be glad to show the truss without charge, or fit them if desired.

Rupture is not a breach or tear in the abdominal wall, as ignorantly supposed, therefore nothing to knit or heal. But rupture is the dilation or stretching of a natural opening—therefore subject to closure by stimulation. Don't wear a truss where the lump is, but where the rupture is. It's different.

PLAYS ROMANTIC PART IN SMUGGLING CASE.

Treasury Officials Close the Books that Detail the Relation of Mrs. Helen D. Jenkins, a Beautiful Young Woman, to a Case in Which a Wisconsin Merchant Pays Dearly.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] One of the most sensational smuggling cases in history, a legal story intermingling love, romance and intrigue, came to a close today when the Treasury Department accepted from Nathan Allen, Wisconsin lumber king and leather magnate, $100,000 for his civil liability in an action known as the "Jenkins case."

THE ROMANTIC PART.

Playing a romantic part in the case was Mrs. Helen D. Jenkins, a beautiful young woman, who acted as an accomplice in the gigantic smuggling conspiracy. Diamonds and gowns worth hundreds of thousands of dollars were smuggled by the couple.

The smuggled goods were seized by the secret service man and suits for forfeiture were begun. Criminal action was also instituted against Allen. A fine of $12,000 was imposed in the criminal case and today's settlement ends the civil proceedings.

A ROBBERY.

The first intimation of Mrs. Jenkins having many valuable diamonds in her possession followed a report to the New York police in December, 1909, that she had been robbed of $300,000 worth of jewels in the Lorraine Hotel. Police began a search for the jewels, but were called off for some mysterious reason.

HER REWARD.

Subsequently the jewels were located by a private detective in Chicago. Mrs. Jenkins gave a reward of $45,000 for the recovery of the gems.

Publicity that attended the theft attracted the attention of Treasury officials, who keep posted on large collections of diamonds in the country. It was a surprise to the authorities to learn that Mrs. Jenkins, of whom little was known, should have had so valuable a collection.

THE INVESTIGATION.

Investigation was begun by the surveyor of port in New York and the inquiry resulted in the seizure of part of Mrs. Jenkins's collection, and suits against Allen, who became involved through admissions by the woman.

A FLIRTATION, TOO.

There is considerable romance behind the association of Mrs. Jenkins and the Wisconsin millionaire, according to her story. They first met as a result of a flirtation in front of a Chicago hotel in April, 1908. It was under the name of "Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jenkins" that much of the smuggling was done.

Mrs. Jenkins was 20 and Allen 53 years old when the couple met. He lavished his wealth on her and took her abroad several times.

For a long time prior to the European trip, Mrs. Jenkins had mystified Chicago by her apparently limitless wealth. She lived in a mansion, but never visited or received company. While the case was under way, Charles Allen, brother of Nathan, was killed by falling from a window of the Palmer House. The Allen holdings in the American Leather Company run into millions.

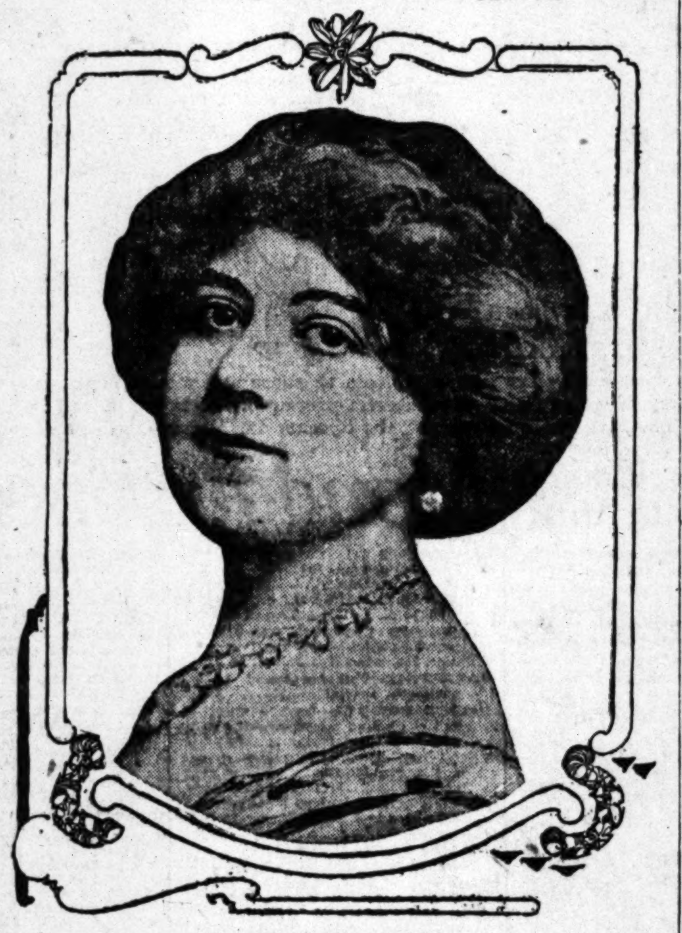
ROAD GETS ORCHARD FARM.

Contention of Transportation Company Is Upheld in Decision rendered by Court of Appeals.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIM

SACRAMENTO (Cal.) Sept. 7.—Under a decision handed down by the Third District Court of Appeals today, the Vallejo-Northern Railroad may enter into immediate possession of the Reed orchard property of 101 acres across the river from Sacramento, if Superior Judge Hawkins of Yolo issues the order he has indicated will be forthcoming, unless the matter is carried to the Supreme Court. The decision written by Appelate Justice Burnett denies the application of the Reed Orchard Company for an order restraining Judge Hawkins from giving the railroad possession of the property on the payment of $25,000 additional damages which they have deposited with the court.

Uncle Sam Compromises Smuggling Case.



Mrs. Helen D. Jenkins,

Involved with Nathan Allen, a retired merchant of Kenosha, Wis., in an attempt to smuggle gems of priceless value into the United States. The case was yesterday compromised with the government by Allen paying to treasury officials one hundred thousand dollars. A criminal suit against Allen resulted in his paying a fine of twelve thousand dollars.

PITH OF THE DAY'S NEWS FROM THE MIDDLE WEST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Cool breezes off the lake did much today to mitigate the terrific heat which has exhausted the vitality of Chicago, but there were four deaths despite the respite. Forecasters say the heat wave will return tomorrow and that a permanent break in the high temperature is not yet in sight. A northeast wind at eight miles an hour was responsible for the lake breezes. Maximum temperature 91 deg., minimum 73. Other temperatures:

MAN IS REAL MUSEUM.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—When physicians operated on John Martiner at the County Hospital to ascertain the cause of terrible pains in his stomach they found nineteen pocket knives, seventeen nails, five knife blades, a dozen screws and a silver dollar. For eighteen years Martiner, who has been known to Chicagoans as "The Human Toolchest," swallowed the articles on wagers. "Eating knives and all that stuff never hurt me," said Martiner before the operation, "but sometimes I'd get terrible pains in my stomach." Physicians pronounced the operation as successful.

All of the articles were lodged in a corner of the stomach, according to the surgeon who operated on Martiner. An ulcer had formed and the man would have died within a month if he had not been operated upon. Ten of the knives taken from Martiner's stomach had been bone-handled, but the bone had been dissolved by gastric juices. The silver dollar which he swallowed ten years ago was as bright as if the coin had just come from the mint. The juices of the stomach had kept the silver in a highly polished condition.

YEGGS HAD AUDIENCE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

THAYER (Iowa) Sept. 7.—Citizens looked on yesterday while five yeggmen placed dynamite under the safe door in the First Bank of Thayer, a private institution, blew the door from its hinges, gathered up all the money in sight, which was $630, and then disappeared.

SHARKS BLEED OLD SOLDIERS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Loan agents are said to have a tighter grip on the pay of Ft. Sheridan soldiers than they have ever had before. The government recently succeeded in overcoming this nuisance, but during the period in which the soldiers did not receive their pay, due to the failure of Congress to pass the annual army appropriation bill, the soldiers are said to have borrowed money at exorbitant interest rates. Army officers are said to have started an investigation with the ultimate idea of having the government again come to the relief of the soldiers.

KILLED BY THIRD RAIL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

AURORA (Ill.) Sept. 7.—Zee Priddy, one of three young girls who escaped from the State home for girls last night, was killed today while walking on the "third rail" of an electric railroad.

The girls mounted the rails and set out "to find a town." They had gone but a few paces when they were hurled from the rails by a several thousand volt shock. All were rendered unconscious but Zee's companions were not seriously injured and when aroused from their stupor, ran wildly to a farmhouse for aid. While they were gone a car cut Zee to pieces.

DUNS ARE MAILABLE.

(By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 7.—[Special Dispatch.] The right of an individual or a corporation to send "duns" through the mails in the form of postal cards was upheld here today by Judge Charles P. Orr, in the United States District Court.

GRAVE IS NEGLECTED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TOLEDO (O.) Sept. 7.—The grave of President William Henry Harrison at North Bend, near Cincinnati, is being neglected, Rev. George Lowry of Maumee told the Maumee Pioneer Society today, and recommended its removal to Ft. Meigs, the scene of Gen. Harrison's memorable contest with Gen. Proctor and Tecumseh.

RECTOR KILLED BY CAR.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Rev. White Wilson, for twenty-five years rector of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, was instantly killed by a street car last night.

PASTOR DIED IN FLAMES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PAULINA (Iowa) Sept. 7.—Rev. N. Grefe, pastor of the Lutheran church in Germantown, Iowa, at 12 o'clock last night was burned to death before the eyes of his children and several other persons while pinned beneath a wrecked motor car. The blaze was started from a lantern with which his rescuers were working.

PRIEST RESTORES FORTUNE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CALUMET (Mich.) Sept. 7.—Mrs. Mary Gillett, a widow, received a letter today from a priest in Ronchamp, France, her home forty-three years ago, in which he confessed having swindled her out of a fortune of 100,000 francs by substituting his name for hers in making out a will for her great uncle. The priest, now 88 years old, begs Mrs. Gillett to come to Ronchamp to forgive him and to allow him to return her inheritance. Mrs. Gillett will leave Monday for France to reclaim her fortune.

TRIP ENDS IN DEATH.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ROCHESTER (Minn.) Sept. 7.—John Morrow, who has long been a miner and merchant of Ophir, Alaska, died here today at the end of a journey of ninety-two days, made on a stretcher from the far away north country. He came here, accompanied only by his business partner, to consult a specialist in the hope of prolonging his life, only to learn that his malady had gone beyond the aid of human hands. Sarcoma was given as the cause of death.

Stricken Comedian, Who was for Many Years a Personal Friend of Former President Cleveland, Is Fast Nearing the End of Life's Journey.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Joseph Lang, pioneer minstrel man, whose name was famous in the palmy days of "Tony" Pastor, Oliver D. Bryon, Denman Thompson and other stars of a bygone period, is ill at his residence, No. 5 Walton place.

Physicians give Mr. Lang, who is nearly 70 years old, only a few days to live. Broken in health and his mind almost a blank, the aged comedian is living over mentally the days of his triumphs in Chicago and about the country while waiting for the final curtain.

Mr. Lang was one of the early members of the New York Elks and helped found the local lodge in 1876.

Mrs. Lang is with her husband, in fact, she never has left him for even a day during their thirty years of married life.

The aged actor was a personal friend of President Cleveland and accompanied him on many of his fishing trips.

STATE EXTENDS ITS POWER.

Commission Assumes Control of Railway Time Tables and Considers New Rate Question.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—The State Railroad Commission will assume supervision October 1 of all passenger train time tables on California railroads. This decision was reached at a meeting of the commission here yesterday.

The roads must file three copies of their schedules with the commission before October 1, after which date they must get the permission of the commission in making changes in the tables, and must file revised schedules within ten days before they go into effect. Any proposed new tables must be posted in two places in the waiting-rooms of the stations affected.

The commission also decided that all public utility corporations, other than common carriers, must file with the commission within twenty days, statements containing explicit information regarding any cases in which they may be giving consumers rates lower than those contained in the regular tariffs. These utilities are further directed to specify the cases in which they desire to continue the deviations from the regular schedules. The public utilities act empowers the commission to allow public utilities, other than common carriers, to charge lower than the regular rates in certain cases. The commission is now considering the entire question and may withhold this privilege.

Clergyman's Son Had Tuberculosis—Now Well

Consumption is a flattering disease and the sufferer is filled with bright hopes of improvement. Call it by its own dread name—and then—take Eckman's Alterative, because it is effective in Tuberculosis. No one need doubt it—there is plenty of evidence from live witnesses. Investigate the following: Amenia, N. Y.

"Gentlemen: Prior to February, 1908, I was suffering with La Grippe, which developed into Tuberculosis. My physician gave me one month to live. My father, who is a clergyman, heard of Eckman's Alterative and induced me to take it. The night sweats and chills disappeared, my cough became easier and gradually diminished. I am now in perfect health, back to 155 lbs. I feel certain that I owe my life to Eckman's Alterative."

(Signed) E. H. COWLES.

"Gentlemen: I cannot find words to express my appreciation of what your remedy has done for my son."

(Signed) REV. J. J. COWLES, Pastor Presbyterian Church.

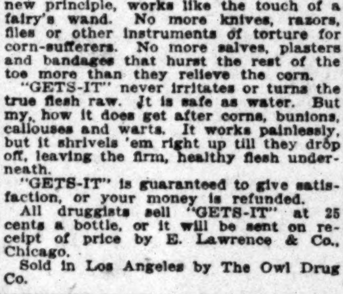
Eckman's Alterative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. For sale by The Owl Drug Company and other leading druggists. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence.

WORK FOR POISON SQUAD.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Dr. Wiley's noted "poison squad" is to be imitated in tests upon the horses and cattle of the government's experimental farm near Bethesda, Md. "Sulphured oats" and other treated grains, the food value of which is causing controversy between the pure food authorities and the grain men of the Middle West, will be fed to the animals for a short period and upon the results probably will depend about $30,000,000 a year.

Who Said Corns? I Use "GETS-IT!"

It Works On a Sure, New Plan.



"Glory! Come and See How GETS-IT Works!"

"GETS-IT," the new corn cure on a new principle, works like the touch of a fairy's wand. No more knives, razors, files or other instruments of torture for corn-sufferers. No more salves, plasters and bandages that hurst the rest of the toe more than they relieve the corn.

"GETS-IT" never irritates or turns the true flesh raw. It is safe as water. But my, how it does get after corns, bunions, callouses and warts. It works painlessly, but it shrivels 'em right up till they drop off, leaving the firm, healthy flesh underneath.

"GETS-IT" is guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is refunded.

All druggists sell "GETS-IT" at 25 cents a bottle, or it will be sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

Drinking Business Men Need a Short Treatment

To Enable Them to Return to Business With as Little Loss of Time as Possible.

For treatment of alcoholic poisoning—drink habit—nothing can equal the Neal Drink Habit Treatment, which thoroughly eliminates all alcohol from the drinker's system and neutralizes its functional effect upon the body tissues in three days' time. It makes no difference how long the patient has been drinking, how much he drinks or what he drinks, three days spent at the Los Angeles Neal Institute will enable him to return to his business in perfect condition to meet all emergencies. From almost the very first dose all desire for drink is lost, and when treatment is finished the former drinker is again master of himself.

The Neal Drink Habit Treatment is administered at fifty-three Neal Institutes in the United States, Canada and Australia. It is a harmless, vegetable remedy, always administered internally—no painful, dangerous hypodermic injections—which removes the "alcohol crave" so quickly that the patient need only spend a pleasant week-end vacation—from Thursday night to Sunday night—at the Neal Institute and be freed from all appetite and necessity for alcoholic stimulants. Business men should investigate the Neal Treatment just as soon as they realize the craving for alcohol has become stronger than the will power to resist, and by taking the Neal Treatment save themselves from financial loss and unhappiness.

For full information and reference call at the Los Angeles Neal Institute, 945 South Olive street, or write or phone G. U. Neal, Manager, for Dr. Neal's free book. Phone—Bdwy 4602, A4072.—Adv.

COLQUITT MAY BE WILLING.

Mexican Troops Will Perhaps Be Given Permission to Cross into Texas if They Box Their Arms.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

AUSTIN (Tex.) Sept. 7.—When Gov. Colquitt recently received an inquiry as to his attitude in regard to the Mexican troops moving across Texas soon, he intimated that if the request came from the proper authorities he probably would grant it with certain restrictions as was previously done. These restrictions would require the boxing of all arms while the Mexican troops were on Texas soil.

The inquiry came from the Southern Pacific Railway officials.

PARIS, Sept. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] L'Opinion states that "Mexico has decided to invite a French financier to reorganize her finances. The choice has fallen upon a man who has been made prominent by lawsuits. The special Mexican envoy watched the appeals of this banker until the final one, which he lost, but the defense put forward was so clever that the envoy became enthusiastic and opened negotiations with this financier for the rehabilitating of Mexico's financial affairs. The banker has accepted and will sail for New York soon. His lawyers are now making efforts to obtain a postponement of his impending imprisonment of two years and the payment of a fine of $600 for fraud in certain promotion schemes. It is hoped that Mexico will obtain his acquittal through diplomatic channels."

COMPANY PROMOTERS.

The financier referred to is Henri Rochette, the company promoter, who fought the public prosecutor for two years over the legality of his operations. The names of Georges Clemenceau, former Premier, and M. Lepine, Prefect of Police, were brought into the "affaire Rochette" at one time, and the matter was regarded as a big scandal.

Johns Hopkins Physician Is Rushing on Special Train to Attend the Wife of an Editor.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Dr. L. F. Barker of Johns Hopkins University is being rushed on a special train from the Toxoway district of North Carolina to Bar Harbor, Me., to attend Mrs. John R. McLean, wife of the Washington and Cincinnati publisher, desperately ill at her summer home there.

Dr. Barker, on a vacation thirty miles from a railroad station, was reached by couriers and left Lake Toxoway on the special early today. The train is scheduled to reach Bar Harbor late tomorrow.

United States Senator Declares It Will Have to Be Done.

[A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Sept. 7.—"Are we going to intervene in Mexico? Why, that's the only thing we can do," declared United States Senator Catron of Santa Fe, N. M., here tonight. "It soon will be necessary to send troops to Mexico to save American lives. The Mexicans are more hostile to Americans than to any other people. American interests already have been jeopardized to the extent of a half billion dollars. If I had $1000 invested in Mexico, I would not consider it worth more than $50. That's why intervention is absolutely necessary. I believe troops will be sent there soon."

might ask to transport troops through the United States, have sent anonymous letters to officials of various border towns along the Sonora-Arizona line, threatening to attack the American towns, if Mexican troops are permitted to move from Chihuahua through the United States to reach Sonora to put down the rebels.

Mexico made a similar request a few months ago, when it asked permission to bring troops from Eagle Pass to El Paso, to operate against the rebels at Juarez. Gov. Colquitt of Texas protested so vigorously that the movement was stopped. The Governor declared, if the United States did not stop the movement, he would have State Rangers do it when the Mexican troops reached the border.

Conditions About Nacozari Improve, but Deplorable Situation Exists in the South of Mexico.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Conditions about Nacozari, where many foreigners have been in danger, were reported alleviated in advices received at the State Department tonight.

Discouraging news, however, comes from the south of Mexico. The entire Federal garrison at Ajuno was massacred by eight rebels last Wednesday. There is a temporary shortage of infantry in the department of Texas and Gen. Wood was obliged to tell Gen. Steever today in answer to his appeal for more infantry at El Paso, that he would have to accept cavalry intead.

The War Department today decided to honor the requisition of the State Department for small arms for American citizens on the south side of the border, and 400 rifles will be sent from the Rock Island arsenal to American consuls for distribution among these people.

SMITH GETS INSIDE FACTS ABOUT MEXICAN RUMPUS.

Senator Who Headed Titanic Investigation Summons El Paso Bankers Into Private Audience to Trace Funds Alleged to Have Been Furnished by Standard Oil Allies to Finance Revolution Across the Border.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Sept. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.) William Alden Smith, Senator from Michigan, has started another sweeping investigation of the Mexican situation here similar to that he conducted following the Titanic sinking. He arrived here Friday afternoon, announced that he would open the hearing this morning and has been busy all day taking testimony regarding the history of the Madero and Orozco revolutions and the financing of them.

STANDARD OIL IN MEXICO.

The part the Standard Oil is alleged to have played in the Madero revolution was one of the points Senator Smith wished to establish and he brought a number of witnesses to develop this fact. He developed the alleged fact that Cananea is owned by the Standard and that extra precautions have been taken to protect these properties and that arms and ammunition were permitted to be shipped there to protect the American-owned mines while, it is alleged, others were allowed to suffer. He also was informed by E. C. Houghton, George Look and other ranchers in Mexico that Gen. Luis Terrazas, the Creels and other members of the so-called Cientifico party, had financed the revolution of Orozco.

INSIDE INFORMATION.

This afternoon Senator Smith held a private session at which a number of bankers were cross-examined regarding large amounts of money which had passed through their banks during the two revolutions and from whence the money came. Senator Smith says he has important inside information regarding the financing of the two revolutions which he intends to divulge later and which is expected to be sensational in its character.

JAPANESE LOSE FISHING CONCESSION IN MEXICO.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GUAYMAS, Sept. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Acting on telegraphic advices from Jesus Flores Magon, Minister of Gobernacion of the Federal government, announcing that at a meeting of the Cabinet a decree was adopted cancelling all fishing concessions on the Pacific Coast, including Lower California as well as the mainland, the representative of the Japanese company which was granted the exclusive right to fish in the waters of Magdalena Bay several months ago, today was notified by the Mexican officials that its concessions are no longer in force.

Other large fishing companies were given similar notice. Under the new decree, everyone has an equal right to fish in the water of the Gulf of California and those bordering Pacific. This also applies to pearl fishing.

FEEL SHAKY, BILIOUS, HEADACHY, OR CONSTIPATED? TAKE CASCARETS

Sick headaches! Always trace them to lazy liver, delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or a sick stomach. Poisonous, constipated matter, gases and bile generated in the bowels, instead of being carried out of the system, is reabsorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, sickening headache.

Cascarets remove the cause by stimulating the liver, making the bile and constipation, poison move on and out of the bowels. The effect is almost instantaneous. Ladies whose sensitive organisms are especially prone to sick headaches, need not suffer, for they can be quickly cured by Cascarets. One taken tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box will keep your head clear, stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular and make you feel bright and cheerful for months. Children need Cascarets, too—they love them because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.

WOULD FLEECE AN OLD MINER.

"Bob Renfro" of Arizona Tastes Bad Whisky.

Alleged Racing Men Attempt Ancient Bunko Game.

Police Notified and an Investigation Is Started.

Back in the copper country "Old Bob" Renfro is listed in the mining journal as R. H. Renfro, wealthy developer and owner of the famous Renfro group of copper mines near Globe, Ariz., and is known by his friends as a judge of good whisky. The accuracy of his taste yesterday saved him $2000, and exposed the operation of a gang of fake horse race swindlers that has fixed up an elaborate office at Long Beach, evidently to prey upon visitors here during G.A.R. week.

Robert H. Renfro,

Wealthy Globe mining man, who saved $2000 by outwitting two get-rich-quick sharps after they had inveigled him into betting on a fake race yesterday.

After selling a share of his mine to the Guggenheim interests for $125,000 a month or so ago, "Old Bob" Renfro came to Los Angeles to dodge the desert heat and find amusement.

Friday afternoon, he was loitering in the lobby of the Hollenbeck Hotel, restng after a long afternoon engagement with the breakers at the beach. His shirt was unstarched, and his shoes were unshined. The well-dressed strangers appeared.

There were two of them, Dresden and Davis, they said their names were, and they casually drifted into conversation with Renfro. They were well-groomed, well-fed, with pink chops cleanly shaven, and a gallant parade of diamonds. They asked about the copper business, and immediately "Old Bob" Renfro was their friend.

About 4 o'clock, one looked at his watch, slapped the other on the back, calling him by a familiar name which escaped Renfro, and remarked about having $5000 on a race. Renfro asked what race. The well-dressed strangers at once went into closed caucus with him.

When Renfro emerged from the session, he said good night to his new friends as the owner of a wonderful race horse that was winning fabulous stakes over an eastern course, the fleetest nag on the turf, that none of the wise ones were betting on. When the smaller man had looked at his watch, he had recorded the winning of $5000 on an investment of $400, which was no small return, even for men of the copper county.

But the name of the horse was wwhat interested Renfre, and provoked him to back it., The suave, well-fed, clean-shaven senior of the pair had given great coaxing, the name of the beat. It was Windback, the famous Windback, that ever faced the barrier except as a ten-to-one shot, that had never lost a race, was sought for the Baron Rothchild stables in Germany, was wanted in France, and generally at premius throughout the racing world. And the man with the diamonds owned it.

Its name was Windback, but its sire was Copper King, and its dam was Gold Lode, which was a mining recommendation to Renfre.

Saturday, the two men came to the hotel early. They met Renfro, asked him to join them in a taxicab, and they would go to an office where racing returns were received. By a circular and devious route, they whirled him around Long Beach, stopping at last in front of an office building. They entered an elevator, and reached a neat, prosperous-looking office.

All was noisy there. A telegraph key was clicking industriously, a boy was yelling, and a marker shouting as he charted up, "Thistle down at the quarter," "Such-and-So at the half," and the rest.

While the races were in progress Mr. Renfro was entertained with a special pint of liquor which he said was not good liquor. By the end of the third race, the one before Windback was to appear, Mr. Renfro, as he alleges sadly, was in distress from the bad liquor. The two friends thrust a pen into his hand. "Now is the time to make a small fortune for yourself," they told him. Then they pressed another drink, with the pen, upon him. Mr. Renfro says he obliged his friends with both.

On the strength of Windback's true nimerological antecedents, he wrote out his check for $2000, he says, which the friends told him would return him $19,000. The commission for gaining the sudden wealth was to be $500.

Windback was winning at the half, the telegraph operator shouted, and the marker checked it on the blackboard with great excitement. But what is the use of suspense. Everybody's guessed it. Tish, Pusht, Windback won, and the fat jobial owner tretched a pun that the wind was always back of good old Windback.

Mr. Renfre says he was unable to join in the repoicings, because he was sick, but he asked for the $19,000 he had won. The owner said he would not pay until he knew that the check was good. Mr. Renfre asked them to telegraph Globe.

They said it would take three days to find out about the check. Renfro asked for his check back. They refused. Then he told them he would cancel payment of the check if they didn't return it.

The well-dressed men with the diamonds were very much hurt. He was a poor sport, they said, and it would be necessary to have him arrested if the check was interfered with. So Mr. Renfro left adly, and immediately wire to Globe National Bank to stop payment on the check Last night eh received answer that the money would not be paid.

He was taken violently sick afterwards, requiring the services of a doctor. The swindler had evidently doped the liquor.

When he was well enough he reported the experience to the city detectives. The larger of the two men is described as being 6 feet 3 inches tall, heavy set, well dressed in striped gray, and freighted with diamonds.

BULL MOOSE'S SORRY PLIGHT.

Candidate Will Cut Narrow Figure in Roundup.

Democrats Say Their Ranks Are Solid.

Love of Fair Play Will Help the President.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 7.—[Special Dispatch.] The reports from all sections of the country at the Democratic and Republican headquarters make it plain that so far as electoral votes are concerned Roosevelt will not cut much of a figure in the campaign.

The reports at Democratic headquarters indicate few Democrats are going to vote for Roosevelt, and the claim is made that whatever slight defection there may be will be more than made up by Republicans who will vote for Wilson.

A Republican leader says:

"The strongest factor in favor of Taft is the innate love of the American people for fair play. Roosevelt is an almighty shouter for the square deal. The American people are coming to realize that his shouting are largely hot air. As this fact is driven home it is going to hurt Roosevelt. This fight is between Wilson and Taft. There are no two ways about that."

One feature of the campaign which brings comfort to the Democrats is the report that in Kansas, Nebraska and other States where the Bull Moose has been able to capture the Republican organization and freeze out the Taft electors, the Taft leaders intend to throw their strength to Wilson.

Roosevelt's western tour is being followed with interest. Reports differ as to what effect the swing is going to have as expressed in votes. While it is true that he has big crowds and has aroused the usual enthusiasm, some reports from the States he has visited declare that the sentiment for him as a candidate is showing distinct signs of being on the wane.

President Taft Lands from the Mayflower and Holds a Conference with Hilles and Sheldon.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BEVERLY (Mass.) Sept. 7.—President Taft and Mrs. Taft landed from the yacht Mayflower today at West Beach, near Beverly. Chairman Charles Hilles and Treasurer George R. Sheldon of the Republican National Committee and a party of Mrs. Taft's friends accompanied them. The party drove to the Taft cottage.

The President's lame ankle seemed better and he entered his automobile with greater ease. He apparently suffered little pain. He hopes to be able to resume playing golf next week.

The President continued today his political conference. In addition to Mr. Hilles and Mr. Sheldon he had as guests at luncheon Republican National Committeeman Charles F. Brooker of Connecticut and Charles H. V. Clark of Hartford.

Dr. Holmes, lecturing before the Cincinnati Teachers' Institute, finished his remarks with this suggestion today. His plan caused wide discussion among the teachers.

DEVLIN ADMITS IT.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 7.—Frank R. Devlin wired Charles F. Curry today admitting the latter's nomination, and extending congratulations. It has been announced here that the Progressives will try to find another candidate to run independently against Curry, and that Gov. Johnson has been asked by telegraph to consent to his executive secretary, Franklin Griffin, making the race.

PLAN TO CROSS ARIZONA.

If Uncle Sam Gives Permission Gen. Jinez and Yaqui Force Will Travel on This Side of Border.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

JUAREZ (Mex.) Sept. 7.—If the United States permits the passage of Mexican Federal troops through New Mexico and Arizona, the Mexican government will send the forces under Gen. Augustin San Jinez, who is at present here. San Jenez commands 900 men, the majority of whom are half civilized Yaqui Indians. This force, with accompanying artillery, is at present scattered along the railway southwest of Juarez.

In event of permission from Washington the Indians would be transported from El Paso, Tex., opposite Juarez, to Douglas, Ariz., below which conditions are said to be critical with not sufficient Federal forces to protect American-owned mines or railways.

Alleged Disparaging Remarks Cause Race Riot.

A Threat to Dynamite Town by Colored People.

Man Strung Up by Lynchers Probably Innocent.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CUMMINGS (Ga.) Sept. 7.—Race trouble was precipitated here today following the arrest of two negroes, charged with attacking a white woman, when Grant Smith, a negro preacher, is alleged to have made disparaging remarks about the white women of Cummings. The preacher was beaten almost to death by a mob of white men before the officers rescued him and locked him in the vaults of the Courthouse.

The negroes have become aroused and have threatened to dynamite the town if any of their race is lynched. No effort has been made to molest the negroes lodged in the jail.

A company of infantry reached Cummings this afternoon from Gainesville, having been ordered here by Gov. Brown.

NATIVE SONS TAKE STOCKTON.

HOST OF VISITORS TO REACH THIRTY THOUSAND.

Three Days' Celebration Inaugurated With Brilliant Electrical Display, Which Will Be Followed Today by Regatta on River that Will Attract Multitude.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STOCKTON (Cal.) Sept. 7.—Delegations from nearly every Native Son parlor in the central part of the State are in Stockton tonight and hourly special trains are arriving with main bodies of the visiting host that will participate in the three-day celebration with which Admission Day will be observed in this city.

Headquarters for each visiting parlor of Native Sons and Native Daughters will be established and special messenger and information service for the convenience of the city's guests. During the afternoon and early evening hours about 2000 visitors had been handled by the various committees and it is expected that during the remainder of the night and Sunday all of 30,000 guests will have arrived.

IN HOLIDAY ATTIRE.

Stockton never presented a more holiday attire. Every home in the city is making a special porch display and the business section is aglow with streamers of electric light, all emanating from a central electrical display from the dome of the Courthouse, which is brilliantly illuminated with thousands of electric lights.

Tonight several bands are entertaining the visitors with open-air concerts. At noon Sunday, the river and channel regatta will attract thousands to the water front and at 5 o'clock the big automobile parade will be the feature of the business section.

Past Grand President H. R. McNoble will be grand marshall of the parade.

The parade of the Native Sons parlors will be held Monday morning, when it is expected that a line of march four miles long will be formed.

MOB LYNCHES WRONG NEGRO.

Governor of West Virginia Orders Investigation After Consulting Peace Authorities.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PRINCETON (W. Va.) Sept. 7.—That a mistake was made in choice of victims in the lynching of Walter Johnston, negro, following the assault on 14-year-old Nita White, is the belief now held by the authorities here.

Gov. Glasscock has ordered an investigation into the lynching. After a consultation between Prosecutor Pendleton, Judge Maynard, Assistant Prosecutor Ross, Mayor Pennington and Sheriff Ellison, a statement was issued in which they declared there is plenty of evidence that Walter Johnston did not commit the crime for which he was lynched.

SURELY TAKE "SYRUP OF FIGS" IF HEADACHY, BILIOUS, CONSTIPATED.

Sweetens Your Stomach, Clears Your Head and Thoroughly Cleanses Your Liver and 30 Feet of Bowels of Sour Bile, Foul Gases and Clogged-up Waste.

All those days when you feel miserable, headachy, bilious and dull are due to torpid liver and sluggish bowels. The days when your stomach is sour and full of gas, when you have indigestion; the nights when your nerves twitch and you are restless and can't sleep could be avoided with a teaspoonful of delicious Syrup of Figs. Isn't it foolish to be distressed when there is such a pleasant way to overcome it?

Give your inactive liver and ten yards of waste-clogged bowels a thorough cleansing this time. Put an end to constipation.

Take a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs tonight, sure, and just see for yourself by morning, how gently but thoroughly all the sour bile, undigested fermenting food and clogged up waste material is moved on and out of your system—no nausea—no griping—no weakness.

You simply can't have your liver inactive and your thirty feet of bowels constipated with sour, decaying waste matter and feel well. The need of a laxative is a natural need, but with delicious Syrup of Figs you are not drugging yourself. Being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it can not injure.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna." Refuse, with scorn, any of the so-called Fig Syrup imitations. They are meant to deceive you. Look on the label. The genuine, old reliable, bears the name, California Fig Syrup Company.

W.R.C. HEAD COMES.

Among the noted arrivals yesterday was Mrs. Cora E. Davis of Union, Or., National President of the Woman's Relief Corps. Mrs. Davis joined Commander Trimble's party at Salt Lake City and arrived on the special. She was warmly greeted at the Arcade Station by reception committees from the various Woman's Relief Corps of Los Angeles, who presented her with beautiful bouquets. She was escorted to her headquarters at the Alexandria, where she held an informal reception.

LADIES OF G.A.R.

The National Ladies of the G.A.R. will hold a three days' convention at Blanchard Hall during the encampment. Mrs. Catherine M. Ross, National President, arrived yesterday afternoon. The headquarters of the organization are at the Angelus Hotel, where a reception will be given tomorrow night to the delegates. The national officers of the society will give a reception next Wednesday night at the Alexandria. The ladies will serve luncheon for the delegates Thursday and Friday at Boos Bros.' cafeteria.

The luncheon to have been tendered Commander-in-Chief Trimble by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday at the California Club was postponed until 12:30 o'clock tomorrow.

BRIGHT CITY.

The entire business district is ablaze with beautiful and appropriate decorations. Buildings are draped in G.A.R. emblems and patriotic colors. Festoons and streamers are strung across the leading thoroughfares, making a beautiful picture. The electric-light decorations are arranged so that the marching organizations move under a veritable illuminated canopy of glowing, multi-colored globes. More than half a million yards of pennants, bunting and flags decorate the streets. Five thousand palm branches wave on lamp posts, and 20,000 Japanese lanterns are swaying above the downtown streets. The business part never was more beautiful and when the myriad electric lights glitter the streets present a brilliant spectacle.

On every corner a gigantic flag floats in the breeze. These large flags are perhaps the most effective of all the decorations. At 8 o'clock last night the beautiful canopy of electric lanterns over Broadway, Spring and Main streets was illuminated for the first time.

Citizens in the residence districts are catching the patriotic spirit and are decorating their homes.

After Fifty Years.

IS A PRISONER IN FRATERNITY.

CONFEDERATE GUARD RECAPTURES ESCAPED UNIONIST.

Dramatic Incident at the Westminster When One-Time Enemies Meet, Clasp Hands and Pledge Allegiance to the Stars and Stripes Amid Cheers.

Fifty years ago a Yankee soldier in Andersonville prison eluded his rebel guard and escaped to the Federal lines. Last night, in the corridor of the Westminster, the ex-Confederate guard recognized his former prisoner in the person of J. K. P. Ferrell of Uhrichville, O., a G.A.R. veteran, and straightway captured him.

The meeting of the ex-Confederate and his one-time Union prisoner was dramatic. The foes of '61-'65 attended the reception tendered the Ohio veterans by the Federated Ohio Societies of Southern California at the Westminster. Following the mutual recognition they advanced to the platform amid a storm of cheers, and with clasped hands pledged allegiance to the Stars and Stripes.

An incident connected with the discovery of the "Providential spring" at Andersonville made it possible for Alfred Judson, No. 1723 Pleasant avenue, an ex-Confederate officer, to recognize his little Yankee prisoner. The two old men, both bent with the weight of years, in turn related the story of the escape from the Confederate prison, and the acts of kindness on the part of the rebel officer that endeared him to the heart of the Union soldier.

The spectacle of two soldiers, one who had worn the blue and the other the gray, standing with clasped hands while the orchestra played the "Star Spangled Banner," aroused the audience to a high pitch of enthusiasm. Cheer after cheer greeted them, the women of the Relief Corps and the ladies of the G.A.R. joining with the veterans in showing their appreciation of a reunited North and South.

Nothing was left to be desired in the way of a welcome to the members of the G.A.R. and the auxiliary organizations by the Federated Ohio Societies. In addition to the programme of the evening, an informal reception was held at which everyone endeavored to get acquainted with everyone else, and most of them succeeded.

Department Commander Charles W. Blodgett; Adjt.-Gen. W. S. Matthews; Chief of Staff J. Cory Winans and four members of the Council of Administration of the Department of Ohio upheld the dignity of the State and of their organization, while Mrs. Dora L. Brush, president of the W.R.C. with the members of her staff and former department commanders was the center of attraction.

Mrs. Lois M. Knauff of Cleveland, Ohio's candidate for national president of the W.R.C., told of the work the organization is doing throughout the country. Mrs. Knauff insisted that the work of teaching patriotism to the children of the South would be much easier if the women of the South were as willing to forget and forgive as are the men who fought for the "lost cause."

The Ohio soldiers and their wives and daughters boasted a full quota of the delegates alotted to their department and likewise were proud of the fact that the president of their W.R.C. is the youngest woman in that office in the national organization.

DYNAMITE LETTER TO POLICE.

Anonymous Missive Follows Demand for Discharge of Captain and Patrolmen Who Disperse Mob.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MINNEAPOLIS (Minn.) Sept. 7.—At the same time a letter demanding the discharge of the police captain and patrolmen who dispersed a crowd on one of the principal streets Wednesday night where a Socialist speaker was holding forth, was received at the Mayor's office today, an anonymous letter was received by Chief of Police Mealey threatening to dynamite the department headquarters.

The letter received at the Mayor's office was written by Mrs. Elsie Latimer, women's State organizer for the Municipal Ownership party, and wife of one of the seven men arrested during the rioting.

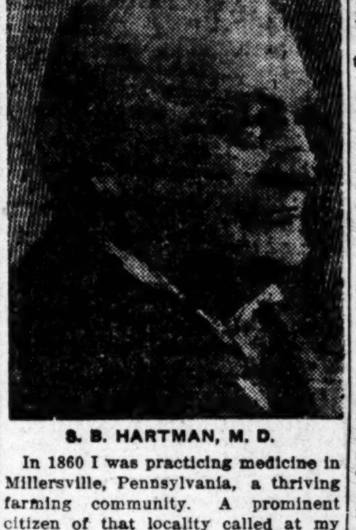
Serious Kidney Disease Treated By an Old-Fashioned D



S. B. HARTMAN, M. D.

In 1860 I was practicing medicine in Millersville, Pennsylvania, a thriving farming community. A prominent citizen of that locality called at my office one day in a very feeble condition. So much so he had to be assisted in alighting from his wagon.

I found on questioning him that he had been afflicted for about two years. He had consulted various doctors, among them a specialist from Philadelphia. They pronounced his disease to be Bright's disease of the kidneys. He was gradually failing in strength, losing flesh rapidly, and altogether presented a very pitiable spectacle, the remnant of a once strong and happy man.

I had been treating a neighbor of his successfully. This neighbor had highly recommended me and thus it was he had come to me.

He told me that the doctors had practically given up his case as hopeless and he felt free to consult any other physician. I hesitated to take the case, as I felt sure I could not do anything more than the other physicians had done. I told him so, yet he insisted upon my prescribing. I was a graduate of the Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia, and as one of the consulting physicians had been a professor in that college. It seemed to me quite unlikely that I would be able to do any more than had been done, but I prescribed what seemed to be the best thing under the circumstances.

He went away and in a week he returned saying he was no better, that he was still losing ground. He judged that he had taken the same medicine before. No doubt he had. But he wished me to prescribe again. I did so.

This went on for about two months, the patient failing all the time, and I was becoming thoroughly discouraged with the case.

One day the patient said to me:

"Doctor, why don't you give me the medicine you gave my neighbor? We all thought he would die, but your medicine cured him. This was why I came to you. Why not give me the same medicine you gave him?"

"But," I said, "your neighbor did not have kidney disease. It was a bowel complaint that I prescribed for in his case. I remember I gave him the Neutralizing Mixture that I make a great deal of use of in bowel diseases."

"Well, I want some of the same medicine you gave him. It worked wonders with him and I believe it will with me."

"But," I said, "this is not a medicine for kidney disease."

"Well, since you seem to be like the rest of the doctors, you cannot help me, why not try the medicine that helped my neighbor?"

After some hesitation I concluded to give him a bottle of it. In ten days he returned. He at once began to berate me in no complimentary words, saying:

"You knew very well this medicine would help me. You held it back merely to get more fees for treating me. From the first the medicine has helped me and I have made rapid improvement. If I could have had this medicine a year ago I should have been saved a great deal of expense and loss of time."

I replied that I was glad the medicine had helped him. I was somewhat confused by his brusque manner and rough speech. I gave him another bottle of medicine. Did not see him again for about three weeks. Once more he called at my office of medicine, which A month or so afterw of his called and got same medicine, saying was practically a well to his duties about his

THE GENUINE and ORIGINAL D
Germ Destroyer is Newbro's Herpicid

The discovery of the dandruff germ as the cause of all hair trouble is not a recent event. Prof. Unna gave the germ theory to the world in 1887; later Sabouraud, by his experiments with a rabbit, proved beyond a doubt the actual existence of this germ.

On the heels of the establishment of the germ theory of dandruff came the discovery of Newbro's Herpicide. This was the first and original remedy for the destruction of the dandruff germ.

It is a significant fact that since Herpicide has achieved its wonderful popularity, others have changed front and appropriated Herpicide claims, but their preparations have remained the same. Any remedy claiming to kill the dandruff germ is trying to trade upon the Herpicide.

Until 1905 the teachers had organized only friendly societies, which the government encouraged, and they were numerous all over the country. Then some of the more advanced leaders thought that the teachers needed a further evolution, and turned to revolution. They came into close touch with the labor confederation, and formed syndicates, although they were told that it was against the law.

The government threatened then to suppress the syndicates, but as they kept comparatively quiet they were tolerated. After the outbreak at Chambery, as the Ministers' decree states, the position became intolerable, and the government finds it part of its strict duty to put an end to revolutionary agitation among the State teachers. If they want to become syndicalists, let them leave the schools.

Will Gives Testator's Body to Medical Students—Also Provides for Simple Funeral Ceremony.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 7.—[Special Dispatch.] The will of Dr. W. J. McGee bequeathing his brain to Dr. E. A. Spitzka of the Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia and the body for purposes of dissection to medical students, was filed for probate in the District Supreme Court today by Col. C. Rizer, executor.

A silver watch is given to his son, Enric McGee, and a gold watch to his daughter, Klotho; Gifford Pinchot is given a rifle and the Cosmos Club of Washington a mounted Texas steer's head.

Dr. McGee's funeral took place in accordance with this provision in the will:

"Impressed by the needless burden of mortuary observance in every stage of human development, I desire and direct that no funeral ceremonies, save of the simplest character, be held over my remains."

Reduced Rate Messages to Be Transmitted from This Country to England at Nine Cents a Word.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Reductions in cable messages sent under certain prescribed conditions to take effect at an early date between the United States and Canada and Great Britain were announced by the Western Union cable system today.

A new class of cables known as "reduced rate messages" are to be transmitted at 9 cents a word. These are to be plain language messages, to be transmitted at the company's convenience.

"Night letters"—also plain language messages—are provided for at the rate of twelve words for 75 cents. They are to be filed before midnight for delivery within twenty-four hours.

Week-end letters under similar restrictions are rated at twenty-four words for $1.15. They must be filed before Saturday midnight and will be delivered Monday morning. Five cents is charged for each additional word in both night and week-end letters.

The new rate applies to points in the United States and Canada hitherto within the so-called 25-cent zone.

The disease has spread from eight to twenty-six counties, according to reports to the State Live Stock Commissioner here.

State Veterinarian Bostron of Nebraska, just returned from a tour of the State, makes a gloomy report in connection with the ravages of the horse disease, which he diagnoses as an unusually deadly form of cerebral spinal meningitis. It exists in the southern part of the State and has claimed some of the finest heads. Mules are nearly exempt. No remedy has been discovered.

The disease has killed 2000 horses in Western Kansas alone. It appeared in Anson yesterday, when George Fitt, a farmer, lost three horses. W. W. Shettler, State veterinarian, made an examination and pronounced it the same unnamed disease. He has just returned from Western Kansas. This is the first appearance of the disease in the southern part of the State.

"JERSEY LILY" A SUFFRAGETTE.

A FAREWELL VISIT TO AMERICA TO PREACH EQUAL RIGHTS.

British Actress Who Imagines She Has a Message for the Women of the United States Will Spend Twenty Weeks in Leisurely Tour from Atlantic to Pacific.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON (Eng.) Sept. 7.—Lily Langtry, the "Jersey Lily" contemplates a twenty weeks' visit to the United States during which she will visit the principal cities between the Atlantic and the Pacific to preach a new message, new on her part, that of the militant woman's suffragettes.

Lily Langtry,

The actress, who has become an advocate of woman's suffrage, and is coming to the United States to agitate in favor of equal rights for women.

The actress is no longer on the sunny side of 50 and is no longer as frequently and prominently in the public eye as she was almost a generation ago when she was the guest of the late King Edward at Sandringham and basked in the royal favor, but her visit is not altogether altruistic or philanthropic, for her press agent, who evidently is spreading the story of her conversion to the militant woman's suffrage cause, naively announces at the same time, that she will give a vaudeville sketch on woman's suffrage and dilates on her gowns and her versatility and that this is to be positively her "final" farewell tour to America. However, she will bring no troupe.

LONDON LOSES DAZZLING GEMS.

Fortunes in Jewels Taken Away by Americans.

Experts Reckon Value at Quarter of Billion.

Steel King's Wife Brings Princely Necklace.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Among the American millionaires leaving for home and continental European autumn resorts, experts figure that no less than $250,000,000 worth of jewelry and gems have gone from this city.

They are the family possessions of the American aristocracy and were brought here to adorn their fair owners during the late season of gaiety.

The newspapers catering to England's most select families publish long accounts of the wonderful diamonds, pearls, rubies and other precious stones which have found their way into the jewel caskets of the womanhood of America. Mrs. Elbert H. Gary, wife of the steel millionaire, who spent the summer in England registered as the owner of a pearl necklace valued at $500,000, each strand of which cost $100,000. The ropes of diamonds and pearls of Mrs. George J. Gould; Mrs. Frederick W. Vandervilt's diamond serpentine chain with ruby eyes, valued at $300,000; and other beautiful gems possessed by Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury, Mrs. Ogder Mills and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid are described in detail.

The writers praise the generosity of American husbands and fathers, "who," they say, "deck their wives and daughters like princesses—or rather, like princesses used to be before Columbus and Walter Raleigh discovered America and the American showed the world how to amass great fortunes!"

LONDON, Sept. 7.—In a speech at Peking yesterday in which he dwelt upon the recognition of the Chinese republic by the powers, the Daily Mail's Peking correspondent says Dr. Sun Yat Sen, former President of China, advocated the open door policy, the encouragement of railway building, the granting of mining and other industrial concessions, and the giving of such protection to foreigners as would be calculated to remove diplomatic difficulties and bring China strength and prosperity.

SHOOTS WIFE, THEN HIMSELF.

Double Killing Revealed When Town Officials Force Entrance into Home of Couple.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTAGE LAKE (Me.) Sept. 7.—A double tragedy was revealed here late last night when the Mayor and other town officials forced an entrance to the home of Daniel C. Emery and found the bodies of Emery and his wife in one of the bedrooms.

A bullet wound found in the body of Mrs. Daniel Emery indicated to the coroner that the woman had been shot by her husband instead of being strangled, as thought at first. Emery killed himself by shooting. The coroner's theory is that Mrs. Emery was called from her chamber into her husband's room and was shot through the heart as she passed the door.

The authorities were informed that the couple had trouble recently. Emery was the son of a wealthy mahogany importer of Chelsea, Mass. He had been in ill health for more than a year.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 7.—[Special Dispatch.] The Cummuters closed up half of that winning gap between themselves and the Tigers this afternoon on the Valencia street lot by winning a double trick at the expense of the Southerners. The scores, 8 to 2 and 7 to 2, were decisive enough to remove every element of doubt that might have existed in the thoughts of interested fans.

Oakland showed all the speed and all the class, and from now on that trans-bay crowd must be highly thought of as regular contenders in the Pacific Coast League.

The Oaks simply rushed Vernon right off its pins. Once Oakland jumped into the lead there was no chance in the world for the Tigers to again show visible signs of baseball life. The Tigers tried everything they had, but they were completely blocked at every turn by the enemy.

The game started out as though it would be a regular affair, Hitt looked good and seemed to have a great line of stuff on the ball. But once the Oaks began to tumble him up it was night and good-by for the southpaw.

Vernon took the lead, at that, in the second round, after two had been put out of the way. Fitzsimmons slammed the ball through second for a neat single. The hit-and-run sign was flashed and Brown obeyed with a two-sacker against the center-field fence, sending Fitz across.

The Oaks deadlocked it in the fourth when Zacher singled to center and was followed by Coy with a sacrifice and Hetling with a two-bagger and the Villagers saw their finish in the sixth.

FINISH BEGINS.

This time the Oaks put on the main event for a pair of tallies which took all the fight out of the Tigers. Brashear gave them the start by booting Patterson's grounder. He was forced at second by Zacher, after which Coy flied to Kane. Then Hetling came through again, this time with a drive over first base. He took a chance and stole. It was all up to Cook, who made good with a drive to the center field fence, sending them both across and making it 3 to 1. These would have been fair enough, but the Oaks wanted more, and they were not satisfied till they had annexed four in the eighth and made a joke of what everybody believed was going to be a regular game of baseball.

Zacher singled to right and Coy forced him. Hetling was passed and Cook made it a full house with a bingle to center. Big Tiedemann sent a glancer to Fitzsimmons, and the youngster heaved it into the field bleachers instead of into the waiting mitts of Agnew. Coy was hedging and came running home. Then Mitze walked and Harry Ables closed his eyes and shot the ball against the center field fence for a single good enough to register Tiedemann and Cook and make the score 7 to 1.

Ables let up long enough to allow Bayless to put on a tally in the ninth, but it didn't look very fat, alongside the score which Oakland had. The scores:

SENATORS WAKE UP.

EASILY SKIN BEAVERS.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 7.—[Special Dispatch.] The Senators played ball while the Beavers played marbles today and that in a measure accounted for the lopsided score of 10 to 0, which was piled up by the Van Buren crew.

The superb twirling of Fitzgerald, who showed a flash of his old form, accounted for the rest. Fitz pitched his best game of the season. There was no spot he could not put the ball if he wanted, his control being perfect. Six Beavers whiffed out during the first three innings and nine in all went the route during the game. But three hits were gleaned by McCredie's warriors and one of those was a fluke.

While Portland was really trying to wield the war club they were not working up a sweat on the defensive, the fielders deliberately loafing several times. After the run pile grew large the Beavers did not seem to care.

The run getting started in the first. O'Rourke doubled to left, Doane having gone to third on Lewis's single and executing a double steal with Jimmy. With the bases full in the second on singles by Irelan and Cheek and a pass to Shinn, Madden drove to left, registering two runners.

The Solons grabbed another run in the third and four more in the sixth. The Beavers went to pieces in the latter inning. Cheek doubled to right and Fitz bunted him along. Bancroft threw Shinn's grounder away, allowing Cheek to register and Rapps did the same thing with Madden's safe bunt. A walk to O'Rourke, Orr's double and a wild pitch kept up a stream of Solons tagging the rubber. It was no trick to pound Harkness's delivery. Madden poled a single to right in the eighth and was followed by Lewis's drive over the fence.

M'CREDIE DENIES TRADE WITH BERRY ON PITCHERS.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 7.—[Special Dispatch.] The Post says Hen Berry's dark and diabolical scheme to cheat, rob and defraud, with malice aforethought, Happy Hogan of Vernon out of the Pacific Coast League pennant was nipped yesterday by the aforesaid Hogan, assisted by Al Baum, president of the league.

It appears that these arch conspirators against Hogan, Messrs. Berry of Los Angeles and McCredie of Portland, had entered into an agreement to trade pitchers. Portland was to send Irving Higginbotham to Los Angeles and Los Angeles was to turn Jack Halla over to Portland. To everyone it must appear that the Angels were getting the better of this deal. Higginbotham has pitched great ball of late, and he would add strength to the Los Angeles twirling staff.

Halla is a good pitcher but when Hap heard of the proposed trade he was much wrought up. He realizes that he is going to have a hard fight on his hands to beat Los Angeles out of the pennant, and any added strength would make Dillon's team an even more formidable opponent. So Hap consulted President Baum, who said he had heard nothing of the deal and that it could not be permitted on account of a league rule which prevents the trading of players after September 1. This rule was adopted for the very purpose of preventing jockeying between friendly managers in a close pennant race.

Hogan could not rest easy, however, until he had seen Walt McCredie and talked the matter over with him. So he and President Baum hopped on a train for Sacramento and held a consultation with McCredie. The Portland skipper laughed when he heard the object of their mission and denied that any trade had been made or was being contemplated.

YOU Take No Risks When Your Money Is Invested In These Real Estate Mortgage Bonds

Because your money is backed by two dollars for very one invested, secured by first lien upon Gilt-Edge California Real Estate. Each Bond, whether it be for $100, $250, $500 or $1000, has actual pro-rata ownership in the Mortgage Securing the entire issue.

These bonds are thus as safe and very much more convenient than if invested in a mortgage direct. Part or all of your money is always available through re-sale of one or all of your bonds without loss of time or interest and without work or worry.

Besides their inherent safety, these bonds bear the guaranty of a strong financial corporation.

The Sensation of the day! The Talk of the town! This opportunity to dress in the season's latest offering of styles

And here they are—over 1500 of the latest Fall smartest, classiest effects ever assembled under one roof.

Get in quick and go as far as you wish, you'll never have another chance like this. The more you think of it, the more you'll realize what it means to buy a new fall suit at the beginning of the season for less than any price you could possibly obtain, even at an end-of-season sale.

You would not be able to do so now if the large firm of Monroe-Davis-Herington Co., northeast corner of Sixth and Spring Sts., were able to remain in their present location for another year.

Circumstances simply combined to such an extent as to practically force them out of business.

When they took over the lease on this corner, they expected to remain indefinitely. With this understanding, they ordered heavily of fall and winter suits last spring, paying a large deposit in cash at the time. Then, all of a sudden, without any warning, the site was sold to a company which ex-

Observations.

ON A SPECIAL OF VETERANS.

Writer Gives Impressions of G.A.R. Train.

That of the Commander Is Typical of All.

Some Interesting Personalities Seen En Route.

BY LIEUT.-COL. J. A. WATROUS, U.S.A. (Retired) of Milwaukee.

I came on one of those special trains—the one upon which were Judge Harvey M. Trimble, the Commander-in-Chief, his staff, five Past Commanders-in-Chief, wives, widows, children or grandchildren and friends of soldiers. Save that it was longer—fifteen Pullmans—and carried a greater number of the old leaders, it is typical of all the G.A.R. trains headed toward Los Angeles for an encampment which is to make a notable and memorable page in the country's history, not alone because it will be the last held on the Pacific Coast, but also because it will be the last west of the Missouri River, and also because it is the last time when so many of the present-day leaders will be present.

These and other reasons warrant what I shall say about persons and incidents connected with this special palace car train that is so much like scores of other trains with the same destination. Similar stories might be written concerning all of the trains and their passengers, who have helped to make some of the most striking and interesting pages in the world's history.

INTERESTING CLUSTER.

I looked at an interesting cluster of American citizens in the observation car—Commander-in-Chief Trimble and Past Commanders-in-Chief S. S. Burdett, who commanded a brigade, has served in Congress and has long been a most useful worker for his fellow-soldiers; Gen. John C. Black, who started as captain and quit as the head of a brigade, was shockingly wounded in the important battle of Prairie Grove, has served several terms in Congress, was Commissioner of Pensions under Cleveland, and was made president of the Civil Service Commission, a position he still holds. Gen. Black is justly ranked as one of the finished orators in our country. Another in the cluster was Judge Eli Torrance of Minneapolis, who was elected Commander-in-Chief at Cleveland, and who must be credited with much superb service for his comrades and companions. Corporal James Tanner was elected at Denver in 1905. Fifty years ago Tanner, then a mere boy, was on the battlefield of the second Bull Run, where on August 30, 1862, a cannon shot tore off both of his legs. He has been Commissioner of Pensions and was appointed United States Register of Wills by President McKinley, and is still in charge of that office. Corporal Tanner is one of the most popular of the soldier orators and has addressed more audiences than any other veteran. The "old boys" all love Tanner, and there has never been a question as to how he regards them. By his side sat modest "Johnny" Gilman, who was chosen at Atlantic City in 1910, a Massachusetts high official for many years. Gilman lost an arm at Gettysburg. The day after it was amputated he visited several hospitals and cheered the mangled soldiers with his sweet voice, now singing patriotic airs and now gospel hymns. Gilman is one of our many sweet singers. Last in the charmed and charming circle was Judge Trimble, who was elected at Rochester last year, and who has made one of the very best of our honored leaders. He began as a private, became his regiment's adjutant, and was twice wounded. He has long been a Circuit Judge.

There, in this observation car cluster, are all of our living leaders of the Grand Army of the Republic, except Gen. Wagner, Col. R. B. Beath, Judge Burton, Col. Clarkson, Capt. King, Maj. Warner, Capt. Van Sant, A. G. Weissert and R. B. Brown, and the latter two would have been in that circle if Weissert had not put off his start a day to attend the wedding of his only daughter, and Brown hadn't been busy running for Governor of Ohio. Warner and Beath came with the Pennsylvania delegation on a special train.

IN THE DINERS.

Our special had two diners and both were demanded. I had more than a single purpose in patronizing both. Every veteran scanned the menu card through glasses, and nearly every one marked only such articles as could be managed without vigorous mastication. Every bowed old head was a gray one or white. Not a few of the hands, once steady, now trembled painfully in transporting food from plates to lips that are less firm than they used to be. Many of the wrinkled old faces bent close to their food, some because of shoulders rounded by hard service, and others because of fading eyesight. Mostly they were silent while at the table.

The young man, a soldier's son, who also was spying upon the old fellows, said: "This all may seem funny to some, but to me it is painfully pathetic. It brings back memories of my good soldier dad during the closing years of his life."

A big tear on each cheek told that he meant what he said. I agreed with him.

Memory carried me back to the days when those same men feasted on hard tack, raw pork, tough beef or horse meat, green apples, roasting ears not roasted, uncooked sweet potatoes and turnips; when their ivory was sharp and solid and didn't balk at walnuts or bull beef; when their hair was black, brown, yellow or red; when there were no bald heads; when their eyes made an enemy a hundred yards away an easy mark; when there was no tremble in hand or lips, no rounded shoulders, no unsteady steps, no deafness; when they could march twenty-five or thirty miles in a day, carrying from forty to sixty pounds, go into battle, go to a rest supperless, and sleep on the ground with the stars and God's blue sky for a covering. How short a time ago that seems!

May the republic they helped to save never forget what those boys and young men, now old men, did, must be the wish of every appreciative and patriotic American.

DEARER THAN MILLIONS.

Over there sat a millionaire, a captain of industry, but he put on no airs. The right to wear the little bronze button is [illegible] his millions. He won that right on the fields about Chattanooga, on the way from there to Atlanta, thence to the sea, by holding up his right hand and taking an oath, in 1861, and getting a bit of paper after Appomattox, upon which there is proof of honorable discharge.

Nearly opposite the millionaire were two old couples. At night one couple occupied the lower berth and the other the upper. That saved each couple $7—which meant little to the millionaire across the aisle.

The first time he saw the man with ample wealth he was watching the four old persons dining on their minced chicken, boiled eggs, biscuits, cake and pickles the wives had prepared in their Michigan homes. They brought enough to last them to the Coast. That would mean a saving of more than $7 for each couple. They had to economize. They are not millionaires. One of the veterans is a night watchman and the other a janitor. One is short two fingers on the left hand. He had been made a mark for a sharp-shooter at Petersburg. The other's right wrist was unbendable. A bullet smashed into it at Mission Ridge. For two years they had stripped off a chunk of each pension allowance and put it into a sinking fund for use in defraying expenses in attendance upon this national encampment, wherever it might be held.

Before each meal the four gray heads bowed and one of the old fellows asked the blessing.

The next time I saw the millionaire he was chatting with the old couples. It developed that he was presented with that limp in his left leg at Mission Ridge, where his comrade was given that unbendable wrist.

"Comrades," said the millionaire to the night watchman and the janitor, "I want you and your good wives to be my guests the balance of the journey to Los Angeles," and while the four strenuously objected, their objections were overruled, and the five took three meals a day in the diner—the best to be had—the captain of industry paying. There is a tie extending from bronze button to bronze button that makes a sawmill log-chain look like three tens. Similar incidents are not uncommon on these Grand Army specials.

THE YOUNG PERSONS.

On this, as on all the Grand Army specials, were many young persons and elderly—not old, mind you—women. Most of the young are the sons and daughters or the grandchildren of the "old boys," folks, or most of them, in whose veins there is soldier blood, of which they are as proud as peacocks. I am venturing the guess that upon every special there is, as upon the Commander-in-Chief's train, at least one little girl, with a flag, who is much in evidence at each halt for a rest, when she marches, with flag in the breeze, close to the band, and at least one grandson who marches not far from the grand-daughter and her silk Stars and Stripes.

THE THINNING RANKS.

Each passing year notes a decrease of veterans and an increase of young men, elderly women, young women, children. Glance at the 40,000 soldier graves occupied since January 1, 1911, for the explanation.

There is no lack of evidence that the old men on the specials look much more at past years than they do at the present and future years. Here is a line of proof:

When our train reached Salt Lake City early in the morning, it was met by a delegation of prominent Mormon men and women who tendered the travelers a ride and a visit to the Mormon Temple and grounds, to end with an organ recital in the Tabernacle. The first piece was a specimen of the highest art and beautifully rendered, but it didn't much interest the old soldiers. One old fellow with a dozen badges on his breast and a coat sleeve empty, bent over to a comrade and whispered, "I never did care much for them high-toned italic pieces."

When the organ played for a comrade to sing "Bonnie Eloise," an old favorite, everybody took notice and applause followed the sweet music. Then came "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp the Boys Are Marching," and every veteran was on his feet to join in the chorus without orders. That was followed by the "Suwannee River" and "Dixie" and the "Star Spangled Banner." How the old chaps enjoyed the long-ago favorites. They love to recall the old days and their incidents. They love the old friends, the old songs, the old flag, and they so love and reverence the old Constitution that Washington helped to frame and approved and Lincoln loved and saved the Union under—the Constitution under which the greatest and best nation the world has known, has been builded, that they renew the old fighting feeling when they hear modern sham statesmen calling it out of date and fit only for the scrap heap.

Do you wonder at it when you think what it cost them and nearly half a million of their comrades, who died during the war in the mighty mission to prevent our Constitution from going to the scrap heap?

What a contented, harmonious, uncomplaining, jovial crowd of men, women and children we may see on all of these Grand Army specials coming to Los Angeles!

GROWS BEAUTIFUL, HEAVY HAIR
WE PROVE IT—25 CENT "DANDERINE"
Destroys dandruff—Stops falling hair—Cleans and invigorates your scalp—Delightful dressing.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance; freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and luster, and try as you will, you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower; destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp, and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

Pasadena.

VETERANS TO TAKE THE CITY.

Pasadena Arranges for Early Capitulation Monday.

Automobile Trips Are to Be the Day's Feature.

Board of Trade Is Opposed to Annexation.

[Office of The Times, 33 S. Fair Oaks ave.]

PASADENA, Sept. 8.—The committee which has charge of arrangements for the entertainment of the Grand Army veterans here tomorrow, yesterday completed the programme for the day. It follows:

At 9:30 a.m.—Reception for the guests at Library Park, Commander N. M. Myrick of John F. Godfrey Post in charge; registration of guests; distribution of badges and start of automobile trip about the city.

At 11:30 a.m.—Luncheon at Library Park, under the direction of R. H. Miller; music by National Drum Corps; address of welcome by Mayor Thum; response by a representative of the Commander-in-Chief; address of the day by Rev. Matt S. Hughes.

At 2:30 p.m.—Special complimentary matinee at Clune's Theater for members of the Grand Army and their ladies.

Pasadena has been selected as the first place of interest near Los Angeles to be visited by the veterans and members of the local post and the Board of Trade have determined that it shall be the last day of the encampment to be forgotten. No pains will be spared to make the day a thorougly enjoyable one to all who come. In the automobile ride, the old soldiers will be taken to the Busch Gardens and along the handsomer streets and boulevards of the city. Women of the city yesterday baked pies for them. There are to be 1000 of these delivered at Library Park tomorrow morning, and they will all be home-made ones.

Business men of the city are decorating the downtown streets, and with this and Admission Day, business will practically be suspended tomorrow.

More automobiles than have been offered so far, however, will be needed to accommodate the large crowd which is expected to come, and the Automobile Committee has issued another request that residents of the city lend their machines for the day and be at Library Park with them at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

MAY BE NEW PASTOR.

Rev. Charles G. Mosher, pastor of the Free Baptist Church of Augusta, Me., is in Pasadena to preach several sermons at the First Baptist Church, and it is rumored that he may be called to the pulpit there. J. L. Atterbury, one of the members of the church board, stated last night that while Rev. Mosher is under consideration by the board, there is nothing definite as yet, and that he is merely preaching here, as several other ministers have done.

The pulpit of this church is vacant at present, Rev. Albert Hatcher Smith, who occupied it for some time, having tendered his resignation over a month ago.

Rev. Mosher will preach there today and a week from today. He is a graduate of Bates College and the Cobb Theological Seminary, and has been pastor of the large Free Baptist Church of Augusta for about nine years. He recently declined a call to the pastorate of a large church in Providence, R. I.

Gen. Wood wired marching orders to

DISAPPROVES MEASURE.

The Pasadena Board of Trade, at a meeting of the board of directors yesterday, officially expressed its disapproval of the proposed constitutional amendment relating to the formation of consolidated city and county governments, which is to be submitted to voters at the general election next November.

The directors of the Board of Trade also at this meeting determined to co-operate with the local Masons in the entertainment of members of the Grand Lodge, who will visit the city October 10, during the time that the annual meeting of the lodge is in session in Los Angeles.

It is expected that over 1000 members of the Grand Lodge will visit Pasadena on this day. While the programme has not been definitely arranged as yet, it is already decided that the visitors shall be taken for an automobile ride about the city and that a reception shall be held at the Hotel Maryland in their honor.

FOR A BIG SHOW.

By asking that amateur flower growers in the city make exhibits, the Pasadena Horticultural Association hopes to make its fifth annual Flower Show, which is to be given October 24, 25 and 26 in a great tent, pitched over the Hotel Maryland tennis courts, the greatest flower show which shall have ever taken place in the city. The Committee on Arrangements is already actively at work, and all of the plans for the procuring of the flowers and the display of them will be perfected long before the time for the show arrives.

An order has been placed for an additional hundred extra-large vases, owing to the prospects of an unusually large chrysanthemum exhibit.

STEAM ROLLER COMES.

A new steam roller has arrived in Pasadena; not the sort of steam roller sometimes in evidence at mass meetings, but an additional piece of equipment for the city street department. It was purchased at a cost of $3450 and is designed especially for the re-oiling of streets and such other work as the city shall have occasion to put it to.

CITY BRIEFS.

Invitations were sent out yesterday for the banquet which is to be given at the Hotel Maryland next Thursday in honor of 100 members of the Pacific Coast Association of Fire Chiefs, who will then visit the city.

R. I. Rogers, formerly cashier of the First National Bank, now vice-president of the National Bank of California in Los Angeles, has sold his home at No. 325 Bellefontaine street to Henry W. Buckingham of Chicago, who will soon become a local resident.

The Pasadena banks will remain closed tomorrow in honor of Admission Day.

An interesting programme has been planned for this week at Carmelita Playgrounds. A party of about ten of the larger girls spent the greater part of last week camping in the mountains.

Mrs. Lucie F. Harrison of No. 714 Locust street, will leave next Wednesday for her annual Methodist Missionary trip East.

Hubert Ives of the firm of Ives, Warren & Salisbury, returned home yesterday from a trip to North Pacific Coast points.

Entry lists are open for the third annual tennis championship in singles at the Young Men's Christian Association building. A swimming exhibition was given there last night.

H. J. McCracken and family of No. 988 New York avenue have returned home from an automobile trip through the San Joaquin Valley.

Miss Margaret Gilbert of Altadena has returned home from Ft. William Henry Harrison, Mont., where she visited the family of Maj. Leslie R. Groves.

LONG BEACH CITIZENS NOT FAVORABLE TO INNOVATION.

Charter Revision Committee, However, Seems Inclined to Go Ahead With Plan on Theory that an Election Will Educate the Public. School Fraternities Out of Favor.

LONG BEACH, Sept. 7.—Members of the Charter Revision Committee, who advocate the adoption of the city-manager plan of government to take the place of the present charter, met with decided opposition last night when members who have been absent heretofore entered the discussion with such arguments and reports of opposition among the general public as to upset and confuse for a time those who favor the adoption of the Hare system of proportional representation. It provides that a voter at an election may give his first, second and third choice, the final selection of officials to be decided by count of the different choices. It was pointed out that this would necessitate the use of a pencil in numbering the different preferences of voters, something that is prohibited under the State election law.

The managerial plan opposition made the strong point that salary expense would not only be larger than under commission form, but that the problem of selecting a man qualified to fill the position would be rather a difficult undertaking. According to the city-manager plan the lucky man, although he would have expert assistance, would of necessity have to be a financier, an executive man, civil engineer, water expert, electrician, accountant, lawyer, fireman, be familiar with police work, street improvements, bookkeeper, library details, understand the city needs in garbage disposal and numerous other small things which would be under his supervision and for which he would be held responsible. Miss Harnett's statement that there was a school in the East which turned out city managers to order did not impress the opponents of the plan who think a man with all these qualifications is born and not made to order.

It has developed that the opposition to the proposed plans of the revision committee is becoming strong and that, if persisted in, would undoubtedly meet with defeat and leave the present charter still in operation for another two years. The advocates of the experiment plan, however, insist that even then the submission of the new ideas would be an educational factor to the people, productive of good later on.

FRATERNITIES TABOO.

Polytechnic High School students, when they apply at the school for enrollment on Monday, will be presented with and must sign a pledge that he or she is not now and will not become a member of any secret fraternity, sorority, society or club wholly or partly formed from the membership of high school pupils.

Pupils now belonging to such will be given ten days to sever their connection or have them approved by the superintendent, principal and Board of Education. This rule was adopted by the school board at a special meeting today, upon the recommendation of Superintendent Stephens. Notices are to be sent to all parents of this action, which must be signed and returned, and which will contain an extract from the State law on the subject. The same rule will hereafter apply to students of the eighth grammar grades, who will be required to sign the pledge before diplomas entitling them to enter High School will be issued.

The special committee appointed at the recent Christian assembly to proceed with plans for a Christian college in Southern California, with which will be incorporated the Berkeley Bible Seminary, met yesterday in Los Angeles and organized, preparatory to launching an active campaign to insure the success of the enterprise.

C. C. Chapman of Fullerton was elected president of the committee, and F. M. Rogers of Long Beach, secretary. A special committee of Rogers of Long Beach, Clubb of Pomona, and Darsie of Hollywood was appointed to name the various subcommittees.

One of the first acts of the committee was to plan a folder which will give the aims and purposes of the college and the proposed campaign for endowment. Dr. Rogers was appointed a special delegate to visit various Christian colleges in the East in October during his attendance upon the national assembly in Louisville to get information which will be helpful in organizing the proposed college. He will visit colleges at Enid, Okla.; Des Moines, Iowa; Eureka, Ill.; Canton, Mo.; Butler, Ind., and Lexington, Ky. When he returns and makes his report the committee will then proceed with its duty of inaugurating an active campaign to secure a $250,000 endowment for the proposed college.

TEXANS HURT.

Ft. Worth, Tex., tourists who are in Long Beach for the winter met with an accident yesterday near Oceanside while returning to the beach from San Diego in an automobile and five people were hurt. The sixth member of the party, an infant, was hurled forty feet and unhurt. The injured are John M. McCart, gash over eye and bad bruises; Mrs. McCart, bruises about hips and internal injuries; Frances McCart, cuts about face and forehead; Ed Byers, arms cut and bruised; Mrs. Byers, shoulder sprained and bruises. The auto had turned out in the road to pass another and the off wheels slipped in a ditch and turtled the machine, pinning Mr. and Mrs. McCart underneath. The victims managed to reach home last night, where their injuries were attended to.

ARTESIA IS UP IN ARMS.

Petition Presented Asking for Severance from Los Angeles County Arouses Resentment.

ARTESIA, Sept. 7.—The Citizens' Association of Artesia is up in arms bacause a petition has been presented to the Board of Supervisors of Orange county asking that the "Artesia country" be taken from Los Angeles county and annexed to Orange county.

It was represented that the petition expressed the unanimous desire of the residents of the land lying east of the San Gabriel River in Los Angeles county.

The Citizens' Association, comprising 150 of the leading business men and ranchers of the territory, is now circulating a petition, which is being almost universally signed, informing the Orange county Supervisors that the real property owners and the great majority of the residents much prefer to stay right where they are in Los Angeles county. It is understood that the Orange county move was simply a scheme to prevent the incorporation of Artesia as a city of the sixth class. The Citizens' Association of Artesia met last night and emphatically protested against the Orange county annexation project.

SAILOR IS DROWNED.

Tar Falls From Danish Steamer Kina in San Pedro Harbor. Yale Brings Many Passengers.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN PEDRO, Sept. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] H. F. M. Larsen, a marine firemen on the Danish steamer Kina fell off the gang-plank this morning and was drowned. The body has not been recovered.

Larsen and another mate left the steamer early last night and when they returned were intoxicated. The watchman on the dock offered to assist the men up the gang-plank but Larsen declined assistance. Capt. Hanson of the Kina reported the accident to the Danish Consul in Los Angeles. The Kina proceeded to San Francisco tonight.

The largest list of passengers ever brought to this port arrived today from San Francisco on the steamer Yale. There were 955, the full capacity of the ship, most of them members of the G.A.R. and their families. Another big passenger list is booked for the Harvard due here tomorrow.

GREER WINS RACE.

BOSTON, Sept. 7.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Frank B. Greer, former amateur national champion sculler, defeated William Haines, a prominent English professional sculler, in a three-mile race on the Charles River today. Greer had a quarter of a length lead when he crossed the finish line. As a result of the race Greer claimed the sculling championship of the United States. The contest was held under almost perfect weather conditions.

Gruesome.

DEAD BODY INDICATES A TRAGEDY OF THE SEA.

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 7.—Is the body which floated ashore at the foot of Montana street this afternoon that of the second victim of the Ocean Park fire? This is the question which is being asked by the police and by Coroner Hartwell. Whether the man jumped from the Fraser pier the night of the fire or not will be determined when County Physician Campbell examines the body and gives an opinion as to the length of time it has been in the water.

The body was found by J. B. Proctor of Santa Monica at 1:15 this afternoon. It is that of a man of about 33 years, height about five feet nine inches, light hair and complexion, smooth shaven. The body was dressed in gray trousers and vest, a light shirt with black stripes, tan shoes and blue stockings, but no coat. No laundry marks were found on the shirt.

Three cards and a comb were found in the trousers pockets. They were inscribed as follows: "White House barber shop, 315 West Second street; Joe Fast's Buffet, No. 308 West Second street; McKeeby & Reed, attorneys at law, No. 616 California building." A number of persons called but none identified the body.

Wednesday fishermen on the long wharf thought they saw a body floating near the wharf, and the Bresee Brothers & Todd ambulance was sent out on the wharf. The supposed body had floated farther away, however, and the attempt to find out definitely whether the floating object was human remains was given up. As the curent generally runs in a southerly direction, it is thought that the body is not that of one of the seven men who were caught at the end of the Fraser pier the night of the fire, but some one who fell or was thrown overboard from some vessel in the channel.

SEASON WAS SATISFACTORY.

Pomona Fruit Growers Exchange Ships Five Hundred and Seventeen Carloads of Oranges.

POMONA, Sept. 7.—The annual meeting of the Pomona Fruit Growers' Exchange was held yesterday at the newly enlarged packing-house of the organization on Park avenue, and was largely attended. The annual report of Manager H. E. Walcott showed the shipment of 517 carloads of oranges during the past season, for which $200,000 was received. There are still ten cars of Valencias to be shipped. Secretary P. J. Dreher of the San Antonio Fruit Exchange read his report and Frank P. Firey gave a report of the doings of the California Fruit Exchange.

With the new packing-house and pre-cooling plant and the other packing-house on Reservoir street the Pomona exchange now is the best equipped to care for its fruit shipments of any in Southern California. At the meeting yesterday, the smudge proposition as a preventive against frost, was discussed at length by the members who are now prepared with equipment to fight "Jack Frost" whenever the occasion demands. According to the estimates made, the Pomona exchange expects that its shipments the coming season will be 30 per cent. greater than last year. The following officers and directors were elected: Hervey J. Nichols, president; Fred J. Smith, vice-president; Frank P. Firey, treasurer; J. E. Adamson, F. F. Yates, Walter A. Lewis and J. A. Mashmeyer.

NEWS BRIEFS.

At the annual meeting of the La Verne Orange Growers' Association, the following were elected directors: D. C. Crookshank, president; J. F. Cumberland, vice-president; V. W. Baker, J. C. Gapp, F. R. Curtis, L. H. Bixby and W. F. Romick. The past season, according to the report of Daniel Arbuthnot, the manager, there have been shipped by the association 446 carloads of oranges and there was received on all grades of navel and Valencia oranges $2.56 per hundred pounds. The association now controls 750 acres of oranges and the green crop now on the trees is a large one.

E. Frank Campbell, president of the University Film Company, has been here looking over the field for the purpose of bringing a company of moving picture actors to enact several picture plays amid local surroundings. Mr. Campbell also visited Stoddard Canyon, where he expects to stage several Indian plays.

The Philatheas of the First Baptist Church have elected officers as follows: Miss Reisen, president; Mrs. Harry Hillen, vice-president; Miss Pendry, secretary; Miss G. Patterson, assistant secretary; Miss Ethel Hillen, treasurer; Miss Gladys Ely, reporter. Mrs. Kirkpatrick and Misses Joyce Stanley, Clara Fenner, Violet Svenson, Stella Simpson and Mrs. Carl Rutty, chairmen of social, membership, flower, devotional, finance and welcoming committees.

SOLDIER LOSES HIS UNIFORM.

MAN CHARGED WITH LOOTING SPENDS DAY IN JAIL.

All Other Military Men Cleared of Any Imputation of Wrongdoing and Praised for Their Excellent Work—Citizens of Ocean Park Full of Hope and Energy.

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 7.—Carl H. Wescott, officer in Co. E. Seventh Regiment, California National Guard, was relieved from duty and his uniform taken from him this afternoon immediately after he was arraigned before Justice Carillo on a charge of grand larceny, the complaint being sworn to by A. A. Eager, proprietor of the hardware store Wescott is charged with looting while he was guarding the place. Wescott gave bail in the sum of $3000 for his examination, the date of which has not been set.

Wescott spent most of the day in the City Jail, and for three hours was questioned by Chief of Police Randall and other officers of the force. A small wagonload of revolvers, blankets, tools, knives, razors and silverware was brought to the station from Wescott's house on Fifth street, and he was asked to explain where he got them. Finally Wescott broke down, the police say, and confessed that he looted the hardware store on Thursday night. He stated that none of his comrades were implicated in the job; that he alone planned and accomplished the robbery.

The police confirm Wescott's statement that no other member of the company was guilty, and went further to say that their bravery and devotion to duty was one of the bright sides of the big fire. Officers of the local Elks lodge were called to the station to try and identify some of the articles which were supposed to have been taken from the Elks' rooms. They refuse to make public their findings in this matter.

MILITARY POST.

At a meeting of the Santa Monica Bay Chamber of Commerce last evening plans were laid to secure a military post for this beach. A site of 300 acres in Rustic Canyon has been offered the government as a suitable place for the establishment of the post. Upon motion of A. R. Fraser, President Dudley of the chamber was instructed to appoint a committee to confer with Congressman Stephens and the Secretary of War on the project. Gen. Robert Wankowski is quoted as favoring the project, after a survey of the site. The people of Santa Monica will unite to pull for the post, which would mean the expenditure of about $100,000 monthly in maintenance here, to say nothing of the salaries of the hundreds of men needed.

FOR GREATER BEACH.

At a mass meeting of citizens held last night in the Masonic Hall great enthusiasm was manifested for the new Ocean Park, and rousing speeches were made for the establishment of the greatest resort on the Pacific Coast here. The plan proposed by G. M. Jones and Paul D. Howse, and taken up with vigor, of running five streets out 280 feet and building an esplanade 100 feet wide met the indorsement of all. Reports of the buildings to be begun and those already under way were joyfully received. The people of Ocean Park have resolved that the new Ocean Park business and amusement section shall be many times greater and better than the old.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Preparations are complete for entertaining the crowd here tomorrow. The visitors will practically be allowed free reign in the ruined sections, although the militia and police will see that no one gets in the shadow of the ruined walls. Owners of burned property expect that the large quantity of rubbish on their places will be carted off as souvenirs.

The condition of Mrs. Arcadia de Baker, wealthy Spanish resident of this city, was far from satisfactory late this evening. Dr. Kurtz, her physician, stated that she was paralyzed in her left side, was unconscious, and he had recourse to injections to sustain her strength. The family has gathered at the house and Mrs. de Baker's many friends are calling hourly to learn her condition.

LET THERE BE LIGHT.

Burbank Committee Reports in Favor of Illumination of the Business Section—Short News Stories.

BURBANK, Sept. 7.—The Committee on Street Lighting which has been investigating the matter of street lights, has made a report. It found property owners practically unanimous in favor of the street lights, cement standards to be used. It was decided to have the two principal streets, Second and Olive, lighted first, others to follow as desired. City Trustee Lovering, chairman of the committee, then asked the Board to have the City Attorney prepare a resolution of intention to improve the streets referred to with electric lights by the usual method for street work, which was so ordered.

WANT CITY WATER.

A movement is being made to secure a municipal water plant for Burbank, either by purchase of the present plant of L. C. Brand and enlarging the same, or installing a new one. A water committee, of which Trustee C. H. Kline is chairman, made a preliminary report at a public meeting, which was well attended. Mr. Brand offers to sell his plant, and if he will take what may be decided as a fair price, the city of Burbank may decide to purchase. But before any agreement can be considered, it is proposed to have an estimate from a competent engineer as to cost of a new plant and the value of the old one. The committee was requested to have the City Trustees employ an engineer for the purpose suggested, whose report the committee would submit at another public meeting, to be held Tuesday evening, September 17. After a practically unanimous expression in favor of a municipal water plant, the first Burbank water meeting adjourned.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The work of oiling and tamping Second street has commenced. The work of improving Olive street is also progressing.

The Burbank Union High School will open on Monday, with a larger registration of students than last term. The grammar schools will open September 16, at which an increased attendance is also expected.

Mayor C. J. Forbes becomes a larger land owner, having purchased a fine eighty-acre ranch near Van Nuys, of the Los Angeles Suburban Homes Company. He still keeps his Burbank home place.

A city ordinance is just passed for the removal of all weeds or obstructive growth on street frontage and city lots.

J. M. Thrasher of Burbank has purchased forty acres of the old Stephen M. White tract of land near here, which comprises 280 acres. The remainder of the tract has been sold to parties in and near Los Angeles. Several homes are being built on the tract and wells are being put down preparatory to planting alfalfa in the spring.

OLD SETTLERS TO CELEBRATE.

San Fernando Citizens Who Were Among the First to Hold Annual Picnic.—Short News Stories.

GLENDALE, Sept. 7.—The annual San Fernando Valley picnic will be held under the auspices of the Old Settlers' Association of this valley, Saturday, September 21, at Somerset Farm. The farm is located on Verdugo road, just north of Ninth street. While old settlers are expected to turn out as a matter of course, a cordial invitation is extended to others. A basket luncheon will be served beneath the many large trees at noon. This picnic is one of the big events of the year at this place, and as it is a general "get together" affair, a good attendance is expected.

THAT SAN GABRIEL MEETING.

Associated Chamber of Commerce Not Kindly Disposed Toward the Proposed Annexation Measure.

SANTA ANA, Sept. 7.—The Associated Chambers of Commerce has received an invitation to send representatives to a meeting of the San Gabriel Inter-City Commission in San Gabriel on September 13. The purpose of the meeting is to take steps to fight the measure that will allow a city of over 350,000 inhabitants to annex territory on a two-thirds vote of the city.

John D. Reavis, president of the commission, in a letter to W. A. Zimmerman, president of the Associated Chambers, says that if Los Angeles should have a city and county government and the annexation measure was in force it could annex parts of Orange, San Bernardino and Riverside counties.

H. S. Faucet, plant pathologist of the State Horticultural Commission, and P. H. Timberlake, an entomologist of the Department of Agriculture, both of Whittier, were here yesterday and with County Horticultural Commissioner Bishop visited orchards near Tustin where they investigated cases of oak root fungus and Florida die-back. The former disease is communicated from tree to tree through the roots. The latter is due to fertilization conditions.

FIRE THREATENS GRAIN.

Heroic Work on Part of San Jacinto Ranchers Necessary to Save Season's Crops.—News Briefs.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN JACINTO, Aug. 7.—The most destructive grain fire of the season occurred in the section northwest of town Thursday afternoon, originating in the fields of Fred Van Dusen. At one time the whole grain section of the San Jacinto River and lake region was threatened, but by determined effort a large force of men succeeded in checking the flames and preventing the fire from crossing the river bottom. It is estimated that 500 acres of stubble was burned over, besides considerable grain in the stack was lost. This is the first grain fire of any consequence in the valley for three years.

NEWS BRIEFS.

R. Taylor has sold his property on East Main street to a Los Angeles party for a consideration of $12,000. The new owner will have possession after the 15th inst. C. Z. Sheppard has purchased the improved lots of Geo. Turner on Montrose avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Saver have arrived from Monrovia and will make their home on their three-acre property on North Central avenue. Rev. Oren B. Waite of Los Angeles, who recently invested $11,000 in improved property on Hewitt street, has purchased an additional ten-acre tract adjoining for $4000. Contractor S. J. Libby is completing his new home on Topeka street, and on Main street Gus Matthews is rapidly finishing his new bungalow.

Despite the fact that San Jacinto dairy herds are drawn upon heavily by buyers from the Imperial country each year, dairying continues to play an important part in the business of this section. The two local creameries are doing a splendid business, averaging from eight to ten thousand pounds of butterfat each month. The grade of dairy stock is constantly on the upward trend, and this fact accounts largely for the demand for San Jacinto dairy stock in the Imperial Valley.

Albert and Clarence Pico are in Arizona this week buying cattle for shipment to their Casa Loma Rancho for fattening. The rich, moist fields of that famous rancho, furnish splendid pasturage at a season of the year when other cattle ranges are depleted, and for this reason hundreds of head are brought there each fall to be fattened.

Two carloads of green fruit were shipped from San Jacinto the first of the week, being pears from the Fruitvale section. San Jacinto pears have a reputation for size, flavor and freedom from blight, and this section is declared to be the natural home of the pear by the Farmers' Institutes of the University of California.

LIKE WOLVES THEY COMBAT.

San Bernardino Bull Mooser Seeks Pliable Man.

Mexican Stabbed in Back by Unknown Assailant.

Forger Confesses that Los Angeles was Worked.

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept. 7.—Like a pack of wolves fighting over a heap of bones the Bull Moose leaders leaped at each others throats last night at a hurriedly-called meeting here to select the most pliable candidate for appointment to succeed to the vacancy on the Board of Supervisors made by the recent death of Dr. E. W. Reid of Ioamosa.

At the conference were Dr. W. P Burke, the big Bull Moose of the county, and his lieutenants, E. J. Gilbert, State Treasurer E. D. Roberts, State Senator J. L. Avey and a few others. Mr. Gilbert placed before the meeting the name of H. B. Hanford, a real estate broker recently located at Ontario.

Now, it so happens that the west end of the county is supporting a suggestion that J. C. Jones of Etiwanda receive the appointment, and Jones is a conservative Roosevelt man. But it is claimed that Jones would not prove acceptable to the Bull Moose leaders as he is a conservative. A. M. Ham and other Bull Moose advocates suggested Jones originally. The supposition is that State Treasurer Roberts, State Senator Avey and other leaders are favorable to Mr. Hanford.

Dr. Burke pointed out with indignation that Jones attended the Taft banquet here after the Chicago convention, and a perfect howl of approvals met this announcement. Friends of Jones countered this trust by repeating the history of Jones as one of the original Lincoln-Roosevelt boosters, a staunch supporter of Gov. Hiram Johnson, and a man in whom burns the best of progressive principles.

While no outright declaration has been made it is believed that the Redlands and San Bernardino Bull Moose throng want only a man who will aid in east end of the county politics.

MEXICAN STABBED.

Juan Sanchez was stabbed in the back by an unknown Mexican shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon, in front of the Southern Pacific and Salt Lake depot on Third street. The assault occurred while the street was crowded with pedestrians. Sanchez was talking with other Mexicans and his back was turned to the assailant. The latter brushed aside several white women who were standing close by awaiting a Pacific Electric car. Several women had hysterics as Sanchez fell, bleeding, the knife still sticking in his back to the hilt. Late this afternoon Cericano Ocampos was arrested by the Sheriff's force as a suspect.

RUSSIAN THISTLE.

County Horticultural Commissioner S. A. Pease has been conducting a continuous campaign against the Russian thistle in this county. His report just filed states that districts affected have been gone over for a third time this season. The fumigation of groves and orchards is now under way, and growers generally are joining with the various associations to have the work this season done uniformly.

DON'T SAY A WORD.

George W. Doss, aged 22, and Laura Wilson, 22 years old, were married here today by the Rev. Eli McClish of the First Methodist Church. The young couple had come from Santa Ana, where the groom is employed in the sugar factory. He made an effort to secure secrecy, explaining that the nuptials were a surprise, and that they wanted to keep their secret from their Santa Ana friends for two weeks yet.

CANVASS RETURNS.

The Board of Supervisors is busy canvassing the returns from the recent primary election. That the work will prove tedious is the opinion of those engaged. Already several complications have arisen. In one precinct the voters elected the same candidate as a delegate to both the Republican and Democratic conventions. Just how such a situation is to be settled is a matter which no authority on politics is able to solve.

ANGELENO OPERATOR.

P. H. O'Neill, arrested here by the police last night for having in his possession numerous checks to which the signature of Superior Judge B. F. Bledsoe had been signed, confessed today to having been the penman. He stated that he had operated in Los Angeles extensively.

Fullerton.

ABE PRITCHARD PLEADS SUDDEN LOSS OF MEMORY.

FULLERTON, Sept. 7.—Lapse of memory for a period of several months is the reason assigned by Abe Pritchard, who returned to Fullerton yesterday, for his mysterious disappearance from that city in November of last year.

When Pritchard walked into the office of the Placentia Orange Growers' Association today he was little changed from his appearance on the day he left for Los Angeles to be gone a few hours on business, except that when he went away he wore a new suit. Today he returned clad in very ordinary attire and was sunburned from exposure on the desert in New Mexico.

Pritchard confided first concerning the reason for his absence to his closest friend, Arthur Staley, who was appointed executor of Pritchard's property, by the Superior Court in Orange county. He told Staley that when he left Fullerton he had no intention of going far away. He simply wandered off and traveled from place to place without knowing why.

Pritchard has only a dim recollection of the places in which he has been, but from his conversation it was gathered that he went to Galveston, Tex., afterward east to Tampa, Fla., then started back West. Most of the time was spent in the West.

Some time before Pritchard telegraphed from Loving, N. M., he awakened to a realization of his former life, but apparently felt loth to return under the circumstances, to face the necessity of explaining something about which he was himself in doubt. Finally he telegraphed for money and received a ticket and money in response.

Pritchard regrets deeply the worry which he has caused his friends, because he has done something which he now knows "was not the proper thing," as he expresses it. Pritchard desires to have the affair forgotten and to resume his former place among the people of Fullerton, who greeted him on his return with heartiness that manifestly affected him.

His memory of all his business and personal affairs appears clear as the day he left. Concerning his previous engagement to a Fullerton girl nothing was said on his return.

MUST ANSWER TO CHARGE.

John Williams in Jail at El Centro for Alleged Fraud in Connection With Loan.

EL CENTRO, Sept. 7.—John Williams, who was arrested in Arizona two months ago and brought back to El Centro to answer the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, was given his preliminary examination before Justice Mayfield yesterday afternoon. His bail was fixed at $2000, and his trial was set for November. He has been unable to find bondsmen.

The principal witness in the case is S. H. Embury, who loaned Williams $500. As security Williams gave a mortgage on a ranch in Texas, on which he represented that he held title, having acquired it from the State of Texas. In the preliminary examination it was shown that the land on which Williams gave the mortgage is still held by the State of Texas. An attempt was made by Williams to show that he had made a mistake in the description of the property covered by the mortgage, and that he intended to mortgage another piece of land, which he has since disposed of.

A number of months ago Williams was placed under arrest on the charge of having sold several head of cattle and horses on which he had given a chattel mortgage. He failed to appear on the date set for his trial, leaving his bondsmen to pay his $200 bail. He went to Mexico, but on account of the disturbances there he returned to the United States later, and was apprehended near Globe, Ariz. He was arrested at that place on the second charge, and has since been held in the County Jail at El Centro, awaiting trial.

PROMINENT SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH

Dr. A. J. Shores

THE HEAD AND THROAT.

This form of catarrh is most common, resulting from neglected colds. Quickly cured with little cost by Drs. Shores' famous treatment.

Is your head stopped up?
Does your nose discharge?
Is your nose sore and tender?
Is there pain in front of the head?
Is your throat dry in the morning?
Do you sleep with your mouth open?
You can be easily cured now? Don't let it run into complications.

THE BRONCHIAL TUBES.

When catarrh of the head or throat is neglected or wrongfully treated it extends down the windpipe into the bronchial tubes and after a while attacks the lungs.

Have you a cough?
Do you take cold easily?
Have you a pain in the side?
Do you raise frothy materials?
Do you spit up little cheesy lumps?
Do you feel like you were growing weaker?
Don't risk neglecting these warnings—stop the diseases before it reaches the lungs.

OF THE EARS

Catarrh extends from the throat along the eustachian tubes into the ears, causing partial or complete deafness.

Is your hearing failing?
Do your ears discharge? Do they ring?
Is the wax drying in your ears
Do you hear better on some days?
Does a cold make your hearing worse?
Don't neglect this until your hearing is irreparably destroyed.

OF THE STOMACH

Catarrh of the stomach is usually caused by swallowing poisonous mucous which drops down from the head and throat at night.

Are you constipated?
Is there nausea?
Do you belch up gas?
Do you bloat up after eating?
Is there constant bad taste?
Now is the time to be permanently cured. Drs. Shores are curing hundreds every year.

Dr. G. W. Shores

STOCK LETTER.

[Furnished by Logan & Bryan, Members New York and Boston Stock Exchanges, Bradbury Bldg., Los Angeles.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The buying of the metal issues was the feature of the session, and accompanying the advancing tendencies in same there was a continuance of talk of higher metal prices and consequent larger profits for the principal producers. It is expected that the copper producers' report to be issued next week will reveal further shrinkage in the surplus of the red metal. London sold stocks moderately in the early trading on advices from this side to the effect that the situation in Mexico was far from assuring, but the above pressure did not exert a material influence on the attitude of domestic interests. The bank statement revealed a cash loss larger than generally expected, but the marked contraction in the loan and deposit accounts was reflected in the actual exhibit by a moderate reduction in the surplus reserve, whereas in some quarters it was thought that the surplus reserve this week would be wiped out. The point is made that the trust companies which are now members of the clearinghouse are not legally required to keep a 25 per cent. reserve, but that the bank figures are made upon a basis of a 25 per cent. requirement so that the surplus reserve, while on its face of small proportions, is nevertheless, from a legal standpoint, greater than it appears. The Maine election and the government crop report will perhaps have the influence of forcing the market, at least for a short period, out of the rut.

LOS ANGELES STOCK EXCHANGE.

Amalgamated and Associated Are Strong Features—Trading Territory Somewhat Extended.

There was more trading Saturday than for some time on that day of the week, and the market appears at last to be showing a general awakening. Amalgamated oil stock was again the strong feature, probably because of the dividend of $1 a share which has been declared. This stock sold at $83 with the exception of ten shares which went for $83.25. Altogether 280 shares changed hands. Associated Oil was another strong seller, fifty shares being traded at $43.75. Ten shares of American Petroleum Common sold at $49.25, twenty-one Union Oil at $98.25, thirty-five Traders Oil at $70 and 6000 National Pacific at 3⅝. One thousand shares of Consolidated Mines went for 4 cents a share. Off-board sales were as follows: Eighty shares of Amalgamated Oil at $83, seller 20; thirty Mexican Petroleum Common, $82; twenty Union Oil, $98.25, and three $1000 United States Long Distance Telephone and Telegraph bonds at 75. The exchange will hold no session tomorrow—Admission Day.

COPPER INDUSTRY.

[Furnished by E. F. Hutton & Co., Members New York Stock Exchange, 118 West Fourth street, Los Angeles.]

To facilitate in the new milling operations which are under way at the Braden property, the management has determined to experiment on finer grinding, and one Hardinge mill and one 22-foot tube mill have already been shipped to the property. It is believed that when these are installed the extraction will be considerably higher than the 80 per cent. which is now being obtained. When these experiments on grinding have been completed, provided that the results by the new method continue satisfactory, it is the intention to proceed with the equipment of the entire mill by the new Mineral Separation Company's process.

Copper Range will undoubtedly go back on a $4 dividend basis this fall. Seventeen and three-quarter-cent copper has increased its surplus to a point when the old 4 per cent. rate can be paid.

Old Dominion directors meet in two weeks and will undoubtedly decide to place the stock on a $5 dividend basis, and in comparison with other $5 dividend paying coppers the stock is low.

Some knowledge of the Kearsarge lode developments at the Isle Royale should be known this week. Finding the lode would add immeasurably to the speculative possibilities of Isle Royale, while if it is not found Isle Royale will be no worse off. In other words, it's a case of everything to gain and nothing to lose.

There seems to be something more back of the strength of Amalgamated Copper and Anaconda Copper than mere belief that dividends will be increased in the near future. Anaconda directors are scheduled to meet this month, and prospects are that a dividend at the rate of $3 a share will be declared. Amalgamated directors meet in October, and the stock is likely to go on a 6 per cent. basis. Later on, if conditions warrant such action, there will be a further increase in disbursements. But reports that developments more important are under way are becoming persistent. One rumor has it that Anaconda contemplates absorption of other mines, including Greene-Cananea, North Butte, Inspiration and Calumet & Arizona. A merger of these properties with Anaconda would not be a difficult matter, as they are controlled largely by interests identified with the Amalgamated properties. For several weeks there has been heavy buying of Greene-Cananea, and many thousand shares have been purchased by interests supposed to be identified with the Rockefeller group. Should Anaconda absorb the larger so-called Cole-Ryan copper properties, it could easily control a production of 500,000,000 pounds annually, or approximately one-third of the total refinery output of the United States. The rise in Amalgamated and Anaconda has also been accompanied by the old story that Amalgamated will be dissolved and the assets distributed among the shareholders. Amalgamated owns approximately two shares of Anaconda for each share of its own stock, which would simplify an exchange on a basis of two for one. Naturally the dissolution of Amalgamated would be followed by a distribution of valuable cash assets. As an example, Amalgamated on April 30 last reported cash and cash assets of $15,681,000, against which there were $12,500,000 notes payable, and $5,000,000 of accounts payable. But there are included in Amalgamated's investments and securities other valuable assets, including International Smelting and Refining and Greene-Cananea shares, which, based on market quotations, would give the shareholders a very handsome dividend aside from the exchange of their stock for Anaconda. Wall street has it that Anaconda stock will be distributed on a basis of two for one, and that in addition Amalgamated will distribute other assets, which will be equivalent to something like $14 a share. This, of course, is pure gossip.

Boston Copper Market.

BOSTON (Mass.) Sept. 7.—Amalgamated led the trade list today and insiders are talking much higher prices for next week. Butte and Superior was accumulated all day by the locals, who have been prominent in financing the property.

New York Cotton Market.

[Furnished by E. F. Hutton & Co., Members New York Stock Exchange, 118 West Fourth street, Los Angeles.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The most interesting feature of the season just closed was the extraordinary and far-reaching export demand. In circular of January 7 and also in April 15 the season's probable exports were estimated at 10,500,000 bales, placing probable consumption by American mills, at 5,500,000 bales. In his annual statement made up to the close of the season, August 31, Secretary King of the New York Cotton Exchange, places actual exports for the season at 10,502,172 bales, and the actual consumption of American mills at 5,541,500 bales. The total commercial crop was placed at 16,100,874 bales. Thus it will be seen that virtually the entire commercial crop has been taken care of by the world's consuming interests. The crops of 1906, 1907 and 1908 aggregated 38,900,000 bales, while the crops of 1909, 1910 and 1911 aggregated 38,800,000 bales. From this it will be seen that the supply for the three-year period just ended was no greater than for the three-year period preceding. In 1908 the world consumed 13,100,000 bales, last year the world's consumption was 14,600,000 bales. In 1909 a small crop was produced and the price advanced to 20 cents per pound. At the beginning of the season 1909 the visible supply of American cotton was 1,440,000 bales. At the beginning of the present season it was only 1,200,000 bales, and should the crop of 1912-13 prove to be less than 13,500,000, it is thought that the price will advance to about 13 cents per pound before the first of January, 1913.

Trade is good all over the world, and Liverpool correspondents writing under date of August 17, say that manufacturers of cotton goods are commanding their own prices and are likely to continue to do so. Supplementing these advices Liverpool cabled today: "Manchester active, large turn over. Fine goods for India in good demand at prices showing increased margin of profit. Orders coming in fast. Very hopeful feeling is expressed, but the trade believes in lower prices and is leaving forward sales mostly uncovered."

From this it is apparent that there is not only a tremendous short interest in futures, but manufacturers have sold heavy on goods and are waiting a break to buy the raw material.

New York Curb Stocks.

[Furnished by E. F. Hutton & Co., Members New York Stock Exchange, 118 West Fourth street, Los Angeles.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The principal activity in today's market was confined to United Cigar Store, British-American Tobacco and some of the smaller priced coppers. The general market was steady with fractional changes. The Boston market was strong with considerably increased activity and with prices improving fractionally from the opening. Butte and Superior was again the strong feature, selling up to 48. Other Lake coppers improved on buying orders. Chino made another new high record, selling above 43. Ray was steady around 21⅝. The advance in Chino was the feature of the New York market. The advance being based on large earnings and talk of dividends this fall.

MOVEMENT IS NARROW ON NEW YORK EXCHANGE.

Two-Hour Session Represents Little More Than Week-End Settlement of Brokers' Agreements. Contraction of Loans Works for Better Showing by Banks.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, September 7.—The dullness and irregularity of today's stock market was in keeping with the preceding days of the week, the low ebb of business being a natural outcome of the diminished attendance of members of the exchange and the absence of demand from outside sources. In effect, the two-hour session represented little more than the usual week-end settlement of contracts entered into by the professional element in which a faction of formidable proportions seems to have arrayed itself on the bear or selling side.

At the outset there was a renewal of recent pressure upon Canadian Pacific, U. S. Steel and Union Pacific, while other representative stocks moved with the most circumscribed limits. Some of the specialties were again distinguished for their erratic course, Sears Roebuck and Chino Copper scoring new high records, while American Tobacco declined sharply.

Trading came to an absolute halt before the end of the first hour, after which the market moved inertly except for a sudden spurt in the entire copper group, which probably had its basis in the expectation of a favorable statement by the Producers' Association next Monday. The balance of the list rose in sympathy, obliterating most losses.

An actual cash loss of $16,845,000 or more than double the highest estimate, was the striking feature of the bank statement, which showed a $23,000,000 loan contraction, thereby largely offsetting the previous unfavorable showing.

There was further pressure against certain bond issues but in the main the tone was improved. U. S. bonds were unchanged on the week.

RESERVE IS DOWN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The Financier says this week: Despite a drastic curtailment of loans, amounting for the week to $23,013,000, the surplus reserve of New York clearinghouse banks was further reduced according to the statement of actual conditions rendered Saturday by the sum of $1,888,050, which brings the excess above the 25 per cent. minimum to $3,751,150, the lowest reached at this season for a number of years. Chief interest in the statement centered around the item of cash. It was known the banks had lost heavily during the week but the actual decrease of $16,875,000 reported was larger than anticipated. This falling off represents, of course, demands from the interior, which are likely to continue for some time to come. The statement based on the system of daily averages differed in a large measure from the exhibit of the actual conditions—loans in the average statement having decreased a little less than $10,000,000, while the cash loss was in excess of $11,000,000, bringing about a fall in deposits of $21,000,000.

Charter Problems.

CHANGES FRONT ON UTILITIES.

FREEHOLDERS' BOARD DROPS A RADICAL CLAUSE.

Scratches Proposed Declaration that It Shall Be City's Policy to Own All Utilities—Adopts Provision for Assessments to Acquire Railways, Etc.

The City Board of Freeholders determined yesterday afternoon to eliminate from the charter draft on franchises the opening clause, in which it was declared that it shall be the policy of the city to own all public utilities, either within or without the city, which can be conveniently operated by private parties only by virtue of franchises or other special privileges granted by public authority; and that the election laws, except the initiative, referendum and recall, shall be placed in the administrative code, so that the citizens may change their election system at will, by ordinance, without the necessity of amending the charter.

The board also voted to adopt a provision whereby the city may levy special assessments upon properties benefitted, on a majority of such properties, for the purpose of acquisition, construction, extension or betterment of public utilities, or that it may levy a special tax for this special purpose on all property subject to general taxation. The specific tax on the property of any district shall not be subject to the limitations on the general tax rate prescribed by the charter or otherwise by law.

When the board met last Wednesday the proposition of announcing the city's policy to be that of owning all public utilities was discussed. When the vote was taken it was a tie, and it was decided that the vote of the absent member—W. G. Hutchison—should decide the fate of this clause.

Hutchison was present yesterday and after the arguments previously presented had been reviewed by President Haynes, Hutchison voted against the clause. The majority of the committee believe that the city should have power to acquire any public utility if it so desires, but that the policy in regard to the acquirement should be left to the time the question develops. This was also the attitude taken by various civic bodies which have sent representatives to address the board.

Commissioner Wheeler, Socialist candidate for Congress, who will leave today for an eight-weeks' campaign, made a last effort to pave the way for proportional representation, for which he has ardently worked since the beginning of the board's labors. He submitted the provisions that all matters pertaining to elections, with the exception of the initiative, referendum and recall, be placed in the administrative code, and this was adopted, so that the Socialists may still advocate their plan for proportional representation without having to demand an amendment to the charter.

Wheeler also presented a clause declaring that the city shall have power to prescribe its offices and determine the number of its officers, their functions, duties, terms of office, and their compensation, and the manner and time of their election or appointment. The possibilities of interpreting this so as to practically revolutionize the governmental machinery under certain contingencies caused the board to withhold indorsement, and the clause was finally referred to the Law Committee.

The subject of the city's acquiring terminals of interurban roads was discussed. Commissioner Works took the position that the city should not undertake to acquire such terminals unless it also shall undertake to acquire the interurban roads centering here. The entire clause was finally referred to the Franchise Committee for redrafting.

Wheeler announced that it would be impossible to give further time to the board's meetings, because of his absence from the city, and offered to tender his resignation. The board voted not to receive this, but empowered Wheeler to name some person to represent him at the future metings of the charter revisionists, so that the views for which he stands may be presented when occasion requires.

The Right Idea.

OUR OWNERSHIP IS LEGITIMATE.

AMERICANS THE ONES TO USE THE PANAMA CANAL.

British Contention for Free Passage Is Absurd, Says French Diplomat—If France Had Completed Big Ditch War Might Have Resulted, Is His Opinion.

"Had France completed the Panama Canal it would have meant an ultimate war with the United States," declared Vicomte Benoist d'Azy, naval attache of the French Embassy at Washington, who, for several months has been studying the Panama Canal at close range, having, for some time, been the personal guest of Col. Goethals. With Vicomtesse d'Azy he is staying at the Van Nuys, a splendid gentleman and a thorough scholar, conversant with many of the deeper details of diplomatic relationships among nations.

"My statement may sound strange," he said in his clear, measured English, "but anyone who has given the matter much thought can readily come to a similar conclusion when he recognizes the needs of the United States in protecting its seaboard and building up its maritime strength. These needs would become greater as time transpired and it would have been only a matter of years when diplomatic bickerings would finally have lead to a clash."

The matter of giving English shipping the same rights of passage through the Panama Canal as that enjoyed by ships of this country over which there has been much contention, threats of discussion before The Hague tribunal, and international complications, was laughed at by the French official.

"It should never even be said that the United States is violating the Hay-Pauncefote treaty," said Vicomte d'Azy. "There is a far better method at hand and one which only one or the other of the American statesman seem to have considered and that is an equable ship-subsidy.

"It is a well-known fact that various nations, whose ships are using the Suez Canal are paying a subsidy which exactly corresponds to the toll charged. Never has anything been said about discrimination in this matter. Why should the same thing not be applied by the United States to its maritime commerce through the Panama Canal? It would obviate the necessity for swinging the big stick and declaring to all the world that Americans are supreme and what we cannot do by right we can accomplish by might. The United States is the land in which fair play is always to be found and the people here are generally fair in all matters of this character."

The remarks of the naval man regarding the actual development of the canal resolved themselves into a eulogy of Col. Goethals.

"He exemplifies the fairness of Americans," declared Vicomte d'Azy. "As a man he has a personality molded or fashioned after no other I have yet met. He is direct, incisive and calm. He gives credit where it is due and consequently is loved by every man in the district, from the humble day laborer to the chief executive of his staff. Much of the wonderful achievement at the canal can be ascribed directly to him."

The vicomte was a delegate to the International Navigation Congress held in Philadelphia last May and is particularly interested in harbor development. He is in Los Angeles to inspect the work which is being done at San Pedro and from here will proceed to the other harbor cities of the Coast.

PERSONALS.

Eugene L. Harris, a political leader in Texas, who aspired to the State Senatorship on the Republican party ticket in the El Paso district, is passing a few days at the Hayward while here on business. William D. Gilliam, a grain operator of St. Paul, with his wife is staying at the same hotel. O. T. Miller, an oil operator of Bakersfield and Weed Gradner of the same place are at the hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. O'Brien are staying at the Lankershim, accompanied by their daughter, Miss Marguerite. O'Brien is interested in mining at Pioneer, Nev. Drayton D. Whitten, proprietor of the Hemet Hotel at Hemet, is passing a few days at the same hotel. C. N. Garden is a mining man of Rhyolite, who is registered at the hotel.

Harry Loomis, proprietor of the Angelus, has just returned from a tour of the Owens River Valley and observation of his ranch near Bishop, which he is developing by the installation of several wells. He was made a member of the committee on arrangements which will have charge of the entertainment of the Southern California Editorial Association when that body visits the Valley in October.

E. L. Potter, proprietor of the Van Nuys, left yesterday for the East with Mrs. Potter. He will visit his interests in Florida before returning here. Carl Knappe, manager of the hotel, has just returned from a shooting trip in the northern portion of the State and Allen Pedersen, the assistant manager, has arrived from a goat shooting and fishing trip around San Clemente Island.

L. R. Markman is passing a few days at the Westminster, where he is registered from Oklahoma City. He is interested in cattle and land operations and is here to visit friends. James Doherty, chief clerk of the hotel, has returned after several weeks' absence.

Karl Feistkorn, interested in the production of cotton in California, registered at the Hollenbeck from Gera, Germany, where he is operator of a cotton manufacturing plant. A. L. Angledow, who is developing a large potash deposit near Calzona; D. Kuhnle, a collier of Swansea, Wales, with his family, and A. A. Chubb, a cattle operator of Lauder, Wyo., are staying at the hotel.

Among the foreign arrivals who are making their home at the Alexandria while in Los Angeles are James Cunningham of Glasgow, S. K. Dahl of Guadalupe, Mex.; Blythe M. Burns of Panama and Charles F. Preusser, a German official who has been passing some time in the Philippines, and is registered from Manila. Dr. A. W. Dwyer and William B. Hart are registered from Perth, Ont., and Dr. and Mrs. D. C. R. Gleason are down from San Francisco.

Mrs. C. P. Schermerhorn and daughter, Marian, left Friday for Washington. Mrs. Schermerhorn will place her daughter in school in the national capital.

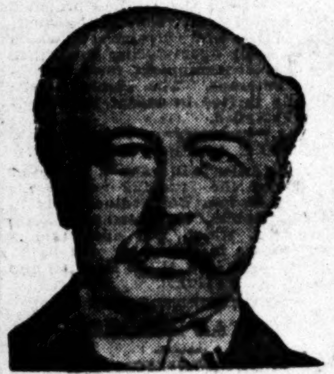
BARTLETT'S BIG BEFORE SCHOOL SALE NOTICE.

Piles, Fistula, Fissures and Hernia



H. J. TILLOTSON, M.D.
[Established 31 Years.]

I publish my photograph, personally conduct my office. I am the longest established, most successful and reliable, as medical credentials and press records prove, I possess skill and experience acquired in such a way that no other can share. Experience is the safe standard by which judgment should be valued.

NO MONEY REQUIRED TO COMMENCE TREATMENT. Many patients have no confidence in their doctor because he demands pay before a cure has been effected, and there are many who have been misinformed about their condition, or through unsuccessful treatment have become skeptical and think there is no cure for them. I want an opportunity to treat such cases. It makes no difference about the financial part, as I accept pay for my services as benefits are derived, when I am satisfied the patient is reliable. I will prove my ability to cure you before asking pay for my services.

Most Time Saving, Most Natural, Most Safe. No Detention from Occupation, Family or Home. A Radical and Permanent Cure.

I invite you to come to my office. I will explain my treatment for Hernia, Piles, Fistula, Varicose Veins, Pelvic, Nervous, Blood, Kidney, Bladder and Rectal Diseases.

Piles, Fistula, Rectal Diseases.

These diseases are very common; most frequently found in persons of middle or advanced age; are exceedingly annoying, often very painful, and sometimes very dangerous, and frequently unfit one for pleasure or occupation. My treatment and successes are the result of years of experience; my treatment is kindly applied. I cure Piles without cutting. If I do not cure your Piles, Fistula and other Rectal Diseases, my treatment does not cost you anything. Gentleness in treatment comes from treating many cases. I guarantee a cure of Piles, Fistula, Ulcers and all curable Rectal Diseases.

Trusses Seldom Cure Rupture.

Disregard for existing Hernias has cost many lives. The smallest hernias are the most dangerous, because of the increased liability to strangulation. I am aware that a great deal of fraud has been practiced in connection with the alleged cure of rupture. I say positively that I cure Rupture, to stay cured. I cure with perfect safety, and entail no suffering, and do not detain you from occupation.

WRITTEN GUARANTEE.

Dr. Tillotson's written guarantee means a cure or no pay for services. I guarantee to cure certain diseases or refund every dollar you have paid me. My services cost you nothing unless I cure your Varicose Veins, Hernia, Piles, Fissures, Fistula or any disease I guarantee to cure. My terms are reasonable and no more than you are willing and able to pay.

Tagging a Feature.

Twenty-six thousand tags were provided and the greater number of them sold at the Catholic picnic at Redondo Beach yesterday. The sale was made to augment the building fund of St. James' parish. The third picture from the left is Judge Paul McCormick, the next Councilman Topham, the next to right, Councilman Betkouski, and at his left stands Bishop Conaty.

Redondo Beach.

CATHOLICS AT REDONDO BEACH.

Thousands Participate in Annual Picnic on Sands.

Los Angeles Orators Recount Record of Church.

Athletic Events Marked by Much Interest.

REDONDO BEACH, Sept. 7.—Bright-eyed babies, each looking its best for the baby show, pretty girls selling tags for a church fund, dignified members of the clergy, staid professional business men and busy housewives, off for an outing, formed the happy crowd that thronged the beach today when the annual Catholic reunion picnic of Southern California was held here. And from the youngest baby present to the beloved bishop of the diocese, the Rt. Rev. Thomas J. Conaty, D.D., there did not seem to be one person but was enjoying the day hugely.

Although the attendance was not as large as in former years, owing to the fact that the picnic had been postponed from August 24 on account of the infantile paralysis epidemic and consequently many had changed their plans, this fact did not detract from the pleasure of the day, which President D. F. McLaughlin of the Picnic Association described in a gratified way as a "howling success."

The day's programme started out with the baby show, always a big event in the Catholic picnics, and today's show was exceptionally interesting. Every baby entered was a prize-winner, as the judges wisely decided that each of the pretty, bright-faced youngsters deserved a trophy and gave to the first four first prize-winners silver cups, and to the others ivory rattles. The first prizes were awarded as follows: Boys under 1 year, Clair Benton Bentley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bentley of Los Angeles; girls under 1 year, Dorothy Gertrude Fitzpatrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Fitzpatrick of Los Angeles; boys under 2 years, Joseph Alker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Alker of Los Angeles; girls under 2 years, Elizabeth Kels, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kels of Glendale.

The judges of this important event were Mrs. M. A. Eckles, Mrs. M. J. Gonzalez, Mrs. Ella Keppel. George Bertonneau was chairman of the committee.

A short programme of addresses was given in the big auditorium of the pavilion at 1 o'clock. Mayor J. H. Cavanah welcomed the visitors to the city and spoke of the honor conferred upon the city by the Catholics in coming here for the past six years for the annual outing. He expressed the hope that they would come so often it would become a habit and he turned over the city to the picnickers for the day.

Miss Bess Harvey sang "The Rosary" and in response to the appreciative applause sang "Where the River Shannon Flows." Miss Harvey has a lyric soprano voice of exceptional sweetness and her numbers were warmly appreciated.

President D. F. McLaughlin, who presided as master of ceremonies, then introduced the orator of the day, Judge Paul J. McCormick. Judge McCormick congratulated the citizens of Redondo Beach upon the way they had entertained the Catholic picnics in the past and said it was typical of the great southwest. He also congratulated the committees who had charge of the picnic, who, by their assiduous work and energetic zeal had made this picnic the success it promised to be. He then spoke of the object of the picnic, that of becoming better acquainted. He said, "Picnics are good things, as it is good to become acquainted with one another, and the spirit of tolerance that prevails in this country is enhanced when people of all faiths meet in social intercourse as today.

"Our churches are not social meeting places, only places of worship, and social ties are not promoted there, so it is necessary to encourage and conserve the social tie. Therefore, it is eminently necessary to bring the Catholics together in such gatherings as today. Many friendships are formed, old friendships renewed and present friendships cemented the more closely by these reunions"

President McLaughlin then introduced the bishop as "one of the greatest men in Southern California, our Good Shepherd, the Rt. Rev. Bishop Thomas J. Conaty."

Bishop Conaty said there had been a distinct understanding between him and the committee that he was not to make a speech, that Judge McCormick was to be the orator of the day. He laughingly referred to Judge McCormick's remarks in which he said he would defer to the bishop and said that McCormick, like the good boy he was, "put it onto father, after all" and so proved the fallacy of the song, "Everybody Works But Father." He expressed his pleasure at seeing so large a crowd and then referred to Judge McCormic in appreciative terms. He said that, although Judge McCormick described himself as "a man without a pedigree," he was satisfied to take the judge without a pedigree and award him all judicial honors for his splendid personal work. That pedigree is good enough for any of us," he said.

He read a telegram from the Pope in reply to a message of love which the bishop had sent for the people of the diocese. The telegram was as follows: "The Holy Father affectionately thanks you and sends his blessings. Cardinal Merry Del Val."

He called the attention of the people to the mass meeting to be held tomorrow at 3 o'clock under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus at the auditorium in Los Angeles, in honor of the veterans of the Grand Army. "There is no more beautiful flag in the world than Old Glory, no greater country than our beloved America and no citizenship of higher merit than that which you and I enjoy," he said.

This meeting he said was particularly out of respect to Hon. John E. Gilman of Boston, a Past Commander-in-Chief of the G.A.R. and a Knight of Columbus. He also announced that at the cathedral Sunday morning a Grand Army veteran Department Chaplain of Massachusetts, Father Joshua Bodfish of Boston would deliver a sermon.

The exercises closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner led by Miss Harvey and the orchestra.

TAG SALES.

A fund for a new church in this city was started today with a very material amount through the efforts of the young women of the St. James Parish of this city who sold tags throughout the day. The plan was that of Rev. Father James A. O'Callaghan, priest of the parish, under whose pastorate the congregation has grown so that a new church is necessary. Everybody here was tagged by the charming young women who appeared to have an unlimited supply of the tags. By evening about 26,000 of the tags had been sold. Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Martin had charge of the tags which were sold by Mrs. J. I. Lechner, Mrs. Edward Lechner, Miss Alice Tupper, Misses Esther and Viola Albright, Miss Rose Reinbolt, Miss May Murray, Misses May and Hannah McElligott, Misses Margaret and Joana McGreal, Miss Ada Schallert, Misses Evangeline and Aurelie Veilleux, Misses Teresa and Irene McElligott, all of Redondo Beach; Miss Hazel Smith, Los Angeles; Mrs. McIsaacs, Ocean Park; Mrs. Wismer, Ocean Park; Miss Alice McGreal, Los Angeels; Mrs. J. Meeliam, Misses Elizabeth and Mamie Hewitt of Bakersfield.

The members of the church hope to build a new edifice and hold the first services in it by Easter, the church to cost about $10,000.

The sports programme which was in charge of Thomas Nash was of great interest. Of the events the most interesting was a foot race of veterans of the Grand Army. This, a dash of 100 yards, was won by J. L. Smith of Detroit, who was given a loving cup by President McLaughlin on behalf of the Knights of Columbus. Smith's competitor was Pierce Gardner, another veteran of the Civil War, whose home is in Redondo Beach.

At noon a banquet was served at Hotel Redondo, at which the bishop was guest of honor. About 125 guests were present, including the clergy and members of the committees and their wives. The visiting clergy were: Rt. Rev. T. J. Conaty, Rev. J. A. Riordan, Rev. P. J. O'Reilly, Rev. Father O'Garman, Rev. William Lord, Rev. Father O'Toole, Rev. P. O'Flynn, Rev. M. J. Conneally, Rev. T. Morris, Rev. Father Hegarty, Rev. Father Volbert, O.S.B. Rev. Father Raphael, O.S.B. Rev. Father Grotias, O.S.B. Rev. Father Le Sage, Rev. Father Gorrell, Rev. Father Diego, Rev. Father Domingo, Rev. J. A. O'Callaghan, Rev. Francis Conaty, Rev. J. J. Clifford, Rev. R. Gleason S. J. Rev. Father Theophilus, Rev. B. J. McGrath, Rev. B. J. Schiaparelli, Rev. J. Deenihan, Rev. G. Bergan, Rev. James O'Veil, Rev. P. Pierce, Rev. J. J. Lucy, Rev. C. J.Marcemak, Rev. Dr. Cotter, Rev. G. Donohue.

NEW SERVICE IS STARTED.

Danish Steamer Kina Arrives and this Inaugurates Work of New Line from Copenhagen.

SAN PEDRO, Sept. 7.—The Danish steamer Kina, Capt. Hausen, 3020 tons, arrived this morning out 103 days from Copenhagen, via Antwerp and South America ports after an uneventful voyage. The Kina will discharge 800 tons of miscellaneous cargo and 250 tons of coke at the outer harbor dock for Los Angeles importers and will then proceed for San Francisco, carrying several thousands additional tons consigned to Parrot & Company.

The arrival of the Kina inaugurates the service of the East Asiatic Company of Copenhagen between European ports, San Pedro and San Francisco. The steamers Arabian and Bangor, will also be operated by this company at present and with the opening of the Panama Canal, the East Asiatic Company will dispatch at least two vessels each month from European ports to the Pacific Coast.

Los Angeles' cool spot, Hotel Congress. Eighth and Flower streets.

East or West, Coronado is best.

DORSHEI TOVE SERVICES.

The newly organized Hebrew Modern Orthodox Congregation Dorshei Tove of the west side, will hold divine services during the coming high holidays Rosh Hashana and Yom Kippur at the Gamut Club auditorium, Eleventh and Hope streets, commencing Wednesday at 6 p.m. The services will be conducted by Rev. A. Arndt, who will also deliver a course of lectures both in the English and Jewish languages. Rev. M. Kaplan, son of the world's renowned blind Cantor, will chant the Mussaf prayers. Families who cannot afford to pay for seats should apply to Rev. A. Arndt, No. 1010 Valencia street, who has reserved a number of seats scattered throughout the auditorium for all those desiring to attend the services.

STANTON POST REST ROOM.

Stanton Post, G.A.R., has provided a comfortable rest room in the Auditorium, Fifth and Olive streets, which will be kept open during the entire time of the encampment, for the benefit of veterans. The comrades are cordially invited to accept the hospitality extended.

STEINWAY
—the World's Standard Piano

THE Steinway Piano is owned and controlled by the Steinway Family. For Four Generations it has been made by Steinways—and today it is being made by Steinways. If you were to go to New York tomorrow to interview any of the Eight Direct Descendants of the Steinway Family now actively engaged in the business, you would be obliged to seek out Mr. Fred Steinway, Vice President of the House, at the Factory—where you would find him personally engaged in supervising the construction of Steinway Pianos. There, also, you would find Mr. Theodore Steinway, and also Three Other Members of the Steinway Family: Mr. Charles Steinway, President of the Institution, would be at the New York Office. Mr. William Steinway, of the Fourth Generation, would be directing the business of the Company in Europe.

What better testimony to the value of an instrument can you give than the fact that it is produced under the personal supervision of the men whose name it bears—and whose sole aim in life is to maintain the standard of the Steinway, the World's Best Piano? Too many instruments of today bear ONLY THE NAME of the original makers, who have long since passed beyond—the instrument itself having gone into the hands of other owners who, instead of maintaining former quality, have commercialized it.

BULL MOOSE LEADERS TO FACE GRAND JURY.

Charges of Brazen Election Frauds Stir Official to Action.

Mass of Evidence Now in Hands of District Attorney to Show Theft Plot in Over Two Hundred Precincts of City and County—Gangsters to Be Given Chance to Explain Their Noisome Methods.

A THOROUGH investigation of the sensational charges made to the District Attorney's office that so-called Progressive leaders and henchmen openly violated the law in last Tuesday's election will probably be begun by the grand jury tomorrow afternoon.

A mass of evidence purporting to show that the members of the Lissner machine brazenly violated the law in over 200 precincts in the city and county in carrying out the plot to steal the election has been filed with Chief Deputy District Attorney Hanna, who is handling the matter. Hanna declared yesterday that he will place the evidence before Dist.-Atty. Fredericks, who is due to arrive in the city tomorrow morning, after a period of recuperation from a surgical operation.

It is intimated that scores of election officials and Lissner machine workers will be subpoenaed to testify before the grand jury and tell why they handed out "Progressive" literature, pasters and marked ballots in the polling places as charged by hundreds of Republican voters.

Several interested citizens already have sworn to affidavits alleging willful violations of the law by "Progressive" workers and have taken the matter up with the District Attorney's office.

VOTERS DENIED RIGHTS.

Numerous complaints have also been received by Hanna from a score of voters who declare that election officials in certain precincts when warned that they were violating the law in passing out "Progressive" literature and marked ballots declared that they received the literature with the supplies sent from the County Clerk's office. This is asserted in affidavits sworn to by Francis Marshall, a real estate dealer, and Col. W. H. Holabird. And this phase of the question will probably be thoroughly looked into by the inquisitors. County Clerk Lelande vigorously denies that "Progressive" campaign material was sent out with the election supplies.

Prosecution of lax election officials may also be instituted by the District Attorney because of the confusion which resulted at the polls because of the non-appearance of the appointed officers. Complainants have informed Hanna that less than one-half of the election officials were on hand when the polls were opened Tuesday morning. Hundreds of voters in many precincts were compelled to stand in line waiting for the election officials to put in an appearance. In Precinct No. 125 one lone judge was on hand at the appointed hour and twenty persons who called to vote were denied the privilege, and left in disgust. Hundreds of similar instances occurred in different parts of the city, according to the voters who have complained to the District Attorney's office.

VIOLATION IS CHARGED.

The law governing the punishment of election officers who fail to do their duty reads: "Any person who refuses to act upon such board, after proper notification of his appointment, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be subject to a fine of $500, and upon the failure to pay said fine shall be imprisoned for the period of one day for each dollar of said fine."

Chief Deputy Hanna has evidence in his possession purporting to show that the election laws were violated by certain "Progressive" officials at the following precinct polling places: Nos. 150, 154, 160, 161, 163, 138, 179, 164, 7, 88, 141, 142, 144, 352, and from 189 to 207 inclusive, and from 256 to 265 inclusive. Complaints have also been lodged with the District Attorney's office that nearly all of the election officials in the Sixty-third Assembly District violated the law in passing out "Progressive" cards and marked ballots. Hanna has received notice that in a large number of the election booths large lithographs of Roosevelt, Johnson and other third-party candidates plastered the walls in full view of the voters.

GRAND JURY INQUIRY?

"So many serious complaints have been made to this office about the methods employed by certain election workers," said Hanna, "that I have decided to take the matter up with Capt. Fredericks with a view of having the grand jury investigate the charge. If any of the charges is true it is almost certain that legal proceedings will be instituted against the guilty men.

"I have received hundreds of com-

GOV. ALVARADO'S FIRST FLAG DISCOVERED; HERE.

This Is Gov. Alvarado's Flag.

It will be exhibited for the first time tomorrow (Admission Day.) Hector Alliot, curator of the Southwest Museum, is shown holding this, the original flag of the first "Free and Sovereign State of California," which has been unearthed at San Diego. Crudely made of coarse materials, it is declared to be the original flag made for the revolutionary Governor in 1836.

WHAT is believed to be the original flag that floated over Los Angeles and the first "free and sovereign State of California," has been discovered and will be on exhibition in this city tomorrow, Admission Day.

In 1836 Juan Bautista Alvarado, an employee in the Mexican customhouse at Monterery, became involved in a difficulty with Gov. Gutierrez, and being threatened with arrest and imprisonment, set up a revolutionary party, captured the capital fort at Monterey and declared himself Governor. He maintained his position as Pretty Key to Romance of Prison Bars.

Do You Know This Girl's Name?

It is the picture found in the possession of Clarence T. Hutchins, son of a wealthy Arizona man and a resident of Los Angeles for the past five years, but who is now in jail in Denver on a swindling charge. He admits that girl is his fiancee and that she lives in or near this city.

Who Is She?

SEEK PRETTY GIRL FOR SOLUTION OF SWINDLE.

THE picture of a pretty dark-haired girl, whose lips show just the trace of a smile, may be the key to the cell of a Los Angeles youth who is now a prisoner in a Denver jail. Clarence T. Hutchins, son of a wealthy resident of Arizona who has been living in Los Angeles for the past five years, is the central figure in the case. He is under arrest in the Mile-High City on a charge of swindling.

The girl is said to be living at Redondo Beach and Hutchins claims that he is engaged to be married to her. Friends of Hutchins who have seen the pcture of the girl say that they have seen her in his company several times but declare that they knew nothing of the engagement.

Hutchins will not tell the name of the young woman and the only clew to her identity is the picture which the police found in the possession of the prsoner. When he was asked who the girl is Hutchins broke down and cried. He said that the girl had promised to marry him and that when she heard of his arrest and disgrace that she would probably break their engagement.

"I am innocent of any wrongdoing," said Hutchins, as he paced the floor of his cell in the Denver police station, "but the police here will not believe my story. When I was arrested I had the picture of the girl I am to marry in my pocket. The police took the picture away from me. I would rather die than tell who she is. She is a good girl and my arrest will simply break her heart. If I could only see her and explain things I know that she would believe me."

Hutchins told a friend in the jail that the girl whose picture he carried was Geneva Blaire and that she lived near Los Angeles. He would not give her address to the police and when asked if her name was Blaire, declared that he would not tell.

According to the police, Hutchins's victim was Edward Perry, Broadway and Eleventh street, this city. Hutchins did not appear personally, according to the police, but he introduced Perry to a man named Houston, it is claimed, who victimized Perry to the extent of several hundred dollars by a fake sale.

After the sale Houston disappeared. Hutchins said that he suspected that something was wrong and that when he found that Houston had left Los Angeles he went to the police and told them all the facts in the case.

Hutchins has employed a firm of Denver lawyers to represent him in court and says that he will clear himself of the charge brought against him. He says that his father will advance the money for his defense and that he will be able to show that Houston deceived him into believing that the auto sold was his personal property. The police think that if they can locate the girl it will go far toward establishing through her evidence the actual circumstances and the guilt or innocence of young Hutchins.

IRRIGATION CONGRESS.

Problems of the Soil Uppermost in the Programme Arranged for Annual Convention This Month.

The National Irrigation Congress, which will meet the 30th inst. for a week in Salt Lake City, is to be one of the most important since the birth of the Congress twenty-one years ago in the Utah city.

During the life of the organized irrigationists much has been accomplished. It has fostered the national reclamation act, the Carey act and other legislation important in the back-to-the-land movement. The total investment in irrigation work at the present time is over $600,000,000, and the irrigated area 14,000,000 acres.

Many subjects of national moment and of unusual interest to the irrigationist will be discussed at the coming meeting, among the topics assigned to world-wide authorities being the "Irrigation of the Great West," "Storing of the Floods," "Preservation of the Forests," "Opportunity to Build New Homes," and "Heeding the Call of the Landless Man for the Manless Land."

Besides the serious business of the convention the people of Utah have arranged a programme of entertainment beginning with an illuminated parade on the first night of the congress, this to be followed by the presentation of the irrigation queen, pageant of the Mighty Wizard of the Wasatch and exhibit of irrigated farm products. The Utah State Fair will be on tap for the entire week, and the semi-annual conference of the Mormon church, October 4 to 6, inclusive.

Low fares are announced by the railroads, and there will be a liberal attendance of delegates and others interested from Southern California and Arizona.

TALK ON HORTICULTURE.

Dr. A. J. Cook, State Horticultural Commissioner, will speak at the Chamber of Commerce at 8 o'clock, p.m., Wednesday, September 11. All persons in any way interested in the work of the commission are invited to attend.

THESE BINS OF PARTS.

Rock, Gravel and Sand on Tap in Large Juantities from New Plant of Local Company.

Three jumbo bins having a storage capacity of 20,000 tons and capable of entertaining twelve sixty-foot cars at one time are completed and ready for business at Twenty-seventh street and Compton avenues, where the $40,000 construction has been going on for some time under the direction of the Tejunga Rock Company.

The bins, which are the largest of their kind in this part of the country, are designed for rock, sand and screened gravel. Each will hold eight carloads of material, ready by means of mechanical loading devices to be delivered directly into one of the flying squadron of heavy motor trucks maintained by the company, whose quarries at Tejunga, Acton and other places supply the raw material for the capacious storage bins.

H. G. Feraud is president of the company, W. S. Heaton, vice-president and sales agent, and George H. Clark, secretary.

FINDS OUT FIRST.

Stops Winton Drivers and Owners on Street to Ask Them About Cars and Then Buys.

Warren Allison, who placed his order for a Winton six, resorted to a very unique method of determining whether or not be would buy a Winton. For three weeks he talked to every Winton owner he came in contact with and asked their experience with the car.

Allison took another machine and rode up and down the main streets and whenever he would see a Winton car he would stop it and ask the owner what he thought of the Winton. There was nothing he did not inquire about and after he heard the story of thirty owners he was satisfied and gave W. D. Howard his money.

The Howard Company received a carload of 1913 machines last week and made delivery. Another carload lef the factory and will be here within two weeks.

Record-Breaking.

PAST SCHOOLS TIMES THREE.

Equipment, Teaching Force, Attendance Multiplied.

Nitable Innovations to Be Tried Out This Year.

Nursing and Auto Building Among Departures.

With a corps of teachers 2000 strong attacking the cohorts of ignorance, with many new buildings and much new equipment, the schools will open a week from tomorrow under unusually auspicious conditions. Never before in the history of the city's public schools have pupils been offered so many opportunities and facilities as the coming year will give them under the course of study prepared this summer by Superintendent Francis and his assistants.

In all departments some tremendously significant changes and additions have been made and everything will be taught from fishing to finance.

Deputy Superintendent Monlux estimates that 50,000 children will enroll the first week, with 55,000 by the end of the month.

NOTABLE INNOVATIONS.

Practical nursing is to be taught at Los Angeles High School and possibly in some of the other high schools, under Miss Minnie Sullivan, a graduate of the California Woman's Hospital as well as of the State University. The course will cover one year and will not be compulsory. Girls will be taught to do the simpler things about the sick room, to meet emergencies of accident and illness, to be of assistanec to trained nurse in case of severe sickness, to use the simple home remedies, and to recognize symptoms of disease. Especially will students be trained to care for sick children. Text-books supplemented by lectures will be the method of instruction and classes will visit hospitals for practical examples.

The establishment of this course has been done largely in response to the demand of doctors and nurses that a course preparatory to hospital work be placed in the public schools.

COSTUME DESIGNING.

Costume designing, in all its intricacies, is another new feature to be added to High School work, with Miss Caroline Wood as instructor. This will not only prepare girls to design and make their own dresses but will teach them to judge style and cut of garments made by tailors and dressmakers.

To the jewelry work at Manual Arts High will be added a class in appreciation and judgment of precious stones, and of designing and fashioning gold and silver ornaments.

Polytechnic's employment bureau will be continued next year to foster employment of graduates of all High Schools. Each high and intermediate school will have a representative on the committee, who will be in touch with the merchants and other employers of the city.

FOR OUT-OF-DOORS.

At Gardena Agricultural High School the new buildings are ready for the special work of farm mechanics, household economics, agriculture and the sciences that lead directly to agricultural work, and the laboratory facilities are unexcelled. This school is now prepared to give work in agriculture superior to courses given in many colleges. Periods of study in the fields are to be extended, so that a boy may work out of doors all day, if he desires.

Ornamental gardening will be in charge of A. M. Woodman, who spent five years as an expert workman in Golden Gate Park and who worked his way through college by the sale of the vegetables and small fruits which he himself raised.

Dairying will be taught by S. B. Hall, who, before accepting employment last year at Gardena, was dairy expert in one of the United States experiment stations. The poultry plant, under his charge, will also be enlarged.

Hall will also carry on some extensive field experiments in varieties of plants that grow in Southern California. One of the first things which he will do on the openinf of school is to harvest his experimental crops of last spring, consisting chiefly of lima beans and corn.

Rural home economics will be taught by Miss Leland. This is in addition to the regular home economics course, and will include gardening—ornamental and economic—the care of milk on the farm, the care of poultry, the gathering and preparation of vegetables and fruit, and shop work, to the extent of being able to handle some of the common tools.

The carpentry course under Mr. Teall will be enlarged and to it will be added work in cement.

TEACH AUTO BUILDING.

Automobile building will be a part of the course to be taught at Polytechnic evening school, and the pupils will learn to construct a machine that will not only look well, but which will run.

The new High School at Wilmington will be finished the last of this month. It will have excellent departments of commercial, woodworking, machinery and domestic economics instruction. A fine marine library will be a special feature of the school.

Wilmington high is going in for social center work, and its auditorium will be a sort of meeting place for local clubs and societies.

A unique feature of the school is its employment bureau, for the pupils of the various departments will do work on orders from citizens, such as woodworking, commercial printing, etc.

TO BUILD BOATS.

A boathouse is to be built for the construction of boats at San Pedro. This house will contain two slips on the lower floor, while the upper floor will be devoted to drawing and manual training.

The courses of study in marine life, from the commercial as well as plaints about the action of election officials and precinct workers since last Tuesday, many of them of a serious nature.

"I intend to put the matter before Capt. Fredericks tomorrow morning if he is in the city. I think the grand jury will make a complete investigation of the charges. I have no doubt but that the law was violated in many instances last Tuesday and hope that the guilty parties will be discovered and prosecuted to the limit, for violation of the election laws of California is a serious offense, and drastic steps should be taken to stop it in the future."

Hanna has a list of many of the election officials who neglected their duties and has the names of a large number of citizens who have signified their willingness to testify before the grand jury as to the methods employed by the Lissner gang in stealing the election.

The political situation in the State resulting from the nomination of a large majority of candidates for the Legislature on the Republican ticket, who are reported to have given a pledge to the State machine to name Presidential electors on the Republican ticket who will repudiate the Republican party, is by no means as simple as some of the Roosevelt hero-worshipers are proclaiming.

WAY OF TRANSGRESSOR.

Already hundreds of protests are coming in from all parts of the State that show that the plan to steal the Republican Presidential ticket for the use of the third-term party cannot be accomplished without the indignation of the straight Republicans in the State being voiced in a manner that may make the theft extremely difficult, if not altogether impossible of accomplishment.

Whatever private pledges the Johnson-Lissner Legislature nominees of the Republican party of California may have given to betray the party, the fact remains that they were nominated on a Republican ticket and by voters who declared their allegiance to the Republican party. Under the provisions of the newly-manufactured primary law, these candidates were running for two positions. They were nominated as candidates for the Legislature and elected as members of the Republican State convention with the ministerial duties of naming the members of the Republican State Central Committee and the Republican Presidential electors.

THE ISSUE JOINED.

This Republican State convention is made up of the fourteen holdover State Senators, the twenty Republican candidates for the State Senate and the eighty candidates for the Assembly. With the returns in from practically all the Senatorial and Assembly districts, the assertion is now made that there will be approximately ninety members who will repudiate the national candidates of the party.

From the North comes the news that this action will not go unchallenged. Also here in Los Angeles plans are being made to voice the indignation of the loyal members of the party. It is asserted that no party vote, however complete, could authorise the repudiation of the party platform and candidates, and that no private pledge made to Meyer Lissner to betray the party can take precedence legally over the obligation of the members of the Republican State convention to the Republican party, on whose ticket they were elected.

Chairman Vincent Morgan of the Los Angeles Republican Club declared yesterday that it is the intention of the straight Republicans to have one of the loyal Republican State Senators introduce a resolution in the convention commending the administration of President Taft and indorsing the platform and nominees of the Chicago convention. If this resolution should be voted down, or the chairman should refuse to entertain it, the regular Republicans will withdraw and hold a convention at which electors will be named loyal to the party and the nominees of the party for President and Vice-President. It will then be for the courts to decide whether the Taft or Roosevelt electors have the right to be on the Republican ticket in California.

APPEAL TO JUSTICE.

"I can see no objection to any set of men getting together and nominating any thirteen men for Presidential electors they may select," said Morgan yesterday. "But when the members of a third party propose to place the nominees of their party for Presidential electors on the Republican ticket, and proclaim that there shall be no Republican Presidential electors on the Republican ticket in this State, the situation is one that demands prompt judicial attention. I believe that the courts will protect the loyal Republicans of this State from theft."

At the same time plans are being made to secure the nomination of straight Republican electors by petition. It is declared that there will be little difficulty in securing the 11,000 signatures necessary.

Despite the local contests, which should have tended to bring out a heavier vote, there was a big falling off in the totals last Tuesday as compared with the totals in the Presidential primary last May. The returns show that more than 75 per cent. of the registered Republican voters in Los Angeles county refused to go to the polls on Tuesday. Numerically, the victory of the Bull Moosers is not brilliant. The vote over the State was just as light, showing that hundreds of thousands of loyal Republicans stayed away from the polls, being convinced that the Johnson-Lissner machine, with all its resources, could accomplish the election of a majority of its candidates. They deliberately chose to leave themselves free to take whatever action should be necessary.

SIGNIFICANT FIGURES.

The total registered Republican vote in this county is 239,814. The total Republican vote cast at the primary Tuesday was about 38,000 in the city and county. In other words about 110,000 Republican voters in Los Angeles county did not vote Tuesday. Of the 150,000 registered Republicans eligible to vote in the May primary election, 41,000 voted for Roosevelt delegates, 15,000 for Taft and 9500 for La Follette, or about 25,000 more than was cast Tuesday. Last May there were 156,202 votes cast in the State for Roosevelt delegates to the Chicago convention, 79,270 for Taft and 54,085 for La Follette. The total vote cast in May was 289,657 against less than 200,000 cast last Tuesday. In other words, only 200,000 Republicans of the 750,000 registered in the State went to the polls, a falling off of nearly one-third.

The only half way fair fight between the Republican party and the Bull Moosers was in the nomination of Congressional candidates. According to the tabulation admitted to be approximately correct there were 98,808 votes cast in the State for Congressional candidates who favored Roosevelt and 93,479 for those who favored Taft. The Taft candidates gained about 20,000 votes and the Roosevelt candidates lost the difference between 156,202 and about 100,000.

The question now arises whether these 100,000 Bull Moose voters shall be permitted to accomplish the disenfranchisement of more than 650,000 Republicans in California.

HELP ME AT THE KEY.

Poetic Prayer Composed by Girl Telegraph Operator Who Would Pass Over Her Trouble Lightly.

Poetry will out, sometimes in the most unexpected places and occasionally from unusual sources. One of the latest devotees of the muse and one who has been creating considerable comment around the Alexandria is little Miss Vivian Ewing, Postal Telegraph operator in the hotel. After months of vicissitudes and troubles caused principally by the patrons of the little station in the marble corridor, Miss Ewing evolved the following prayer to assist her through her hours of toil:

"Help me this day, O Lord to be Kind and gentle with my key.
Help me earn my wage this day
And tempt me not to ask more pay
And if some man who sounds insane
Should move me to hot words profane
O stay my hand upon the key
And may I not make "H" for "P."

May I refrain to open my door
And kick through it a weary bore
Who brings to me his darling "kid"
To be transforemed into a "lid."
And may I gently treat the cranks
Who after spoiling twenty blanks
Fold up a lot of callow slush
And sternly bid me, "send it rush."

And when the clock points five to eight
O help me then to calmly wait
While some pround dad leans on the booth
And wires baby has a tooth.
In short, pray make me what I aint
An understudy of a saint,
That I may hold this job of mine
Till time gives me the "30" sign.

PAST SCHOOLS TIMES THREE.

scientific angles, will be expanded to meet the practical needs of students.

NEW BUILDINGS.

At Manual Arts, the new administration building is ready for occupancy and will be dedicated in October. Its most remarkable features are the large auditorium, seating 1800 persons, and the girls' gym, measuring 30x70 feet, and its reception-room, to be used when parties are to be given in connection with the social-center work. The machine shops are to be installed, and plumbing will be one of the new subjects taught.

Virgil avenue intermediate will be finished about the 20th inst. Here it is proposed to do a special class of social-center work, the handsome auditorium lending itself admirably to the holding of lectures, musicals and art exhibitions.

Western avenue school will be finished about the same date. Rose Hill is already completed. Malabar, Wadsworth and Lorena will be ready about the first of the year, and Santa Barbara avenue will be finished the first of February. Santa Fe avenue will be finished in November.

The new type of building favored by the superintendent's office and Board of Education is represented in the Santa Fe avenue and Wadsworth schools, built around a huge patio, which can be used for playground and gardening purposes. This plan, it is contended, gives the best opportunity for lighting and for ventilation, and both buildings mentioned are furnished with folding windows.

"The most important phase of our work, after all, is the elementary schools, the success of secondary education being really dependent on these, and on their power to hold the children until they arrive at high-school age. Education should be made attractive to the child, and should fulfill his every need," says Superintendent Francis.

NATURE STUDY WORK.

Among the many improvements in the elementary course is the addition of nature study work, under Dr. Charles E. Edwards, a graduate of Johns Hopkins and Leipsic Universities, who had special training abroad at Naples and Venice Zooligical and Marine Stations, and who at present has charge of the elk-runs, buffalo grounds and zoo at Griffith Park. Dr. Edwards has taught in the Universities of Texas, Connecticut and Columbia, and is mentioned in "American Men of Science" as "one of the thousand American men who have done most to advance science in America." His course will include the study of animals and plants. The teachers will be taught how to present these matters, and emphasis will be laid on field work. Most of the work in this course will be done out of doors.

TO TEACH SWIMMING.

If, as seems likely, the board takes over the Bethlehem baths, a swimming teacher will be employed to teach the children, both boys and girls, of Macy, Amelia, Ann and Utah street schools, the aquatic sport.

Another departure along the line of improvement is the placing of a special teacher each for music and drawing in the larger schools—Main street, Hooper avenue, Vernon avenue, Twenty-eighth and Ninth streets. It is hoped, later on, to have special rooms for the teacher of these subjects in each school. The drawing work will be correlated with history, literature, nature study, and geography, as well as with the practical work of dress-designing and home decoration for the girls, and sloyd work for the boys.

Miss Grace Fulmer will have charge of both the kindergarten and first-grade work, and she has been busy, this summer, in plans for bridging the gap between these grades, which has been the bete-noir of teachers since the kindergarten department was organized.

The first grade and kindergarten teachers will do playground and Batavia work in the afternoons, and many of them have been taking playground courses this summer to fit them for this work during the coming year.

Miss Nellie De Vault, a Los Angeles teacher, has been studying the Montessori method at Berkeley and the work will be introduced experimentally in one of the schools.

PLAYGROUNDS EXTENDED.

Additional teachers have been engaged for the playgrounds, and new apparatus to the amount of $15,000 has been purchased.

School gardening will be continued under Prof. Clayton F. Palmer and Mrs. George Larkey, with several assistant teachers. A special feature of this work will be the ornamentation of school grounds with flowers, shrubs, lawns and trees.

New ungraded rooms will be opened at Los Feliz, Logan, Gardner, Grand avenue, Cambria, Fifty-second, Western, Sixteenth and Loreto streets. It is planned to open a room at Sixteenth street school for defective children as soon as the proper teacher can be obtained.

TEACHERS RETURN.

Teachers are returning to the city from their summer travel and study, filled with enthusiasm and new ideals.

Said Superintendent Francis: "A larger percentage of our teachers are doing this extra work than that of any other city in the United States, and it is a matter of pride and congratulation to this city that it is so."

On Saturday morning, the 14th inst., a principals' meeting will be held at 9 o'clock at Los Angeles High auditorium, followed by a general teachers' meeting at 10 o'clock. At 2 in the afternoon teachers will meet their principals at the various school buildings.

ATTITUDE OF THIS JOURNAL.

For the country and the flag.
For the Constitution and the courts.
For upholding the honor of the army and navy.
For orderly liberty under law.
For an Ocean-to-Ocean highway.
For true freedom in the industries.
For unshackled labor, nation-wide.
For the just rights of the unorganized many.
For Labor's protection, reward and repose.
For the home and its safeguarding.
For social order and business solidarity.
For world-wide peace with honor.
For security in the State.
For the old cause and the Old Guard.

For TAFT AND SHERMAN

And against their allied antagonists,
Against political fads, freaks and frenzy,
Against the Big Noise and the Big Stick.
Against the new-fangled judicial recall.
Against free trade and free soup.
Against union conspiracy and misrule.
Against the un-American closed shop.
Against industrial discrimination and proscription.
Against, not organized labor as such, but Against its acts when law-defying.
Against the bomb, boycott and bludgeon.
Against strikes, picketing and violence.
Against "progressivism" backwards.
Against treason and the red flag.

"OBVIOUSLY IMPOSSIBLE."

Everyone of course quite understands that it is obviously impossible for the third-termer to appear before the Senate and explain where the millions came from that have been spent by him in electioneering. Is it not one of our first principles of jurisprudence that no accused party is obliged to incriminate himself? Shall the colonel be called upon to explain? Oh, no! "Obviously impossible."

DID YOU EVER?

Now, really—without prejudice—did you ever, anywhere, in the whole course of your life, come across such perfect autumn days as we are enjoying in Los Angeles this year? And in Chicago they are sizzling like soft grease on a hot axle; and in Europe they are being soaked like squashy sponges in a cold-water tub. Comparisons would be odious if California, as a dwelling place, were not free to all good people, both native and foreign.

FREE LEMONS.

The Times does not altogether indorse the suggestion of an old-time Republican that it will be wise for those who are interested in preserving our citrus fruit, our beet sugar, and our sheep industries, to vote for the Democratic nominees for Congress. His reasoning is that the next Congress will be Democratic, because Roosevelt and his supporters will split the Republican vote, and that Democratic Congressmen will accord more consideration to one of their own party faith than to a Progressive.

Certainly we could not do much worse than to re-elect a Congressman who was asleep when the House voted to place lemons on the free list.

HONORABLE BANKRUPTCY(?)

Should a man be absolved from his legitimate liabilities because he has gambled away the money he ought to have retained to pay his creditors? The owner of a wall-paper business in Sacramento, after confessing that he lost $400 shaking dice at a cigar stand, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, his visible assets being one dollar.

If the law permits a man to be honorably discharged under such circumstances it ought to be amended. Many a man through injudicious but legitimate speculation or for want of business acumen has to seek the relief afforded by the bankruptcy court. But for one to squander $400 in shaking dice, when he knows that he has just debts to be paid, is neither poor judgment nor ignorance of business. It is an indifference to the rights of others that is nearly criminal.

VOTING BY MAIL.

If, as the Registrar for Sacramento county believes, voting by mail would save the taxpayers large sums of money, the project becomes worth a little investigating. Every vote cast in Sacramento at the late primaries cost the State $1.55. The constant multiplication of elections will make some retrenchment in expenditure a burning question in the not very far future.

Possibly a larger vote would also be brought out by this system. There are citizens too lazy to walk to the polls who yet might take the trouble to mark and mail a ballot sheet. But no Bull Moose would vote by mail with so many automobiles placed at his disposal. Voting by mail might bring out a larger Taft vote in California, especially on the part of the women, some of whom have nearly a mile to walk to their precinct booth. Only 25 per cent. of the registered voters in Sacramento county recorded their votes at the late primaries, a fact that takes all real significance from the resulting count and leaves a large and useless bill behind for election expenses.

Voting by mail undoubtedly will save the country money. This is really a minor point. Everything depends on whether it could be carried out without leaving unexpected loopholes for fraud and impersonation. Simply signing the name and address on the outside of the envelope does not seem to us sufficient identification of the voter. Bankers who take all the precautions in the world are still victimized by fictitious checks.

Nevertheless, the idea is good enough to attract the attention of experts. It is better than most of the so-called progressive reforms we have been getting lately. The expense of carrying on government by incessant appeals to the people will soon leave the people no money to pay for these endless appeals.

VETERANS, WE SALUTE YOU!

Hail and welcome, old heroes! In your presence the voice of party and of faction is hushed to silence. Republicans and Democrats and Socialists and Progressives stand with heads uncovered before you, with hearts throbbing with gratitude toward the men to whom we owe the fact that there is a nation to govern.

"Backward, turn backward, O Time in thy flight."

Backward to the May mornings one and fifty years ago when we beheld the manhood of the land marching to wounds and death that the nation might live. "Marching along, marching along. For God and for country they went marching along," with the farewell tears of wives, and mothers, and sisters, and sweethearts, moistening as with a chrism the brave faces lit with the gleam of the bannered stars.

Again we behold them led by their brave captains. Sheridan—the Rupert who rode "to conquer or to fall." Sherman—whose army "sang the mighty chorus from Atlanta to the sea." Grant—

"Patient of toil, serene amid alarms, Inflexible in faith, invincible in arms."

Logan, whose legions unvexed the current of the Mississippi from the Ohio to the sea. Hooker, whose men battled above the clouds at Lookout Mountain. Meade, who drove the foe southward away from the soil of Pennsylvania, and all the generals, and colonels, and captains, and—not least of all—the hosts, from the greatest commander to the poorest and most unlettered soldier who went over his doorsill to battle for the flag that sometimes knew disaster, but never knew dishonor.

Honor and reverence and gratitude for the gray survivors.

Loving remembrance to those who "sank to rest with all their country's wishes blest." We welcome those who visit us today. There is not a door in Los Angeles that would not burst its locks and fly off its hinges to open to them. There is not a purse in Los Angeles that would not, if occasion should make it necessary, empty its contents into their wrinkled hands.

They are the guests of the city and of every man and woman and little child in the city.

When the banner fell from Sumter's battlements we had thirty-two wrangling and discordant States populated by 30,000,000 of people. Now we have forty-eight homogeneous and harmonious commonwealths, containing 90,000,000 of souls, and our flag floats from the Arctic to the Caribbean and reaches across seas to Orient isles. Then we had war and privation, now we have peace and plenty.

Then we ranked fifth or sixth among the nations. Now we are not second to any power on earth. We are first in letters, arts and arms, first in freedom and prosperity and happiness.

These things we owe under the providence of God to the members, dead and living, of the Grand Army of the Republic. Again, and again, and yet again Los Angeles bids them hail and welcome.

TIRED OF VOTING.

The multiplication of elections, brought about by the primary, the referendum and recall and other "Progressive" fads, is likely to have one result that will go farther to destroy true representative government than any attempts to throttle the people with reactionary legislation. This latter is powerless because impossible, the former is dangerous because prevalent.

By everlastingly calling on the people to express their opinions through the ballot box on every unimportant and trifling issue, the people in the end will become sick and tired of voting. After countless excursions to the booths to determine whether a city of the second-class shall be granted the right to set up a town pump, or whether an office of clock-winder shall be established to attend to the official timepiece, or to elect one set of delegates who must appoint another set of delegates to decide what candidate shall be chosen at another convention to represent a certain party at some future election, to be followed after all this paraphernalia by another election between the two representatives chosen; we believe, after all the smoke and dust of so much preliminary business, when the crucial test comes many of the voters, out of sheer weariness, will stay away altogether and so leave the real decision to an inconsiderable minority.

The Americans are a busy people and, while willing to give all the attention possible to their duties as voters, grow restive at these endless calls on their time and patience. When elections every three or four weeks become an established custom—as they threaten to do at the present rate of increase—only the leisurely and the loafers will have time to attend to their duties as citizens. The conscientious, while not going back and forth from or to the polls, will be spending long, dragging hours in studying the blanket ballot sheets, so as to get some inkling as to what the elections are all about.

Even after a candidate has been duly elected to an office, there is no telling how soon a petition may be circulated to have him recalled, and we find ourselves links in an endless chain. Under so-called "Progressive" rule we live in a permanent state of unsettledness. Too many elections in the end will bring about too little voting. So it defeats that true idea of popular representation which is the aim and end of all really progressive legislation.

WILL HISTORY BE REPEATED?

Panic is the offspring of unreason, or of misinformation. Runs on banks are the result of a sudden loss of public confidence in the integrity or the business ability of those in charge of the bank. The great and lasting panic of 1893 was not the result of Democratic legislation so much as it was caused by a belief in the fulfillment of Democratic promises to legislate. The campaign of 1892 was made on the issue of abandoning the Republican doctrine of protection and substituting a tariff for revenue only. The Democrats expected to elect Cleveland and obtain the Federal offices. They expected to elect a majority of the members of the House of Representatives and control the appropriations. They did not in the least expect to change the political complexion of the United States Senate. Their leaders expected to be able to say after election: "We cannot enact a tariff for revenue only for the Republican Senate won't let us."

To their amazement, and not at all to their satisfaction, the landslide in November, 1892, included the Senate as well as the President and the House, and for the first time in thirty-four years the Democrats were able to enact or repeal a Federal law.

Between the election in November, 1892, and the meeting of Congress in December, 1893, there was a year of widespread commercial and industrial disaster. This was the result of popular belief that the Democrats would do what their spellbinders and newspaper organs had agreed to do from every stump and in every Democratic editorial sanctum from Bangor to San Diego.

The consumer of manufactured goods said: "I will defer my purchases because Congress will reduce tariff duties and goods will be cheaper." The retail dealer said: "I will not stock up with high-priced goods. The Democrats will reduce the tariff, and both imported and domestic goods will be cheaper." The wholesale dealer withheld orders from the manufacturer in order to await the coming of lower prices. The manufacturer—lacking his usual orders from the wholesalers—said: "I cannot afford to make goods with high-priced American labor that will, under a revenue tariff, come in competition with goods made by low-priced European labor."

The manufacturer thereupon closed his factory, his foundry, or his forge and discharged his workers, and they tramped the highways, and their wives and children went hungry or lived upon charity.

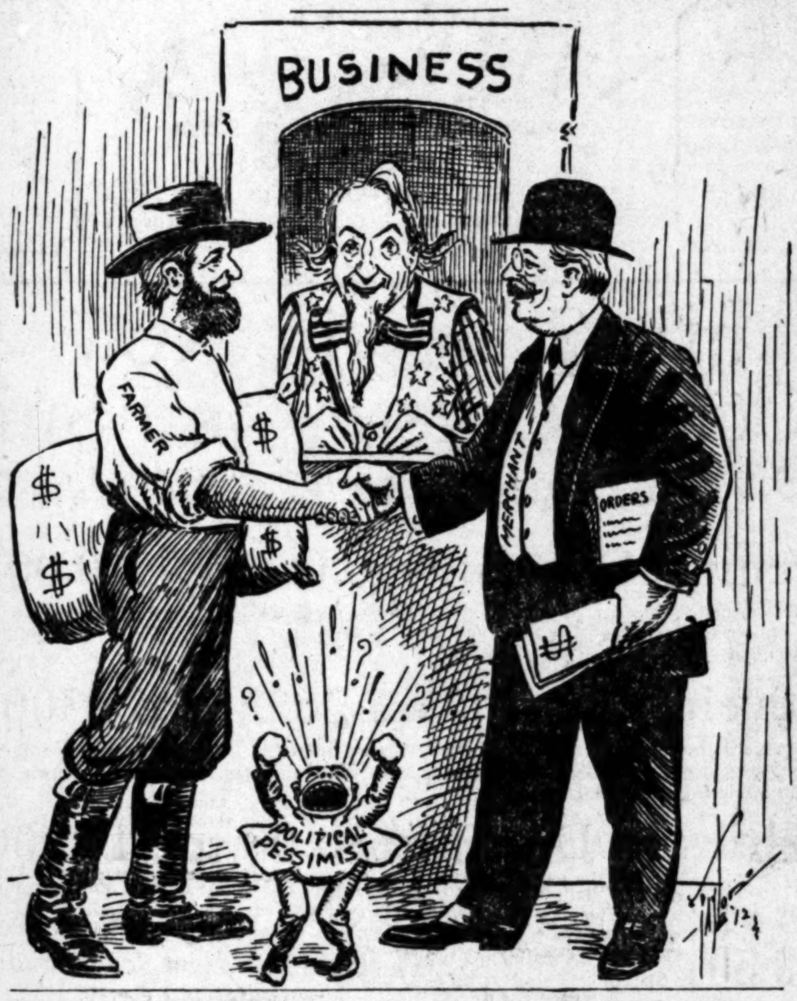
All this ruin was wrought because of the general belief that the Democrats would keep their promises.

But, when Congress met, its members proved to be better patriots than partisans. They turned right about face. They went squarely back on their platform. They adopted the Wilson tariff, which was more a change of schedule than a change of policies. It was indeed disastrous, but it was a long, long ways from the revenue tariff that had been promised. It was so far from a fulfillment of platform promises that Cleveland denounced it as "a partisan perfidy," although he did not veto it.

When it became apparent that Democrats would not carry out their free-trade doctrines confidence revived. The mills and factories were reopened. At the next election the Republicans carried the country overwhelmingly, and in 1896 the election of McKinley completely re-established public confidence and for sixteen years we have enjoyed a season of uninterrupted prosperity and marvelous growth.

Is history about to repeat itself? Will the "Progressives," by their unwisdom, their unthinking devotion to the third-termer, their insults to Republicans who decline to co-operate with them, drive enough old-time Republicans temporarily into supporting Woodrow Wilson to insure his election. Must we have another orgy of bankruptcy? That is the question that the American people will be required to meet on the 5th of November next.

Not Disturbed.



CEMETERIES FOR THE LIVING.

Prejudice is hard to overcome. To many minds the idea that cemeteries in the future may become "pleasant picnic grounds" has a distinctly sardonic flavor. One of our city councillors has made the optimistic suggestion that some day we "may give our friends a treat by inviting them to the graveyard." At first blush—if blushing can be associated with so pallid a subject—this looks like a desperate expedient, an unmistakable proof that we prefer to take our pleasures sadly. The California spirit, on the contrary, prompts us to take our sorrows cheerfully.

A tea party among the tombstones, a pleasant ramble across the graves, a summer crematorium camp, according to public sentiment in such matters, would hardly bring out record crowds or necessitate the running of extra cars. Cemeteries while they should not be painful can never be pleasure resorts. True, Hamlet managed to extract considerable humor from their somber surroundings—evidently in Shakespeare's time; too, grave-diggers lightened their toil with facetious pleasantries—still this is not an age to take its humor grimly or its fun with funereal trappings. We can find plenty of pleasantry in life without going to the grave-diggers for it. Out West, anyway, these are generally Japanese. A Japanese grave-digger never jokes.

Still, in a modified degree burial grounds may afford an hour of quiet rest for the living as well as a quieter and longer rest for the dead. Our city cemeteries are pleasant and peaceful places, green and refreshing to the eye—cheerful breaks in the landscape to those not over-morbidly sensitive. While no onlooker desires to treat Death's tools and emblems with the bitter flippancy of Hamlet or the coarse levity of the two grave-diggers, every sensible person wants to divest the last debt paid to mortality of foolish fear and unreasoning gloom.

The sincere Christian should find nothing depressing in these, our cities of the dead, harmoniously arranged as they are with flowers and shrubs and shade trees, their white monuments pointing heavenward from the soft green turf, their environments speaking everywhere not of dust and decay, but of hope and resurrection. Why should not old friends find in the artistic grounds of Hollywood Cemetery some sympathetic corner where they might hold a quiet intimate reunion? What spot more appropriate for indulging in reminiscences, for living over again past scenes and past experiences—

"While looking on the happy autumn fields
And thinking of the days that are no more."

Under the great pine trees in the pretty cemetery at Altadena are secluded seats where in their more serious moments men and women may steal from business and bustle and pleasure some passing moments for those deeper contemplations that the lightest of us can never be entirely without. Did not Gray write one of the most melodious poems in the English language, inspired by the prospect of a quiet country churchyard?

In the active, the genial, the occupied hours which compose the greater part of our waking life, we do not expect in cemeteries to express our happiest feelings or to feed our swelling ambitions. Nor should we visit these hallowed resting-places to encourage doleful moods or to give vent to unavailing regrets. Surely the spots where we honor the memories of our cherished dead may be designed, not with any want of reverence, for the pleasure of the living.

UNCLE WALT.

The Poet Philosopher.

Ah, beauty is a rare possession! It makes this life here fit to live. And there are beauties of expression which beat all charms that drugs will give. Jemina has a fine complexion, and pearly teeth and azure eyes, and golden ringlets, in connection with rats and things that I despise. When first you see this glowing maiden with all her wealth of dazzling charms, you think she's come direct from Aidenn, and long to take her in your arms. But when you know the damsel better she doesn't satisfy the soul; alas, she is a chronic fretter—her temper isn't in control. She sulks and deals in pettish phrases, and all such things will leave their trace; in time they will distort like blazes that lovely and angelic face. Methinks I see her when she's older, with shrewish mouth and crimson beak, and he will be a suitor bolder than lions who her hand will seek. Mirandy has a disposition as sweet as honey from the comb; it's always been her sane ambition to make things pleasant in her home. She doesn't spend her time a-naggin', kind words are all she ever said; she's prettier than any wagon that ever yet was painted red, and as the years are swiftly sliding, still prettier this girl will grow, till on his pale white steed comes riding the knight with whom we all must go.

Venom Is Easy.

[Detroit Free Press:] David Beasco is noted for his ability to make his actors do things the way he wants them done.

One day at a rehearsal he was anything but satisfied with the expression of contempt one of the women was putting into a certain speech.

"More contempt!" he said. "More spite! More venom!"

"Oh, I can't do any better than I am," said the lady.

"Rubbish! Of course you can," cried Mr. Belasco. "Hiss the lines as you'd hiss the word 'Mushquash!' if you saw a lady friend in an imitation sealskin coat."

SKIRTS AND TROUSERS.

A COMPARISON BY ALICE WHEATLEY.

Still the battle wages over the propriety of women dressing themselves according to their own fancies, guided by the dictates of conscience. Now a woman believes that her conscience, like her clothes, should be always in good style. So when Fashion decrees clinging gowns, young misses and old misses, maidens, wives and widows all attenuate their garments to the clingiest proportions compatible with safe locomotion. This is their right—more desirable than the ballot.

Then the great masculine animal, who really has enough to do to regulate the circumference of his ungainly trousers, the chokiness of his stiff collar and the squareness of his padded shoulders, rises up on his hind legs and starts a veritable tornado of criticism. Preachers and lawyers and policemen and car-conductors must get weighty sentiments off their overcharged bosoms concerning the dreadful impropriety of woman and her shocking disregard for the struggling morals of the masculine, because she does not conceal in voluminous baggy garments the beautiful curves with which nature has so generously endowed her.

Why do women take so much trouble about their dress and their appearance? Is it not for the sake of raising man to a higher sense of spiritual and natural beauty? To do this her charms must be harmoniously revealed, not inharmoniously hidden. Mister Man professes to like a woman to be of a clinging disposition; why should he object to this quality in her dress?

Just imagine the appearance of our delightful Broadway between First and Eighth streets, if women clad themselves as inartistically and tastelessly as men do. Cut out all the pretty pink and white and pale-blue dresses, clinging to the softly rounded contours of female forms; replace them with the stiff, formal lines, the geometrical rhombuses and cubiform monotony of the city male attire; what would become of Los Angeles's most attractive thoroughfare? The glory would be departed.

Even in an instantaneous photograph a woman walking is a graceful picture. Just look at the instantaneous photograph of any famous man in the act of walking up the steps of the Capitol, or taken while leading a political procession, and say honestly if the picture is a pleasing one. Did you ever see in any other animal a motion so hopelessly awkward? The Greeks in their tunics, the Romans in their togas, the Levites in their sacerdotal robes were more artistic and effective than modern man in his tubular trousers, because their attire was more feminine. And—seeing they had no automobiles or electric cars—they seem to have covered considerable ground.

Sculptors are almost in despair in their attempts to make heroic statues out of modern men in their ugly modern dress. They had to put Disraeli in medieval robes before Westminster could stand for him. Stephen White in a toga would certainly appear more dignified as an adornment for our own Courthouse. In symbolical groups of statuary the woman's figure in woman's attire is always prominent. Imagine a man in a derby and turned-up trousers flaunting the light of liberty over New York harbor; or Jupiter thundering in a frock coat and a silk hat! Any modern-dressed woman would do for a model of Inspiration, of Poetry or the Drama.

And yet a lot of men have the impudence to rush into print, calling down girls for their present manner of dressing. This idea of men telling women how they should garb themselves, and even threatening to pass ordinances regulating shirt-waists and hobble skirts and high-heeled shoes, is on a par with John Bull's attempt to dictate to Uncle Sam as to how he should run his own canal. To a right-minded man there is nothing immodest in beholding the natural curves of a beautiful woman becomingly revealed in a close-fitting garment. For the other kind—women are not adorning themselves, certainly not in Los Angeles.

My thanks are due to the pastor of the First Baptist Church in Oakland for this last sentiment. Also for these words of true manliness: "The normal woman who has gifts of beauty or grace or any charm, physical, intellectual or spiritual, is bound to display them." I admit it is hard for man in his stiff, ugly, angular garments to be as virtuous as woman is in her clinging, dainty, artistic creations. Goodness seems to go more naturally in skirts. But oughtn't the male of the species to hush up about our way of dressing?

STREAKS OF WIT.

Wanted Information.

[Harper's Bazar:] "Have you purchased your new car yet, Mrs. Noorich?" asked the visitor.

"No, Mr. Smithers, I ain't. I can't make up my mind whether to get a gasoline car or a limousine car. Maybe you can tell me—does limousine smell as bad as gasoline?" inquired the lady.

Silence for Revenue.

[Washington Star:] "Of course, you have some convictions in matters of public concern."

"Mebbe," replied Farmer Corntossel.

"Well, why don't you come out and express them?"

"I dasn't. We've got boarders from all political parties."

Facts vs. Oratory.

[Youth's Companion:] "He who puts his hand to the plow," screamed the crossroads orator, "must not turn back!"

"What is he to do when he gets to the end of the furrer?" asked the auditor in the blue jean overalls.

Surely Right.

[Philadelphia Record:] Tommy: Pop, what is executive ability?

Tommy's Pop: Executive ability, my son, is the knack of getting somebody else to do your work for you.

A Passing Scene.

[Washington Herald:] "Where is the fine view you boasted of in the booklet?"

"All around you," answered the landlord. "You can see an heiress in any direction you look."

It Looked That Way.

[Indianapolis News:] When Thomas P. Gore, the blind United States Senator from Oklahoma, was in Indianapolis to attend the Marshall notification ceremonies he told a story to illustrate a political point he had made.

"Old Abe was a negro in Arkansas who had never seen an automobile until he went to the city one day and was nearly struck by the machine as it went speeding down the street at about thirty miles an hour. The old man jumped to the sidewalk and gazed open-mouthed after the car.

"'Foh de good Lawd!' ejaculated Uncle Abe, 'dat man's hosses mus' a been goin' some when dey bruk 'way frum dat kerriage.'"

But little things in vain,
And where great leaders give their
Live your lives but for gain,
Look for your holy temple,
Search out your sacred thought,
Awaken to your leader,
Then—go labor as ye ought!

The Times is the only newspaper in Los Angeles that does not make a practice of allowing agents, newsboys and dealers to return unsold copies of its issues. Neither does it misbrand or predate its editions, or inflate its circulation by printing more copies than are actually necessary to supply its demand.

The Times entire circulation is practically net, and it is more genuine and superior in every respect to that of any other newspaper in Southern California.

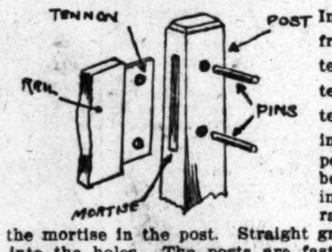
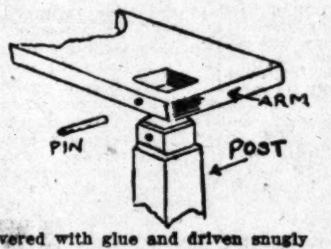
Cloister Furniture

CONSTRUCTION

During the Medieval period Master Craftsmen, when joining together parts that were subject to a severe strain, knew no other way than by the use of the mortise and tenon joint, locking it together with cross pins. The Manufacturers of Cloister Furniture know no other way as good. With modern machinery and appliances it would be natural to suppose that a new and better method of construction would be evolved. The mortise and tenon joint still stands, however, the acme of joint construction.



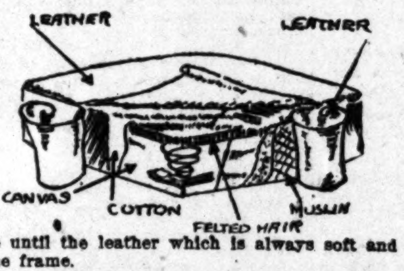


In Cloister Furniture the front and back rails of all settees, chairs and rockers are tenoned on the ends, each tenon passing into a mortise in the post in its respective position. Holes are then bored through the post passing through the tenon on the rail at its intersection with the mortise in the post. Straight grained oak pins are then covered with glue and driven snugly into the holes. The posts are fastened into the arms in like manner, in fact every joint that receives the least strain is fitted with this mortise and tenon pinned construction. In addition, the best hide stock glue is used on all contact surfaces. On the rocking chairs the rockers are fastened to the posts by a lock pin joint which effectually prevents their working loose or squeaking.

This painstaking construction and fitting of all joints gives to every Cloister Furniture pattern an almost perfectly rigidity, which many years of service cannot weaken.

Removable Spring Cushion Seats and Reversible Back Cushions

One of the most important points to consider when purchasing chairs, rockers and settees is the cushion work. The makers of Cloister Furniture, after several years of experimenting with cushions in actual use, have developed a cushion construction worthy of being used with their Cloister cabinet construction.



In making seat cushions the very best crucible steel springs are used. These springs are made up on a steel bar frame which in turn is fastened to a hardwood box the size the seat is to be. The springs are then covered with heavy selected ducking. Over this is placed a pad of felted hair one-half to two inches thick. Of special value is the felted hair pad, as it prevents the springs from working through the upholstering and making ridges. Next comes a padding of high-grade cotton, which fills out the cushion and makes it soft and luxurious. Over the entire seat is placed heavy muslin to hold each layer and section inplace until the leather which is always soft and pliable, can be drawn taut and securely fastenedto the frame.

The back cushions are made in as careful a manner as the seats and are reversible. They are built to give maximum comfort and still retain their shape.

Never have we sold furniture more typically Californian, more worthy to go in your home—and stay there—to be enjoyed by future generations as you will enjoy it now.

Come in—let us explain to you how the mortise and tenon joint has stood and will stand the test of time.

Let us show you every detail in the construction of Cloister Furniture—details that were evolved while history was being made in California. No romance of the early days can interest you more, or profit you better.

THE FLAG.

following article is now reproduced from The Times of August 11 of the points involved relative to the flag of the United States the treatment and respect due to important occasions. The article does not purport to embrace, by means, everything that can be on the subject or the interesting general subject of military customs practices in the field, military etc., but it does purport to upon some of the more essential features involved in the customs military life and the treatment due soldiers and citizens to our country's flag.] that standard sheet!

the foe but falls before us, soil beneath our feet banner streaming o'er us?"

the time approaches for the assembly of the National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic in Los Angeles, questions concerning military customs, practices observances are revived in some both military and civil, and in reference thereto occasionally reach The Times.

principal question is as to the methods of showing proper for the Stars and Stripes, the of the republic—officially "The National Flag"—under different environments, surroundings, conditions and circumstances. Answering some of those inquiries noticing anonymous, narrow, malicious or insolent comment on the matter, and without undertaking to traverse the entire subject, with its numerous ramifications, it may be stated here:

"National colors" or standard, "regimental color" or standard, "battle color" or standard, are terms to designate flags on a pike carried by troops. These flags are made Each color, or standard, is nine feet long.

In the field and in action the flag is carried alongside the standard when the regiment or carries both. Battle inscriptions upon the colors of a regiment or as originally intended by Army Regulations, were to be only on the State standards in the war where the troops immediately concerned were State and not organizations. In actual however, during the War of Rebellion—the great period of test and trial, where precedents were overthrown and new ones established—the practice came into of regiments inscribing directly on the alternate stripes of the flag carried by them the of battles through which they had passed. Regiments of the regular carrying the national flag, had, the right to inscribe the names of their battles upon it. A curious misapprehension exists in some quarters, mainly among civilians, but even among inexperienced soldiers, concerning the unfurling, hoisting and displaying of the flag at night. The usual custom is, to be sure, for the flag to be not flown from the staff after dark. The reasons for this are, first, that such display is not often really necessary; and, second, that the exposure of the emblem to the elements is injurious and destructive, especially so in bad weather. But while the flag is thus, as a rule, protected after dark, there is manifestly no impropriety, much less no "dishonor" in keeping it aloft throughout the livelong night when occasion justifies. At the same time its continuous display from a staff would interfere with the beautiful and impressive ceremony of hoisting and lowering the colors at sunrise and sunset, respectively—an established custom at regular army posts. Provision is made in the Army Regulations (which are law through the direct sanction of Congress) for a storm-flag of strong bunting, to be hoisted upon occasion—a flag five feet by eight feet nine inches in dimensions. This fact implies very plainly that the flag is not necessarily to be hauled down in inclement weather, or even at night. Touching the use of the emblem under strenuous circumstances, a striking and impressive illustration is found in the sublime words of Francis Scott Key, author of the "Star-spangled Banner," in the noble lines which lead that immortal epic:

"Oh, say, can you see, by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hail'd at the twilight's last gleaming,
Whose broad stripes and bright stars, thro' the perilous fight,
O'er the ramparts we watch'd were so gallantly streaming?
And the rocket's red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there!"

Here it is plainly indicated that the flag over Fort McHenry (near Baltimore,) beleaguered by the British in 1814, on the night of September 13, had been flying throughout the night. (The enemy had terminated his investment before morning.) The reasons for sometimes flying the flag at night over camps, fortresses and other places defended by troops, are perfectly obvious to every experienced soldier, and indeed should be so to every thoughtful citizen. In the event, for instance, of a fort being invested by the enemy, as in the case cited, with a relieving force approaching, the display of the flag and a view of it by the rescuing force from a distance would become vital matters. Should the flag be hauled down at dark, according to the erroneous belief of certain stupid persons, there would be no sufficient visible evidence to satisfy the succoring troops that the garrison had or had not surrendered to the enemy. Such knowledge would be essential for the enlightenment of the relieving force. Moreover, the flag must be kept aloft up to the last moment, whether in the day or in the night, for the sake of the cause and the country; for the sake of courage, loyalty and devotion to the standard and the nation. In brief, the Stars and Stripes were made to be kept aloft, and not to be pulled down, certainly not by their defenders.

(4.) Salutes: Officers and soldiers, when not carrying arms, salute each other an all proper occasions when passing or when coming in fairly close proximity to each other. The junior salutes first, and the senior returns the salute; and if he is an educated, conscientious and scrupulous officer, he will as scrupulously acknowledge the salute given him by the junior, whether officer or private. When the persons are unarmed, the salute is given with the right hand raised to the height of the eye and as quickly brought down; the actors not halting, but turning their eyes respectfully towards each other. When the salute is given with the sword or rifle, the prescribed formulas are observed. A soldier under arms (carrying a rifle or musket) when passing an officer, salutes with his left hand brought smartly against his piece at the height of the right shoulder. This is in addition to handling his weapon in the manner prescribed by regulations. A sentry on post, in the daytime, salutes a commissioned officer passing across or near his beat, by halting, facing outward, and "presenting arms;" but at night he is not required to salute at all. An officer of appropriate rank approaching a picket post is saluted by the men composing the order of their commander (whether he be a non-commissioned or commissioned officer,) who, on seeing the superior officer approaching the post, calls out, "Turn out the guard—general officer!" When the officer arrives opposite the line thus assembled, the subordinate officer commands, "Present arms!" which having been done, the men "recover arms," and the officer passes on, or tarries for a moment to confer with the officer of the picket post, asking him questions or giving him instructions, as the case may be. But at night this ceremony and all like ceremonies are scrupulously omitted, and for the very good reason, as laid down in the regulations and justified by common sense, that the observance of any particular ceremony, accompanied by the noise of giving orders or the handling of rifles, might arouse the attention of the enemy's pickets or spies to the fact that a general or other commanding officer was in the vicinity; and this would be the "giving away" of information in very unmilitary fashion. So there be ceremonies and ceremonies, and times for their observance as well as times for their nonobservance.

(5.) In the field, an aide-de-camp, or other staff officer, carrying a message from one part of the field to another, proceeds on horseback with the utmost celerity, and, after reaching a point near the person of the officer for whom the message is intended, the subordinate salutes, quickly dismounts, and then hands his message, if it be in writing, to the superior officer. Should the latter be mounted and moving, the aide delivers his message without dismounting. If the message be not in writing, the aide delivers it orally; then, after waiting to be dismissed by his superior, he again salutes, and returns rapidly to the spot whence he came, or to which he may be ordered.

(6) The office of "the colors"—the national flag—its uses upon different occasions, and the several methods of paying respect to it by troops in garrison or fortress, in camp, on the march or in line, at parades, inspections and reviews, are so clearly prescribed in the Army Regulations that recapitulation or repetition are unnecessary here. In all cases, whether in camp, garrison or field, on the march or otherwise, "the colors"—the standard under which the troops fight—are treated with profound respect and with exceptional honor. Without describing here these various methods in detail, or all the different customs of the service in this regard, it will

I Cure PILES

Fistula and all Painful Conditions of the Rectum
WITHOUT AN OPERATION
BY MY PAINLESS DISSOLVENT METHOD

I cure piles without cutting, cauterizing or using any surgical instrument. With my method an operation is absolutely unnecessary, for I dissolve the pile tumors without pain, inconvenience or loss of time. I also cure without operation, Fistula, Fissure, Ulcer, Hemorrhage and Prolapsus. My dissolvent treatment is absolutely my own and no other physician is using it.

I GUARANTEE TO CURE EVERY CASE I TREAT. I TREAT NO DISEASES EXCEPT THOSE OF THE RECTUM AND BOWELS.

My Dear Mr. White: I wish to express to you again my heartfelt appreciation for what you have done for me. After suffering for years with the worst form of hemorrhoids YOU HAVE CURED ME COMPLETELY, and during the treatment I did not turn aside from my usual work. I therefore commend you and your method to all sufferers from rectal disorders. Very gratefully yours,

Public Service: City Hall, Courts.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The Board of Public Utilities recommended the granting of a straight twenty-one-year franchise yesterday to the Los Angeles Railway Corporation for Main street from Thirty-sixth place to Slauson avenue. This will go before the City Council Tuesday.

The City Clerk announced yesterday that he will urge the City Council next Tuesday to make changes in the license tax ordinance in the interests of public economy.

The Glendale Consolidated Water Company was made a defendant yesterday in the Superior Court on foreclosure proceedings brought by the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, on the ground that the defendant had defaulted in interest on $530,000 worth of bonds.

Dr. C. P. V. Watson and others were sued in the Superior Court yesterday for an aggregate amount of $97,000 for alleged permanent injuries inflicted upon Nina Menear, victim of Harry Atkinson, who is now serving five years in the State penitentiary. Dr. Watson was also convicted and is now in jail awaiting the disposition of his appeal.

BOARD FAVORS NEW FRANCHISE.

RECOMMENDS GRANT ON SOUTH MAIN STREET.

Will Send Statement to City Council Tuesday that Straight Twenty-one-Year Right to Use of Thoroughfare Be Given Los Angeles Railway Corporation.

The Board of Public Utilities met yesterday forenoon and decided to recommend to the City Council next Tuesday that a straight twenty-one-year franchise be granted to the Los Angeles Railway Corporation for the use of South Main street, from Thirty-sixth place to Slauson avenue.

Gus Kreuger, president of the South Main Street Improvement Association, which organization has been the leader in working to secure the improvement of the street and the acquirement of a street railway, appeared before the board and declared that he is certain the Council will take the action recommended, and that the measure will receive at least five if not seven votes.

He stated that a large delegation of the South Main street property owners will be at the Council session next Tuesday to ask that changes be made in the proceedings for the paving of the street from Thirty-sixth place to Manchester avenue, so that a strip in the center of the street would be left unpaved as far south as Slauson avenue, in which the proposed street railway may be constructed.

He stated that the property owners have come to a definite understanding with Chief Counsel Dunn of the Los Angeles Railway Corporation whereby the railway will be relieved of paying for the paving of the space between its tracks and for two feet on each side, as the property owners will take care of this expense as a bonus to induce the railroad to extend its line. The property owners feel that they cannot afford to go to the expense of the street paving for a distance of almost three miles unless they are sure of a street railroad, which would enable them to develop the street as a business district.

It is possible the changes for which they will ask may require the complete abandonment of present proceedings for the street improvement. The orginal ordinance of intention has been published and the time would be at hand next Tuesday to order the publication of the final ordinance of intention. This, of course, will be held up until the Council finally decided what action it will take on the granting of the franchise which the Board of Public Utilities recommended yesterday.

The proposed extension is within three hundred feet of two miles long. At present there are stores on various corners along the street, and as it will eventually be the main highway between the city and the harbor, the property owners believe they have the logical location for an important business artery.

CHANGE PROPOSED.
CITY CLERK'S NEW PLAN.

City Clerk Handley will send to the City Council next Tuesday a recommendation that a change be made in the license ordinance providing for the taxing of motorcycles $2 a year, payable annually, and that the system of issuing licenses and collecting the fees thereon be modified in the interest of economy and public convenience. Handley would have all of the procedure except that which the city charter provides must be carried on by the City Clerk's office be transferred to the Tax and License Collector's office.

This would mean the elimination of at least a portion of the working force in the license department of the City Clerk's office. At present Deputies Lovie and Wallace are in charge of this department, and the proposed change will at once raise the inquiry as to whether these positions will be abolished.

Anxious for Action.

City Auditor Myers stated yesterday that he is anxiously awaiting the opinion of the City Attorney in regard to the city's right to undertake to collect from the Southern Pacific the difference between the rate charged by it for the hauling of aqueduct steel from Pennsylvania to the aqueduct work and the rate made by the Santa Fe for the same haul, but which was withdrawn before the Board of Public Works could enter into an agreement with the Santa Fe to do this work.

Myers says that he is anxious to have the point determined as to whether the city is entitled to the lower rate, as there will be considerable freight hauling for materials to be used on the aqueduct power project, heavy machinery, etc., creating large freight bills, and if the decision is favorable for the city securing the lower rate it would mean a large saving to Los Angeles.

The subject has been placed in the hands of City Attorney Shenk, but he has been unusually rushed with other important legal matters during the past two weeks, and the opinion desired by Myers has not yet been prepared.

The Southern Pacific has taken no further action, since sending to the Board of Public Works its demand for the payment of the freight bills that have been accumulated, and which have been held up by Auditor Myers, awaiting an investigation of the questions he has raised regarding rates. The Auditor is holding out bills sufficient to about cover the difference between the rates charged by the Southern Pacific and those made by the Santa Fe, and he will continue this policy until a definite decision is reached.

Wharf Repairs.

Chief Inspector of Buildings Backus yesterday sent to the Board of Public Works copies of the building permit applied for by the Southern Pacific for extensive repairs to be made on the company's wharves at San Pedro. The board has the application under advisement.

Who'll eGt the Permit.

When the Police Commission met last Wednesday no action was taken on the six applications for the issuance of wholesale liquor permits. The ordinance provides that but ninety wholesale liquor permits may be issued and there are now in operation eighty-nine of these permits. The question agitating the applicants is, who will get the last permit of this kind that the Police Commission is empowered to issue. Besides the six that were on file, a new one has been filed during the past week. Inspector Graham says that he will be prepared to make reports on all seven applications when the commission convenes next Wednesday, and the board must either take definite action or decide to hold one permit in reserve, which is favored by the Mayor.

Thanks to Firemen.

The Mayor yesterday received from C. W. Holbrook, Mayor of Venice, resolutions of appreciation of the work of the Los Angeles firemen, police and others at the Ocean Park conflagration. The resolutions were adopted by the Venice Board of Trustees.

FORECLOSURE OF WATER COMPANY.

TRUSTEE BRINGS ACTION FOR BONDHOLDERS.

Title Guarantee and Trust Company Sues Glendale Concern for Large Amount Because of Alleged Default in Interest on Issue of Stock.

Suit for $550,000 and interest was brought in the Superior Court yesterday by the Title Guarantee and Trust Company against the Glendale Consolidated Water Company because of the alleged default in interest on a bond issue which was originally $650,000.

The complaint sets forth that the defendant issued bonds for $650,000 in October, 1908, to bear interest at 6 per cent.

The bonds were turned over to the Broadway Bank and Trust Company as trustee and a deed of trust was executed. In March of the present year the bank resigned its position as trustee and the present plaintiff was substituted.

Because of the alleged default in the payment of interest on bonds outstanding to the amount of $530,000 the attorneys for the trust company ask the court to appoint a receiver and otherwise administer the affairs of the company to the best advantage of the bond holders. It is set forth that 6 per cent. is owing on $530.000 since January, 1909.

The complaint also asks that the court set aside $10,000 as payment for the trustee and an equal amount to the attorneys bringing the suit. It is alleged that the company's assets are not worth more than $200,000. They consist of water rights, piping, wells, pumps and other machinery, besides the rental from the users of the water.

DR. WATSON SUED.
MALPRACTICE CHARGED.

Suits aggregating $97,000 for the serious injury inflicted upon Miss Nina Menear by reason of an illegal operation and subsequent alleged malpractice were filed yesterday in the Superior Court by W. J. Menear, the father of the girl, and the girl herself. The defendants are Dr. C. P. V. Watson, sentenced to two years in the State Penitentiary for having performed the operation; Dr. George B Walrath, who took the case after the first operation, and Harry Atkinson, the young man responsible. Atkinson is now serving five years in San Quentin.

The first suit is entitled W. J. Menear against Harry Atkinson, Dr. Watson and Dr. Walrath. It asks $50,000 damages for permanent injuries inflicted upon Nina Menear, who is now a helpless cripple, it is alleged The complaint also asks for $7000 additional for doctors' bills, nursing, etc.

The second suit is brought against the same defendants by Nina Menear by her guardian. It asks for $25,000 and its allegations are substantially the same as in the first complaint.

The third suit is directed against Atkinson for $15,000.

Deputy District Attorney Veitch, who successfully prosecuted Atkinson and Dr. Watson, said yesterday that Dr. Walrath was not criminally prosecuted and that his negligence, if any, consisted in the manner in which he treated the girl after she had been taken to him after Dr. Watson had performed the illegal operation. The deputy declared that the evidence in the two criminal cases had shown the girl had been rendered an invalid for life, and that she had been treated in an unskillful manner by both physicians.

Dr. Watson is now in the County Jail awaiting the result of his appeal. During this week an application will be made to Judge McCormick to release the doctor on bail on the ground that prison life is affecting him.

APPEARS IN COURT.
PIROTTE RETAINS ROGERS.

Peter Pirotte, who is charged with having illegally arrested Detective Noland of the District-Attorney's office when the latter, with other Los Angeles officers, was making an investigation at Venice, appeared in department twelve yesterday morning.

The case was continued until Friday for plea. The Venice policeman yesterday retained Earl Rogers to defend him. Pirotte was one of the witnesses for the defense in the Darrow trial, testifying as to alleged damaging statements made by Bert Franklin.

Attaches of the District-Attorney declare there is absolutely no connection between Pirotte's arrest and the fact that he gave testimony for Darrow, but it is possible that this will be urged by the defendant when his case finally comes to trial.

Several detectives from the District-Attorney's office went to Venice to investigate reports of certain irregularities, presumably in regard to gambling. They were questioned by Venice officers, and Nolan, one of the party, was placed under arrest and taken to the police station for not telling the Venice policemen what his secret work was about. He was shortly after released and it is said he will institute civil proceedings for false imprisonment.

Pirotte was indicted by the grand jury for making an illegal arrest and false imprisonment. He is at liberty on $1500 bonds.

WANTS TO SPEND IT.
PRISONER'S WIFE HAS COIN.

Lloyd Knapp was taken before Judge Willis yesterday, but the application for probation was continued until Judge McCormick returns from a few days in the country.

Knapp was arrested for passing several fictitious checks of small amounts. After his incarceration his wife got news she had fallen heir to a large fortune. Knapp has been trying to get his freedom on probation and his wife has exerted all her influence in his behalf.

Judge Willis said as Judge McCormick knew all the particulars of the case from its inception that he thought it better to postpone the application until the regular department judge returns.

MUST NOT BOTHER.
COURT UPHOLDS WIFE.

Taking the stand that mothers-in-law must live at peace with their sons' wives and not interfere with the domestic arrangements of the household, Judge Monroe yesterday gave Grace Etta Snyder $25 a month alimony pending the hearing of her divorce suit against Fred Harvey Snyder.

The husband has a bakery at Forty-second and Vermont avenue. In resisting the demand for alimony he said he brought his mother to the house and had to support her as well as his wife.

Judge Monroe remarked that every son of course owes a filial duty to his mother but that when he marries, the wife becomes the head of domestic arrangements and the mother should remember that her day is past. He remarked that it was apparently often the case that the mother-in-law tries to rule her son's household to the grief and humiliation of the wife. This phase will doubtless be enlarged upon when the case is tried.

NON-SUIT MOTION.
MAY END THE CASE.

Counsel for the defendant yesterday argued a motion for a non-suit in Judge Bordwell's court in the condemnation proceedings brought by the Southern Pacific Company against the estate of the late Bartolo Ballerino. The railroad wants to secure a strip of the property along Alameda street for a spur track.

John M. York, who is administrator of the estate, takes the ground that the proceedings are merely to obtain the land for speculative purposes and that the Southern Pacific Company being a Kentucky corporation cannot condemn property in another State. There are other legal tangles in the case that will be disposed of before the defense will be called upon to introduce its testimony. The argument will be resumed Tuesday.

MAY BE A RELIGION.
ORDINANCE IS OTHERWISE.

Edward W. C. Bethel was recently convicted in Police Court for not paying his license for practicing soothsaying and astrology. His counsel yesterday took an appeal to the Superior Court, taking the ground that astrology is either a religion or a science and therefore does not come within the purview of the ordinance.

The matter will be submitted on briefs in one of the criminal departments.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.
BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

APPEALS. Grace Morton, who was convicted on a charge of operating a so-called "hospital" without a license, yesterday appealed to the Superior Court on the ground that she was not present in court as the code requires and that the magistrate ordered the matter to proceed without her. She pleaded sickness, but did not present any doctor's certificate to show her condition.

DAMAGE SUIT. John Craig yesterday filed suit in the County Clerk's office against W. H. Elder to recover $5000 damages for injuries received January 22, when the defendant is alleged to have thrown him down as plaintiff was getting off a street car on South Park avenue.

INCORPORATION. San Pedro Leasehold Company, Incorporators H. C. Cook, John T. Donnell and H. R. Henry; capital stock, $100,000; subscribed, $300.

IN THE INFERIOR COURTS.

Woman Is Fined for Contempt for Refusing to Testify Against Her Husband after Causing Arrest.

Mrs. Adella Padilla was fined $10 for contempt of court yesterday by Police Judge Williams in the University Police Court because she refused to testify against her husband, P. D. Padilla, after having caused his arrest.

The couple live at No. 215 Sotello street and Detectives Leon and Allen were summoned there August 24 to quell a disturbance.

There was another disturbance on the 4th inst., and it is alleged that Padilla threatened his wife with a knife. Mrs. Padilla went to the District Attorney's office and swore to a complaint against Padilla.

When Mrs. Padilla was called to the witness stand yesterday she refused to testify against Padilla, asserting she did not know what she was doing when she swore to the complaint.

He Is Accommodating.

"Take off those glasses and I'll slap your face," said R. H. Gooding to C. A. Sanborn in the latter's store on South Main street.

Sanborn did so, and a fight followed. While the two men were exchanging blows, Patrolman Walker appeared on the scene and placed both under arrest.

"All I did was to take off my glasses when he asked me to, and then defend myself when he attacked me," declared Sanborn.

"You should have kept your glasses on, then there probably wouldn't have been a row," said the court.

Both were fined $5, which they paid.

Wonderful Assortment of Coats

It is a hard matter to describe close to 200 coats in this small space. To put it briefly and comprehensively, you are invited to a Fashion Show where you will find everything that has been developed for Fall in coats. The material list includes every fabric that is to be used this season. Chinchilla, cheviot, German Zibeline, novelty diagonals, mannish cloths, serges, broadcloths, Boucle, etc. You will find coats suitable for every service—the street, automobiling and dress occasions. The trimming ideas are varied and exclusive, introducing many new materials.

Remember, not a coat in the lot worth less than $22.50 and many of them worth as high as $85.

Every Suit a Delight to the Eye

Your attention will first be attracted to the Robespierre models, which are being shown in New York in suits that range from $25 to $100. These suits are made of an English whipcord. Very serviceable and attractive. They are lined with Skinner's satin. The Robespierre design is the one big feature of the Fall season. There is a big assortment of suits in mannish serges, 32 in. coats with straight fronts; collars trimmed with silk braid, the edges being bound with the same material. Of the plain tailored suits you will find plenty—all sizes, colors and fabrics, including whipcords, serges and mannish mixtures. Every garment perfectly tailored. Suits actually worth $22.50 to $35, to go on sale Monday $14.75.

ELDORADO NOT IN BOLIVIA.

Scenery and Indians, but No Golden Fleece.

Some Prospects that Need an Aeroplane to Reach.

Los Angeles Man Back from Eventful Journey.

H. H. Clark, who lives in Glendale when he is not exploring the impossible places of the earth in a quest for an answer to its golden secret, is just home from a four months pilgrimage in Bolivia and Peru, the land of the Aztec, the Incas, the rubber plant, and the earliest civilization; a country but little known to the outside world, not often visited by tourists; difficult of access. Once there travel is an experience few care to undertake, or at least to repeat.

The Los Angeles man whose adventures in this queer country read like a romance is one of the well-known mining experts in the west. He was the first to reach Bullfrog, and the second man in Goldfield. He is here, there and elsewhere, wherever the yellow lure calls. His latest escapade in the wildest section of the hemisphere over trails hallowed by 6000 years of time, and hollowed by the footprints of antiquity added nothing tohis riches for the gold he went to seek is not there, but in experience he is greatly enriched.

MANY UPS AND DOWNS.

Bolivia is difficult of access. There is but one wagon road in the entire country and practically all of the incursions into the mountain fastnesses must be made via the quarter deck of a sure-footed South American mule over the most wonderful trails in the world; trails literally pinned on to the sides of the majestic Andes; trails so precipitous that they are in reality nothing more or less than steps made of solid stone transported in ages past and put in place only by engineering ability of the highest order. Up and down these steps the mules travel at a jog trot, and the traveler says that the steepest Los Angeles stairs would seem to them a table land by comparison. So steep are these trails, says he, that the pack animals sometimes are overbalanced and fall upon their backs where they lie perfectly quiet until their loads are removed, and they are helped to regain their footing, for the trails are for the most part but a few inches wide and flanked by sheer precipices. They go in a few miles from an altitude of 4000 feet to nearly 20,000.

On one of his expeditions Clark shot a magnificent vicuna buck, an animal peculiar to the country. The vicuna has a long neck and is something like a deer, its meat being more edible than the tenderest of venison. It is against the laws of Bolivia to shoot this animal, but the offense is not extraditable and Clark says he will take his chances of ever again being caught within the jurisdiction of the Southern republic.

Yes, Bolivia is a Republic, albeit its officials do not work at the job very hard. It has a population of about 2,000,000 of which 1,800,000 are Indians, the wildest tribes imaginable who shun the few cities and towns and live in the almost inaccessible mountain fastnesses. Its President, however, is Dr. Eliodoro Villazon, who entertained the American at the palace and offered him a covey of government mules and anything else within his power. The President speaks a little English; Clark speaks a little Spanish, and they guessed at the rest and got along famously.

Clark made the perilous journey on the strength of a letter which afterwards turned out to be what Main street might call a "bum steer." This letter purported to be issued by a man named Ferguson who professed to know of untold wealth just awaiting development. About 200 Americans were induced through it to penetrate the country, and according to Clark they all lost their time and money.

PICTURESQUE—NO GOLD.

Starting from the capital, which is La Paz, a city of 60,000 inhabitants, Clark made his pilgrimages into the mountains, traveling hundreds of miles by mule back and undergoing greater hardships than in the Klondike. Three features impressed him in La Paz; the President, a fine cathedral 104 years old, and the courtesy, hospitality and help of the American Minister, Horace G. Knowles. Aside from the Minister there are less than half a dozen Americans in La Paz.

The natives were not slow to appreciate what the presence of the gringo senor might mean and near gold mines blossomed over night in astonishing profusion. Singularly enough nearly all of these required an initial outlay on the part of the Americano, and when he told the gentry in his best Plaza Spanish that he was from Missouri some of them immediately lost interest.

During his stay in Bolivia and afterwards in Peru Clark went into the mining possibilities from every standpoint known to an expert miner and his conclusions, which he hopes will prevent other wild goose chases, are that "there is nothing for an American to go there to look at, for the country will not produce gold in any appreciable quantity. There is some placer mining, but it is negligible so far as warranting the expense of getting it."

In Peru his experiences were much the same although in this country he said he encountered the mother lode of the world, but so difficult of access and redemption that it would require almost untold millions to work it.

On his way in and out of Bolivia and Peru Mr. Clark visited a number of the South American countries and spread the gospel of the Panama-California exposition, for which he is a commissioner.

HE COMES ESCORTED.

Frank Martin, involved in a white slave charge, was brought from Phoenix yesterday by Deputy United States Marshal Anderson and lodged in the County Jail. His case will be taken immediately before the Federal grand jury. His alleged wife and two of his victims are awaiting an opportunity to testify.

FEDERAL MEN REST.

On account of the absence of Judge Wellborn and other court officials, there will be no session of the United States District Court tomorrow. It being Admission Day there will be a general cessation of public business at the Federal building.

He Rules the Ancients.

Dr. Eliodoro Villazon, President of Bolivia, whose subjects are chiefly Aztecs and Incas. His jurisdiction is mostly perpendicular. H. H. Clark of this city has just returned from that country, where he aws entertained by President Villazon and received the photograph of which this is a copy. It is one of the very few in this country.

CITRUS FRUITS BRING NEARLY SEVENTEEN MILLIONS.

California Fruit Growers' Exchange Makes Strong Showing for Season—More Than Nine Million Boxes Shipped to All Parts of World—Losses Small.

The California Fruit Growers' Exchange, comprising sixty-one per cent. of the citrus producers in this State, has completed its eighth year of existence with a showing of gross receipts of $16,891,489.95 for the season 1911-1912.

This enormous sum falls short of that of the year previous, but shows an average of $1.84 per box, f.o.b. California shipping points, which allowed a net return to the producer of more than a $1 a box. The total number of boxes of fruit distributed in all parts of the United States and in foreign lands by the exchange totaled 9,191,143, and the average cost of handling through co-operative system was a trifle over 7 cents each.

The number of claims paid by the railroads and other agencies for damage totaled 44,386, on which number $862,094.94 was paid. This sum was larger than the total operating expenses of the exchange, $690,000, and brought employment to 241 men. During the eight years which the California Fruit Growers' Exchange has been operating it has brought $100,000,000 to the growers and has suffered losses of less than $6000.

Speaking of this wonderful showing, B. A. Woodford, general manager of the greatest co-operative organization of its kind in the United States, said that although the returns are not as large as the year previous, the total is remarkable when taking into account the damages by frost, the big deciduous crops in the East which cut down the demand for citrus fruit and the extensions of the exchange system, which necessitated greater outlay.

"The holiday shipments of navel oranges brought the highest prices on record," he said. "This period was followed by the coldest season the East has known in twenty years and much of the stock in transit was injured. The result was restricted distribution and consumption and a bad reputation for some time to the California oranges. Lemons also suffered severely in the frosts and the cold weather shipments, but despite all of these things the average price received exceeded that of the average for the eight years of association work.

"Advertising California fruit throughout the East has been one of the new features of the year's business and 1 cent a box has been used in advancing the cause of the various citrus products not only in the United States, but through Canada and even in Europe, where the demand is continually growing."

Woodford said it is expected the lemon rate cases will soon be adjusted. The outlook for a fine season for the year 1912-13 on all citrus fruits is excellent and it is believed all previous records in production will be exceeded.

OFFICIAL EYES ON OIL.

It Is Believed Government Plans Use of Elk Hills Fuel Petroleum on Battleships.

In the opinion of Willis N. Mills, special assistant to the Attorney-General, who is actively engaged in pushing the claims of the government, in the action brought to restore about 6000 acres of land alleged to be mineral, and patented to the Southern Pacific Railroad, located in the Elk Hills country, the action of the Interior Department in withdrawing from entry a large section of public land in that section shows what the experts at Washington think of the Elk Hill country as an oil producing proposition.

Mills has no data on which to indicate just what area has been withdrawn, but dispatches from Washington say it lies between Midway and McKittrick, and is supposed to be rich in oil, that, under the new policy of the government will be utilized hereafter for battleships instead of coal.

During the recent visit of Mills to Washington it was indicated to him that after a conference between the Secretary of the Interior and the Secretary of the Navy, when the subject of the use of oil in the navy would be fully discussed, an order withdrawing lands believed to be oil bearing from public entry would be issued. It appears from the tenor of Washington dispatches that this has been done, although just what townships have been affected will not be known until copies of the executive order shall have been received at the local land office.

The point emphasized by the representative of the Department of Justice is that after a thorough investigation of the Elk Hills field, the experts of the land office have become convinced there is oil in commercial quantities to be had in the section where the government is trying to abrogate patents issued to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, on the ground that the mineral land exception provided for in the Congressional grant has been violated by the corporation, that secured the patent on the proposition that the lands are agricultural and not mineral in character.

The evidence of the government in the pending Elk Hills suit will be resumed before Commissioner Dongley Tuesday and it is expected that it will be completed by the 15th inst.

NO SCHOOL FOR GAUGERS.

Collector of Internal Revenue Will Personally Instruct New Men in Wine Testing Business.

It was expected that Collector of Internal Revenue Parker would organize a school for the training of the force that annually gauges the sweet wine produced in the local (Sixth) district tomorrow, but there will be no school this year.

Usually about forty men are engaged at the rate of $5 a day to look after the wineries where the work of fortifying the sweet wine with brandy needs attention, but this year, on account of the lateness of the season, and the fact that nearly all of the old men have reported for duty, it will be necessary to put but few new men on the job. These will be instructed privately by the collector and his assistants.

Under the Federal law the wine men are allowed to fortify their sweet wine with not to exceed 24 per cent. of brandy, and it is to see that this feature of the internal revenue law is carried out that the gaugers are employed.

After a visit to the wine-making section, Deputy Collector Jones is of the opinion that the output this fall will be about the same as last year, which amounted to 4,500,000 gallons. But the season will be late this year on account of the unusual coolness that has prevented grapes from ripening at the usual time.

TESTIMONIAL DINNER

Elks Plan to Honor Faithful Member of the Order at An Informal Banquet.

More than 200 members of the local lodge of Elks are planning to honor Past Exalted Ruler John E. Brink with an elaborate banquet to be held at Brink's cafe Thursday evening, September 19.

The affair is tendered in appreciation of Brink's many years of faithful service to the order.

A committee of seven is at work arranging for the affair. C. Fox Stamps is chairman of the committee. Other members are Henry S. Jones, Byron Erkenbrecher, C. G. Pyle, Tom J. Darmody, Dr. Ralph Hagan and B. Gordon.

As the dinner is to be strictly informal, no list of speakers is arranged.

RETURNS TO HIS OFFICE.

District Attorney Passes Brief Vacation as Farmer on His Ranch Near Bell Station.

District Attorney Fredericks returned to his office yesterday after a brief vacation passed at his ranch near Bell station. He said he was greatly refreshed by his absence from official work, though his deputies visited him daily to keep him in touch with the important affairs of his office. He also dictated letters to his stenographer when not engaged in amateur farming.

Capt. Fredericks donned overalls and jumper at the ranch and worked harder than any of his men. He declined to discuss the Darrow case except to say that the second indictment has been set for trial and that it is his intention to have the case tried at the appointed time.

He refused to comment upon the first trial.

Waists Fashionable, Exclusive $5.50

We aimed this year at making this store the unchallenged headquarters for the woman who wishes what is most exclusive and most fashionable in waists. We have started the season with a display which will carry us far toward our ambition. Here, for instance, at from $5.50 to $7.50 is a line of novelty voile waists with Robespierre collars, cut along lines which are partly tailored and yet lack absolute severity. Their sleeves long, with daintiest lace trimmings, and many of them with satin bows of most attractive, harmonizing shades. At this price, also, there is a wonderful line of new lace waists with the more lately designed collars, and with large bows and colored ribbon tie effects in amber, corn flower, American beauty and a score of other new colors.

Chiffon Waists

For almost every use a chiffon waist is appropriate, and here is a remarkable display. The styles with Robespierre collars predominating, styles with heavy pleats by the score, long or short sleeves, as you wish. A full range of waists, inexpensive or those more costly, that you should see at your earliest convenience.

New Motor Coats Smart and Very Special at $12.50

Their lines are such excellent copies of those possessed by the smartest foreign creations, that the woman who obtains one will find herself the possessor of a garment which has "France" stamped in every line of it.

Johnny Coats at $9.75

New shipments of these swagger little coats are coming to us almost every day, and we cannot help appreciating more and more the genuine utility of the style, its smartness, its snap and verve. The prices which we place upon them, as they come in, are a little below what you would have to pay elsewhere, of course. We can show them as low as $9.75, and from that point up to $35.

—And a Wonderful Showing of New Charmeuse Coats $32.50

It is not alone in the gowns that Charmeuse is proving so popular; it is finding equal welcome among those who desire a new and supremely attractive coat fabric. On display now, are a number of Charmeuse coats, in black, with colored linings, that bring out the richness of the fabric by contrast. The price range starts at $32.50.

GLIMPSES OF SAN FRANCISCO.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—The primary election is over and as usual no one is satisfied. The losers are displeased because they lost and the winners feel hurt because ungrateful constituencies did not give them more votes. Of course everyone says "I told you so." It is a significant fact the Socialist vote was extremely light. Mayor Stitt Wilson of Berkeley, Socialist candidate for Congress, polled a few hundred votes.

George J. C. Marsily, Consul of Holland, is in a storm center. On his advice the Holland Bureau of Labor warns unemployed men and women from going to San Francisco and California in general because all reports indicating that there will be a demand for labor on account of the exposition in 1915 are misleading and false. Marsily admits sending the adverse report and says that he did it because the Supervisors passed a resolution in the spring stating that the city was filled with the unemployed.

Clarence Darrow, orator of Labor Day, in a lengthy speech told his hearers that the world would not progress unless it managed to get rid of its idle rich and its idle poor. He also urged union men to stick by their leaders even if they made mistakes. The slight mistake made by Mr. Darrow in Los Angeles was not mentioned.

Thousands of people paid admission fees to hear Eugene Debs, Socialist candidate for President, censure Theodore Roosevelt. "The new party is bogus," he said, "and the very name of its leader damns it." A choice epigram by the speaker was: "It used to be the boast that every poor man's son had a chance to be President. Now there are millions who would swap that chance for a ham sandwich." It would be a rash person who would give Mr. Debs a doughnut for his Presidential chance.

We al feel grateful to War Secretary Stimson. He is a charming man and we hope his visit here will soon be repeated. He has recommended that $1,600,000 be spent on the presidio and that it be raised to the rank of a brigade post. Another thing to his credit—he refused to talk on politics and confined his conversation strictly to business.

A press dispatch from San Diego says that Rodney Stokes, merchant of that city, kissed his wife and children good-by and then dropped dead. Further details of the sad affair are lacking. Perhaps the inference to be drawn is that persons who wish to keep alive either should not live in San Diego or else not kiss the family good-by.

School Superintendent Roncovieri has beat a graceful retreat. He wished to have the people vote on a charter amendment greatly increasing the power of his office. The school teachers bitterly opposed the plan. At this unexpected opposition Roncovieri thought discretion was the better part of valor so he publicly stated that he would not press the amendment. That make such until 1840, when he was appeased by being made Governor of Alta California by the Mexican government.

FIRST FLAG DISCOVERED.

The flag made for Alvarado, soon after his little revolution began, followed him at different times from Monterey to Los Angeles and San Diego, and the flag from which the accompanying photograph is made, is said to be the identical one referred to. It was found in the effects of an old Mexican gentleman, who died at Old Town, near San Diego, and because of his activity during the period mentioned, is supposed to have secured possession of the flag when Alvarado surrendered to Mexican diplomacy.

It is 6x10 feet, made of pieces of white bunting, and contains one large red star. The workmanship is very crude, the flag being sewed together with coarse thread, in big, loose stitches, and everything about it being suggestive of great age and primitive accessories. It is the property of L. N. Skinner of San Diego, and forms a rare souvenir of the short-lived State, and an interesting link in the history of romantic California.

STIRRING DAYS.

As the story goes, Alvarado first formed a party of farmers and established a camp at the Mission San Juan. In the Santa Cruz Mountains near by, lived Isaac Graham, an old native of Tennessee, a trapper and hunter, and to him Alvarado carried his plans. Graham was a giant in stature; a man of great capacity, and at the request of Alvarado, called his friends into council. The revolutionary leader promised that if they would help him overthrow Gov. Gutierrez, Alta California would be declared independent of Mexico; that the laws prohibiting the holding of lands by foreigners would be abrogated, and other favors granted. Upon these conditions, and relying upon his promises, Graham and his party entered into the movement, under the lead of the Tennesseean.

On the following day a force of fifty foreigners and twenty-five Californians marched against Monterey, camped among the trees near the fort and waited for nightfall. Darkness had no sooner come than the garrison abandoned the fort and Graham and his men took possession.

Farnum describes the stirring events. He says old Graham stood on the earth embankment of the fort at sunrise, his giant frame covered with a suit of buckskin, while a number of his men sat astride the dismounted cannon. A flag of truce was sent to the Governor by Alvarado, demanding immediate surrender, and two days were spent in ineffectual parleying. At the end of this period, Graham is said to have declared that two days and nights was long enough "a waitin' on them bars," and the Governor was given notice that two hours would be given them in which to surrender. As the demand was not complied with, a cannon was loaded and a shot sent through the roof, over the heads of the Mexican troops, and there was an immediate surrender, the Governor and his men being permitted to sail for Mexico.

OUR FIRST FLAG.

After declaring himself Governor, the question of a flag came up and the one here shown was agreed upon. In 1838 the Mexican government undertook to suppress the revolutionists, and named Carlos Antonio Carrillo as Governor, with orders to raise an army and proceed to Monterey and retake the capital. Near Santa Barbara he sent couriers to demand the surrender of Alvarado, who took six days to answer, while he strengthened his force and appointed Jose Castro Captain. Then he defied Carrillo, and the latter valorously considered the situation and retreated to Ventura. After being feasted for three days by the people of Santa Barbara, Castro's force of 100 ment followed Carrillo to Ventura, where it is recorded a four-days battle was fought, with a loss of one man killed in Carrillo's force of equal strength, and one wounded in Castro's force. The battle ended in the surrender of Carrillo.

Graham and his riflemen were not in the fight, but had been kept at Monterey by Alvarado as a body guard. After the surrender of Carillo the entire force marched to Los Angeles, where they took possession of Carillo's headquarters, he accompanying them as a guest, and here the flag of the revolutionary State floated until Alvarado capitulated in return for the appointment as Governor.

Alvarado then began to fear Graham, and arrested him and forty-five of his adherents, imprisoning them in a filthy stable, half starved them, confiscated their property and heaped indignities upon their families, then sent them prisoners to La Paz, Lower California, with a recommendation that they be punished for their part in the revolution. His treachery seems to have lacked appreciation, even in Mexico, for Graham was released and returned to California, but there appears no record of his companions.

KNIGHTS AT AUDITORIUM.

The Knights of Columbus will hold a meeting in honor of the G.A.R. this afternoon at the Auditorium. John D. Gilman, past Commander-in-Chief of the G.A.R., will be the principal speaker. Bishop Conaty and Joseph Scott will also give short addresses. There will be a special musical programme.

Pure Water is Exactly as Essential to Good Health as Pure Food

That Is Why PURITAS Distilled Water Is So Widely Used for Drinking Purposes Hereabouts.

The importance of guarding one's food supply will be admitted by everyone.

But a great many people overlook the fact that pure drinking water is equally essential, if one would be certain of good health.

Pure water is a solvent and cleanser, as well as a refreshing, thirst-quenching necessity.

Haven't you still been thirsty for a glass of water, after you'd been drinking other beverages? Water has a distinct function to perform in the body, and without pure water that function cannot properly be carried on.

So, if you would avoid the chance of taking into your system poisonous germs—of creating within your body serious disorders arising from improper or insufficient flushing of the alimentary tract and its adjuncts, you'll be satisfied with none but the very purest water—and that water is PURITAS.

PURITAS Distilled Water is sparkling—it lacks none of the life that many bottled waters do—it is carefully distilled, purified and aerated with ozone; bottled in clean glass demijohns, and it reaches you with all this wholesome purity intact—all at a cost of only 40c for five gallons, unless your home is outside the old city boundary lines, in which case the cost is a trifle greater, because of the increased delivery expense.

Try PURITAS—you'll like it; so will your family; and you'll have the satisfaction of knowing for a certainty that you are in no danger of being infected with disease through impure or improper water supply.

Residents of Southern California who desire PURITAS can usually find a dealer in their vicinity; if there is none in yours, you can easily secure an ample supply of PURITAS simply by writing or telephoning the main plant—Home 10053; Sunset 8191. Los Angeles Ice & Cold Storage Company.

THE FLAG.

be illustrative to mention a single point, viz.: always, in camp or garrison, and on shipboard, it is proper for officers and soldiers having true respect for the flag of their country and sincere reverence for it in their hearts, to scrupulously uncover when they pass by or near the spot where the flag is flying, and especially when they pass beneath its gleaming folds.

(7) The national flag (usually made of bunting) is habitually displayed over military forts, fortresses, arsenals and camps, as well as over customhouses ad other public buildings throughout the country; over the Capitol building when Congress is in session over State Capitols when Legislatures are sitting; over American embassies and consulates abroad, and from the mastheads of American warships in all waters. The flag is not displayed on picket lines or at advanced or "cossack" posts, which as a rule are to be entirely concealed from the enemy's observation, and which the display of the flag would only serve to disclose.

(8) It is appropriate to display the national flag upon occasions of public and patriotic civic ceremonies, but not at purely private gatherings. The colors may without impropriety be wreathed about pulpits, speakers' platforms and the like, but they are never to be spread over chairs, benches or seats of any kind, and never trailed in the dust or spread upon the ground. Offenses in this regard are not common, but are sometimes committed.

(9) The honor and custody of the national flag are not committed to the care of dynamiters, revolutionists, lawbreakers, anarchists, terrorists, law-defying Socialists and other unpatriotic members of the body politic, who are distinctly not the persons to dictate how the flag shall be treated, or to prescribe methods for displaying, protecting, saluting or otherwise honoring that immortal emblem of the republic which too many of such warts on the body politic would tear down and obliterate if they could, or if they dared. On the contrary, the flag is in the custody of its friends, the people and government of the United States—its soldiers, sailors and marines; the great, never-disbanded volunteer army, and the National Guard of the various States; in the care of those loyal citizens who know its glorious history and traditions, who can draw from its matchless folds and from its gleaming stars that inspiration which moves patriots to action, and who, when war comes, spring to its deefnse at the call of the government.

"Stand by the flag! Its stars, like meteors gleaming,
Have lighted Arctic icebergs, southern seas,
And shone responsive to the stormy beaming
Of old Arcturus and the Pleiades.

• • • • • • • • •

Stand by the flag: all doubt and danger scorning."

NOTE — A correspondent asks about the two flags on the Los Angeles Postoffice building. One is the national ensign (Old Glory) with the two stars for the two new States not yet added. The other is the customhouse flag, floating over all United States customhouses. On this flag the stripes are perpendicular and it bears an anchor on the field.

The practice of carrying red flags and hostile flags of any nature in processions or displaying them at meetings is utterly reprehensible. The Times has always taken the stand that no matter what symbol or flag be carried or raised upon any occasion, it should always take second place ,and the Etars and Stripes should be raised or carried also.

TO FACE SERIOUS CHARGE.

Local Bank Teller to Be Taken East on Allegations of Embezzlement of Funds in His Care.

R. H. Moon, teller in the All Night and Day Bank, arrested here about two weeks ago for the authorities at Parkersburg, W. Va., where he is wanted on a complaint charging him with embezzlement, will be taken back to the scene of his alleged crime this morning. Armed with requisition papers, Sheriff Seigler and Guard C. P. Harvey arrived in the city yesterday for their prisoner.

The officers told Central Station detectives yesterday that Moon's alleged shortage is about $6000, and may reach $15,000.

It is alleged that Moon took the money while acting as attorney and agent for Edward S. Anderson and Frederick H. Doremus, doing business under the name of George F. Bassett and Company. He left Parkersburg on June 15 and was arrested at the All Night and Day Bank on the 28th of last month. He admitted his identity but denied the charges against him, declaring that if there are grounds for action they should be civil, not criminal.

SHYLOCKS PREY ON PEERESSES.

A New Bill for Regulation of Money Lenders.

Walter Scott's Historic Home Soon to Be Sold.

Lord Saye and Sele Has Joke on Suffragettes.

BY LADY MANWARING.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—No longer are unscrupulous Shylocks to be allowed to prey upon the "easy" peeress. A recent case in which an elderly lady enjoying a steady income from an estate, slightly encumbered but capable of yielding a considerable dividend in rents, was induced to sign away her rights by guileful promises of large and liberal loans on her note of hand, has brought about a new bill to regulate the money lenders and outlaw all such transactions. It is stated that if the truth were only known, not less than $100,000,000 has been plucked from peeresses by the Shylocks, who overawe their victims by threats of publicity and scandal. Many of our young lords have come to their titles but to find that, during their minority, their mothers or aunts have been duped into parting with their inheritances, often for the most paltry actual payments.

A HISTORIC HOME.

The announcement of the forthcoming sale of Swinton, the early home of Sir Walter Scott, recalls a famous tragedy which suggested to the poet-novelist-historian an incident in the "Peveril of the Peak"—the concealment and discovery of the Countess of Derby. In the time of Scott's great-grandfather, Swinton was actually the hiding place of a fugitive. A Mrs. Macfarlane shot a neighboring land owner because when she would not yield to his advances he tried to blacken her character. Instead of standing her trial, she disappeared, and was consequently outlawed. She found a refuge with her friends, Sir John and Lady Swinton, who concealed her in a secret room at Swinton, where she appears to have greatly startled the little daughter of the house on one occasion by confronting her while her parents were at church. Mrs. Macfarlane afterwards returned to Edinburg, where, according to Scott, she died.

LIFE'S HANDICAP.

Lord Saye and Sele, who has succeeded Lord Liverpool as Comptroller of the Royal Household, will be a thorn in the side of suffragettes among the nobility received at court. His lordship is a soldier, a veteran of many wars, a stern disciplinarian, to boot. A very short while ago he caused grave offense to the suffragettes and amusement to others by his love of a good joke. He was asked to attend a "book dinner," his hostess being a strong advocate of "votes for women." All the guests were expected to appear in clothes suggesting the titles of popular books. He borrowed one of Lady Saye and Sele's petticoats, and, with this over his arm, sauntered smilingly into the drawing-room, convulsing the company. Of course, his "book" was "Life's Handicap;" he won the first prize, but the women leaders of suffrage never forgave him.

Sans Souci.

BOY'S TITLE IS QUESTIONED.

SANDWICH MAN IN LONDON SAYS HE IS "IT."

With a Frock Coat, a "Stove-pipe" Hat and an Air a Bit Distinguished George Tooth Is Parading the Strand in Search of Justice Like Diogenes in Quest of Honesty.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Attired in a frock coat and silk hat, a distinguished-looking man walks up and down the Strand, carrying suspended over his shoulders sandwish boards on which appear bold letters, saying:

"I am the sixth Marquis of Waterford. I do this to forward by case and obtain justice."

This latest addition to the ranks of peerage claimants is a gentleman who has hitherto been known as George Tooth, and he has in his time played many parts, including that of brewery workman, wood chopper in a church army labor home, and is now a jobbing gardener in Upper Norwood.

He claims to be a son of the fifth Marquis of Waterford, and alleges that his mother was the Marquis's first wife, Mrs. Florence Vivian (niece of Sir Charles Rowland,) who died in 1873. According to the works of reference, there was no issue of this marriage, but the claimant professes that his birth was concealed for private family reasons, and that he was put out to nurse with a lady in Fulham. If this story of his birth is true, he was the eldest son of the fifth Marquis, and had, therefore, prior claims to the son by the Marquis's second wife, Lady Blanche Somerset, only daughter of the eighth Duke of Beaufort, who married the fifth Marquis in 1874. This lady had one son, who became the sixth Marquis, and had three daughters.

He says that as a baby he was taken to the house in Fulham in a carriage, and pair, and that he frequently visited the house of the fifth Marquis with his foster-mother, and saw his father, in order to satisfy the Marquis that he was still alive and well cared for.

In spite of his noble associations, the claimant was compelled through lack of means to start life working in a nursery at Chelsea, and since the death of the fifth Marquis he has been unable to prosecute his claim to the title through want of funds. He has now adopted the extraordinary course of perambulating the streets with sandwich boards in order to arouse public sympathy and possible support to his romantic claim.

Trusses Like These are a Crime

Get Rid of Elastic Bands, Springs and Leg-Straps. Such Harness Has Forced Thousands to Undergo Dangerous Operations.

Trusses like those shown above—the belt and leg-strap, elastic and spring contraptions sold by drug stores, surgical supply houses and many self-styled "Hernia Specialists"—make life miserable for everybody who wears them.

And—even when drawn so tight you can scarcely stand to keep them on—they do no good whatever.

Instead, they often do immense harm—they squeeze the rupture, often causing strangulation—dig into the pelvic bone in front—press against the sensitive spinal column at the back.

The Plain Truth Is This.

Rupture—as explained in our free book—can't be relieved or cured—can't even be kept from growing worse—unless constantly held in place. Just as a broken bone can't "knit" unless the parts are held securely together.

And—just as a bandage or splint is the only way a broken bone can be held—the right kind of truss is the only thing in the world that can keep a rupture from coming out.

What a difference it will make when you get that kind of truss.

And you can get exactly that kind of truss—without risking a cent of your money.

It's the famous Cluthe Truss or Cluthe Automatic Massager.

Far more than a truss—far more than merely a device for holding the rupture in place.

So different from everything else for rupture that it has received 13 separate patents.

Thousands say it is as comfortable as their clothing.

No belt, elastic belt or springs around your waist, and no leg-straps. Self-regulating, self-adjusting. It is held in position by suction—can't shift or slip—the only truss in existence that is honestly guaranteed to hold your rupture every minute of the day.

Sent on 60 Days' Trial to Prove It.

We have so much faith in the Cluthe Truss—we have seen it work wonders for so many others—that we want to make one especially for your case and let you try it at our risk.

We'll give you 60 days' trial to prove that this truss will keep your rupture from coming out, when you are working and at all other times—that it will put an end to the trouble you've heretofore had with your rupture—that it will improve your condition. If the trial we allow you doesn't prove it, then the truss won't cost you a cent.

How It Strengthens and Heals.

In addition to holding the rupture, the Cluthe Truss or Cluthe Automatic Massager is constantly giving a strengthening massage to the weak ruptured parts.

All automatically—the massage goes on all day long, all without any attention whatever from you.

This massage—which strengthens just as exercise strengthens a weak arm—is so remarkably beneficial—that nearly all feel better and stronger—get immediate relief—after trying this truss.

Get World's Greatest Rupture Book.

Don't go on letting your rupture get worse—don't spend a cent on account of your rupture until you get our book of advice—which two cents for a stamp—or a penny for a postal—will bring you.

This remarkable book—cloth-bound, 96 pages, 21 separate articles, and 19 photographic pictures—took us over 40 years of day-after-day experience to find out all the facts we've put in it.

It explains the dangers of operations and why they don't always cure to stay cured. Tells why—for the protection of the public—drugstores should not be allowed to sell trusses.

Explains why belt, spring and elastic trusses can do no good. Exposes the humbug "methods," "appliances," "plasters," "systems," etc.

And tells all about the Cluthe Truss—just how it holds—how it gives the curing massage—how it is water-proof—how it ends constant expense—how you can get it on 60 days' trial—thus giving you plenty of time to make sure of its wonderful holding and healing powers—and gives names and addresses of over 5000 people who have tried it and want you to know about it.

Write for it today—don't put it off—this book may be the means of adding many years to your life and of restoring you to full strength and usefulness.

Just use the coupon, or simply say in a letter or postal, "Send me the Book." In writing us please give our box number as below—

PERSIA'S WOES MULTIPLYING.

Frozen Grip of Russian Diplomacy on the Shah.

Northern Part a Province of Czar's Dominions.

A Real Bird Woman Is Exhibited at a Fair.

BY GEORGE FRASER.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 7.—The frozen grip of Russian diplomacy, the hot brand of the grasping money-lender has settled upon Persia. Within the few months which have elapsed since the young American empire-builder, William Morgan Shuster, was ignominiously thrust out of Teheran, Persian finance is in chaos; the $1,000,000 loaned by Russia and England four months ago has vanished—dissipated no one knows whence or how. Shuster found Persia bankrupt and in a surprisingly short time paid off her clamoring creditors and put money in the treasury. Now, the land of the Shah is bankrupt once more. M. Mornand, the Belgian who intrigued to displace Shuster as Treasurer-General, talks of resigning; and the resident commissioners of England and Russia are willing that he should go. The word has been passed to St. Petersburg that the time has arrived to bring about a "reasonable understanding for the settlement of Persian affairs." The wealth of the rich land of the Gulf is to be seized, shared.

In a recent communication to the Russian Minister for Foreign Affairs, Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Secretary, is said to have formally invited co-operation for a more definite scheme of partition. Northern Persia is now, virtually, a Russian province. British "administrators" flood the south. The authority of the Shah and the Persian parliament has ceased even to be nominal. Where opposition is offered by Persian patriot parliamentarians it is swept aside, and the "interlopers" told "not to meddle in affairs which are not their concern." It is a saddening spectacle, and it is to the credit of the Russian Liberals that they deplore it. But they are powerless to prevent what is happening. They expect a violent storm from the Persians themselves; but that is not likely. The Persian army is largely paper and the rest mercenaries without a single spark of patriotism. The nucleus of a patriotic Persian army which Shuster started has been disbanded, the leaders jailed or otherwise disposed of.

A REAL BIRD WOMAN.

A real bird-woman was exhibited recently at a fair in Vilna. She is about five feet tall, feathered from head to foot, except on her face, which is pink and attractive. Her eyes are dark brown and her plumage is variegated like that of the pheasant or peahen. She was born with fluffy yellow feathers and has grown up without ever knowing what it is to need a new suit. Her name is Olga Svelinski and she has four brothers and sisters, all with skins just like the average Russian. Her peculiar case escaped attention until a Moscow showman came across her by accident. He is going to take her on a tour of the world and expects to make a fortune through Olga. She is without wings, but long feathers droop from the upper part of her arms.

RUSSIAN SHELLS IN TRIPOLI.

According to a story printed in a St. Petersburg newspaper, many of the shells used at Tripoli by the Italians were paid for out of the Russian war chest. While the Baltic fleet, says the correspondent of the local newspaper, was on the way through the Mediterranean to be destroyed by Togo in the Sea of Japan, a stop was made off Naples and Russian officers went ashore to gamble. When their money was spent, they thought of the shells and powder stored in their ships to give battle to the Japanese. Secretly, they had large quantities of shells and powder brought ashore; and this was sold through a Neapolitan Jew. The latter disposed of the ammunition to the Italian government just before the outbreak of war between Italy and Turkey.

PRINCE ALBERT PICKS THE NAVY.

GEORGE'S SECOND SON IS A DUTIFUL YOUNGSTER.

Queen Mary Gave Him a Year in Which to Make Up His Mind and He Has Decided to Devote Himself to the Sea and Will Try to Prove that He's a Good Messmate.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The most dutiful of young men is Prince Albert, the second son of King George and Queen Mary. The Queen, practical in all things, is determined that her children shall do credit to the throne. She has reared them up with constant reminders of the growth of the democratic spirit and the necessity of royalty proving divine right by seemly conduct. She gave Prince Albert a year within which to consider seriously a profession to which he might devote his talents with seriousness and the ambition to excel. The Prince, who is a model, manly boy, took the hint; and his decision satisfies both King and Queen.

King George has been very anxious for his second son to go into the navy, following the British tradition, but at the same time to go into it with the desire of serving his country usefully if need be and not as an ornamental admiral. Albert has decided to make the navy his life's ambition and he has asked to be given his sea-training on a Dreadnought and not aboard one of the cruisers usually chosen for the royal cadets. At his own request, he is to be given the work assigned to the ordinary junior officer; his rank is to be forgotten. He will take and give hard knocks among his mess-mates and try to prove a real sailor prince. He has already gone through the shore training, which is part of the education of the youths of the royal family.

Prince Albert,

Described as the most dutiful of young men, is the second son of King George and Queen Mary of England. The boy was permitted to choose and has decided to devote his life and talents to the navy, where he, of course, will get a rank without much civil service red tape.

PRETTY GRAND DUCHESS A DEVOTED PATRIOT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND BY WIRELESS FROM CHICAGO TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—One of the purposes of the recent visit of Queen Mary of England to Neu-Strelitz was a project for the marriage of the young Grand Duchess of Luxemburg. It is not so long ago since the Kaiser tried unsuccessfully to arrange a match between this young lady and one of the Prussian Princes. The attempt evoked quite a remarkable letter from the 18-year-old Princess. She wrote quite frankly to the Kaiser and said that if she considered such an alliance at all it would be only on the understanding that the Kaiser and the Crown Prince would take a solemn oath not to attempt the absorption of the Duchy. She has recently refused to ratify a bill passed by two-thirds of the Chamber, because she considered it Socialistic and anti-Catholic, and she has declared that as long as she is Grand Duchess she will be advised, but not coerced, by her Ministers.

MOBILE PLANE FOR WARFARE.

Italians Have First Report on Battles in Air.

Lady Philosopher Wins a Point for Portia.

Roman Lovers Use "Agony" Column of the Press.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

ROME, Sept. 7.—At the Italian war office is a document destined to be historic. It is the first official report of the use of the aeroplane as an engine of war. The verdict is flattering to the birdman and his mobile plane as an effective aid to the corps commander.

It is, of course, true that the conditions have been specially favorable; but in any case it is already clear that no nation can afford to go to war with a marked inferiority in aerial strength. The various flights accomplished by Capt. Moizo, Capt. Piazza and Lieut. Gaviotti, to Gharian and Tarhuna and back—140 miles over an enemy's country—stand out as the feats which make most appeal to the imagination. But the most remarkable features of the winter's work are the frequency and regularity of the ascents and the complete freedom from serious mishap. There were narrow escapes. On a number of occasions the aeroplanes were hit by rifle bullets; two airmen were wounded, one seriously, but both were able to fly back to camp; and on two other occasions a flight nearly ended in disaster owing to the stoppage of the motor. Each time a long volplane from a great height brought the airman to the ground in safety within the Italian outpost lines. But luck was only the just reward of the skill and certainty displayed. Strong winds blew in Tripoli with unusual persistence during the greater part of last winter. Yet in six months Capt. Moizo made no fewer than eighty-two flights, Lieut. Gaviotti eighty, Lieut. Roberti the same number, and Capt. Piazza seventy, while many other airmen made numerous brilliant ascents. By means of these scouting expeditions the Italian generals were regularly apprised of the enemy's movements and strength, the country between the coast and the mountains was carefully explored, and its main features noted. This work was of the greatest assistance in determining the errors in existing maps, and furnishing details for the new carte dimonstrative which have been compiled since the operation. The sketch-maps and photographs done during actual flight are sufficient proof of the wonderful pitch of skill attained by Italian military airmen.

A LADY PHILOSOPH.

After a determined fight, Signorina Teresa Labriola, professor of philosophy in the Roman University and a distinguished leader of the feminist movement in Italy, has succeeded in asserting the right of women lawyers to plead before the courts. Her debut has just taken place before the Military Tribunal, where she defended a private accused of having slapped his sergeant in the face.

The court was crowded, chiefly with officers and lawyers, who eyed the slim and attractive-looking young Portia with curiosity. Signorina Labriola wore an elegant black silk costume, trimmed with old lace, and a large picture hat. She was entirely self-possessed. Indeed, the president, Col. Delfino, and his fellow-judges, appeared far more perturbed than she.

The charge was a very serious one, and the Procurator-General asked for an exemplary sentence—four years' imprisonment. But after an impassioned address by Signorina Labriola, who was often interrupted by applause, the accused got off with only four months. Signorina Labriola received the congratulations of the court and of all the lawyers present.

THE LATEST FAD.

The latest fad among the young Roman lovers and their sweethearts is to use the "agony" columns of their newspapers for the writing of love-letters in "English." The results are sometimes startling. Here are a few extracts culled from the Giornale d'Italia:

"Sweet, I thank you for your obliging letter. . . . with the greatest displeasure I knew your useless coming my home. When will you return and delightfully charm me? . . . Bifore 7 want your delicious, beautiful company, that will fill me with joy . . . Come here, my sweet!

"Thursday. ABC. Tomorrow Pal. Saturday or Sunday at you 16.54. To see you! What a dream! God save us, my sweetness!

"Sweet: When your returning? . . . I want you, delightsome lover! Before my departure (20) I should wish you to kiss me. . . ."

the Mulini palace and the Stelle fort, with a snap shot of the principal entrance to the villa of San Martino, Island of Elba, where Napoleon was planted for a while before he returned to France to start the rumpus hundred days that ended with Waterloo and St. Helena. This villa that once housed the greatest military is now for sale.

Auction.

VILLA OF NAPOLEON IN ELBA IS FOR SALE.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Sept. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] What was formerly the peaceful rustic dwellings of Napoleon I, San Martino, on the Island of Elba, is soon to pass into new and unknown hands. It has been offered for sale by its present owner, who bought it from the heirs of Prince Demidoff, husband of Princess Matilda Bonaparte.

There still exists all over the world worshipers of the conqueror's memory, who would be willing to pay dearly if they could acquire two historic dwellings of Napoleon on the Island of Elba, the palace of Mulini and the villa of San Martino. There remain many relics of Napoleon's sojourn in these beautiful surroundings. On the cement of the terrace the visitor is shown the imprint of the shoe of one of Napoleon's horses. In the middle of the garden is a bust of Minerva in marble on a pedestal of gray stone, surrounded by a violet efflorescence. The whole place is one beautiful fairyland.

Fall
Opening

—an advance display of Gentlemen's Fashions for 1912-13

THERE has never been a Fall in which fabrics have been as beautiful and as rich and as harmonious as they are this year. Such startling color combinations, and yet such a degree of refinement as are displayed in our exclusive fabrics, present a combination which was quite impossible to produce a few years ago. We invite you to an opening display, beginning tomorrow, Monday, September 9, which is assuredly the most authoritative that will be held in Southern California this year.

Perhaps a brief description of a few of the newest weaves would not make uninteresting reading.

SOFT, "DRAB GRAYS."
These for the more conservative dresser who wishes a color not too pronouncedly light and yet lacking in somberness. There are thirty different shades shown in our store. One of the thirty should appeal to you.

"GLINT O' THE WOODS."
What could be more appropriate for an Autumn suit than one which contains the brilliancy of the Autumn coloring. In these there are interwoven a half dozen brilliantly shaded threads; yet the effect is dignified, correct in every way, absolutely lacking in loudness.

ALPINE "GREENISH MIXTURES."
One of the smartest new weaves that we have ever seen. Tartan shades and color combinations predominate, and you would think that such a weave would be very brilliant. But the greenish tinge is soft and subdued.

NORFOLK CHECKS.
More than ever before, THE Suiting for the younger men. And we are showing them in a greater variety than ever before. Opals, browns, grays, somber blues and other colorings.

NEW ELECTRIC BLUES, GARNET PURPLES, PERSIAN WINE COLORS AND OTHERS.

REMEMBER THE TIME YOU GOT $1750 FOR A MONTH'S WORK?

No? Well, Here's a Chance to Get a $1750 Auto for Just Playing Around!

1. A $1750 Cartercar is first prize Contest game.
2. The contest is comprised of seventy-seven pictures, each of which represents the title of a book.
3. One picture is published each day in The Times, and today picture No. 48 appears.
4. That means that in twenty-nine more days, picture No. 77—the final picture of the contest—will be published.
5. And all sets must be submitted by the end of three weeks after the day the seventy-seventh picture is printed.

These five facts mean that YOU—whoever you are—can enter the Booklovers' Contest game now, save and solve the balance of the seventy-seven pictures that are to appear, and ride away with first prize, that $1750 car!

What is more, you can get ALL the pictures right up to date—all the pictures that have been published thus far—free. Then, by saving and solving the balance of the pictures as they appear, you will have a complete set and will be in line for first prize. And there is plenty of time left to solve the pictures, for you will have three weeks to continue solving them after the last picture has appeared.

In all, $8500 in prizes will be given, and among them are a couple of fine pianos and more than one scholarship. Perhaps if that Cartercar, or the lot, or even the $500 cash, fail to interest you, you might like to play for one of these.

Better start in solving these pictures, and be ready to turn in your set.

What book title do you think today's picture represents? Perhaps you have never heard of the title—that is likely enough. But you do not have to know any book titles at all in order to compete in this contest and carry off first prize, for all the seventy-seven correct titles to the seventy-seven contest pictures are in the contest catalogue. This is a list of about 4500 book titles, and may be had by contestants for 35 cents, or 40 cents by mail.

With each catalogue The Times gives seven certificates, which are redeemable, free, for the first thirty-five contest pictures.

Now suppose that today's picture—or any day's picture—showed a man getting on board a steamer, as though starting for a voyage, while people waved good-by from the dock. Suppose you did not have the faintest idea what book title that picture could represent.

Well you do not have to know. Just get out your catalogue of book titles. "Now," you say to yourself, "that picture may represent some such title as "Off on a Voyage," "A Steamer Trip," "On the Water," or something similar."

So open your catalogue and see if any such titles are listed there. All the titles in the catalogue are in all the seventy-seven correct titles are there. You can find them, too, if you just use a little common sense!

THREE CHILDREN FOR THE STATE.

French Worry Over Decline in Birth Rate.

Nations that Remit Taxes to Large Families.

Play Turns to Grim Realism Before Camera.

BY PAUL VILLIERS.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

PARIS, Sept. 7.—A commission is now investigating the causes of the decline in the French birth rate. Last year the total births fell by 32,869. M. Klotz, Minister of Finance, is president of this commission, and among the members will be M. Ribot, M. Cochery, Z. Bienvenu Martin and M. Caillaux. In emphasizing the importance of immediate action if France is to maintain her position in the world, M. Jacques Bertillon, the eminent statistician and brother of the inventor of the finger-print system of identification, points out that whereas a century ago 27 per cent. of the population of the great European powers were French, today the proportion is only 11 per cent. Formerly French was the most widely spoken language; today it is the mother tongue of only 45,000,000 as compared with 100,000,000 German and 130,000,000 who speak English.

AT LEAST THREE CHILDREN.

As for remedies, M. Bertillon insists that Frenchmen must be taught to regard a child as a burden which its father supports for the benefit of the entire community. But in order that a family should pay what it owes to the State it should consist of at least three children—two to fill the place of the parents when they die, the third to fill the gaps caused by those who die before attaining adult age. In order to promote this end. M. Bertillon proposes a reduction of taxation upon fathers of three or more than three children, in proportion to the number of living offspring—a system already adopted in Prussia, Saxony, Servia, Norway, Sweden and parts of Switzerland. The laws of succession should be modified and formalities of marriage simplified. Mothers of large families should be assisted in various ways, and especial provision should be made for widows left with children. Finally, M. Bertillon suggests that among the humbler class of public servants those candidates for employment by the State who have children should be considered as eligible in proportion to the size of their families.

GRIM RECLUSE.

A troupe of cinematograph actors was playing at a village near Douay, rehearsing a scene for the camera in which a band of poachers was represented attacking several policemen. All went well until some passing peasants, seeing a policeman lying on the grass apparently dead and two others pursuing his "murderers," rushed up and assailed the make-believe poachers. Their attack proved fully successful, and then they proceeded to "Lynch" the "murderers" of the policeman. The latter, seeing that the action of the play was being summarily changed, came to life and was about to interfere when the man with the camera halted him. The "murderers" were roped, swung up to convenient trees, and they were half-dead before the camera man, his film reeled off, consented to explain the farce. He thanked the peasants for giving him a thoroughly realistic picture.

A GRIM REMEDY.

Desperate diseases require desperate remedies. Because the Parisian wives of married prefects find the town of Perpignan too slow, the Council of Prades petitions the government to appoint only bachelors in future, and to condemn said bachelors to matrimony with a lady of Perpignan within two months.

In two years, the arrondissement of Prades has had six prefects. The first got as far as Toulouse and then his wife turned back, utterly dead with ennui. The second, greatly daring, reached Perpignan, but remained in the railway station, taking the next train to Paris. The third actually visited the prefecture and then disappeared. As for the other three, they had hardly unpacked their trunks before they or their wives were packing them again. Yet Perpignan is a charming old town, with fine buildings, and its prefect, in addition to his salary, receives $650 a year as provost of the Republic of Andorra.

In a manifesto detailing their troubles, the Councillors respectfully petition the government henceforward to choose as prefects of the department "bachelors who shall be bound to marry within two months, in order that these officials may have ties in the Pyrenees-Orientales, and may no longer be tempted to leave as soon as they arrive."

This delightful pronouncement will no doubt command the approval of the young ladies of Prades and their mammas. One can imagine the excitement when a new prefect arrives—a prefect not only marriageable, but condemned, shall we say, to marry within two months. But the worthy councillors are not quite explicit enough in their demands. They should have prescribed not only the date of the marriage, but the district from which the bride was to be chosen. What if a prefect with a cynical turn of humor after fluttering the hearts of the maidens of the Pyrenees-Orientales for two months less a day, should spring upon them at the eleventh hour a fiancee from Paris?

Ban Placed on Beggers.

Begging is not to be tolerated on the streets during the G.A.R. convention. Orders to that effect have been issued by Chief Sebastisn. Charles Kelley and Frank Lake were arraigned before Police Judge Rose yesterday, charged with having solicited alms on the street. The former was sent to jail for thirty days, and Lake was fined $30 or thirty days FINDS LIFE IN PARIS ONE LONG, SWEET SONG.

BY PAUL VILLIERS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND BY WIRELESS FROM CHICAGO TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Sept. 7.—Mulai-Hafid, the ex-Sultan of Morocco, is finding life in France one sweet song. He receives from the government a pension of $75,000 per annum. His tips, alone, amount to more than half his daily allowance. Everywhere he goes the sycophants who prey upon unsuspecting potentates, with a vain turn of mind and a willingness to be fleeced, shout: "Long live the Sultan of Morocco!" Not since the time when the old Shah of Persia dazzled Paris for a brief while have the boulevardiers enjoyed such oriental splendor and such fun at the expense of a visitor with a desire to buy up the town.

The ex-Sultan's pet delight is picture postals. He has already collected a multitude of these cards at fabulous prices. He is greatly interested in the revues, but he cannot understand why the ladies of France consent to go unveiled. He finds European beds very uncomfortable and has caused a native Arab bed, which he brought with him, to be installed in his bedroom, much to the amazement of the hotel servants and to the mortification of the manager. At a Paris toyshop he spent $8000 buying toys for the children of the 352 wives whom he Reno-ed off-hand when he said goodby to Tangier. He says he misses his family very much, but at the same time he is trying to console himself according to the best of his oriental ability.

Orrin Johnson,

Who will succeed to the purple of masculine leadership at the Belasco Theater in another week. But it will not be a Deep Purple, for that is only worn at the Burbank.

Unusual Species.

ORRIN JOHNSON, A NEW STAGE YOUNG SIEGFRIED.

Picturesque and Energetic Personality of the New Belasco Leading Man, Long a Winner of Straight Dramatic Honors, Who, in Another Year or Two, Will Be Heroic Tenor in Grand Opera.

BY JULIAN JOHNSON.

> "FOR an actor to possess beauty is as unfortunate as for an actress to be without it."
> "The next man who calls me 'the pretty leading man' will think I am a candidate for Jim Flynn's halfway honors."
> "Travel—while you're young. It is the greatest educator in the world. Don't wait till the life has faded from your heart and the light from your eyes."
> "Work is the only thing in the world that makes existence worth while. Idleness is the only thing that makes existence an absolute curse."
> "To be a great singer has been my lifelong ambition. My savings are poured into vocal lessons. And I have almost arrived."
> "I had rather be known as a fellow of kind heart and genial disposition than be the greatest actor in the world—if it came to a choice between."

An actor who has as much enthusiasm as Orrin Johnson, after twenty years upon the stage, must be a very human human being.

The unfortunate part of acting is that one often—in the course of constant depictions of humans—becomes, if not inhuman, unhuman.

I met Johnson at the Alexandria the other day—no, he's no relative, and I don't think my folks ever heard of his folks—and he had seven distinct and catalogueable enthusiasms on tap in twenty minutes.

First, he enthused about Los Angeles. But they all do that.

Second, he enthused about the people here. That's rather common, too.

Third, he enthused about his work. That promises well.

Fourth, an enthusiasm on travel.

Fifth, about inward strength as opposed to outward appearance—i. e., possessing the punch rather than being a faultess poseur.

Sixth, a very large enthusiasm about his young son, who promises to be a very great soprano.

Seventh, an exultation about music in general, and thereby he uncovered his own secret. Johnson is nearly a grand opera star. And he may be, yet.

Though he has been acting speaking parts with the best of them for many seasons, Orrin Johnson is, instead of being the Gus Thomas or Charley Klein character that he sembles, a young Siegfried, a bearded Rhadames, a silver-armored Lohengrin.

Our new Belasco leading man, oh whisper it for business' sake among the lofty foreheads, is an heroic tenor.

He has been studying voice for five years, was drafted for Savage's opera by the impresario who mixes real estate and the drama with signal success, and, very likely, would have appeared in the role of Johnson the bandit, in Puccini's "Girl of the Golden West," had not dramatic inducements seemed more promising.

I say that he would have appeared in this part. He didn't tell me so, but all the indications were pointing that way. He was actually cast in the difficult leading tenor role in "The Gay Hussar," and only illness lost him the production. American tenors of the stamp of Johnson are all too scarce, and I am sure that had he gone on, not only premiership in "The Girl of the Golden West" company, but a position at the Metropolitan Operahouse, would have been forthcoming.

Music has been his life-long passion, but he has been able to indulge it only during his last few years of more abundant prosperity.

A number of years before he attained his majority he went on the stage to support a family of seven, and in the grand and general hustle he had little time for the arts. He had to act, and to act large, frequently and industriously, in order to spill the ham and eggs down seven yearning throats.

Then his niece, who returned from Italy only last week, drove into the melodic limelight.

After one grand European blowout, in which he stuck one foot in the North Sea and laved the other in the Adriatic, the rest of the savings went into her slender golden throat.

She is completing a course of study under the maestro who developed Caruso; she spends her summers with the Puccini family at Reggio, and her fond, doddering "old" uncle expects to sit under the diamond horse at the Met. a year or two hence, while, with tears dripping from his weak and ancient eyes, he hears her gargle "Aida" for all the four hundred are worth.

Johnson's heart may be honest, but his appearance is certainly a liar.

To look at him, you would say that he had been on the stage four or five years, perhaps as much as seven or eight, but in no instance over nine. He couldn't have been.

Yet in reality he jumped bravely into his first part more than a score of years ago.

I dare say that when he arrives at such an age he will be John Drew No. 2. He has all of the faculties of immaculate and immortal youth possessed by Jack Barrymore's uncle—except that he will look too young to be believed.

A handsome, clean-cut young American, he strode up and down his room at the Alexandria the other day thundering his pet abhorrence.

"Roast me if you must," he said, "and I will accept it smilingly, unmurmuringly. But for God's sake, in any event, don't call me the 'pretty leading man.'

"The possession of beauty is as much a curse to an actor as its absence is to an actress.

"When I came into oLs Angeles I found a paper which said that at least I filled the bill for good looks. To say that that made me sick is putting it in adulterated form. They might have said that I ran away without paying my tailor, that I couldn't speak English properly, that I was a boor in manners. But to say that I was pretty.

"There, to my way of thinking, went all the accomplishments of years. All that I had done in real acting—gone for nothing. I was pretty. In the first place, I know that I am not good-looking, judged from the classic standpoint; and in the second place, the next man who publicly acclaims me just as a bit of loveliness will very likely think I am a candidate for such halfway honors as Jim Flynn still holds."

Johnson believes that the greatest educator is travel.

"Travel while you're young," he said, with enthusiasm. "Don't wait until you get so old that all the life has gone from your heart and the light from your eyes. I didn't, and I'm glad I didn't.

"Everybody advised me to get ahead—get ahead. But I got ahead, four or five years ago, until I got just far enough ahead to go to Europe. I had the most wonderful time.

"I hired an old Frenchman by the week to show me the chateau country. I went for days where I saw no travelers. I am sure that I saw things not even the English, the most curious and inquisitive nose-pokers on earth, have never seen. I slept where royalty had slept, I pondered over strange nooks and crannies where nobility had come to tragic ends. I spent placid, sunshiny afternoons on the grounds of magnificent medieval romance.

"I did the same thing in Italy. I landed in Verona at midnight, in the moonlight, and found a scene absolutely Shakesperian. There were houses that seemed to me to have the same shutters at the windows, and the same windows, that they bore in the sixteenth century.

"At Venice I stuck to the waterways in an individual fashion.

"And when I came home from Europe I had a living picture of the whole continent in mind, such as many a rich man—such as most rich men, in fact, never get in twenty consecutive trips. Why? Because they see the accepted things.

"I had spent my money—certainly. But I was in a condition to make more than I had ever made before, and I did."

The Week.

"JUST OUT OF COLLEGE."

PLAY OF YOUTH AT THE BELASCO THEATER.

Dick Bennett to Play Pierre Once More—Rainey Hunt Pictures at the Majestic—Alaska Films Still on View at the Mason—Fischer's G.A.R. Show—Vaudeville.

The Belasco company will give the last performances of J. Hartley Manners's fine play, "The Great John Ganton," today. Tomorrow night the Belasco company will offer George Ade's famous comedy success, "Just Out of College."

This is, perhaps, the most popular of any of the Ade college comedies, and it is particularly well suited to the talents of the Belasco company, and, like all Ade plays, is brimful of fun of the lightest and most enjoyable sort, with plenty of Ade's famous brand of slang. The piece quite naturally centers about a college town and has to do with the efforts of young Edward Worthington Swinger to establish himself in business following a rather lively career at college.

Robert Ober, whose ability as a comedian of the lighter sort is well known to local theater-goers, will be seen in the chief role of young Swinger; James K. Appleby, in the splendid character part of Pickering, the pickle magnate; Howard Scott, as Prof. H. Dalrymple Bliss, and Donald Bowles will play "Slivers" Mason. Muriel Starr will have the role of Caroline Pickering, while all of the other Belasco favorites will be found in the big cast.

Following "Just Out of College," Orrin Johnson and Marguerite Leslie will begin their joint starring engagement at the Belasco Theater in Charles Klein's recent play of love and finance, "The Gamblers."

Burbank.

Richard Bennett will commence his farewell week's engagement with the Burbank company this afternoon in an elaborate revival of Edgar Selwyn's successful play of the great Northwest, "Pierre of the Plains."

The story of "Pierre of the Plains" is well known to the majority of local playgoers, for Mr. Bennett has appeared in the play at both the Burbank and Belasco theaters, the adventurous career of this half-breed, who lives by the cards, furnishing one of the most interesting and exciting plays that has ever been seen on tha Burbank stage.

"Pierre of the Plains" is scheduled for one week only, after which Miss Laurette Taylor will return for a limited engagement at the Burbank, previous to her departure for New York to appear in "Peg o' My Heart." Although it is not definitely announced, Miss Taylor will probably be seen in Mr. Manners's new play, "Barbaraza," which was to have been given at the Burbank some weeks ago, but which was delayed owing to the unlooked-for success of "Peg."

Majestic.

The Paul J. Rainey African Hunt Pictures, said to be the most remarkable motion pictures that have yet been produced, and which are now showing at the Lyceum Theater, New York, and the principal theaters in Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago, and which have just broken records at the Cort Theater, San Francisco, will come to the Majestic Theater for a limited engagement commencing this afternoon. During the engagement of the Rainey pictures at the Majestic there will be two exhibitions daily, in the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and evenings at 8:30.

These pictures, which are regarded by experts as the most marvelous motion pictures ever taken, represent the absolute high tide in the gradual rise of the motion-picture idea of entertainment, and are the result of a year of effort and an expenditure of a quarter of a million dollars. An expedition of over 350 men spent a year in the depths of the African jungles, and braved death from fever and wild beasts in order that this wonderful entertainment might be procured.

Mr. Rainey, who is a millionaire sportsman from Cleveland, O., undertook his big game hunt at first from the point of sport, but he was the first African big-game hunter to provide that the wonderful scenes he saw and the strange experiences he passed through should be preserved for the delectation of the American public through the medium of the motion picture, colored slide and lecturer.

The Rainey expedition consisted of thirty white men, 300 black men, 138 camels, forty horses, sixty dogs, fifty-four oxen and 150 sheep on the hoof. Mr. Rainey, Prof. Heller of the Smithsonian Institution and others and their personal retinues met Allen Black of Australia and Augustus Outram of the Transvaal at Port Said, and, while traveling to Mombasa, completed their plans. Dr. William Johnson was added as physician and surgeon, and John C. Hemment, as chief on the staff of photographers.

At Mombasa the complete safari, or hunting journey, was arranged. Black giants of the Wahkabinis, lithe and agile Swaheelis, thin and hairy Kavandas and Kharkuas, the courageous, inky Masai and smart Somalis, all African tribesmen noted for their endurance and other worthy qualities, accompanied the expedition, some as employees and carriers and the remainder for the love of sport.

The last week of the great Alaska-Siberian motion pictures will commence tomorrow at the Mason Opera House.

Owing to the large attendance it has been decided during the last week of these pictures to give two performances each evening, one at 7 o'clock and the other at 8:30. This is something which has never before been attempted in a house as large as the Mason, but to give every one an opportunity to see them, this had to be done, as every night the theater has been crowded, and the gallery has had to open most every night.

In these pictures there are scenes which are not only pleasing and interesting, but are also instructive and educational to the old as well as the young. They show things which we would never think of, and things that many of us will never have the opportunity to see in actual life.

This will positively be the last week as then the regular Mason season will open with one of the greatest successes that has been in New York City for many a year, Liebler's "Pomander Walk," with the original cast and production which is now on its way West for its first and only trip.

Fischer's Lyceum.

Fitting in both title and make-up for G.A.R. week, "Pop" Fischer announces "The Military Maids" as his big spectacular musical comedy offering at the Lyceum, opening with matinee today. It has long been promised that the Lyceum, "the only girl show in town," would be there with an offering to please the boys in blue and their many friends who assemble here the coming week, and the announcement that "The Military Maids" is to be the show will be sufficient in itself to assure everyone of a delightful treat.

It is one of the best of the Alphin line of shows, full of brilliant song hits, stirring marches, and dainty, haunting melodies. It has a real plot, and tells a real story, though of course brief in action and development.

Little Hallie Manning, the brunette beauty who leaped into the stellar firmament last week, will again be featured, a just recognition of her splendid hit, and has been supplied with a captivating budget of songs and dances. The week is to be notable for the featuring of two new people to Lyceum audiences; at least one is wholly new there, and the other emerges from small parts and ensemble work to full-fledged stellar honors—the two being Hazel Purdy and Vera Ransdale.

Miss Ransdale is well known as a soubrette here, and will make her first bow from the Lyceum stage as Dorothy. She is a pretty dancer and a clever girl, and some big musical numbers may be expected from her.

Miss Purdy has a wealth of blond beauty, a fetching smile, nimble heels, and a personality that even an ensemble could not hide. In finally according her the position her worth demands, "Pop" Fischer has done a commendable thing, that his patrons are sure to appreciate. Miss Purdy will be seen in one of the biggest numbers in the show, in which she will have the backing of the entire company and chorus.

Another great feature is the casting of diminutive Bud Duncan as a Chinese Mandarin, Sing Fat. How funny Bud will be in this role anyone who knows him can guess. Reece Gardner will be Lieut. Griswold, with the big march number, "Follow the Military Man;" Lon Chaney will be seen as Ezra Tuttle, a would-be society man; Charles Dudley is Mank Dibble, an old salt; Al Frank is Grossmeyer, Tuttle's secretary, and Ann Montgomery is Clarissa Pettingil, the society woman. There will be geisha girls, Amazons, dancing girls, Chinese girls, and all sorts of girls in the show, with many changes of garb and the old flag will wave incessantly during its action, which is spirited and snappy throughout.

Orpheum.

Another big star, though in quite a different line, is the topper of the Orpheum bill opening with the Monday matinee. This time it is W. C. Fields, known as "the silent humorist," who is ranked as the finest in his class. Mr. Fields juggles, but if he never did anything but be funny, he would be acclaimed as one of the world's greatest humorists, just as, if he made no fun at all, he would head the lists as a juggler. This rare combination of talent has kept this remarkable person busy elsewhere for some years, but his Orpheum contracts have finally become effective. He will be here the coming week to indulge in the fine art of jugglery and at the same time to make more fun to the square inch than any man alive.

Coming with him is another rare humorist in another line. Mrs. Gene Hughes, who with a fine company presents a rollicking farce, "Youth." In "Youth" Mrs. Hughes impersonates an ever young grandmother who brings into the life of her daughter and granddaughter the rejuvenation which transforms them from frumps to fashionables. In doing so she makes the transformation in the most human fashion, with a deal of sage wisdom concealed in the art of her wit, and the sketch has those very human qualities which set it apart as a tabloid masterpiece. Mrs. Hughes has a fine organization with her in every detail and the little comedy will be found one of the season's gems.

In other years, Charley Case, who talks about his father, was a prime Orpheum favorite. In his return, many will rejoice. Charley still talks about dad—and other things—in a way to make a mummy smile. The result is an all-around gale of merriment from start to finish.

Finally, in this laughter-provokative aggregation, come the Bradshaw brothers, comedy acrobats, quiet but ludicrous throughout, with a lot of new tricks whose dexterity is almost concealed in their fun.

With W. H. St. James and his players, Burr & Hope, Kathi Guitini and the Martin Johnson travelogues, the bill is seen to be almost entirely one of fun, but all the mirth is so wrapped in cleverness that it never becomes weariness. Frankenstein's orchestra will furnish some of the newest in European music, and the motion views will tell the world's doings up to date.

Theatrical People

From drama to cabaret, here during the coming week.

Pantages.

An unusually strong array of attractions is promised at Pantages Theater for the week commencing Monday afternoon. There is variety enough to suit all classes of amusement patrons.

The Four Bard Brothers, acrobats, will appear in this city for the sixth time, coming back with more remarkable feats than ever. The Morati Opera Company will appear here for the first time in their original creation, "The Madri Gras in Paris." This is really a grand opera of vaudeville dimensions and gives the members of the company an opportunity to be heard in many of the best numbers from standard operas.

Hermann Eldon, with his little company, will impersonate such magicians as Hermann the Great, Keller, and Howard Thurston, making up on the stage as each, faithfully showing all of their mannerisms and reproducing their most famous tricks and illusions, including Keller's mystification, the "Levitation of the Princess Karnack," in which a young woman, rigid in stage hypnosis, is made to rise straight up in the air without any apparent support.

The Imperial Dancing Four, composed of two dancing couples, will contribute a few minutes of rhythm, mostly in clogs.

Billy Broad, blackface comedian, will offer a brand-new assortment of parodies and stories to the Los Angeles public, and the Animated Weekly will contribute its quota of interest and amusement in the pictured news of the week.

Empress.

Two unusually fine features mark the opening of the new Sullivan & Considine bill at the Empress Theater tomorrow afternoon. The first of these features and one that will, no doubt, attract wide-spread attention, will be the first motion pictures showing the fire which practically destroyed Ocean Park last Tuesday night. These films are particularly clear, and show practically all of the fire from a short time after its beginning until it was finally gotten under control. Those who have seen the films declare them to be perfect in the matter of motion photography, and they will furnish one of the most interesting and thrilling subjects that has been shown on a screen in many months.

The second feature will be the Travilla Brothers and their remarkable seal, known to the vaudeville world as the "seal with the human brain." This is probably the most unusual "tank" act the vaudeville world has ever known, for it is totally unlike any other act of this character. It may be remembered that they made their first appearance on a professional stage at the Empress Theater some months ago, and since their departure they have scored a distinct hit in all of the biggest vaudeville theaters in America. Their performance under water is given in an immense glass tank and their amusing feats are always in full view of the audience. They eat, drink, in fact, do most anything else under water in company with their seal, and they have a record of full three minutes' endurance at the bottom of the tank.

Third in importance will be the one-act play, "A Spotless Reputation," a stirring story of political corruption, which will be presented by a splendid company headed by Arthur Sullivan and Charles Bartling. This act comes with the reputation of being one of the best one-act plays that has ever traveled this circuit.

Fourth will be Leona Guerney, the Siberian song bird, a recent importation for the Sullivan & Considine houses. Miss Guerney has excited the admiration of many of the world's most famous musicians, among them Victor Herbert, who is responsible for her present tour.

Will H. Rogers, a mimic and impersonator of exceptiona ability; Curry and Riley, two clean-cut, clever young chaps, with songs, dances and pianoisms, and comedy juggling novelty, called "Fun in a Millinery Shop," and the new comedy and news pictures, complete the bill.

Brink's Cabaret.

In compliment to the visiting G.A.R. contingent, which will throng the city all next week, martial music will be particularly featured by the performers at the cabaret show at Brink's Cafe this week. Military airs from those which the veterans used to hear played on the fife and drum before the battle, to the latest hip-hip-hurrah concoctions of George M. Cohan, will be in evidence.

Owing to the large crowds that will be in the city, three full cabaret shows will be given every night, starting at 6 o'clock and lasting till midnight. Miss Helen D'Arche, who plays both saxaphone and violin with equal ease, comes from the northern cabarets to headline next week's bill. In addition there are to be two new musical acts that Amusement Manager Harold Moore refuses to announce in advance as they are to be a surprise. Miss Mina Stralee will be featured for another week. Happy Ana Robinson remains to sing the more syncopated martial airs; Miss Emilie Gardiner, soprano, will be a popular holdover, as will be Wilbur Ross, who is to be featured in tenor selections. The cabaret performers will have appropriate G.A.R. costumings, while the cafe is to be draped in red, white and blue.

Tally's.

The ever popular Pathe's weekly will head the programme tomorrow at "Tally's." This up-to-date news service has become immensely popular with Los Angeles audiences, principally on account of the expediency with which the important events happening all over the world are photographed and brought to our view away out here in the West.

"An Unseen Enemy" is probably the next picture of importance. It is a Biograph of exceptional power and furnishes its full quota of thrills. "The Half-Breed's Sacrifice" is another stirring melodrama and story of an Indian's gratitude. "The Wildman" is the feature "funnyfilm" and is a screaming farce comedy, showing the trials and tribulations of an angry father in pursuit of his headstrong daughter. Two other French Pathe subjects and the illustrated songs complete the bill.

Mozart.

This afternoon and evening will witness the closing performances at the Mozart Theater of "The Fall of Black Hawk," "Only a Miller's Daughter," "The Big Sister," and a number of remarkable world events as depicted by the Gaumont Weekly. The liberal education afforded by the weekly is administered in the most delightful way possible, new inventions being shown in action, and scenes and ceremonies being presented from foreign countries with marvelous clearness and accuracy.

Commencing Monday one of the beautiful romances of poetic fiction, as told in Owen Meredith's story of "Lucille," will be presented. It is a romance which commences in the engagement of Lucille, the Countess de Nevers, to Lord Alfred Vargrave—both of them high-strung and sensitive, whence arise the misunderstandings which drive them apart. However, the genuineness of the attachment is proven by the strength with which it returns upon them after periods of separation, during which other attachments have been formed.

The story is full of rapid action and interesting incident, one of the climaxes being a beautiful scene in the forest during a storm, when the lovers once more come together after what they had considered a final break. A tragic misunderstanding takes place at last, however—one of those occurrences which demonstrate the mistake of yielding to the blinding power of pride, when a simple question and answer might have cleared away all difficulties.

The Thanhauser story of "Nursie and the Knight" will furnish one of those delightful productions in which leading parts are taken by the wonderfully talented little ones who have made the Thanhauser films famous.

Century.

Another attractive programme is announced for next week at the Century Theater. Managers Loewen have strayed off from the customary Monday opening policy and are changing their shows on Sunday, an innovation that promises to work beneficially in that the capacity audiences that are in attendance on Sunday are likely to boost the show for the remaining six days of the week.

The new seven-act bill is to be headed by Berry and Nelson, comedy acrobats, of which team the female member was formerly one of the famous Nelson family of acrobats, and today pretty generally conceded to be about the swiftest-working woman tumbler in the business. "Those silly kids," as Browning and Manning are appropriately styled, will be in the line-up this afternoon with their lively and laughable mixture of songs, dances and humorous dialogue. Selections from the best-known and most popular grand operas will be offered by the Keller Duo, singers of classic arias. A comedy sketch, strong of plot and action, moderately talky and entitled "The Prodigal Daughter," will be presented by the Murphy-Whitman Company.

The real comedy part of the entertainment is Van Kamp and his pigs, who combine in an exhibition of clever and amusing comedy magic by Van Kamp and comical antics by his funny little porkers. Ralph Ermay, physical culture exponent and "athlete extraordinary," as he is billed, will close the show with a startling and striking exhibition of plastic posing and feats of strength.

Semi-Centennial.

TURN-OUT FOR AN OLD-TIMER.

HENRY S. DUFFIELD TO RECEIVE MONSTER TESTIMONIAL.

Stage Celebrities of Present and Bygone Days to Contribute to What Promises to Be Greatest Benefit Programme Ever Presented on a Local Stage.

Next Tuesday will be Duffield day—that is—on Tuesday afternoon at the Burbank Theater every local stage favorite and thousands of local theatergoers will pay their respects to the veteran actor, Harry S. Duffield, on the occasion of the celebration of his fiftieth anniversary on the American stage. Mr. Duffield has appeared with many, in fact, most of the most famous American stars, and for the past thirteen years has been a member of Oliver Morosco's companies, and only recently this manager gave Mr. Duffield a life contract.

The programme arranged for this mammoth Duffield testimonial performance is unquestionably the best and in many respects, the most novel that has ever been offered at an affair of this kind on the local stages. The programme will open with an address by the Rev. Baker P. Lee, followed by the first act of George Ade's comedy, "Just Out of College," by the entire Belasco company, while this, in turn, will be followed by the Rathskellar Four, after which Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bennett, assisted by James Corrigan and Willis Marks, will be seen in the one-act play "The Hornet," written by a local author around an incident in the present Mexican revolution.

Miss Bessie Tannehill, who has not been heard on the local stage in many months, but who is a great favorite with local audiences, will sing several of her newest selections.

One of the features of the afternoon will be the reappearance for this single occasion of Walter J. Goldsmith, known to the vaudeville world as Walter J. Goldie, formerly of the well-known vaudeville team of Gilbert and Goldie. This is the first time Mr. Goldie has consented to give his famous monologue since the death of his partner some years ago, when he retired from the stage.

Another particularly interesting feature will be the appearance of Mr. Duffield himself, assisted by Robert Leonard and two other members of the Burbank company, in the fourth act of "Enoch Arden." Mr. Duffield will use the Edwin Adams version, and the original music will be heard.

The next number on the programme will be the Spanish dancers, featuring Senorita Viola Yorba, Ernesto Martinez, Stella Gonzales, Tomas Ybarra and Elinita Sepulvida, and assisted by Prof. Roberto S. Rechy and his orchestra, direct from Del Conservatorio Nacional de Mexico.

James Madison Morton's sketch, "Grimshaw, Bagshaw and Bradshaw," will be another particularly interesting number in that it will be the vehicle in which Dr. Ralph Hagan, one of Los Angeles' best-known physicians, will make his first appearance on any stage. Concerned in the performance of this sketch will also be Harry Mestayer, Charles Giblyn, James Corrigan, Leslie Stose and Jessie Jordan.

Besides these numbers, there will be several other individual artists on the programme. The stage will be under the direction of David M. Hartford.

A keen interest has been shown in this testimonial performance by every member of the local stage, and the general theater-going public as well; and Tuesday afternoon will, no doubt, find every seat in the spacious Burbank Theater occupied. The sale of seats is now progressing at the Burbank and Belasco box offices.

ACTIVITIES OF EGAN BUREAU.

CAROLINA WHITE HEADS NEW LIST OF ARTISTS.

Fannie Bloomfield-Zeisler Also Coming on Local Lyceum Schedule—Madrigal Club Hears Programme—Brevities of Music During First Days of Season.

The Egan Lyceum Bureau, with the energetic Mr. Shipman as pilot and Frank Egan himself as patron saint, is indeed beginning an active career.

A number of very distinguished musical people will be presented under these auspices to the Coast this year.

Among them is Carolina White, the very fine young dramatic soprano of the Chicago opera. Miss White created the role of Minnie in "The Girl of the Golden West" in Chicago, and also the Countess in Wolf-Ferrari's "The Secret of Suzanne." White is a native of Boston.

Fannie Bloomfield-Zeisler, the Chicago pianist, will be an Egan offering.

Edmund Warneri, French tenor, is another operatic promulgation of the bureau in the actor school.

Affairs of the Past Week in Local Society.

Ethel Fitch-Muir,

Grand-daughter of Col. Thomas Fitch of this city, who was acclaimed by Chicago critics one of the most talented contraltos the West has ever produced. She has been singing recently at Ocean Grove.

ONE of the most beautifully appointed of the week's social events was the reception given by Mrs. E. [illegible] Lenard Friday afternoon at her home, No. [illegible] Hobart boulevard, complimenting Madame Bertha Kalich. About one hundred guests were entertained.

Pink and green were the prevailing [illegible]. A profusion of Killarney roses [illegible] used in the living-room, where the receiving line stood, and asparagus [illegible] formed an effective background for the flowers and elaborate [illegible].

The large tea table, set with a hand-[illegible] lace cloth, had as its centerpiece [illegible] Japanese basket filled with gladiolas, [illegible] other features of its decoration [illegible] the cut glass dishes filled with [illegible] and the cut glass candlesticks with pink silk shades.

The hostess was assisted in receiving by Madame Kalich and her sister, [illegible] Erna Schwab.

[illegible] Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McPeak, No. [illegible] Arapahoe street, formally announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jane B. McPeak, to C. [illegible] Manwaring of San Francisco. The wedding will be a November event.

—o—

[illegible] Announced.

[illegible] unique wedding was solemnized [illegible] noon in the offices of C. H. [illegible] in the Broadway Central [illegible], when his stenographer, Miss [illegible] Denning of Pasadena, was united in marriage to G. H. McKinlock. [illegible] ceremony was performed by Rev. [illegible] Mallows, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational Church. The [illegible] wore a silk gown, with an over-[illegible] of chiffon and carried a shower [illegible] of white Killarney roses. [illegible] the immediate members of the family and office associates were present.

Mr. and Mrs. McKinlock left for San [illegible], where they will remain for [illegible] time.

[illegible] Delightful.

One of the most charming of the [illegible] social affairs was the luncheon [illegible] Thursday afternoon at the An-[illegible] Clubhouse by Mrs. J. R. Den-[illegible], No. 1700 Harvard boulevard, [illegible] farewell for Miss Lucile Evans, [illegible] will leave shortly for Washington, where she will enter the National [illegible] Seminary. The appointments [illegible] green and white, the National [illegible] colors. The perfume of white [illegible] filled the air, and these [illegible] gathered in corsage bouquets [illegible] ends of long ribbons formed a [illegible] in the center of the table. [illegible] ribbon reached to one of the [illegible] designated by dainty cards, on [illegible] were scenes of Venice, Italy. [illegible] books were presented to the [illegible] of honor, also to Miss Lucia [illegible], who will accompany Miss [illegible] to Washington.

[illegible] luncheon the guests were [illegible] around the grounds and surrounding country in automobiles. They [illegible] Miss Lucille Evans, Miss Nel-[illegible], Miss Gertrude Millard, [illegible] David Evans and Miss Lucia [illegible].

—o—

Auction Bridge.

The auction bridge party gien Friday afternoon by Mrs. Fred Ussher at her home, No. 513 East Thirty-second street, proved a pleasing pastime. The home was radiant with pink roses, and those enjoying the afternoon included Mrs. Clayton Ward, Mrs. Hinton Marr, Mrs. Will Pennell, Mrs. Andrew Swanfeldt, Mrs. J. G. Rupard, Mrs. L. Jones and Mrs. Karl Fishburn.

—o—

Return to Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick F. Cook of Boston, who have been the house guests of their brother and sister, Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Pierce of Glendale, left Tuesday for their home, via San Francisco. They will stop en route at Salt Lake City and Denver.

—o—

St. Louis Guest Honored.

A low cut-glass bowl filled with dainty pink roses for a centerpiece and the place cards, handwork, ornamented with the same flower, characterized the luncheon given Friday by Mrs. F. D. Cornell at her home, No. 2725 West First street, complimenting the house guest of Mrs. Jack Shepard, Miss Gladys Shaw of St. Louis. Besides the above, covers were also laid for Mrs. J. Shepard, Mrs. C. H. Kysor, Mrs. John Cornell, Mrs. W. A. Thayer, Mrs. Edward Youmans, Miss Dorothy Youmans, Mrs. Henry H. Paine, Mrs. Carrie Day and Mrs. R. Heaton.

—o—

Off to Mexico.

Mrs. John Hamilton Spence, who has been the house guest of Mrs. William Mayne, No. 1674 Roosevelt street, has returned to her home in Guadalajara, Mex.

Evening Party.

The home of Mrs. J. S. Sheridan of Anaheim was profusely decorated Monday evening with flowers, ferns and smilax, when she entertained in Beautiful Models in Tailored Suits

For Women and Misses

In these new Autumn Suit Models the woman or miss of discriminating taste will recognize style and tailoring of the highest character. They strike the advance note of Paris Fashions—they embody exclusive features not yet shown by any other Western house. The materials are those most approved by the originators of Fashion and the tailoring is brought to the highest point of perfection by skilled workmanship. They are tailored suits de luxe—yet are priced in a way that has made the Blackstone store famous throughout the great Southwest.

We have enlarged our Suit section for this season's business—bought larger and fuller lines, greater varieties and broader price range and are now prepared with the most complete and comprehensive gathering of man-tailored Suits we have ever shown.

Handsome Suits at $19.50, $25, $29.50, $32.50, $35 and Up

Two Specials To Open the Season

Suits at $19.50

Strictly tailored suits of Black or Navy Men's-wear Serge, of exceptional quality. 32-inch Coat, lined with Skinner's guaranteed satin; Skirt of the newest model. A Suit of unquestioned style and value. $19.50.

Suits at $29.50

At this price are ten distinct models, copied from French designs by New York's best custom tailors. Here are all the new weaves—rough or smooth, and every fashion-favored color you can name, $29.50.

We Are Sole Agents for the Famous

Victor Jay Tailored Hats

That English milliners are masters of the art of creating Tailored Hats is conceded. They seem to have the knack of combining a certain trigness with grace of line which none others can hope to copy.

Besides being the sole agents in Los Angeles of the famous Victor Jay House, we are showing creations of particular interest from other well known London milliners.

The Soft Felts, Velours, Velvets and Beavers simply trimmed with twists and cockades of ribbon, velvet or fancy feather effects are most stunning. Amber, cerise, damson and vieux bleu are favored shades.

—Second Floor—

A Better Silk Petticoat Than Ever for $3.75

Brand new ones, made better and of better materials than any we've seen before.

Chiffon Taffeta ones strictly tailored, or of soft messaline with a new fangled flounce and fluted ruffle—nearly a dozen styles to choose from in colors to be worn with all the late autumn shades. They are wonderfully good Petticoats. Choice, $3.75 each.

Tailoring Department

Since the opening of this Department, one year ago, under the capable management of Mr. Berk, we have consummated a phenomenal business, far beyond anything anticipated.

We have been assured by many, which we have every reason to believe, that our TAILORING DEPARTMENT is filling a long felt want; that of producing a down-to-the-minute garment, cleverly tailored, and satisfactory in every detail, for at least one-half the prices that have been charged heretofore.

With the splendid large assortment of beautiful stuffs for fall, in inmported novelties, suitable for suits and coats, we are, after two seasons of very satisfactory service, better equipped to meet the most exacting demands in fine Ladies' Tailoring.

You will find Mr. Berk at the Dress Goods Department, throughout the day, where he will be pleased to assist in the selection of materials, and attend to measurements.

Wedding.

Ruby Burn Mullen and John Garrett were married last evening at 8:30 o'clock of many friends and the First Methodist Epis- Church. Miss Luel Temple Promise Me" and the bride's sister, Mrs. J. H. Garrett played the wedding march, while the ushers, Harry Muellen, Lester Garrett, Carl Wheat of Fullerton, Harold Sharpe of Hynes, followed by the bridesmaids, Miss Tressa Porter, Miss Lucille Hurst, Miss Alma Johnson and Ruby Hannah, the maid of honor, Miss Ethel McCrae, the bride and her father, and little Alice Dutcher as flower girl and Thelma McIntosh as ring bearer, were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Carl Kisselhorst.

The bridal couple stood beneath two entwined hearts made of white and pink carnations, while Rev. Houlgate read the service. The church was decorated with festoons of asparagus plumosus and hundreds of pink and white carnations.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of cream silk poplin trimmed with Venice lace, en traine, and her veil was held by a wreath of orange blossoms. With this she carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses.

An informal reception was held in the vestibule of the church, and later the nearest friends and relatives went to the bride's home, which was lavishly decorated in pink and white, and the lawn lighted by Japanese lanterns. The young couple have gone on a northern trip, and on their return will live near Puente, where the groom owns a ranch.

—o—

Dinner at Beverly Hills.

A charming dinner was given in the private dining-room of the Hotel Beverly Hills last evening, with Miss Canfield of Los Angeles as hostess. The table was prettily decorated, and with the soft glow of the shaded lights a beautiful effect was produced. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Spaulding, Miss Dorothy Canfield, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Forve, Miss Forve, Miss Steigmaier, Mr. Ruffo and Mrs. L. B. Mackey.

—o—

Home from Honeymoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy F. Mills, who were married a fortnight ago, have returned from their honeymoon at Avalon and other beach resorts. Mrs. Mills, nee Miss Olive Sexton Barnes, is a popular society girl, and Mr. Miller is a musician of exceptional ability. The young couple will be at home to their friends in their bungalow, No. 1117 West Forty-seventh street.

—o—

Linen Shower.

Mrs. Charles D. Wagner entertained with a linen shower complimentary to her sister-in-law, Miss Catherine R. Wagner, whose marriage to Ralph J. Reese will be solemnized on the 17th inst. A pleasant afternoon was passed in contests and playing zip, the first prize being won by Miss Pearl Harriman, and the consolation by Mrs. Leta Santee. Little Juanita Wagner presented the gifts. Those present included Mrs. Catherine Covington, Miss Etta Roach, Miss Leta Santee, Miss Mae Pugsley, Mrs. Robert Whitfield, Miss Fannie Hanna, Miss Olive Warner, Mrs. Mary E. Wagner, Mrs. Charles D. Wagner, Miss Helen Roshong, Miss Lillian Curtis, Miss Winifred Steen, Miss Ruth Bell, Miss Welma Scherer, Miss Verne Merrick, Miss Pearl Harriman, Miss Veretta Graham, Miss Grace Wagner, Miss Margherita Wagner, Miss Catherine R. Wedded at Riverside.

News of a wedding that will excite much interest and surprise many friends tells of the consummation at high noon last Wednesday in Riverside of a pretty romance, when Miss Clara A. McMillian of this city, cousin of Mrs. J. D. Radford, and John Harpin Lindley, brother of Mrs. George Wilson King of St. James Park, were married. They were married at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. David W. Lewis. After October 1, Mr. and Mrs. Lindley will be at home to their friends at No. 2413 Juliet street, in this city.

At Balboa.

Miss Kathleen Murphy of this city is the house guest of Mrs. Will Butler at Balboa.

—o—

Santa Barbara Tattle.

Aquatic in design and flavor, the dinner given by Mrs. Gardnier Hammond, formerly of Pasadena, at "Bonnymede," her beautiful Montecito home, was one of the unique affairs of the social season. The deep sea idea was carried out to the minutest details, nothing being spared in completing the design planned by the entertaining hostess.

Three tables were spread with delicate viands, each course being served in shells. Ice cream was served in shells and fish upon miniature life preservers. Salads were served in shells with sea scenes painted on their surfaces and the dainty cakes bore a design of fish and a spray of sea weed. The place cards were of sea weed and shells.

Later the party roasted marsh mallows with the aid of long fishing poles. In the center of each of the tables was a fish pond with gold fish swimming about and pink and white coral and water lilies making an effective touch. Over each table hung electric lights shaded with semi-transparent abalone shells and also light cast from a shoal of illuminated fish overhead. There were many other novel features.

The guests included Col. and Mrs. Charles Leslie Hammond, guests of honor; Mr. and Mrs. Philip H. Rice, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Doulton, Mrs. Leggett, Mrs. Breeze, Dr. and Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Burns, Mrs. Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. Milo M. Potter, Mrs. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Austin, Mrs. Bain, Mrs. C. H. Hopkins, Mrs. Bacon, Miss Janet McLaren, Mr. Chester Mrs. Ogilvy, Mrs. H. M. A. Postley, Charles Frederick Eaton, William Brownell, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Moore, Mrs. Drummond, Mrs. Edwin H. Sawyer, Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Boeseke, Richard Sykes, Mrs. Ednah G. Higginson, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Felton, Mr. and Mrs. Ogilvy, Mrs. C. C. Felton.

Several interesting events marked Saturday, one being Prince Hopkins' dinner and theater party, a dinner given by Mrs. Thomas Breeze at her Montecito Park cottage, and Mrs. William Frew's dinner in the palmroom at the Hotel Potter. The guests of Mrs. Breeze were Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Walcott, Mrs. Moore, Miss Nina Jones, Thornhill Broome, George Baker and W. R. Richards. Mrs. Frew was hostess to Mr. and Mrs. Douglass, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Coleman, Sr., Mrs. Ames, Miss Marguerite Doe, Mrs. Douglass, Miss Marian Newhall, Oscar Brown, Charles Freeborn, Reginald Fernald and Earl Graham.

A gay dinner of last Monday evening was that given by E. Russell Ray in honor of James Knapp of New York at Brabo's. The colors of Spain graced the table in the red and yellow dahlias used as decorations. Spanish music supplemented the supper and the floors were cleared for dancing. Mr. Ray's guests included Mr. and Mrs. Whittmore, Mmes. Alexander, Browne, Faland, Norton, the Misses Majory Bull, Inez Keeney, Ogilvy, Shirk, Van Riper and Van Winkle, and Messrs. Jere Calef, Emmanuel Dreyfus, Edward Gilbert, Arthur Ogilvy, Leonard Pritchett and Charles Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Burton of Los Angeles returned home last Tuesday. While here they were entertained on occasions by their friends, as was also their charming daughter, Miss Helen.

Mrs. Worthington Ames and Charles Freeborn, well-known members of San Francisco's society set have returned to their homes after several pleasant weeks at the Miramar resort.

Mr. and Mrs. George Whitelaw and Miss Dorothy Allison departed Wednesday for their homes in St. Louis, after four months of pleasant visiting in Santa Barbara and Montecito.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frederick Eaton entertained at Riso-Riva, their attractive Montecito home, Thursday, in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Burton and Mr. and Mrs. Hale. It was an al fresco affair and one of the most delightful of the week. The guests included Commodore and Mrs. Bull, Mr. and Mrs. DeForest, Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Beale, Mr. and Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. C. H. Hopkins, Prince Hopkins, Rob Wagner, Mmes. Bain, Burton, Hambleton, Gardnier, Hammond, Herter and Norton, and Miss Louise Hart.

Another interesting affair of Thursday in Montecito was the dance given at Mira Vista by Mrs. Oliver D. Norton in honor of Miss Beatrice Miller and Miss Marjory Bull. The roof garden where supper was served at midnight was a bower of flowers and other decorations. Daylight dawned before the last motor rolled away and the guests bade farewell to their gracious hostess. The guests included: Mr. and Mrs. John Ed-

Looking Forward

Twenty years experience have been carefully reviewed and profited by -- in framing the policy for "The New Unique."

We propose to give to Los Angeles a garment shop--of a distinctive character--such as no other American city can boast--yet devoted to the selling of popular-priced garments.

The opening will be Monday, September sixteenth.

Plan now--to be our guest.

Picnic at Balboa.

The Bankers' Club of this city held their annual picnic at Balboa last Monday. Trips around the bay, bathing and dancing were the pleasures enjoyed.

OUT-OF-TOWN-SOCIETY.

Pasadena.

DESPITE the fact that a large number of golf players and society folk have gone to Del Monte for the golf tournament of the next two weeks, many society folk gathered at the Annandale Country Club Monday and luncheon and dinner parties were numerous. Among those entertaining were Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Tatum, who had as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. F. Weary, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Robertson of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Roberts, and Miss Mae Murphy. Another dinner party was given by Mrs. L. Macneil, her guests including Miss Elliott, Dr. and Mrs. Bertrand Smith, Mr. Browning, Mrs. Drove, O. Melvaney, Miss Clark, Miss Margaret Ramsay, L. W. Jutten and J. Slauson. Others at the club were Mr. and Mrs. John Willis Baer, Miss Frances Baer, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Seamans, Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Clarke.

Noteworthy among entertainments of the week, was the luncheon given at Hotel Maryland, Monday afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus M. Parsons of Claremont, Cal., in celebration of their sixtieth wedding anniversary. Guests to the number of sixty gathered in the music-room of the hotel, which was decorated with amethyst tinted bougainvillea used in jardinieres and combined with greenery, while the luncheon centerpiece was formed of a tall cut glass vase filled with the blossoms. Toasts were given by the guests. Mr. Parsons is 87 years of age and his wife is 83. Both enjoy the best of health.

Complimentary to her 75th birthday, a surprise was tendered Mrs. Lucy A. Beach of No. 137 South Los Robles avenue by her son, Fritz Beach. Guests of the afternoon arrived in a body and showered Mrs. Beach with many handsome flowers. Later in the afternoon a luncheon was served. Among the guests present were Mrs. Frank Thomas, C. B. Thomas, Miss Ruth Green, Mrs. A. A. Knettles, Miss Margaret Jones, Miss Charlotte Fitch, Mrs. H. Keisling, Mrs. Mary Woodhouse, Mrs. J. L. Tuttle, Mrs. H. L. Canfield, Mrs. H. M. Mercer, Miss Eleanor Miller, Miss Eva Adams, Mrs. H. W. Langworthy, Mrs. Horace Kendall, Mrs. C. G. Woodman, Mrs. J. Stacey and others.

Mrs. Roselle McCulley of the Mt. Vernon Select School entertained with a dinner party Saturday evening for seniors of the school. Roses and ferns graced the dinner table and hand-painted place cards of wild roses further carried out the color motif. Games and music were played during the evening. Those present were Mrs. W. A. Fiske, Miss Anne McAdams, Miss Mina Day, Miss Alice McCulley, Messrs. Mortimer Shook, Raymond Fuller, Robert Paine, Donald Fiske and J. W. McCulley.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenyon Warren of North Orange Grove avenue were hosts, Monday evening, for a small dinner party. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Morris Bien of Washington, D. C., Mr. and Mrs. D. Dager Peck of Los Angeles, Miss Lois Warren, Miss Lucille Warren and Rollo Webster.

Forming a motor party that left Saturday for San Diego, Coronado and other points of interest were Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Blake, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Thomas, Miss Florence Wheaton, Miss Dorothy Randolph and Messrs. Harry Mendville and Gardner Lamber. They expect to return the earlier part of next week.

Mrs. Albert C. Calkins of Altadena was the hostess Saturday evening at a small and informal auction bridge and dancing party given at her home.

Mrs. H. G. Chadwick of Craig and Villa streets was the hostess Friday afternoon at a daintily-appointed tea complimentary to Mrs. Henry Cooper and her daughter, Miss Alice Cooper, of Honolulu, who visited for a short time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Porter of Altadena. Asters and ferns formed a graceful decoration in living-room and den, and the same combination was used on the veranda where tea was served. Guests of the afternoon were Mrs. M. W. Carlisle, Mrs. George B. Fundenberg, Miss Fundenberg, Mrs. W. B. Loughery, Mrs. D. J. McPherson, Miss Agnes McPherson, Mrs. W. S. McNair, Mrs. L. F. Porter, Mrs. George W. Ritchie, Miss Freda Ritchie and Miss E. Tyler. Miss Cooper leaves next week for Boston where she will study music, and Mrs. Cooper left the latter part of this week for her home in Honolulu.

One of the social affairs of the week was an al fresco supper given for Miss Augusta Gould of East Washington street, whose engagement to Charles Terstegan was announced recently. The affair was given Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Russell Wilbur Force, No. 249 North Marengo avenue, and a coterie of her most intimate girl friends aided as hostesses, they being Mrs. Julian Adams, Miss Maisie Lynch, Miss Elizabeth Grinnel, Miss Elizabeth Sargeant and Miss Cora Hill. Plumbago and carnations were gracefully combined with ferns and twined about porch railings and used on the supper table. Hand-painted place cards marked covers for the guests. The evening was passed informally.

Mrs. I. J. Reynolds entertained the J. O. C. Club at her home Tuesday evening with a lawn party. Japanese lanterns were used to illumine the lawn, where games were played and later a supper served under the trees. Special guests of the evening were Mrs. Guy Halderman, Mrs. Batterson, Mrs. Slater, Mrs. Dodge, Mrs. Harry Rutan, Mrs. S. C. Donaldson, Mrs. C. T. James and Mrs. Disbrow.

Wednesday evening at the Lake-avenue Methodist Church, members of the Epworth League Society entertained with a farewell reception for fourteen of their number, who leave shortly for the University of Southern California. Those for whom the affair was given were Misses Anna Mary Felker, Edla Magnuson, Bertha Webster, Mildred Wheeler, May Chaffee, Lenore Ong, Lorilla Brentner, Mabel Newell, Marie Leimkuhler and Messrs. C. Basore, Tyler Parker, Jr., Kenneth Newell, Frank Chaffee and Torsten Magnuson. Class colors of cardinal and gold were carried out in the decorations by use of P.H.S. and U.S.C. pennants, while flowers bore the same color motif. Acting as hostesses for the evening were the Misses Mae Lewis, Bessie Webster, Sena Muller and Leona Lewis. More than a hundred guests were present at the affair.

Miss Jessie Gilman of North Los Robles avenue, assisted by Mrs. Robert Burhans of New Mexico, entertained at her home Thursday evening with a dinner, complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Moody, whose marriage took place the latter part of August.

At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Neer of No. 45 Eureka street, Miss Ethel Neer was married Thursday evening at 8 o'clock to William McAdams of North Orange Grove avenue. The affair was a quiet one, only intimate friends and relatives being present. Rev. Charles H. Scott of the Lincoln-avenue Methodist Church performed the ceremony. After a short wedding trip they will make their home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Gilimor of No. 485 Eldorado street, entertained with a card party at their home Wednesday evening in celebration of their fifth wedding anniversary. Pale pink roses combined with ferns were used in decoration throughout the home. Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Frederick Goggins of San Diego, and Miss Louise Knight of Cleveland, O. Guests of the evening were Dr. and Mrs. Herman Reamer, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Chaffee, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ramel, Dr. and Mrs. O. L. Blachly, Miss Mary Blachly, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Gilimor, Mrs. Antoinette Skelton, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carlyon, Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Thayer, Mrs. W. S. Windham, Miss Gladys Windham, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Nichols, Mrs. M. L. Gillmor and Messrs. G. Collis and G. H. Gilimor.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Wallace of Oak Knoll entertained at their home, Restclyffe, Thursday afternoon with an out-of-door reception, for members of the First Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. George J. Brenner of No. 130 North Hudson avenue have gone to San Francisco. From there they expect to go to Salt Lake City, Denver and the Grand Canyon of Arizona.

Mrs. Albert L. Hall of North Las Robles avenue left Thursday evening for San Mateo, Cal., where she will visit for several weeks as the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Soule.

Mrs. Isabel Bates Winslow of No. 718 Arroyo drive, left Monday for Long Beach, where she will pass the month of September.

Mrs. E. G. Reighard of Hotel Vista del Arroyo, accompanied by her son, J. Gamble Reighard, will leave next Thursday for an extended eastern trip. They will make the return journey via Panama.

Miss Jessie M. Porter of No. 306 South Catalina avenue, gave a pupil's recital at Hotel Maryland Thursday evening. The affair was by invitation, about 200 guests being present.

Mrs. D. M. Linnard, accompanied by her daughter, Dorothy, and her son, LeRoy, has returned from a summer's vacation at Lake Tahoe.

Mrs. Nathan and Miss Katherine West Nathan will return the latter part of the month from a summer's sojourn at La Jolla. They will be domiciled at Hotel Green.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Raymond of Hotel Raymond, accompanied by their two children, Miss Mildred and Master A. E. Raymond, are expected home from a three-months' trip abroad. The little party will arrive here the latter part of the month.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Earley, Misses Jessie and Alice Earley, George Earley, Mrs. Barnes, Russell and Paul Barnes formed a party that returned Tuesday evening from a several months' European trip. While gone they toured Italy, Switzerland, England and Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Flint of Oak Knoll have returned to their home here after a three-months' tour of Europe.

A True Model of Yourself

Imagine a true model of yourself that is an exact duplicate of your own form. Wouldn't it be easy to fit a dress on that form which would mold itself to every part of your figure and be favorably commented upon as a perfect example of dressmaking?

With the NATURE FORM you can do this, as it is an exact reproduction of your own figure. The cost is only trifling compared with the amount of money that it will save you and the satisfaction you will have.

Call or write for further information.

Home Photography

Mr. Walter Laine, late chief artist for the Otto Sarony Co., New York City, has now located permanently in Los Angeles and has entered the field of home portraiture which is now so popular in the East. Judging from the specimens of his work we have seen in this line we predict Mr. Laine will have about all he can attend to. They are made without the use of the flashlight, which in itself is a great advancement in the photographic art, as most people prefer their pictures made at their own home. Appointments can now be made with him. Call 225 Exchange Bldg. Phone Main 7036.—Adv.

SOCIETY,

TIONAL BANK BLDG., Spring and Temple.
five hundred party at their home Tuesday evening. A profusion of pink lilies and asparagus fern were used in an artistic decoration in the rooms where the card tables were arranged and the delicious refreshments served. Those enjoying the hospitality of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. McCann of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. A. Ward of Pasadena, Miss Brown of Chicago, who is the house guest of Mrs. McCann; Mr. and Mrs. George Papper, Mrs. James Durkin of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Heinman, Mrs. Arthur Forbes, Mr. and Mrs. William White and Mrs. William White, mother of the hostess, who assisted her in entertaining.

Mrs. Sarah Longley and her son, Charles Longley, who have been spending a month at Long Beach, have returned to their home, No. 1717 Rollins street.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. C. P Warden, No. 507 Fair Oaks avenue, was beautifully decorated Thursday evening with roses, dahlias, pepper boughs, huge bows of tulle and garlands of asparagus plumosus, the occasion being the wedding of their sister, Miss Carrie May Warden, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. D. Warden of Monrovia, and William A. Peterson of Bard, Cal., son of Mrs. Eliza G. Peterson. The bridal gown was a dainty affair of white charmeuse satin, trimmed in pearl trimmings with a fichu of real lace, which was caught in front with a pearl ornament With this a long tulle veil was worn, arranged into cap effect with orange blossoms, and a shower bouquet of bride's roses was carried. Mrs. C. P. Warden, matron of honor, was attired in a beautiful creation of white voile over yellow, and carried an arm bouquet of yellow dahlias. The little flower girl was Violet Cardwell, in a white lingerie frock, and the garland bearers forming the isle were little Louise Fallis and Charles Warden, and the ring bearer, Robert Allen; while Charles P. Warden assisted as best man. The officiating minister was Dr. Charles Edward Locke, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Los Angeles. As the bridal party entered, Mrs. Arthur Cardwell played the wedding march, and before the ceremony Mrs. Belle Lamb sang several selections. The service was read in front of a bank of pepper boughs, interspersed with roses, on the top of which were burning candlesticks. Long streamers of tulle also entered into the artistic decoration. This was further enhanced by a large floral bell, and pillars draped with greenery, at the base of which Kentia palms and brake ferns were banked in profusion. The bride's table had as a centerpiece, a golden basket filled with dahlias, and asparagus fern was festooned on the electroller overhead, tied with yellow tulle streamers, perky bows of which was a feature of the table's decoration. At the conclusion of a month's trip through interesting points in Southern California, Mr. and Mrs. Peterson will reside at Bard, Cal., where the groom has charge of the government experimental station of agriculture, also charge of the works of several of the western government experimental stations. He is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, and a member of the Altha Zeta and Sigma Xi fraternities.

Mrs. N. I. Reed and her two sons, Elwin and Victor, and her granddaughter, Margaret Patterson, No. 1409 Rollins street, have taken a cottage for a few months at Ocean Park.

Mrs. M. Horner of Louisville, Ky., who is the house guest of her sister, Mrs. E. R. Bedell of Los Angeles, was the honored guest at a luncheon given Friday, by Mrs. Harrison Gifford, at her home, No. 1430 Laurel street. A large Japanese basket filled with pink Maman Cochet roses graced the center of the table, and covers were laid for Mrs. M. Horner, Mrs. E. R. Bedell, Miss Esther Bedell, Mrs. T. I. Gifford and Miss Florence Gifford. Dainty fancy work and pleasant conversation concluded the afternoon.

Mrs. F. C. Delano of Avon place has just concluded a pleasant visit of a week with friends in San Diego.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Levitt, No. 1501 Fremont avenue, who have been spending the past month at Lake Tahoe, have returned home.

A mutual surprise was perpetrated by Mr. and Mrs. George Bush, No. 1511 El Centro street, on each other last evening, the occasion being the birthday anniversary of Mr. Bush. Each invited guests and cautioned them not to let the other participant know. A profusion of beautiful white roses were used throughout the room, also as a centerpiece for the table, where elaborate refreshments were served. Another feature of the table was a large birthday cake. A musical programme was enjoyed and included were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Foote Marsh, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gillette, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Huntington, Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Packer, Mr. and Mrs. William Axtman, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Schult, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clemente and Dr. and Mrs. L. O. Wilcoxon.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Byers Manchester and their little son and daughter have returned from Glen Alpine, Lake Tahoe, where they spent a delightful summer. On their way home they stopped three days in San Francisco.

Mrs. Nicholas Messer will give a tea this evening at her home on Fremont avenue, complimenting her niece, Mrs. John W. Monahan, the occasion being her birthday anniversary. Pink stock in a low bowl, the base surrounded by maidenhair fern, resting on a handsome cluny lace centerpiece, embellished the table. Gold monogram cards marked covers for Mr. and Mrs. John W. Monahan, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Nance, Mrs. Maud Brunger, Ira Nance of Los Angeles, and Will McCrae, the brother of the hostess, who has just returned from an eastern trip. A delightful musical programme will be presented following the tea.

Mrs. Frank Stephens, No. 1831 Laurel street, is spending the week in San Diego, as the guest of her mother, Mrs. Art Stephens.

Wednesday, September 18, will mark the marriage of Miss Anita Blanche Mathis, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. N. Mathis, No. 259 Pasadena avenue, to Alvin Woodwell Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Mitchell of Los Angeles. The wedding is to be an open-air event, taking place in the garden of the Mathis home, and elaborate preparations are being made for it. Mrs. Robert Fulton, who is a sister of the groom-elect, will serve as matron-of-honor, while the bridesmaids are to be Miss Grace Mathis, sister of the prospective bride; Miss Oneida Madison of San Francisco, Miss Ethel Bishop of Honolulu, and Miss Margaret Pewtress of Alameda. Earl Howard Mathis is to serve as best man, and the flower bearers will be little Martha Nichols, Mary Annin and Katherine Howard, cousins of the bride-elect.

Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus Lowe, and Miss Florence Lowe of Garfield avenue, have returned from Squirrel Inn, and gone to San Diego. Miss Lowe will attend Bishop's school in La Jolla, while her parents are stopping at the Coronado Hotel.

Mrs. L. Hutchason of Bushnell avenue, entertained with a charmingly appointed party Wednesday afternoon to introduce her daughter, Mrs. E. Flaybeck of Denver, who is her house guest. A profusion of roses were used throughout the rooms, while the table accessories were in yellow. A cut glass vase filled with goldenrod, ornamented the center of the table, and festoons of asparagus fern, extended from the flowers to the ends of the table. Those invited to meet the honored guest were Mrs. Clinton Woodruff, Mrs. E. May, Mrs. William Bradshaw, Mrs. Arthur Garrison, Mrs. R. W. Evans of London, Ontario, Mrs. E. Nichol, Mrs. A. Cloons of Chicago, and Mrs. John Doyle.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kelley, No. 1525 Ramona avenue, and their three children, have returned from a two-months' vacation spent at Pine Crest, in the San Bernardino Mountains.

Elopements seem to be in the air in this city, another occurring this week, the interested parties being Miss Pauline Sparks and Carl G. Sleeper. The wedding occurred Thursday morning at 7 o'clock in St. Andrew's Catholic Church, in Pasadena. This wedding is the culmination of an acquaintance which started in this city about a year ago at a Catholic bazaar.

Alhambra.

A QUIET wedding was solemnized in the Marengo-avenue Methodist Church, Thursday, August 29, when Harry F. Harker and Miss Edith Newman Bahn were united in marriage, at 10:30 o'clock. The church was appropriately decorated for the occasion, with tall ferns and purple asters. Rev. James E. Cope, pastor, and Rev. Luther Rice of Chula Vista, Cal., former pastor, were the officiating ministers. The bride was attired in a becoming tailor-made suit, and blue velvet hat trimmed with white ostrich, and was attended by Miss Sadie McKinly of Philadelphia, as maid of honor. Each wore a corsage of white blossoms with maiden-hair fern. Roy Harris of Oregon, formerly of Pomona, was best man. Only immediate relatives of the parties were present. Mr. and Mrs. Harker left at once for an extended trip, and will be at home in their new bungalow, at Second avenue and Glendon way, Ramona Park, after November 1.

The many friends of Miss E. June Marshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Marshall, who formerly resided at No. 825 North Electric avenue, will be pleased to learn that she was married a short time ago to Fred L. Stilwagon, a prominent young man of Largo, Fla. The Marshall family left Alhambra about a year ago for Florida, where they now reside.

Mr. and Mrs. James J. Conrad entertained Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Bragonier, and daughter, Miss Hazel Bragonier, of South Pasadena, and Mrs. Majors of Tacoma, Wash., at dinner last Sunday.

Montebello.

THE First Methodist Episcopal Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding Wednesday evening when Miss Ruby Fern Mullen became the bride of John Wesley Garrett. The church was very beautifully decorated for the occasion with pink and white carnations and ferns. The ceremony being performed under a canopy of flowers from which hung two hearts of carnations. The bride looked charming in a beautiful gown of silk poplin trimmed with Venise lace with a long tulle veil held in place with a bandeau of orange blossoms. She carried a shower of bride's roses tied with a tulle bow. The maid-of-honor, Miss Ethel McCrea, wore a dress of white silk, embroidered in pink roses and carried a basket of Montebello roses of the same color. The bridesmaids, the Misses Lucile Hurst and Thelma Porter, were dressed in pink and carried baskets of pink carnations with big tulle bows, while the Misses Ruby Hanna and Alma Johnson completed the color scheme with dresses of green and baskets of pink carnations.

The little Misses Alice Dutcher and Thelma McIntosh wore lovely white dresses with perky pink bows in their hair. Miss Alice, the bride's cousin, was flower girl, and Miss Thelma carried the ring in a beautiful white rose.

Rev. J. C. Holgate, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony, using the beautiful ring service. Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Mullen. Mr. and Mrs. Garrett left Thursday morning for San Francisco by automobile and expect to spend a month touring the northern part of the State. After October 15 they will be at home at Puente.

Inglewood.

"CASA DE CONSUELO," the beautiful new home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Eager of West Regent street, was the scene during the past week of a number of delightful social affairs, of which the most notable were the "fortnightly high school dancing party" Friday night and a dinner party and musicale Saturday evening, at which Mr. and Mrs. Eager entertained sixteen guests from Pasadena.

For the Saturday evening affair as it was near to Admission Day the floral decorations were carried out in the California State colors. Assisting Mr. and Mrs. Eager with the splendid musical programme rendered were Miss Lila Dayrymple, violinist; E. B. Plank, tenor soloist, and Scott Ormsby, pianist, all of Pasadena, and Mr. A. F. Monroe, violinist, of Inglewood. One of the very enjoyable features of the evening's fun was the "Maud Allen" dances given by E. B. Plank. Six members of the party remained as over-Sunday guests and were joined during the day by a party of twenty more visitors.

The Inglewood Woman's Club held the first meeting of its club year Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. G. Brown. Two splendid papers were read: "Original Californians and Romance Previous to Coming of Missionaries" and "Spanish Explorers" by Mrs. C. K. Buckle, and "California's Earth Story" by Mrs. Milton R. Kerr. The roll call—"Vacation Experiences"—proved a delightful feature of the afternoon's work. "California—its History and Romance" will be the study work of the members for the coming year. The officers of the Inglewood Woman's Club are: President, Mrs. Milton R. Kerr; vice-president, Mrs. Edward M. Calkins; secretary, Mrs. Charles K. Buckle; treasurer, Mrs. George R. Westlake.

Mrs. S. Holbrook and Mrs. J. M. Swetnam of Phoenix, Ariz., spent Thursday in Inglewood, guests of Mrs. Robert D. Aylsworth of Regent street.

Mrs. S. Sollenberger proved a charming hostess at her home Thursday afternoon to about forty ladies and friends of the M. E. Church. The delightful programme rendered consisted of piano solos by Mrs. D. Crosier, vocal solos by Gertrude Crosier and Miss Emma Sorensen, Homer Simmons accompanist, and humorous readings by the hostess and her little son, Donald. Following the luncheon delicious refreshments of cake and chocolate were served.

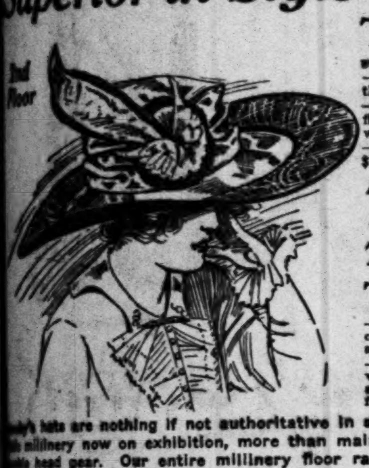
Save From $5 to $15 on Swell New Fall Suits $25

150 New Fall Tailored Hats Superior in Style and Value at $5.00



THESE are hats that enjoy the most tremendous vogue—not alone because of their dashing style and ultra becomingness, but also because of the fact that they come from the ateliers of the most famed creators of tailored suit hats in New York and Chicago.
—Every one is a sample and possesses some little different touch from its neighbor that calls forth further expression of delight and admiration.
—The collection includes the swellest new picture models and small effects in finest imported French felt and velvet—there are styles suitable alike for both women and misses.
—If we owned them in the regular way, not one could be sold for less than $10—your choice Monday $5.00.

Tailored Hats That Have No Duplicates at $9.75

THIS lot of wonderfully stylish hats at $9.75 comprises the cream of the fairest productions of such houses as "Gage Bros.," Chicago, and other establishments of equal celebrity in the world of millinery.
—If the prize models of the $20 collections in other stores were gathered together in one group, they would not reflect greater style or beauty than those we offer Monday at $9.75.
—Tailored models that represent the highest point of achievement in gorgeous plush velvets and rich imported French felts, trimmed in the clever new fancy ostrich bands and rosettes of moire and plain ribbons—artistically constructed models in the most favored of the new Fall shades and white, Monday $9.75.

Jacoby's hats are nothing if not authoritative in style and distinctly high class in workmanship. The superb groups of artistic millinery now on exhibition, more than maintain our acknowledged pre-eminence in all that pertains to women's fashionable head gear. Our entire millinery floor radiantly ready for the most critical inspection.

Monday, Third Floor, at —Every Suit a Gilt-Edge Testimonial to Jacoby's Supremacy in the Garment Field—Both as to Style and Value

—However, it is the intrinsic value, the style and practicability that characterizes these suits at $25, rather than the low price that will appeal to you most.

THEY represent the greatest line of women's suits to sell at $25 ever brought to Los Angeles, and the moment you see them you will say to yourself, "Now, here are the kind of suits one likes to wear."
—$25 suits that are making scores of new friends for Jacoby's every day in the week.

—Many of the models are reproductions and modifications of some of the most eminent Parisian designers' master creations.

—Suits that embody all the clever ideas and smartness of construction that distinguishes garments that sell at a much higher price.

—Included are the rich novelty trimmed and slashed effects, as well as models with the new long graceful lines that have so many ardent admirers.

—The materials used are those in greatest demand and strictly fashionable—the line of colorings show all the popular new shades for Fall—as soon as one sees them the exceptional value at $25 is realized.

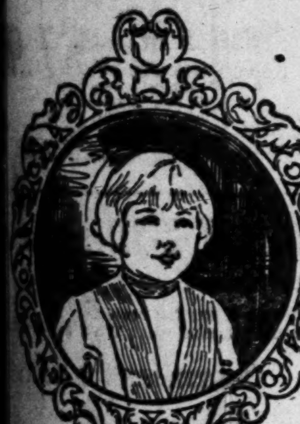
Announcement Extraordinary!
Exquisite Columbia Medallions FREE



Jacoby Bros.' Liberal Offer
Of Interest and Importance to Everybody

To prove our appreciation of your good will and substantial patronage, as well as to show the progressive spirit and make many new friends

Beginning Monday, September 9th, We Are Going to Give to Our Patrons—FREE Beautiful High Class Medallion Portraits

PERFECT and artistic reproductions of your own photographs — a valuable keepsake of lasting permanence, that will not fade or break. These six-inch Medallions are in porcelain effect—a gift worthy of us to give and worthy of you to accept.
They are sufficiently handsome and elegant to hold a place of honor in your home, and will be appreciated by every member of your family.

These Exquisite Medallion Portraits Cost You Absolutely Nothing

THEY are superior to any hand-work; they have the soft finish and artistic excellence of hand-painted ivory or porcelain miniatures. We guarantee the likeness to be an absolute facsimile of the photograph furnished.
Dainty and refined—an ornament to the home—the result is sure to be satisfactory. Can be washed when soiled, without harm—preserving forever the features of those you love.

How to Secure One of These Medallions FREE

WHEN you make a purchase (of 10c or more) at any department, ask the salesperson for a Medallion Ticket. Take this ticket, together with your sales-check, to the Medallion Booth (located on first floor.) Here it will be punched for the amount you have bought. When you have made purchases to the amount of $10, bring your ticket, with the photograph you wish to have reproduced, to the Medallion Booth.
You will receive the Medallion in about three weeks. Your photograph will be returned at the same time, unharmed.
If you wish, you can buy a Frame for the Medallion at our wholesale price, 50c to $1.50.
The Various Styles of These Medallions Are Now On Display at the Medallion Booth—First Floor.

Jacoby's

Superb Display Chiffon Dancing Dresses $15 to $29.50

THESE are the dresses that society has gone wild about—lovely new creations in finest chiffon, as well as the rich and gorgeous Charmeuse silk evening gowns—in the different styles the new pannier model stands out a work of art and beauty simply matchless.
—Other models portrayed are daintily trimmed with clusters of French flowers and many have the extremely graceful new accordion pleated flounces—all the soft new evening shades for Fall are shown. Another model shows the surplice bertha effect that gives the long broad lines from the shoulders down, which is becoming to all figures. Distinctive and effective models moderately priced in introductory offering Monday. Third Floor.

Wonderfully Attractive Dress Hats—New for Fall .. $10

—Just a peep into the boxes of the charming new dress hats that are to be a feature of our merchandising Monday, will convey to you, in a measure, why this millinery department is winning such distinction for beautiful millinery at a low price.
—We are studying the wants of Los Angeles women. Meeting their requirements, fashioning millinery that is practical, that has every style touch the season demands.
—Putting millinery upon a solid merchandising basis, giving the best value possible for the money.
—These we present include the desired trimmings, shapes and colors that are now being sought. Velvet, moire silk and fine felt shapes for street wear or for the more dressy occasions.
—Trimmings of fancy ostrich feathers, silk laces, new ribbons and ornaments. The late colors are represented as well as black and white. Surely this millinery will appeal to you at $10.

—That's what the writer said when he saw them. That's what you'll say to yourself when you see them.
—New Fall Tailored Suits that have come to take possession of this garment department, establishing a value precedent that is even greater than sale news.
—$15 Suits that were made with the value idea uppermost. Better suits for $15 than you'd ever expect to buy at this price, except under extraordinary cricumstances.
—Five of the suits pictured.
—Every suit an important feature at the price.
—We've determined to win your patronage on the value basis. These $15 suits will become famous throughout Los Angeles. How can they help it?
—No, indeed, not ordinary suits. These brief descriptions of a few models pictured proclaim their values.

Model A at $15

—Of brown mixed suiting, excellent quality. Straps of same material across back. Button trimmed. Lined with good quality satin. Very exceptional at $15.

SOCIETY.

and Mrs. Sam Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Mann, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Barnett and Mrs. Boehner.

Thursday evening Mrs. Charles Norton was the hostess at the open meeting of the Laurel Canyon Woman's Club, when a farce, "The Editing of the Canyon City Clarion," was presented by several members of the club at Ye Bungalow Tearooms. The affair, which was most entertaining, was given for the benefit of a woman's clubhouse to be built in Laurel Canyon. Those taking part were: Burdette Hastings Norton, Manager; Zoe Place Ephlin, editor-in-chief; Delia Butterworth Price, city editor; Amy Bers Bach Porter, society reporter; Harriet Roach Mathews, poet; Dr. Jennings, national correspondent; Elvie Blake Small, reporter, and Ann Nabors, sporting editor. The scene portrayed a printing office twenty-five years hence. The staff, which edited and published the extraordinary paper with the new "pressaphone," are to be highly complimented upon their ability to publish such a unique and newsy edition. The first few papers were sold at auction, bringing large sums. A large amount was raised during the evening, which makes it very encouraging for the club women, who are working hard to begin the erection of the new building at once.

H. Powell McCullough, a San Francisco banker, spent last week-end with his aunt, Miss McCullough, at the Hollywood.

Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Wilson and Frank M. Wilson of Berkeley have taken apartments at the Hollywood this week, and will remain for several weeks. Others to take apartments at the hotel this week were: Mrs. William H. Carter and little son of Jackson, Mich.; Mrs. S. W. Botsford and mother, Mrs. M. S. Slack, while their new home is being finished; Mr. and Mrs. George W. Reeves of San Diego, S. Frye of Memphis, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Howland of Long Beach, who were the guests of Orville C. Howland for the week, and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Minister of Los Angeles.

The semi-monthly dance at Hotel Hollywood last Friday evening was enjoyed by fully 200 guests. Several dinner parties preceded the dance. Among these affairs was a dinner given by Ernest Crooke, when he entertained Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Finckle, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Dunnigan and Mrs. R. B. Brown of San Francisco. The table was prettily decorated with Cecile Bruner roses and fern. Jack French also entertained at dinner the Misses Ruth and Clara Parks and George Finney.

Miss Helen Burford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Burford of La Brea avenue, left Friday for an extended visit to West Virginia, where she will be the guest of Senator and Mrs. Julian G. Hearne of Wheling, returning home about January 1.

Mrs. Harold W. Gorham charmingly entertained the Friday Afternoon Bridge Club at her home, No. 1912 Lexington avenue, this week. A delightful afternoon was enjoyed, and dainty refreshments were served. The first prize was awarded Mrs. George Eastman, while the second went to Mrs. Frank Galloway.

Burbank.

A QUIET wedding took place this week at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Taylor, at which time their daughter, Ruth Esther, was united in marriage to Walter Earl Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Lawrence. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. E. Lowe of Escondido. The bridal couple stood within a bower of palm fronds and white carnations. The bride wore white messaline and carried a bouquet of Cecile Brunner roses. The matron of honor, Mrs. B. A. Kendall, sister of the bride, wore blue messaline. The groom's attendant was B. A. Kendall. Following the ceremony refreshments were served. The guests comprised only members of the immediate families. The bridal couple went to Camp Baldy for a brief honeymoon, and will be at home on Magnolia avenue, Burbank, after September 15. The groom is connected with the wholesale jewelry house of E. W. Reynolds Company, Los Angeles.

El Monte.

SHAKESPEARE CLUB members are delighted over the appearance of a neat little year book in white and gold, which publishes a list of officers, directors and members, gives a suggestive programme of section work and a lot of valuable and helpful information in small compass.

The year book is an innovation in the Shakespeare Club and its appearance is due largely to the president, Mrs. G. J. Charlesworth. Another innovation for the year is a fifth Friday programme, when an out-of-town lecturer will be secured in charge of the president of the board of directors, Mrs. L. R. Thompson. Club work, as formerly will be carried on by three sections: Shakespeare, Mrs. J. Williams, curator; current events and travel, Mrs. Junia G. Farrington; curator; household economics, Mrs. Rose Webster Snell, curator. Shakespeare lecture meets second and fourth Fridays; current events, first and third Fridays, and household economics, second and fourth Tuesdays of each month. The opening event of the year will be a social event known as "Officers Day," October 1, at the residence of Mrs. Grace Williams.

El Monte has this week centered her social interest in the marriage of two of her most eminently respectable young men. On Tuesday, Alfred Bangle was married to Miss Ollie Scott of La Habra at the home of the bride's parents. It was an out-of-door ceremony, and a beautiful and impressive event to the several hundred invited guests who assembled to witness it. The large porch and spacious grounds were brilliantly lighted. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Perry of Friends Church, East Whittier.

The wedding of Roy Farmer occured Wednesday at the home of the bride, Miss Caral Surbeck at Los Nietos, the ceremony being performed by Rev. R. M. Webster of El Monte. The young couple will spend their honeymoon at Santa Barbara with perhaps a trip further north, after which they will be at home at the Farmer ranch, a delightful home near El Monte.

Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. E. A. Farrington spent several days at Redondo, returning home Monday evening.

Mrs. Paul Lester Klingerman and Mrs. Foster Dodson returned Wednesday from several days outing, the former at Newport Beach, the latter at Ocean Park, where she witnessed the fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Ross are spending a week at Beverly Glenn, above Santa Monica. They expect as guests during the week, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Taylor and daughter, Miss Monda, and George L. McKnight and wife, who will make "the Glenn" the objective point of an auto trip.

The families of William Shugg, Tom McMichael and George McMichael of Mt. View returned home on Tuesday, after a fortnight spent in camping at tent city, Redondo.

Miss Anna Lemos spent a few days at Redondo with the family of G. H. Robinson of Bassett. All returned home Monday.

IN COMPLIMENT to Miss Olive Amanda Granger, who left Friday for Menominee, Wis., where she is to spend a year at college, Miss Minnie Hubbell entertained Wednesday afternoon with a charmingly-appointed bridge-luncheon, at Belldon Hall, her beautiful home on West A street. Decorations were in pink carnations and ferns. A centerpiece of candied violets, sweetpeas and foliage added to the effect of the snowy table, resplendent in shining silver and cut glass. The luncheon was served in three courses and was followed by the bridge tournament. The first prize, a Minton cup and saucer, was captured by Miss Laurel Mawhew, while the consolation prize, a Minton plate, fell to Miss Ida Hubbell. Miss Granger was the recipient of a guest prize. Those present included Miss Granger, Miss Pearl Smyth, Miss Ruth Lewis, Miss Edith Hanson, Miss Harriet Granger, Miss Gertrude Hobby, Miss Laurel Mayhew, Miss Ida Hubbell, Miss Isabel Osborn, Miss Ruth Milliken, Miss Minnie Hubbell, Mrs. Richard H. Gushee and Mrs. Paul Wright Nichols.

Mrs. Hugh Harris Frankish, who left Wednesday night for Oklahoma City and Stillwater, Okla., where she will spend a month or six weeks visiting with relatives and friends, was the honored guest at a charmingly informal dinner party given Tuesday evening by Mrs. Charles Latimer at her home, No. 303 West State street. Red carnations and asparagus plumosis fern made an effective table decoration. The dinner was served in courses. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Harris Frankish, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Walstein Smith, Miss Ruth Lewis, Leonard J. Frankish, and Mr. and Mrs. Latimer.

As a farewell courtesy to Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Willis, who leave in the near future to make their home in Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. Newell Royal Richardson very pleasantly entertained Thursday evening. Decorations were in red and green, blossoms and greenery being used in great profusion. The evening was spent at progressive "500" and the Society Women Give Fatfoe Tea Parties to Their Fat Friends "SIP Yoar FAT Away"

BY ADA LEE.

I have just heard the funniest story that has drifted my way in some time and I want to share it with my readers. On second thought I'll modify my statement. The story is not funny, it is the most sensible story I've heard for ages. Anyway, funny or sensible, as you please, here's the story:

A little society woman has a lot of fat friends. She conceived the idea of gathering all her fat friends together one afternoon and giving them a tea. They didn't catch on the fact that only fat women were asked until some woman observed it and whispered it to her neighbor. It was all over the room before you could draw a deep breath.

Then one of the women commented on the tea. It was delicious; what brand was it and where did the hostess get it?

Then the hostess told it all. She was fat; she had tried everything without success, and she had finally found a remedy. It was Fatfoe. It really reduced her weight, and had done it so easily, so pleasantly, that she wanted all her fat friends to try it, so she had given a tea party just to her fat friends. The tea they had all liked so much was Fatfoe Herb Tea, which is the principal part of the Fatfoe Obesity Reducing Treatment, and now that they had all tried it and liked it, wouldn't they have another cup?

They all did, and every woman in the crowd stopped at the nearest druggist on her way home and ordered a Fatfoe Treatment sent out posthaste. And now Fatfoe teas are all the rage in that circle of fat friends, for they all are sipping it now and they are all getting slender again, and druggists say no $1.00 fat-reducing treatment ever enjoyed so large a sale in this country.

Out-of-town customers can secure Fatfoe from Los Angeles druggists by mail at $1.00. Sold in Los Angeles by Sun Drug Co.'s stores; Viole-McLain Drug Co.'s stores; Off Vaughn; Dean Drug Co.; J. & J. Drug Co.; American Drug Co.; Boswell & Noyes Drug Co.; Godfrey & Moore's stores and others. Secure this great $1.00 treatment now.

The Most Important Gift

Back of every gift is a feeling of sentiment, but the deepest sentiment goes with the wedding gift.

Foremost, one seeks for quality.

It must be genuine to carry out the ideals. Then it must be uncommon—unique, and not likely to meet its counterpart among the many things which the bride-elect so proudly shows to her intimates.

Feagans & Company have these thoughts in mind in their search of the marts of the world, for things unique, unusual, and original. The question of duplication is, therefore, reduced to its lowest terms—because of such care in selection.

The importance of correct stationery, to chronicle such events is another of the things we do successfully in our well-equipped stationery department.

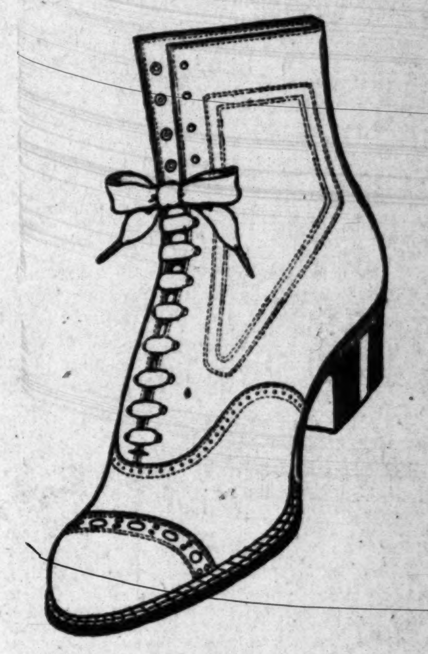
The "Cousins" English Lace Boots For Women

These English Lace models have low heels and short tops—a rather mannish effect that is meeting with great approval. The soles, which are heavy, have wide rope-stitched extension. Invisible eyelets reach all the way to the top. We are showing these English effects in three different toe shapes—in patent colt, tan and black calfskin. Prices $4.50 and $5.00.



Style Notes

The prevailing high style note this season is color harmony or contrast, as shown in shades of gray or brown cloth and suede boot toppings, to harmonize or contrast with suits and costumes.

Suede Boots in grays and browns, also in black, will be highly favored.

Boots of patent and dull leathers, with dull tops; also with black and colored cloth toppings, will be the big sellers of the season.

In toe shapes, the broad full toe with short vamps will continue in heavy demand; however, in the better grades of shoes, the medium toes and the moderately narrow receding toes will be accorded supremacy.

Refinement of lines and detail of construction, with simple elegance, are the characteristic features in fine Boots.

One of the very smart effects is the contrasting of shoe toppings with the costume worn. For instance, with a blue gown, the deep brown toppings of cloth or suede (with patent or dull vamps) are exceptionally pleasing.

There are many other style ideas in Footwear this season, which offer great scope for the exercise of individual tastes.

Duarte.

ABOUT thirty young ladies and gentlemen gave a canyon party Monday evening. The place selected for the affair was San Gabriel Canyon and the ladies who graciously chaperoned the gay galaxy of young people were Mrs. E. A. Moore, Mrs. S. N. Cox and Mrs. J. L. Milliken. A big bonfire was the center of attraction, and around the glowing coals supper was prepared and marshmallows toasted. After the picnic singing was the order, interspersed with stories and out-of-door sports. The ride home through the orange groves in the moonlight was a delightful conclusion to the event.

The members of the Duarte Reading Circle were complimented Tuesday by Mrs. J. H. Badgley by a pleasant tea and needlework party between the hours of 3 and 5 o'clock. Pretty floral decorations brightened the living-rooms and excellent readings were given by Mrs. J. L. Graver and Mrs. Bayliss W. Gerhart, after which the ladies enjoyed a social hour with their hostess.

The young ladies who form the Duarte Delta Gamma Sorority were hospitably entertained yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Robert Miller at her home in Lower Duarte. Much taste and skill were evidenced in the decorations and the details of the entertainment were effectively carried out. Among those invited were Mmes. Gordon Maddock, Clifford Behn, Prof. Elliot, Herbert Jackson, Joseph Maxwell and the Misses Florence and Retta Blain, Alice and Nellie Wilson, Venola Marquis, Lou Badgley, Dora Blain, Teressa Stiever, Rose Maxwell and Flossie Blain.

Miss Hilda Carter had as her guests at "Colwell" last week the Misses Mabel and Mary Ward of Los Angeles.

One of the gay parties of picnickers who celebrated Labor Day in San Antonio Canyon included in its personnel, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene D. Northup and Miss Aileen Northup, Dr. and Mrs. Bertram C. Davies, Miss Gertrude Gibbs, Rev. and Mrs. R. E. Welch, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Lee Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence C. Bowerman, Mrs. M. R. Conable, Augustus Adams and Masters John and Russell Adams. After an afternoon spent in the canyon the company motored back to Duarte and spent the evening at Inglenook, the country home of the Northups on Buena Vista avenue. Music and discussion of political issues and questions of the day provided diversion.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Shrode spent the week-end with friends at Long Beach.

The twenty-four members of the Buena Vista Whist Club were entertained Thursday evening by Mrs. Ludie Cross. The guests assembled early in the cardroom, where the playing of the two factions under the leadership of captains was spirited. The members of the club are Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Radabaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Walter K. Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen Munro, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ryder, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Church, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Huline, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Northup, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sarwine, Mr. and Mrs. William Beardslee, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Shrode, Miss Morgan, Miss Northup, Mrs. Alice Lewis Costello and Mrs. Ludie Cross.

Mrs. Freeland Hunter has been entertaining Mrs. Jeanetté Crane and Miss Eula Crane of Los Angeles at her ranch home.

It is reported that the Duke of Orleans, who recently sold his English place, Wood Norton, intends to purchase an estate and make his future home in either the United States or Canada.

The Rt. Rev. Lawrence Frederick Devaines Blair, bishop of the Falkland Islands, who recently announced that he would resign unless an adequate response was made to his call for financial assistance, has the distinction of presiding over the largest diocese in the world. It embraces the major portion of the continent of South America, though his work lies principally on the west coast. His commission gives him jurisdiction over all the English Episcopal clergy and congregations throughout Chile, Bolivia, Peru, Ecuador, Colombia, together with the Falkland Islands, South Georgia, Tierra del Fuego and Southern Patagonia.

ACTIVE WOMEN.

King George is reported to have said that the Duchess of Roxeburghe, who was Miss May Goelet of New York, is the best-read woman in England, "being equal to the Queen," which is a great compliment, coming from His Majesty. The Duchess can follow his lead on any subject he may suggest.

Miss Emilie Dinwiddie of New York is probably the only woman in the country who is employed by a corporation to look after the interests of its estate. She is employed by Trinity Parish of New York, and has 366 dwellings, with 870 families to care for.

Miss Bertha S. Keith of Lakeville, Mass., in a recent examination for a clerkship in the Lowell postoffice, ranked first of 119 applicants. In June she took the examination to teach in the city of Lowell, and again her name is first on the list of 100 competitors.

Alone.

I feel the world has drawn aside
And left me as the shore by ebbing tide;
As if I trod some empty hall alone
Where feet had passed o'er flowers strewn,
Like some lone bird beside her empty nest,
Who finds no pillowed head upon her breast.
The stars are cold, and, Oh, so far away.
I wonder if God hearkens when I pray.
I wonder if the angels stop to guess
The pain and sorrow of my loneliness.

No good-night kiss to give, no kiss to take,
Alone I seek my pillow and alone I wake;
But in the twilight soft and gray
I sing an old-time lullaby,
And fancy once again my baby boy
Is closely held, my earthly joy.
I feel that he is near me and my song
Has called him out of heaven's glorious throng.
Thus God has blessed me; let me sing again
Till we at last will voice
As one, a grand Amen.

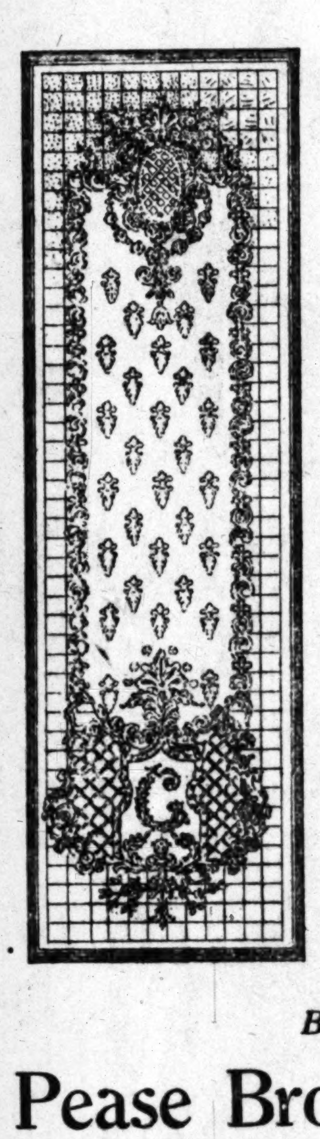
OUR NATIONAL GROWTH.

Statistical Measurement of the Country Help Us Appreciate the Favorable Conditions We Enjoy.

[Omaha Bee:] The prodigious growth and development of population and industry in the United States since 1870 marks an era of world expansion, and a most interesting study may be made of how American prosperity has benefited other countries in every line of endeavor. Our own people might, with profit, turn now and then from the absorbing subject of politics and civil reform to the statistical measurement of their nation's advance in agricultural and industrial pursuits. It will help us appreciate the favorable conditions we enjoy and the miracles wrought by intelligently applied energy.

In 1870 as a nation of 38,558,371 we had a total estimated wealth of $30,068,518,000; in 1912, with 95,410,503 inhabitants, our national wealth was estimated at $130,000,000,000. In the same time our per capita wealth just about doubled, being $17.51 in 1870 and $34.23 at present. Our farms numbered 2,659,985 in 1870, worth $8,944,857,749; today we have nearly 7,000,000 farms valued at more than $41,000,000,000. Mining, manufacturing and exports have maintained similar ratios of expansion. Social improvement, in the meantime, including the amelioration of the worker and his family, is incomparably beyond the status of forty-two years ago

Benjamin James West, retired merchant, banker and farmer of Belleville, Ill., recently celebrated his 100th birthday anniversary surrounded by children, grand-children and great grand-children at the home of his son, Benjamin J. West, Jr., Minneapolis. Mr. West has always voted the Republican ticket, and expects to do so again next November.



Lace

THE very word itself is sufficient to arouse quaint memories of dainty frills and ruffles, the deft work of clever feminine fingers, and is suggestive of a wealth of artistic possibilities.

At no time since its first creation has lace played a more prominent part in the decorative adornment of the home than at the present; and never have we been able to offer a more representative collection of all that is best in the lace-makers' art than right now.

You will find here the latest designs in curtains of net, scrim, applique, Irish Point, Renaissance, Point Arabe, Fillet, Bonne Femme, embroidery and combination, in sash and full length sizes; together with special door and window panels, bed sets and toilet draperies.

We confidently believe that for originality and scope of selection our line of laces cannot be excelled — comprising everything from the simplest to the most elaborate. It really must be seen to be appreciated.

THE HELPING HAND.

"How far that little candle throws his beams!
So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

Because he had given shelter and food to a tramp twenty-four years ago, Joe Harris, 66 years old, a former prosperous auctioneer of Knoxville, Tenn., will receive $2,000,000 from the estate of the man he long ago befriended.

Harris is now poor. On a cold winter's morning twenty-four years ago he befriended a poor stranger in the city, then a man of 28, who had just come from Scotland and whose sweetheart had jilted him. Harris gave the shivering tramp breakfast and employment.

A few mornings ago, Col. Cary F. Spence, Knoxville's postmaster, read to Harris a letter which stated that William Robinson had died in Brisbane, Australia, leaving his fortune of $2,000,000 to Joe Harris, his benefactor, who had staked him on a trip to Alaska, where he had struck it rich in the gold fields near Cape Nome.

Five years after Harris had staked Robinson a letter came from Cape Nome, Alaska, inclosing Harris $500 and stating Robinson, the writer, had struck it rich. As this $500 more than repaid Harris for his kindness he was not surprised that he did not again hear from the young Scotchman.

Col. Spence had to read the letter today several times to the excited old auctioneer before he could convince Harris he had been made wealthy.

Miss Marion McNulty of Bedford Park, N. Y., nearly lost her life today when she rescued Joseph Wendroff, 14 years old, of 321 Huguenot street, New Rochelle, from drowning in Echo Bay. Young Wendroff was swimming about 100 yards from shore at Hudson Park when he began to sink.

Miss McNulty, who is about 16 years old, was swimming near him, and after shouting for help went to the rescue. She grabbed the lad by the hair. He locked his arms around her neck and both went down after a struggle in which both were nearly exhausted. She broke his hold and swam with him to shore. When she was asked at the United States Volunteer Life Saving Station for her address she said:

"Nothing doing. I won't get a Carnegie medal, and I don't want reporters to bother me."

Mrs. George D. Widener, who was a passenger on the ill-fated Titanic, her husband and son losing their lives with it, will give $2,000,000 to Harvard for a library in memory of her son, Henry E. Widener. He was graduated from Harvard in 1907, and his collection of books will be housed within it.

The will of Miss Therese Foy of New York, who died August 2, and inherited $50,000 under the will of her aunt, Mme. Donovan, the Fifth-avenue modiste, leaves her residuary estate to five Catholic and five nonsectarian charities. The value of each bequest will be about $5000.

The Catholic charities named are Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum, Sisters of the Poor of St. Francis, Little Sisters of the Poor, Society of St. Vincent de Paul and St. Vincent's Hospital. The other charities are Charity Organization Society, Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, Children's Aid Society, Cooper Union and Tribune Fresh Air Fund.

The will of Mrs. Helen Chandler, who was 92 years old when she died last week in Camden, N. J., was offered for probate. It gives $30,000 of the $35,000 estate to the Baptist Missionary Union of Boston, for the purpose of carrying on missionary work among the Peguans in Siam, among whom Mrs. Chandler and her husband labored for fifty years.

Mrs. George J. Gould has contributed to the New York Dispensary a sum sufficient to send sixty-seven children to the country for a two-week outing.

The timely arrival of Father Gilmore of St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Church prevented Policeman Thomas Donahue from being brutally treated by a crowd of rowdies, after Donahue had arrested one of their number for disorderly conduct. Some twenty men attacked Donahue after he had started away with the prisoner, and succeeded in throwing the policeman to the ground and rescuing the prisoner. They then started to beat and kick Donahue.

Father Gilmore saw the attack on Donahue from the steps of the parish house at No. 20 City Hall place. He ran to the assistance of the policeman, blowing a whistle. Father Gilmore fought his way through the crowd, striking left and right, until he reached the side of Donahue. The priest seized the two nearest men and held them until other patrolmen arrived, who had heard the whistle. Both men were arrested, and Father Gilmore told the police that he would appear in court this morning as a witness against both of them.

Lamps.

Immense and silent night,
Over the darkling downs I go,
And the deep gloom is pricked with points of light
Above, around me, and below.

I cannot break the bars
Of fate; nor, if I scan the sky,
Comes there to me, questioning those cold stars,
And new signal or reply.

Yet—are they less than these,
These village lights that I do scan
Below me; or, far out on darkling seas,
Those twinkling messages from man?

Round me the darkness rolls!
Out of the depth each lance of light
Shoots from the lost windows, thrills from living souls,
And—shall I doubt that starrier height?

No signal? No reply?
As o'er the Hills of Time I roam,
Hope opens her warm casements in the sky
And lights the heavenly lamps of home.
—[Alfred Noyes, in Harper's Weekly.

The Coming Child.

A mother sews for her coming child
Shapes tiny and soft and undefiled.
With many a stitch of love and care,
With many a dream of all things fair,
She sews his covering to prepare.

The world is making his garments, too;
Has fashioned the same the ages through.
With many a stitch of law and greed,
With many a thread of sin and need,
It makes him an early shroud, indeed.

The world is strong in the ballot's might Unarmed the mother to wage a fight.
Mere hope is futile and trusting vain,
For not till she helps to rule and reign
Shall ever the babe his own attain.
—[McLandburgh Wilson, in Judge.

Vera Bernice Chesley of Philadelphia, who just returned from a short tour of New York State, is said to be the youngest recital organist in the United States. She is 17 years of age. During her tour she played in Sage Chapel, Cornell University.

Hazel Chapman, aged 10 years, is the champion dandelion digger of Council Bluffs, Iowa. In a contest inaugurated by the local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution to remove the weeds from the lawns, Hazel gathered more than 1000 pounds within three weeks. Julia Sherratt gathered 700 pounds, winning second prize.

Miss Blanche H. Coffin of Nantucket, is said to be the youngest State official in Massachusetts. Miss Coffin had just celebrated her seventeenth birthday when she was appointed town weigher by the Board of Selectmen, and placed in charge of the town scales. Miss Coffin is a graduate of the Nantucket High School and a daughter of a former keeper of the life-saving station at Coskata.

Miss Isa Morgan, a Maryland girl, conducts what is probably the most unique enterprise in this country—a frog farm—and is making money out of it. She was a stenographer, but failing health compelled her to take up outdoor life. Her parents' farm affords ample opportunity for her activities, and she attends to her frog ponds with as much care and intelligence as the most exacting chicken fancier. The full-grown frogs bring from a dollar to four dollars a dozen when sold for food. Extra large specimens she sells to biological laboratories, receiving as much as $3 each for them.

FAITHFUL SERVANTS.

John Stepp of Shamokin, Pa., has for twenty years been the conductor of one train—local freight Nos. 70 and 71. The train does the local freight work between Shamokin and Tamaqua.

Ethelbert Stewart of Decatur, Ill., for many years connected with the Federal Bureau of Labor, and lately with the Tariff Board, was appointed by Secretary Nagel chief statistican of the new Children's Bureau at Washington.

Joseph Ury Crawford, consulting engineer of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and one of the most prominent officers in its service, having reached the age of 70 years, will retire from active work September 1, according to the pension rules of the railroad.

John Laws, 90 years old, was elected recently for the thirty-first time as register of deeds in Orange county, North Carolina. Laws went into office during the gold excitement of 1849, and has never been defeated. He has held office sixty-eight years, and is the oldest office-holder in the world. Several days ago the patriarchal Democrat's wife of 20 presented him with their second infant. Laws was a soldier in the Mexican War, and is one of the two surviving ones in North Carolina.

THE UNCHLOROFORMED.

William Henry Hornbaugh of Danville, Ill., celebrated his 107th anniversary on August 27, on which occasion he indulged in his first cigar and appeared to like it.

John Deuser of Clayton, Me., patriarch of a clan of about 250 children, grandchildren and great grandchildren who has just celebrated his seventieth birthday, prides himself on being the ancestor of what he calls the heaviest family in the State. His daughter, Emma Fink, weighs nearly 300 pounds, her husband 400 pounds, while their twelve-year-old son is a lightweight of only 200 pounds.

She was before her mar-after her marriage she went very soon to the almost desolate Territory of New Mexico. But she has always taken keen pleasure in intellectual persuits and she entered most heartily into the life of her husband and his efforts to dev.lop his adopted home. She has found evey compensation in her home and family and the success of her husband has proven that every sacrifice she made in those days was well worth its cost. There are four children in Senator Fall's family. His only son, John M. Fall known through the State as "Jack" Fall married last year and is now living on the ranch at Salinas. Young Mr. and Mrs. Fall will spend part of the season here with their parents. There are two married daughters who were Alexia and Caroline Fall. The elder, Mrs. Chase, resides close to her parents in New Mexico but the other, Mrs. Overton, is in Pueblo, Colorado. Both are expected in Washington sometime during the winter and certainly for the inauguration fete.

The youngest member of the family, Miss Jouett Adair Fall, is naturally the most important at present and she will be among the buds of the coming season. Miss Fall spent the winter in Santa Fe where her father was serving as a member of the Senate. She was a great favorite there and many entertainments were planned in her honor. Miss Fall will be a decided addition to the younger set. She was educated at the Huntington school near her own home and then she took a course at Belmont College, Los Angeles, California. She is talented in music and art and will no doubt continue her studies here during the winter. But she also inclines to all the pastimes of the young and popular. Mrs. Fall has no idea yet where she will find a home which will meet immediate requirements, that is, be large enough for the traditional amenities devolving on a new member of the upper house and also commodious enough to hold the companies which always gather to honor a pretty and accomplished debutante. Miss Jouett is a fine horsewoman and she will join the Hunt club. She is already a member of many country clubs about Old and New Mexico and adjacent to Long Beach and Los Angeles. She has traveled extensively in this country and Europe and is well equipped for social success. She speaks Spanish as well as her mother tongue and her training also includes a finished course in French.

Senator Fall comes of a distinguished Kentucky family and his mother who was born Edmonia Taylor was related to the famous Gov. Adair who figures in that lively controversy of the Mexican War with Andrew Jackson as chief disputant. Miss Jouett is named for the mother of this illustrious Chief Executive of her father's State, who was a distant kinsman of Senator Fall. Senator Fall and his wife have taken a deep interest in preserving history in the detail, that is, as it relates to families, to counties and smaller environments than the State as a whole. Mrs. Fall has always belonged to historical societies in New Mexico and has taken an intelligent view in aiding societies which trace genealogies and thus preserve a most valuable part of the country's record. Her busy life has prevented her from becoming a club woman in the general sense though she has joined many of the societies which mean the development of the country intellectually and socially.

Senator Fall is a member of the Fine Arts society of America and has served on its national committee. This love for beautiful things is shared by his wife and their mutual interest has made their home a central point of culture and aesthetic development. Their library is one of the best in the State and the Senator is always adding new treasures to his vast store. He has a fine assortment of volumes bearing on the history of New Mexico, a division of the story of the United States, which is still a disputed topic among historians in general. Leading an active life Judge Fall has not contributed very largely to the story of his adopted home, but he has gotten together some valuable literature on the subject and he will perhaps in a more leisure period of his life, publish something which wil shed new light on these moot points.

Mrs. Fall is a member of the Good Roads association in New Mexico and also of the society to mark historic spots. She has labored earnestly and the outlook is hopeful. The D.A.R. and other powerful patriotic societies hope to have a splendid boulevard open from ocean to ocean before the San Francisco exposition opens its treasures to the public. Mrs. Fall, though not entirely confident that this dream will be realized, is among the advocates of the broader policy. She wishes not only to mark the old trail with bronze tablets but to perform the practical work of making a good road adjacent to the great trunk lines which followed the padres' trail from Kansas City to the gateway of the Pacific.

24 FULL CARLOADS OF PIANOS

THIS TELLS THE STORY

BIG PIANO DEAL CONSUMMATED

Eilers Music House Takes Over Entire Piano Stock of One of the Biggest Importers in America.

One of the biggest piano deals to be completed within the last few months, has just been made public with the announcement that Eilers Music House will at once take over the business and stock of Robert Witte, the well-known German importer of the celebrated "Ritter" and other high grade pianos.

Mr. Witte had established most successful branches in Riverside, San Bernardino and Monrovia and had made his headquarters at 195 E. Colorado Street, Pasadena. He catered exclusively to those well-to-do and discriminating classes who appreciated the superiority of the grand, Upright and Player Pianos which he imported.

His health, however, broke down under the strain of attending to his many duties, and after consulting several specialists he decided that his only chance for recovery was a return to his home in Germany. Appreciating the fact that such an extensive business was not lightly to be entrusted to a representative, he chose Eilers Music House as his successor, and arrangements will immediately be made to continue the importations of the famous pianos and for the immediate sale of those on hand at the Witte Stores.

Several of the most beautiful of the Pianos have already reached Eilers Establishment at 344 So. Broadway, and are creating a great deal of interest among all visitors. There may now be seen the exact duplicate of the instrument which won the Latest Grand Prix, Turin, 1911, and which has since won several prizes of equal importance and almost numberless Gold Medals at various International Expositions.

The World's Greatest Sale of the World's Finest Instruments

Music Makes Home, Sweet Home

There has never been presented to the piano buyers of Los Angeles, or any other section of the United States, an opportunity to obtain the very finest imported pianos, as well as the most celebrated American makes, at prices anywhere near as low as these. The great piano deal, whereby we took over the entire stock of the Robert Witte Piano Company, has resulted in bringing to this store twenty-four full carloads of famous Pianos. Mr. Witte for years sold pianos to the most exclusive and the wealthiest homes in Pasadena and other cities. He was, without doubt, one of America's foremost importers. He handled none but the finest pianos. He accepted in exchange only instruments in the best possible condition and those which had been used but a short time. The entire stock which we have just received from his stores, will be placed on the Los Angeles piano market at prices that will absolutely command their immediate sale.

Terms

Cash is not necessary; $10 down and $6 a month takes some of them. In fact, bring what money you can spare as a first payment—come in and talk it over at once. Any piano in the store will be sold upon two and a half to three years' time, with no advance in price, excepting simple interest.

A Word About FREE Music Lessons

With every piano which you buy here during this sale we will give FREE a course of lessons in the celebrated Columbia Conservatory of Music, in the Majestic Theater Building. This is undoubtedly the leading musical college on the Western Coast. Its faculty is composed of artists whose reputations are world-wide. Start the children in a musical school this Fall as well as in their regular school work. You will never regret having opened to them the way to the wonderful enjoyment which music alone can bring.

Guarantee

Our warranty on a piano is as good as a banknote. Ask any bank or banker, any business man or consult Bradstreet's or Dun's financial agencies. These pianos are now being sold under definite and positive representation as to what they are and their values. Your money will be cheerfully refunded at any time should you discover that those representations were not what they should have been, in addition to which you have our two years' free trial exchange agreement and a certificate of warranty from the manufacturer.

HER PRIVATE MENAGERIE.

Mrs. Proctor Brings from Europe Ninety-five Dogs, a Monkey, Parrot and a Guinea Pig.

[Chicago Inter-Ocean:] A very much-annoyed young woman, wearing a flaming red hat on which nodded huge artificial poppies, and a long black cape, trimmed in red, over the shoulders, which she shrugged frequently, wrangled for two hours with customs inspectors when the President Lincoln of the Hamburg-American line arrived at New York from Hamburg.

She was "Frau" Percy Proctor, 28 years old, wife of the 68-year-old head of the soapmaking firm of Proctor & Gamble. Mrs. Proctor's baggage was almost enough to cause two inspectors to resign on the spot. She brought into the United States:

One parrot.

One white guinea pig.

One pet monkey.

Ninety-five dogs and cats, each in a cage.

One Italian harp.

Thousands of dollars' worth of diamonds.

One trunk full of valuable furs and pelts.

Several trunks of wearing apparel.

The parrot, guinea pig and monkey came over in her stateroom. Likewise, the Italian harp. On the voyage she soothed her spirits by thrumming the harp, while the parrot, guinea pig and monkey listened in rapture.

Mrs. Proctor—"Frau" Proctor she was on the passenger list—said she had been traveling in Germany and was on her way to Dayton, O., to spend seven months. She would not state whether that was for the purpose of establishing a residence as a preliminary to the institution of a divorce suit. Her aged and rich husband lives at Ivoryville, a small place near Dayton.

Horace Watts of Amhurst, Me., has served on the Board of Selectmen in that town for thirty-one years, and for the past twenty-four years he has been chairman.

Illustrating the Difference.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer:] "What is your profession or trade?" asked the lawyer of the witness.

"Well, I'm a kind of a carpenter."

"A kind of a carpenter, eh? What kind of a carpenter?"

"They call me a jack-leg."

"They do? Well, if they call you that you probably are one. Will you please explain to the jury the difference between a jack-leg carpenter and a real carpenter?"

"I—I can't tell the difference, but I can give an example."

"Well, sir, go ahead."

"It's the same difference as between you and a real lawyer."

The first woman ever admitted to the G.A.R. has been installed as an honorary member of Phil Kearney Post, No. 8, of Brooklyn. She is Mrs. Annie E. Poth of that city.

ART AND ARTISTS.

BY ANTONY ANDERSON.

The Haunted Shore.

I walked at sunset by the lonely waves,
When autumn stood about me, gold and brown;
I watched the great red sun, in clouds, go down,
An Orient King, that 'mid his bronzed slaves
Dies, leaning on his scepter, with his crown.
A hollow moaning from innumerous caves,
In green and glassy darkness sunk below,
Told of some grand and ancient deed of woe,
Of murdered kings that sleep in weltering graves.
Still through the sunshine wavering to and fro,
With sails all set, the little vessels glide,
Mild is the eve and mild the ebbing tide,
And yet that hollow moaning will not go,
Nor the old fears that with the sea abide.

—[William M. W. Call.

Artistic Activities.

The painter fellows have certainly been busy this summer, here, there and everywhere, gathering material for the autumn and winter shows, the first of which will be inaugurated very soon.

Through July and August, as usual, there has been a sad dearth of regular exhibitions. However, the picture lover with determination found pictures now and then (and some very good ones, too,) but mostly in the galleries of the dealers. Soon these difficult conditions will be changed. The faithful one will receive cards, catalogues, invitations, personal letters, and even personal calls if he is rich, and he need hunt no more for hidden gems.

Already the painters have begun to plan their campaign. Last night the California Art Club met in the rooms of the Sketch Club, in the Copp building, to consider the question of its fall exhibition, which will be the biggest and most important of the year. The Californians have set a high standard of achievement, one which will be raised from year to year. Great things may be confidently expected from them. F. W. Blanchard is contemplating a loan exhibition of portraits to be held very soon. Marines and landscapes by Carlton T. Chapman, who has been in California for the past few months, will be shown at Kanst's. Pictures and illustrations by Roscoe Shrader will be exhibited at Royar's next week. Shrader, whose studio is in Wilmington, Del., is spending the summer in Hollywood, and is now putting the finishing touches on his pictures. F. W. Cuprien, who came to Los Angeles from New York only six weeks ago, will show marines and landscapes at Royar's directly after the Shrader exhibition. Daniell will soon show work from the school of thirty notable illustrators who make Wilmington, Del., and vicinity their permanent home. Howard Pyle, the former head of this famous school, will be represented by brilliant examples of his work.

The artists, as I intimated above, have been everywhere, and some of them are still there.

Helen Balfour painted industriously around Los Angeles all ummer, and even held an exhibition or two. She left yesterday with a big portfolio of her California water colors, and will pull off exhibitions in quick succession in San Francisco and Piedmont, and at Medford, Or. After a busy summer, Marion Kavanaugh Wachtel has gone to San Francisco with her aunt, Mrs. Balfour, for a brief vacation. Elmer Wachtel will keep on sketching among the San Bernardino mountains. The Wachtels will exhibit together this fall either in their studio on Mt. Washington or in some downtown gallery.

William Wendt spent the early summer in Cahuenga Pass. Later he went to San Dimas. Since his return he has been working busily in his Sichel-street studio at picture making, preparing large and important canvases for coming exhibitions in the Academy of Design, New York, and the Art Institute, Chicago. Daniell, in the Blanchard building, is now showing no less than a dozen beautiful landscapes from his brush. Outside the general exhibitions, Wendt's pictures will be shown in the Daniell gallery only.

Helena Dunlap gravitated through July and August between San Pedro (where she lived in a house boat) and Laguna Beach. She is now at Whittier, where she has her permanent studio. James E. McBurney has had an outdoor class at Laguna Beach all summer, doing some sketching between whiles. Jean Mannheim chose Monterey and Pacific Grove as the scenes of his activities, but for the past month he has been in his studio in the Arroyo Seco, Pasadena. Elizabeth Waggoner took a studio in the Arroyo Seco in Garvanza, working on figures posed in sunlight. She will return to Hollywood in a few weeks. Elizabeth Borghum has been painting all summer at Santa Barbara.

The picturesque Lake Tahoe and environment called to Detlef Sammann, Benjamin Chambers Brown, Jack Smith and Ernest Browning Smith. Hanson Puthuff and E. A. Kilpatrick went to the northern counties of California. Martin J. Jackson sketched on Mt. Lowe last week. Before that he went to Portuguese Bend and Santa Monica Canyon, both favorite sketching grounds with him. He will exhibit in October.

Catalina Island cast its spell on C. Harry Allis, and he has been at Avalon all through the summer, teaching and sketching. The probabilities are that he will soon be ready to hold an exhibition of California oils and water colors in the Daniell gallery. E. C. Frank did not have to leave his own beautiful Glendale for his sketches. He has also been making pictures from a packed portfolio of studies done in Italy and Germany. Pictures by Frank may now be seen in the Public Library gallery at Long Beach, in Daniell's, and in the Friday Morning Club.

Warren E. Rollins stayed at home in San Gabriel with the notable panels of Indian figures which he is still working on. Joseph Greenbaum painted portraits in his studio in the Blanchard building, with occasional short out-door sketching excursions. Lillian Drain worked at figure painting and teaching in her studio. Charles Ward worked hard at Elsinore. Xarifa Hamilton Towner sketched at Laguna Beach.

Who says painters don't work.

A Few Pictures.

If you want to see four unusually interesting pictures go to the University Club, where they are now on exhibition. You can get a card of admission from Kanst, No. 642 South Spring Street.

The canvases are from the vigorous brush of H. J. Breuer, a famous painter of Santa Barbara, one of the strongest artists in California. The magnificent technique of "Mountain Peak in the Celkirks" will arrest your attention at once. The sheer rocks of the peak are covered with snow and ice, and the atmosphere is cold and bleak. There is tremendous weight and solidity in the mountain. Below is a rushing stream, gray-green, on either side of which are huge green pines. The pallid purples, blues and greens of the mountain are laid in with free sweeps of a brush that knows no hesitation.

Two studies, radically different in mood, are "Large Sand Dunes, Monterey," and "Small Sand Dunes, Monterey," the one painted under a wonderful gray sky, the other under brilliant sunlight. In both there is beautiful drawing and modeling, the wind-ripples in the sand being exquisitely rendered.

In "Gray Day, Trees," we see poplars in the rain. The trees are drawn with skill and absolute understanding, the feeling of rain is apparent everywhere.

All these canvases have a certain largeness of intention and execution that makes them noteworthy.

ART NOTES.

The bronze bust of the late E. H. Edwards, "Pioneer of Lone Pine," which is to be put in the plaza of that town, is now on view in the window of Bartlett's music store, on Broadway. It is the work of Frank F. Stone, the well-known Los Angeles sculptor, and is a very notable piece of modeling, besides being a fine example of bronze casting and finishing. "A speaking likeness," too, it is said.

The fall term of the Los Angeles School of Art and Design opens on September 17. The school has added three new teachers to its faculty of instructors and lecturers—Henry Lovins, in charge of drawing and painting; Eleanor L. Kohler, design, keramics and metal crafts; Vera Bassett, elementary drawing. An exhibition of the students' work will be held on Thursday and Friday of next week, September 12 and 13.

Helma Heynsen Jahn is in Lubeck, North Germany, and finds the city beautiful, the architecture fine. The forests, she declares, are "almost divine." The portrait painter will start for Munich about September 18, where she will study under eminent masters throughout the coming winter. She has promised to note some of her impressions for Art and Artists.

John M. Gamble, the Santa Barbara landscape painter, was in Los Angeles last Wednesday on his way to Arrowhead Hot Springs, where he intends to do some sketching. Gamble's work is well and most favorably known here, for he has exhibited regularly at Kanst's for the past few years.

Anne St. Clair will open at once, at No 443 Chamber of Commerce building, Pasadena, a gallery for the sale of pictures by artist sof Southern California. Among other pictures shown will be water colors by the late Norman St. Clair.

Five new Indian studies by E. A. Burbank are now on exhibition at Daniell's. Daniell is also exhibiting a dozen Wendts and three St. Clairs.

Late pictures by Jules Pages are still to be seen in the Steckel gallery.

At Kanst's are found two pictures by William Keith never before shown in Los Angeles, four by Carlton T. Chapman, six by Elizabeth Borglum.

Least of These.

Beside a dusty road, flat, hot and long,
Gray lined with half-dead grass, a ragged weed,
A goldenrod, unmeet to raise a song
Of praise to God or bring to pass a deed
Of help to man fought hardily for life.
And down the way a plodding woman came,
Seared with the blazing heat and gray with dust.
Work wearied, old, a stream without a name
And sinking in dry sand. Because she must,
She lived, nor felt the bitter joy of strife.
"What use," I cried, "that these who cannot give
A fingerlift to help the world should fight
A heartless, hopeless battle but to live
Who long unspeakingly for death and night?"
But in the morning on the goldenrod
The dewdrops sparkled bright a song to God;
A Bob-o-Lincoln swinging on the spray
Cascaded forth his matin roundelay;
An aldermanic bee with broidered vest
Was glad to make its fringe a place of rest;
An ant climbed to a leaf with weary feet
To find refuge from noonday heat;
And in the afternoon a tired child
Saw its faint glow of cheerful gold and smiled.
What of woman? If our kindly God
Would give a weed in that drouth-stricken spot
A worthy task, she will not be forgot,
Whose life weighs more than fields of goldenrod.

FACE ALL RED SPOTS AND BLISTERS

Rubbed and Scratched. Would Cry and Fret. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Face Got Well.

632 N. 5th St., Terre Haute, Ind.—"My little nephew, a boy of four years, had a breaking out on his face. It was little red spots at first then he would rub and scratch and water blisters would form and wherever the water would run another would come until his face was covered with them. He would cry and fret. His mother got some medicine, but it did not do any good. He would scream and cry and say it hurt. We hardly knew him, his little face was all red spots and blisters. So I begged him to let me put some Cuticura Ointment on them. The next morning I made a strong soap suds with Cuticura Soap and washed his face in the warm suds. The little blisters burst by pressing the cloth on them. After I had his face washed, I put the Cuticura Ointment on and in a short time his little face was all red and dry. I kept using the Cuticura Soap and putting on the Cuticura Ointment and his face got well and it did not leave a scar. He was entirely cured in about one week and a half." (Signed) Mrs. Arthur Haworth, Jan. 10, 1912.

A single cake of Cuticura Soap and box of Cuticura Ointment are often sufficient when all else has failed. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T. Boston."

Tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25c. Sample free.

KOHLER & CAMPBELL

THE CAPTURE OF JIM CORSON.

BY I. W. D. PETERS.

Jim Corson was sitting on an upturned box outside the Highspire saloon. A frown adorned his frank, good-looking face as he tried in vain to hide his six feet of brawn and muscle.

"Here she comes now," shouted one of the group surrounding him, as a pretty girl, about 20 years old, was seen approaching from the direction of the schoolhouse.

She was followed by a troop of children, and her brown eyes were alight with the joy of life. Jim got up hurriedly and entered the saloon.

"Oh, Mr. Perkins," cried she in a clear, sweet voice, "is Mr. Corson there? I wish to speak to him."

"No'm. He just stepped down the street."

Jim stood back from the window at the Highspire counter. There was a glass of whisky before him, but his hand trembled so that he could not lift it to his lips.

"I am so sorry. When he returns will you tell him there is a meeting in the schoolhouse tonight. We hope he will come and bring his friends."

Her soft tones reached a place in Jim's consciousness never touched before.

"Yes'm, I'll tell him; but why don't you invite me?"

"Oh, you'll be there," she answered merrily.

For a moment an unreasoning hatred of Perkins suffused Corson's being. He felt as if his friend were poaching on his preserves. He turned and strode out of the back door of the Highspire saloon, leaving his whisky untouched.

But that night at the boarding-house, when he heard her voice outside the dining-room door, he left his half-eaten supper and slipped out through the kitchen. From that day—when not occupied with the business of the ranch—he spent most of his time dodging the young teacher, yet he longed to meet her face to face.

His business in Tytown was to ship the cattle sent in from the ranch to the packers to whom they were consigned. One morning, hours before it was necessary, he started out to meet a herd of young steers. He reached the meeting place tired out, and, dismounting, he stretched himself under a tree, and was soon sleeping soundly.

Suddenly he felt a soft touch on his brow, and, opening his sleep-bemused eyes, he looked into twinkling brown orbs set in a pretty girl face framed in curls that the September sun turned into purest gold.

"Am I in heaven?" he whispered reverently to the vision.

"No, but I hope we shall start you in the right direction to reach there," answered a masculine voice, and Corson frowned when he realized that the voice came from Preacher Manly, who was holding the horses in the road a few feet away.

Jim jumped up and stood hat in hand gazing at the teacher.

"I am the school teacher in Tytown, Miss Brennen," she explained.

"What a fool I have been," murmured Jim.

"Mr. Corson," began the preacher, "we have been trying for some time to see you."

"So I have heard," interrupted Jim grimly.

"We have concluded from careful observation that you are the counter influence in this community. I judge it best," went on Manly oratorically, "to come to you, the fountain head of the saloon group, to beg that you come to our side for the good of Tytown."

"You mean to go to church?" answered Jim, who was only vaguely aware that the good man was speaking.

"That is a step in the right direction."

"Well," promised Jim, his eyes still on the confused girl, "I'll be there sure; yes, every time the doors are open."

And that moment began the reversal of the order that had hitherto prevailed. Jim attended church at all times in the wake of the young teacher. Once he was started in her direction he would go in no other.

He sighed soulfully every time the memory of her soft touch came back to him.

One day, after Miss Brennen had been more than usually indifferent to his attentions, he was sitting in his favorite spot outside the Highspire deep in thought.

"Nothin' but seein' teacher is any pleasure any more," he mused, after a prolonged scrutiny of the small building at the end of Tytown's one street, from which came the sing-song voices of children reciting lessons. "Even liquor has lost its savor, and here I sit day after day like a bump on a log waitin' for school to let out. Just two weeks ago I was a carefree man, and if I wasn't happy I was too much of a durn fool to know it."

Here Mr. Corson's meditations were broken off by the eruption of the children from the schoolhouse. The teacher followed a few minutes later, and, after locking the door hurriedly, she ran down the street as if she were trying to escape someone.

Before she had gone far, Jim overtook her. When he reached her side she turned upon him.

"Mr. Corson, this amounts to persecution. I cannot stand it. You must stop following me." She paused breathless, her face flushed, her eyes angry.

"Miss Brennen, don't you think turn about fair play?" The light of battle was brightening Jim's countenance.

"You kept me on the jump dodging you day after day. I couldn't eat or sleep. You captured me fair and square, and I am yours forever." There was tender malice in the smile he now turned upon her.

"Never did a man try harder to avoid a pretty girl than I. I was a fool I admit, and my only excuse is that I never had any experience of your fair sex, most unfair sex."

"Fair sex, fair sex; why can't you sometimes say woman. I am tired tired of it all." And the big tears stood in her beautiful eyes.

All at once she espied Manly across the street, and with a "Thank God" she hurried across to him.

Jim stood looking after them, and it seemed to the former bad man of Tytown that in that moment his heart was wrenched from his body and broken to bits.

Of course, Manly was the man for her. How could it be otherwise. He was her sort. And though the preacher was full of funny little mannerisms, he was worthy of her. He was brave, earnest and kind.

After that day the little teacher had no cause to complain of Jim's attention to her. He as studiously avoided meeting her now as he did before she surprised him asleep under the trees. But he did not return to his friends at the Highspire. He spent his time riding in the hill country.

The evening before he was to leave Tytown to go back to the ranch he stood outside the schoolhouse, which was used as a place of worship, also and gazed hungerily through the window at the teacher's wistful face. At the sound of every step on the outside a look of expectancy came in her eyes, which was succeeded disappointment as the new com came into the room.

Suddenly Jim's attention was rested by a whispering just und

Jim quietly placed himself in shadows close by the door and wa
ed. It seemed to him an eternity fore the last hymn was sung and congregation dispersed.

The little teacher holding to landlady's arm, came out brushing most against her unseen watcher.

Manly sat still for some time, head on his arm, but finally he out the lights and came slowly to door. He was turning to place key in the lock when he felt him

Finally the Mexicans, badly

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS

BY SYDNEY FORD.

LOS ANGELES Sunday-school teachers—and there is a small army of them, mostly women—have had a rare opportunity during the past week of listening to experts who have appeared on the platform during the sessions of the summer conference for Sunday-school workers, which took place at the First Congregational Church last Thursday and Friday.

The two principal speakers were women, each of whom has risen to prominence in her particular sphere. There was Miss Margaret Slattery of Boston, a woman whose name is familiar to all Sunday-school workers or readers of Sunday-school literature. She is supervisor of teacher training for the Congregational Sunday-school and Publishing Society, and she is the author of several books, among them "The Girl In Her Teens." She knows children—from the tiny tot in the kindergarten, to the girl in high school, or the boy in college. For eight years, an average of 1250 children passed under her observation for five hours a day, five days in a week—when she was teacher in a State Normal School. Her lectures were inspirational and practical, and awakened the deepest interest in the large audiences which assembled both afternoon and evening.

One of the things which Miss Slattery demonstrated in striking manner, and which showed her perfect familiarity with child nature, was the subdivision she made of the characteristic periods in a child's life. First—in the very beginning, when the baby, the most helpless thing in all the world, can only cling with its tiny fingers—is the period of trust; next, as it begins to look about and observe, is the period of wonder; then the period of self-confidence, when the little three-year-old says "watch me; see me do it;" every mother or teacher recognizes that period. A little later comes the "will and won't" period, when the child begins to choose for itself; and this is followed by the period when the attitude of mind may best be expressed by the words, "I wish." This is the time when girls write poetry, and boys dream dreams, and is succeeded by a reaction, the period of doubt, when the growing boy or girl is inclined to be pessimistic. A few years later, and they "find themselves" and their watchword is changed to "I believe," and confidence and self-reliance assert themselves, as the youth reaches maturity.

"Every teacher needs to know just how to meet these various characteristic periods," said Miss Slattery, "and they must be trained and fitted for this task. There are perfectly fine women in the church who are lovely Christians, charming mothers, and most delightful friends, and yet they are utter failures as Sunday-school teachers. I know of a certain Sunday-school teacher who is teaching China exactly as it was twenty years ago; she's dead, but she don't know it."

Miss Slattery pointed out in graphic manner the futility of depending upon voluntary teachers in the Sunday-school, regardless of their fitness for the work, and strongly advocated the establishment of teacher training classes among the young people of the church to provide for the future, she told how successfully this method is carried on in many places. "If you want efficient teachers in your Sunday-schools ten years hence, make teachers now out of the adolescent material," she urged.

The other woman speaker who so impressed the audience was Miss Meme Brockway, elementary superintendent of the Southern California Sunday-school Association, and to whose genius and executive ability is largely due the high standard of Sunday-school work here. Miss Brockway is president of the Los Angeles Sunday-school Union, which is the largest organization of its kind in the world; she introduced the graded system into the organization, which covers all departments from primary to adult, on the same plan as the public schools.

Miss Brockway's address, "A Message From Mars," was a keen and witty speech, which drove home the truth with points sharpened with satire, and cleverly clinched with sound logic. It was delivered in that charming fashion which characterizes all Miss Brockway's public utterances, and which makes her such a tremendous power in Sunday-school circles. She touched up some of the petty weaknesses of church and teaching methods with such wit and drollery as to keep her audience in a state of almost continual mirth; she told about the horror and consternation depicted on the faces of the preacher and the Sunday-school superintendent in a certain church when she suggested that the ladies' parlor be used for the junior class in Sunday-school. At the very suggestion, the minister said in tones of awe.

"Why, that is the ladies' parlor. Didn't you notice the carpet?" and the superintendent added, "if you knew the luncheons and teas, the indigestion and heart-burnings that carpet had cost, you wouldn't so much as suggest that we turn boys in there."

Miss Brockway's terse comment on this condition of affairs was summed up in her suggestion that the minister's morning sermon, which had been on the subject, "Childhood, the Hope of the Church," should have been changed to "Carpets, the Hope of the Church."

Sunshine in a Garden.

The Westlake Sunshine Society, which now numbers 125 members, will open its fall activities with a garden party on September 20 at the home of Mrs. E. B. Crowder, No. 1414 West Fourth street.

This organization is famous for its philanthropic work among women and children; it maintains a rest home at Venice, where poor mothers may go for a rest with their little ones, and the Sunshiners are on hand to break up the clouds of misfortune energetically when they hover over the victims of poverty. The following women will assist Mrs. Crowder in planning the garden party: Mmes. Charles McGonigal, Arthur Sauter, Alvin McArthur, C. G. McCollum, Clara Vogel, Julia Thin and James Henderson.

Clubwomen Come Home.

Next month the women's clubs will awake to life after the summer vacation and already there is the busy stir of preparation for what promises to be the most active year in the history of Los Angeles women's organizations. The number of women who remained in the city during the summer has been remarkably large. Some of them scarcely left town at all, except for day trips to the beaches or mountain resorts; others enjoyed motoring about the delightful roads of Southern California, every one of which leads to some fascinating spot, and [illegible] others were content to take short week-end trips to near-by resorts. A smaller number than usual went abroad or took extended eastern jaunts.

Mrs. W. G. Cochran of the Ruskin Art Club, has just returned from a [illegible] tour through the East, visiting Montreal, Boston, New York and Washington, and spending some time at her old home in Central Illinois, and visiting Ohio friends.

Miss Bess Osborne, financial secretary of Ebell, spent her vacation at Lake Tahoe; Mrs. William Read visited the Grand Canyon; Mrs. Reuben Shettler is spending a month in Michigan and Mrs. W. L. Jones, president of Ebell, is enjoying a fortnight's stay at Balboa.

Mrs. Ella Hamilton Durley went directly East at the close of the biennial in San Francisco, which she attended, and spent a month in New York, besides visiting other eastern points.

Miss Victoria Witmer is still in the East and will not return till late in the autumn.

Mrs. Helen Steckel has just returned from a delightful six weeks' visit in Denver.

Dickens's David and Dora.

Whereas last winter we reviewed our Dickens pretty thoroughly, what with all the centenary celebrations this year we are to have "David Copperfield" dramatized and presented by Benjamin Scovel, under the auspices of the Los Angeles branch of the Dickens Fellowship, which was organized soon after the centenary anniversary of the great English novelist, with Mrs. Charles H. Eager as president. This club meets on the second and fourth Thursdays of the month, beginning October 3, at the Friday Morning Clubhouse. Social meetings will occur on every fifth Thursday in the month, the first of which comes on January 30.

"Gen." Booth's Daughter Coming.

Mrs. Catherine Booth-Clibborn, eldest daughter of the late "Gen." William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, is planning to come to the United States this fall or winter, and arrangements for her meetings are being made by the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

American Women Wake Up.

"It is the housewife of America who holds the family purse strings," observed a man, a student of financial and social affairs.

At first I half resented the remark, expecting a tirade on the extravagance of the American woman to follow, but he continued: "If you stop to consider for a moment you will see the force of my point. In most homes—average homes—it is the wife who directs the expenditure of money for food and dress for the family, is it not? Whether she does the marketing directly or indirectly she is responsible for the family living expenses. On her judgment rests the family fortunes in a very large measure, for she holds the family purse."

This is undoubtedly true, and, as a matter of fact, American women were never so alive and alert to their responsibility for domestic leaks as right now. The high cost of living has driven the housewife into her own kitchen and caused her to show a keen interest in the purchase of family supplies. She has woke up to the fact that shifting of household burdens to the shoulders of disinterested domestics makes for waste, and her watchful eyes have discovered many little leaks. In short, she has brought the business of housekeeping down to a business basis, and she has learned that it must be run systematically and practically, and she must be the legitimate head, just as her husband is the head of his business house, or his department, in store or office.

Possibly the high cost of living is a blessing in disguise in that it has brought the American woman to a realization of her position as the conservator of the family fortunes.

Women's Husbands Cook?

The wives of the men of the Union Avenue Methodist Church will see some strenuous days this week, for their husbands are preparing to give their grand annual supper on next Friday night.

Of course, these deluded men think that they really do cook all the delicacies offered to their patrons on that eventful yearly occasion—but the wives and daughters know better. Why, some of those men cannot even boil water without burning it, and the pastor of the church suggested that dyspepsia tablets would be in order. Last year, the menu provided by these men chefs was something to wonder at. Such delicious meat pies—and other pies—and salads, and sandwiches, and coffee, and cocoa, and cakes, as graced those tables! The men, arrayed in aprons of spotless white, or of checked gingham, do the honors as hosts and waiters at these annual functions, and the feminine power behind the throne keeps modestly in the background in the kitchen, whence come the smoking delicacies.

Nevertheless, it is stated as a positive fact that there is one man in that church who cannot be beaten as a salad mixer, and another is quoted as an authority on coffee making.

Author of Women's Text-Book.

Church women will be interested to know that Dr. Isaac T. Headland of Peking, author of "China's New Day," which is the text-book used by the women's foreign missionary societies of all evangelical churches this year, will remain in this country for some little time. He came from Peking in the spring, and has been lecturing in eastern cities. Mrs. Headland has met with a bereavemen in the sudden death of her father, William Sinclair, superintendent of education in Sarnia, Ont., who was instantly killed in a street car accident last month. Mrs. Headland has been constantly in Sarnia with her mother, who is 80 years of age, since the tragic death of her father.

Women Who Love Animals.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has a host of advocates among women. Minnie Maddern Fiske, the noted actress, is famous for her love of animals, and is one of the most active members of that society. Now, here comes the news that the late Mrs. Catherine E. Daly, widow of Henry F. Daly, the actor, has left the bulk of her fortune, which is upward of $86,000, to the American S.P.C.A. All of this sum, with the exception of $10,000, which is bequeathed to St. Luke Hospital, goes for that purpose, and is to be known as the "Henry F. Daly bequest."

A little episode in a crowded New York street car attracted my attention a few years ago. It was an Eighth-avenue car, and was halted by an obstruction in the shape of a huge truck across the track, which a pair of horses, under the energetic application of the whip from the driver, who was seated on top of the immense load, was vainly trying to haul across the track. After we had been at a standstill for a few minutes, a little woman in a sealskin coat, quietly arose and walked out of the car and approached the truck. She uttered a few words to the driver, showed a neat S.P.C.A. badge under her coat lapel, gave a few directions and re-entered the car and resumed her seat as quietly and unostentatiously as she had left it.

The effect was magical. Without a word of protest, that driver put the whip in its stock, dismounted, gallantly put his shoulder to the wheel and engaged help from the crowd of bystanding men, who lent their services to the same beneficient cause. The heavily-laden wagon was pushed from the track and the car sped on its way.

A word of protest from the quiet little woman, backed by the authority of a powerful society, meant kindness instead of cruelty to a pair of jaded dumb animals.

An Army of Athletes.

Imagine a company of 2000 children and women—young, middle-aged and elderly—arrayed in gymnasium suits and each and every one trying to outdo the others in athletic stunts. That's what will happen at the Y.W.C.A. this year, it is expected, judging from the preliminary enrollment of students in this department of association work. Last year there were more than 1600 in the classes and Miss Ella Stevers, director of athletic work, who is just back with renewed muscle from a summer spent at Battle Creek, Mich., and at the Losadena Camp in the mountains back of the Arroyo Seco, announces that classes in gymnasium work will be conducted morning, afternoon and evening. So heavy does the work promise to be that another instructor will be added to the staff and Miss Gladys Harberd will be a new assistant at the plunge. All Y.W.C.A. members participate in the outdoor games free of charge, and it is the intention of the athletic department to specialize in games this year and to invite young women students in the various schools of the city to take part in tournaments in hockey, tennis and basketball. Mrs. Homer Laughlin, Jr., is chairman of the Committee on Hygiene and Physical Education, and is assisted by Mmes. William Carey Marble, Seymour Tally, W. A. Reynolds, G. W. Coultas, Bryant Mathews, C. L. Loman, Miss Katherine Ebbert, Dr. Laura Bennett, Dr. Rose T. Bullard, Dr. Nannie C. Dunsmoor, Dr. Eleanor Seymour and Dr. Gertrude S. Seabolt.

The increase of registration in the commercial department has been such that another instructor, Miss Ethel Lash of Indiana, has been engaged to assist Mrs. C. E. Bean, who is at the head of the department.

That old saw about whistling girls and crowing hens has been relegated to the well and the girl who can whistle a tune these days is considered an artist. In recognition of this, whistling is to be added to the musical curriculum of the Y.W.C.A. this year, and Mrs. Caroline Tew has been engaged to teach the girls how to pucker their pretty lips in just the right way. Miss Coan, at the request of a large number of members, will add china painting to the art department.

Acquiring an Accent.

One can comprehend the desirability of having several languages at one's tongue's end—especially when you are traveling in foreign countries—but the announcement that some 200 American women have been studying in a language institute in London this summer trying to acquire the English accent comes with something of a shock. Next we know, we will have classes of students trying to acquire the southern accent or the Yankee twang.

Just "fawncy" an American woman sacrificing her perfectly good American accent for a lot of British idioms. One good, expressive American slang phrase is worth a dozen clumsy English expressions. Imagine us asking for a "reel of cotton" when we mean a spool of thread; or a "lemon squash and bisquits" when what we really want is a glass of lemonade and some crackers; or, on a wet day, calling for our galoshes" when we mean our rubbers.

She's Struck a High Note.

That woman of the Parent-Teacher Federation who has suggested that Los Angeles boys be instructed to doff their hats when witnessing the street parade of G.A.R. veterans has hit a high note in the scale of proper training of the young. If there's anything in this world that the average American youngster needs it is a little drilling in common politeness, respect and genuine "good manners." As a nation, we are somewhat lacking in this quality, as compared with others. "In Japan, we teach manners first; then we teach arithmetic," said a Japanese educator who visited this country on a tour of investigation of our public school methods.

A little incident in tne dining-room of a big summer hotel illustrates the value of parental training in this particular. A woman saw seated at another table the young son—a little lad he was, too—of her friend. He was dining with three other boys of about the same age, the parents being temporarily absent. Instantly, as the lady approached the table to speak to the little fellow, all three boys rose to their feet and remained standing until she turned away. That was genuine poltieness, charmingly expressed, and demonstrated the careful training of the gentle mother.

Another little incident in the dining saloon of a great ocean liner illustrates that refinement of manner and well-bred courtesy which can be instilled into the growing youth. A father and son were seated at the table when the wife approached. The husband at once arose, glanced at the boy, who was intent on his breakfast, and said in tones of stern reproach, "My son, your mother," and that boy rose to his feet as if touched by an electric shock and both remained standing till the wife was seated.

"How sweet and gracious is that fine sense which men call courtesy!"

WELL TOLD STORIES.

The Penalty of Politeness.

[Judge:] When James J. Hill is in the humor he will tell you of a particularly polite brakeman in the West who never tired of answering the innumerable questions put to him concerning the scenic features along his line. Usually the brakeman formed part of a crew that comprised a conductor who was something of a grouch.

On one occasion when the polite brakeman had been for some time expatiating upon the beauties of nature as seen from the car window, a passenger whispered to the conductor:

"Can you tell me how the brakeman lost his forefinger? He seems to be a nice fellow."

"Sure, he's a nice fellow," assented the grouchy conductor. "That's the trouble. Why, that fellow is so obliging that he's worn his finger off pointing out the scenery along the line."

Just a Little Dog.

[Philadelphia Telegraph:] An admiring constituent gave Congressman Legare of South Carolina one of those vest-pocket edition Lilliputian Mexican dogs to take home to the children. Legare—pronounced Legree, by the way—was leading the dog along by a cotton string, when a South Carolina mountaineer stopped him.

"Are it a reg'lar dog?" the man asked.

"Yes, it's a Ch——. Well, I can't pronounce the name of it," said Legarae, " but it's some kind of a Mexican dog."

"Just a pup, I reckon."

"No; it's full grown."

"Well," opined the mountaineer, that's the least dog I ever seen at one time."

An Unusual Occurrence.

[Washington Star:] Richard Harding Davis, during his Atlantic City honeymoon, said at a fish luncheon:

"I confess that I am not pleased with the modern trend of fiction. The newest fiction leaves a bad taste in the mouth. It is full of double entendra—live the parlor maid's remark.

"A gentleman came down to breakfast one morning with bloodshot eyes. He drank eight glasses of ice water hurriedly, then he muttered hoarsely to the pretty parlor maid:

"'Tell me, Adele, did I reach home last night very much under the weather?'

"'Indeed you did, sir,' the maid replied. 'Why, sir, you kissed the missis!'"

When Harmon Was a Boy.

[Judge:] Gov. Judson Harmon of Ohio, though a fearless speaker on occasion, is equally noted for his pregnant silences. When he was a small boy in an Ohio village his chief playmate was another small boy named Bill.

Among the legitimate objects of boyish foray the pair at one time gave their attention to a supply of fruit which Judson's mother had stored in a cherished recess. When Mrs. Harmon finally discovered that the fruit was diminishing she promptly attributed the loss, with a mother's partiality, to her son's playmate, whose roguish traits were glaringly apparent to her.

Bill at his next visit received her vigorous denunciation without affirmation or denial, though not without glances of indignant inquiry at Judson, who stood silently by, with a simulation of surprise and regret.

As soon as the boys escaped to the yard, Bill, in righteous wrath at the supposed reason of his pal, burst out:

"Look here, Jud. Were you ornery enough to lay the blame o' that stealin' onto me?"

"Course not." Jud replied. "What do you take me for?"

"Well, it looked mighty like you had, when you stood there all the time a-savin' nothin'."

"Yes, Bill," admitted Judson, with a cautious glance toward the house. "But as long as there's any fruit left, let 'em suspect you. If they're all the time watchin' the outside I can be usefeller on the inside. See?"

Required Extra Room.

[Philadelphia Bulletin:] John H. Kimble, secretary of the Farmers' National Congress, said the other day at Port Deposit:

"This Fourth offers the farmer the prospect of unusually fine crops. Such crops as we may hope to have this year bring to mind an Abe Lincoln story.

"A farmer once told Lincoln a whopping big fib about his hay crop. Lincoln, smiling his melancholy smile, drawled:

"'I've been cutting hay, too.'

"'Good crop?' the farmer asked.

"'Fine, very fine,' said Lincoln.

"'How many tons?'

"'Well, I don't know just how many tons,' said Lincoln, carelessly, 'but my men stacked all they could outdoors and then stored the rest in the barn.'"

ENGLAND'S GRAVE NAVAL QUESTION

Proposed to Withdraw Ships from Malta.

It has been recalled that the temporary excavation of the Mediterranean by Jervis, in face of superior numbers, was criticised by Nelson as a political mistake. Attention was concentrated on the subject at the end of last May, by the visit of the premier and the lords of the admiralty to Malta, where they were met by Lord Kitchener. The latter is generally believed to be opposed to any weakening of naval strength in the Mediterranean. At about the same time, the advisability of an Anglo-French alliance was debated in the French and British press, but found little support in either country. In Germany and Austria, the discussion has been regarded as closely connected with the Mediterranean problem.

The whole question was, it is understood, discussed at a special meeting of the committee of imperial defense, on July 4, and it is shortly to be debated in Parliament. From Sir Edward Grey's speech, on July 11, it appears that the government intends to retain a force sufficient to ensure England's influence in the Mediterranean, though not necessarily strong enough to face any combination of powers. This is a solution which will meet general agreement in principles but the naval strength which it implies is an indeterminate quantity, admitting of different views.

No power can, nowadays, afford absolute superiority at all points. Every distribution of strength is, therefore, based on a compromise, the principle of which should be to concentrate the maximum strength in the decisive area, and to reduce outlying detachments (such as the Mediterranean forces) to the minimum necessary. A detachment which is too weak for its purpose may, however, be a hostage to the enemy. In such a case, there are only two alternatives; either to acknowledge one's inability to pursue the policy on which the maintenance of the detachment is based; or, if unwilling to accept a position of inferiority, to strengthen the detachment by an additional call on one's resources.

THE FRENCH ELECTION LAW.

An Illustration of How It Would Work in New York City as Compared with Present Results.

[Chicago Inter Ocean:] The French Chamber of Deputies has just passed a new electoral law which has some highly interesting features. The system of small constituencies is abolished, and all electors in a department will vote for the total number of deputies to which that department is entitled. Again, minority representation is carefully insured by a system that seems complex, but that is really very simple. Perhaps the easiest way to explain it will be to illustrate how it would work in a specimen American constituency.

Take New York county, for example. This is divided into thirty-five Assembly districts, each of which elects an Assemblyman. Under this French system every voter in Manhattan and the Bronx would vote for thirty-five Assemblymen. In the elections of 1911 the total vote for members of the Assembly was:

Democrats	142,797
Republican Ind. League ..	133,450
Socialists	17,816

It is to assume that the total vote under this group system would be approximately the same. The total vote—294,063—is divided by 35, the number of Assemblymen to be elected. This gives the number 8401, which is called the electoral quotient. The number of votes cast by each party is divided by 8401, with the following result:

Democrat, 17.
Rep. and Ind. League, 15.
Socialist, 2.

The 17 Democrats receiving the highest vote would be declared elected, as would the 15 Republicans and the 2 Socialists.

This makes only 34, which leaves one additional Assemblyman to be chosen to make up the 35. Any political parties may before election apply to have their electoral lists pooled. If this has been done the pooled list which received the largest total number of votes gets the odd Assemblyman. If, for example, the Republicans and Socialists had pooled, their total vote being 152,466, the candidate on either of their ballots who had the largest number of votes, after those already declared elected, would win.

If, after the pooled lists have obtained seats some still remain, they will be given to the list or group of lists which obtained more than half the total number of votes cast, unless they already have a majority of the total number of seats.

Under the present system New York county sent in 1911 20 Democrats and 15 Republican-Independence Leaguers to the Assembly, the Socialists being without representation.

MAKING HAIR NETS.

An Industry Confined Almost Exclusively to the Peasants of Alsatia and Austria Who Are Poorly Paid.

[New York Times:] An interesting account of the hair-net industry in Germany is contained in a recent report to the Department of Commerce and Labor from United States Consul Milo A. Jewett, stationed at Kehl.

Mr. Jewet explains that hair-nets, properly speaking, are not simply nets for the hair, but are nets made of human hair. Years ago, Mr. Jewett says, Strassburg was the greater center of this trade, but since then the Alsatian peasants have devoted more time to the cultivation of their fields and vineyards, and have engaged in other industries, while the peasants of Bohemia still continue to work at hair-net making because their rugged mountain country furnishes few opportunities for more lucrative employment.

The result is that rather more hair-nets are made in Austria than in Alsace-Loraine, but that Strassburg still buys and sells many of the nets made in Austria. However, Strassburg's trade declined a little last year. Mr. Jewett finds, owing to the change in the style of coiffure, and also on account of the increased use of cheaper nets made of waste silk. Normally, Strassburg sells annually about 12,000,000 hair nets.

"The hair nets," continues Mr. Jewett, "are made almost wholly in the homes of Alsatian and Austrian peasants. Weaving the nets is the work requiring manual dexterity that can be acquired successfully only in youth, when the fingers are supple and the eyesight is good. This industry and the peculiar skill require to net hair has become in part hereditary. The children begin first to tie the hairs together, end to end, to make one long hair. Then, without any implements, except a round piece of wood about six inches long and half an inch in diameter and a needle, the older girls and women, and sometimes the men also, weave the nets. Each mesh is knotted in much the same way that fish-nets or hammocks are made, only, of course, tying a single hair is a more delicate and difficult task than tying a string. The work is poorly paid."

ECZEMA CAN BE CURED TO STAY, and when I say cured, I mean just what I say—C-U-R-E-D, and not merely patched up for awhile, to return worse than before. Remember I make this broad statement after putting ten years of my time on this one disease and handling in the meantime a quarter of a million cases of this dreadful disease. Now, I do not care what all you have used, nor how many doctors have told you that you could not be cured—all I ask is just a chance to show you that I know what I am talking about. If you will write me TODAY, I will send you a FREE TRIAL of my mild, soothing, guaranteed cure that will convince you more in a day than I or anyone else could in a month's time. If you are disgusted and discouraged, I dare you to give me a chance to prove my claims. By writing me today you will enjoy more real comfort than you had ever thought this world holds for you. COURT FUNCTION MEANS MUCH WORK

HOW THE ENGLISH KING AND QUEEN GIVE PARTIES.

List of Quests Is Carefully Scrutinized and the Invitation Cards Delivered by Hand—All the Arrangements Are Personally Inspected by the Queen.

[London Tit-Bits:] Only those actually engaged in the duties can have any idea of the amount of work that is involved in organizing a court function at Buckingham Palace, and it is only by dint of the most careful organization and forethought that these can be carried out. Take the four or five courts that are held there as an example. The first step in connection with these is for the Lord Chamberlain to issue an official notice, usually about the end of the year, to the effect that a certain number of these will be held and that all ladies desiring to be present should notify him of their wish before a certain day.

Immediately applications from those anxious to make their bow before the King and Queen commence to pour in to the Lord Chamberlain's office in Stable Yard, St. James's Palace, until of late years it has invariably been found necessary to close the lists long before the appointed day, so numerous have the applications become. The real work then commences. Every letter has to be most carefully examined, the social status of the writer ascertained, and a host of other details gone into. Facts quite unknown to a man's intimate friends are somehow or other in possession of Buckingham Palace. How these facts are discovered is one of the royal secrets which are never revealed. All inquiries proving satisfactory, the name is entered upon the list of duly qualified to receive Their Majesties' "command" to be present at their court, to be holden upon such and such a night.

CARDS DELIVERED BY HAND.

When the whole of the applications have thus been dealt with the Lord Chamberlain and his assistants are then confronted with the fact that there are several hundred more names upon the lists than can possibly be invited. Roughly speaking, not more than a thousand persons can be present at any one court, so that this means that only about four hundred presentations can be made. The work of sifting out the names has then to be undertaken, and this is about the most thankless task that could possibly be imagined. When, after some weeks' hard work, the task is accomplished, the lists are then forwarded to Their Majesties for their approval. It is not generally known that both King George and Queen Mary go through the names most carefully and make several alterations, removing people whom for good reasons they do not desire to recognize, and adding names that have perhaps been omitted. It is not very often, however, that the latter course is taken.

When the lists are returned, carefully sealed, to the Lord Chamberlain, bearing the royal initials at the foot of each page, they are once more overhauled, in order that, so far as may be possible, the ladies whose names have been passed may be "cammanded" to the court they have indicated as being most convenient to themselves. When this work has been got through the highly prized pieces of cardboard are filled in, signed by the Lord Chamberlain, receive the official seal of his department and are dispatched to their fortunate recipients. The old custom is still adhered to of sending these by hand when the addresses are in London, the post being resorted to only for the country. A small army of royal footmen and others is specially impressed for this work.

COLD SUPPER FOR 1200.

With the approaching of a court the department of the master of the household becomes a busy hive of industry, especially if it be the first court of the season. The whole of the State apartments at Buckingham Palace have to be most carefully overhauled and prepared for the eventful night. The throne has to be brought forward, removed from the sheetings that have inclosed it for several months, and given a general refurishing. Carpets have to be unrolled and carefully inspected to see if moth or other insects have commenced their ravages. Cartloads of plants and flowers pour into the palace from the royal nurseries at Frogmore, and have to be arranged, while the preparations for the serving of supper for between a thousand and twelve hundred guests, royal officials on duty, etc., is in itself no light task.

The supper for the general company is now all cold, though there are dainty cups of hot, clear soup ready for service to the guests as they depart. There is, however, a special hot supper to be provided for the King and Queen and the other members of the royal family as well as for a few of the more distinguished guests present whom Their Majesties specially desire to honor. This royal supper is served in the royal anteroom, which stands at one end of the throne room, entrance being gained to it directly behind the throne. There is also another hot supper provided downstairs for the royal household in attendance, to which each member has the privilege of inviting two guests.

THE KING LOOKS THINGS OVER

The whole of the cold supper is prepared in the great kitchens of Windsor Castle, and is sent up to Buckingham Palace upon the morning of the court. The hot supper is, of course, prepared in the palace itself under the personal supervision of M. Cedard. The wines come from St. James's Palace, where the royal cellars are maintained. There is a very complete and up-to-date bottling plant here, where all the still wines are bottled for use at the royal table.

Prior to the opening of a court Queen Mary makes it her custom to inspect the whole of the arrangements, in order to see that nothing is lacking for the comfort and convenience of her guests, while the King often takes a stroll through the great suite of reception rooms in order to see how everything is progressing.

It is no small matter to marshal the lengthy stream of debutantes and those who are to present them as they arrive. This duty is undertaken by the marshal of the ceremonies, assisted by a strong detachment of officials of the Lord Chamberlain's department on duty. The master of the ceremonies, the Hon. Sir Arthur Walsh, is himself on duty within the throne room, since it is hew ho announces the name and style of the various ladies as they pass before the royal presence. Once this duty is over, the ladies and their male escorts, who have assembled outside the charmed room, are free either to pass to the lower end of the apartment to witness the subsequent presentations, or to make their way to where His Majesty's private band is playing, or, as soon as the great doors are thrown open, into the supper room.

DIVIDE GUESTS INTO CLASSES.

The work of preparing for a state ball, of which one or two take place every year at Buckingham Palace, is carried out with even greater carefulness, since the number of guests is so much larger. When the dancing is at its height there will be something like 2500 persons in the great ballroom and the adjoining apartments, each of whom has to be adequately provided with supper and suitable light refreshments. Very stringent investigations are made, so that no undesirable person is admitted. The experiment was tried last year of dividing the guests into different classes for supper, and this proved so successful that it will probably be adhered to in the future. Thus, the naval and military officers present and their ladies had supper served in one room, the diplomatic and official circle in another, and so forth, while there was a "bachelors' smoking room" where rather more solid fare was provided that at once proved highly popular. It is stated on good authority that the idea for this last originated with King George personally.

Upon the occasion of a state ball or a state dinner party the historic gold plate is brought up from Windsor Castle and is displayed on the great buffet that extends almost the whole of one side of the principal supper room. The royal party and those privileged to take supper with them are served exclusively upon this. This plate always travels by road from Windsor to Buckingham Palace, being conveyed in plain vans that give no outward signs of the vast treasure they contain. They are all made of highly tempered steel, however, and locked in such a manner that it would be impossible for any one to open them without being in the secret. They are kept, too under the constant supervision of some of the cleverest detectives at Scotland Yard. As soon as the function is at an end the various items of the gold plate are carefully checked and escorted to their vans, ready for return to Windsor on the following morning.

Thus it will be seen that a court function of any description involves the most careful thought and consideration upon every one about the court. It is a great honor to be present, and the fact of having received an invitation acts as a passport to the best society. If there are foreign royalties staying in London, or distinguished official visitors from other powers are in town, royal horses and carriages from the royal mews are sent to bring them and take them home again, while at least one or two of His Majesty's physicians are always in attendance upon such occasions, in case any of the guests—as has happened before today—may become suddenly indisposed.

"SPIES IN IRELAND."

Sensation Is Caused in Galway by the Arrest of a "Suspicious-looking" Person.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

DUBLIN, Sept. 7.—Ireland is just having a taste of the "spy" scare. A sensation has been created in Galway by the arrest there of a "suspicious-looking foreigner" who was found rambling along the seashore at night. The man gave his name as George Quetalet, said he was a Belgian, but undoubtedly left himself open to question by the evasive and contradictory character of his answers when arrested by the deputy-lieutenant of the county. The latter was accompanied by two English detectives and a file of Royal Irish Constabulary.

The house in which Quetalet lodged is said to command an excellent view of the fort of the Connaught Rangers at Benmore. A number of incriminating papers were found in his room and several soldiers testified at the offered large sums for information magistrial investigation that Quetalet offered large sums for information about the garrison and plans of the fort. He has been held for trial charged with an offense under the Official Secrets Act.

Coal in China.

[Consular Report:] As indicating the possibilities of Chinese coal in markets of this and other parts of the world, it is understood that the average cost of unscreened coal at the pit mouth in Fushun, Manchuria, is about 3s 6d, or about 85 cents gold, per ton. There is no question that the extension of railways in China will bring great quantities of coal into these markets at prices which will enable it to compete with any or all coal in this part of the world, if not elsewhere. The production of coal in Indo-China is also flourishing.

AN AMERICAN GIRL'S VACATION IN MEXICO.

[The writer of this letter is a nurse at the American Hospital, Mexico City. Though still [illegible] years, this young lady has practiced her profession in Santa Ana (her home,) Los Angeles, Long Beach, San Jose, Oakland, San Francisco, Edmunton, B. C., and Honolulu. For the past year she has been employed at the American Hospital.]

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 20.—I returned, a few days ago, from a two weeks' stay at "Beautiful Lake Chapala, the Riviera of Mexico," and it was the jolliest vacation I have ever had. One of the other nurses here, a Miss Connie Vaughn, went with me. Connie and I are old friends, as she worked at the Queen's Hospital in Honolulu when I did, and as she swims, rows, loves horseback riding, and is an all-around good fellow, we get on famously together.

Only a week before we started Zapatistas wrecked a train within forty-five miles of this city and massacred nearly a hundred soldiers and civilian passengers. It was a terrible affair and we were urged not to risk a journey so far into the country; but as our plans were already completed, we determined to go anyway. In the year I have been at the hospital this was my first day off.

Lake Chapala is advertised as being twelve hours by rail from Mexico City, but because of recent floods and a freight wreck on the line ahead, we were twenty-six hours on the road.

Nobody there at home could realize the aggravation of traveling in Mexico, especially on the narrow-gauge side lines. Imagine leaving the city at 6 p.m. expecting to reach your destination early next morning, and then getting out of your berth at 6 o'clock, with the train crawling at a snail's pace and your journey only half over! Moreover, during the night the dining-car had been dropped off. Breakfast, we had none. During the morning the train stopped at a huddle of wretched cabins and we went out to get something to eat. We found a lunch counter, and, crowding in among rough, ill-smelling peons, ate a few bites of ham sandwich each, and drank a little lukewarm coffee. Fortunately we ran across some Indians selling strawberries and bought a basketful to take away the taste of our 40-cent lunch.

We were exasperated at the train's slow gait; but there was nothing to do but remember we were in Mexico and shrug our shoulders. We had found by this time, too, that we were the only white women aboard, which was not altogether reassuring. Shortly after noon the train stopped on a siding and stood there four solid hours waiting for—what? Everybody "Quien sabe."

Most of the passengers, being wise in their day and country, had brought lunch, but for us there was nothing to do but forage, and with not a house in sight, and the landscape full of mountains, the foraging did not look good.

Well, Connie and I started off into the hills looking for anything in the way of a human habitation, and presently we found just that. And when we found it I would have given a good deal for the camera that was packed away in my trunk. It was a mere cabin, mostly veranda, thatched with grass, with one door, no windows, and a floor of earth. In a corner of the veranda were six big pigs, asleep, each tied by one hind leg to a peg in the floor. Chickens were running about, as much at home in the house as out of it, while children, dogs, and cats were everywhere.

"Maybe they're Zapatistas!" Connie whispered, catching my hand.

"I don't care," I answered, "if they have nothing else to eat I am going to try a cat."

In a corner of the veranda, behind a windbreak of piled-up stones, two women were patting out and frying tortillas, and these with the inevitable red beans that were cooking, sent off a fragrance that was as the odor of a banquet to hungry us.

"Why, of course you can have food," we were told and being each given a tin plate of steaming frijoles and tortillas we sat down on two boxes among the dogs, cats, chickens, pigs and children, and fell to. The dogs, and one tall, lean cat, stood by and made such entreaties that we fed them all around and then bought a fresh supply.

I was beginning to feel quite "filled up" and comfortable once more when I happened to notice that the chewing-gum which had been a great solace to me for an hour or more, and which I had thrown on the floor on receiving my plate, had been picked up by one of the women and was now serving her a second term of usefulness. Connie noticed it at the same moment, and we went off in a gale of laughter. I laughed so hard that my seat gave way, I pitched backward, and lo! I had a lapful of bean juice and tortillas. Just then a brakeman from the train sauntered up, and, expressing great sympathy for me in my trouble, gave me a red train flag he was carrying to mop off the mess. Then we all laughed again, and after paying for our meal—5 cents Mex. each—started back.

At 4:30 the train stopped again, and with two American men who were aboard—for necessity knows no introductions—we marched on the only restaurant visible, a place kept by Chinese, where smells, flies and dirt were too thick to describe. But we were all hungry, and in spite of our surroundings, ate with more or less relish.

Late in the evening we pulled into Ocotlan, our station, and as though we hadn't had trials enough, found ourselves quite alone. The hotel is across the lake, a mile by boat, and a launch usually meets the trains, but on account of our train being so many hours late, there was no boat for us.

The two Americans I have spoken of came to our rescue and found us a launch. Bless the American man! In all my travels I have found him ever gallant and ready to help a woman in trouble.

But that dash across the lake in the moonlight was delightful, and after such a day imagine our sensations on rushing through the night up to a big modern hotel all gleaming with lights like a fairy palace. We registered, ate a little real food, and tumbled into bed, too weary to speak. That night we slept two rows at a time, as you would express it.

There were several white people at the hotel; but most of the guests were wealthy Mexicans, some of whom had left Guadalajara on account of the recent terrible earthquakes there. These upper-class Mexicans are fine people, sociable, intelligent, and many of them splendidly educated. We did not take time to get well acquainted with the other guests, though, as from morning till night, we were boating, bathing in the lake, exploring the farm, or galloping about over the mountains.

A friend of Connie's came down from the city during the latter part of our stay, and as she and this gentleman seemed quite satisfied with each other's company I had several days of my good time alone. My wild rambles I would have had alone, anyway, as Connie is not so filled with "the call of the wild" as I. I scoured the country on horseback. I'm just as fond of riding now as I was in the days when we lived on the ranch and I dashed about on "Ol' Maud," with sunbonnet and pigtails flying; and there is so much beautiful mountainous country there to explore that I put in most of my time that way. Often I would start in the morning alone and be gone all day. The Indians in that region are peaceful and hospitable; and I speak Spanish well enough now to get along nicely. I frequently stopped and talked with them or rode up to their huts for a "hand out." I loved to talk with the children. They were so anxious to learn all about wonderful Mexico City or still more wonderful Unidos Estados (United States.) None of the children and few of the grown people I met had ever been out of those mountains. The children, as a rule, are bright; but the poor little things have to hustle for the family living from the time they are able to run about.

While homeward bound one evening I came across an old horse standing patiently in the trail while squatting at his heels, almost covered by a great sombrero, was a kiddie busy at something and crying his little heart out. Between sobs he told me he had had a sack of corn tied on behind his saddle, and that it had slipped off and spilled half the corn in the weeds. The little fellow was too busy to even look up as he answered my questions; and he told me he was only six! Night was coming on and I was a long way from the hotel; but I could not bear to think of the poor little chap getting whipped for losing his corn, so I climbed off my horse and helped him. It was hard work, and I got a thorn in my thumb and another in my knee; but the muchacho was so grateful for my help that I felt repaid. He stopped crying, and as he worked told me about his numerous hermanos and hermanas (brothers and sisters.)

By the time I had got him started on his way again it was dark, and to my dismay I found I was not sure how to get back to the hotel. Visions of a night in the mountains with "lions and tigers" and Zapatistas rose before me. I decided the best plan was to trust the horse to find his way, so gave him his head and, like Ichabod Crane, kept up my courage by whistling. Perhaps I wasn't glad, a few minutes later to meet Peter, the stable-boy, coming pell-mell in search of me! Fortunately, too, he had brought a great rubber coat that covered me and most of the horse, for one of the storms that come up so suddenly there was upon us. Just a few peals of thunder, a flash or two of lightning, and the rain came down in torrents. We reached home all right; but I don't know what would have become of me if it hadn't been for Peter.

I wish you could have seen our waiter. He was always in such a hurry that I hadn't courage to stop him for a picture. Fancy how he would look waiting on a table in a Los Angeles hotel!

He wore a red bandana around his neck, any old kind of a shirt, charro trousers, and sandals. Sometimes a pretense of an apron was added; and always he wore a broad grin. The charro trousers are hooked down the outside of each leg from hip to ankle and fit closely. His were so tight he had to walk stiff-legged; and one day when he stooped to pick up a spoon I held my breath for fear of what might happen. Our amusement at his appearance did not bother him in the least. He insisted on calling Connie Senora and me Nina (child,) because she is taller than I.

Those two weeks passed so quickly I can scarcely believe, now, that we were at Lake Chapala so long. And as our troubles had descended upon us when we were going so they began again when we started away. We were to leave at 7 o'clock Sunday evening, August 11, but that day a great mass of pond lilies blew in from the lake and surrounded the hotel boats. The only way to reach town was by the road; so into the hotel wagon went our baggage and we waved good-by to the crowd assembled on the porch. All went well till we were half way to town, which is four miles by the road, when we stuck in a mud-hole, the horses balked; then kicked the harness and part of the wagon to pieces. We jumped out in the mud "muy pronto" and walked back to the hotel in no pleasant frame of mind.

Monday's train carried us off, however, and we reached the city only four and a half hours late. I brought home a big basket of grapes I had picked in the hotel vineyard, and the girls welcomed them joyfully. Fruit is none too plentiful here. In half an hour the basket was empty.

I must tell you one thing that happened on the way to Chapala. Shortly after we passed the wreck a much-bedizzened Senora got on wearing a hat that fairly screamed in feathers, flowers and ribbon. As we dashed madly on at some 'steen miles an hour by some accident this millinery dream became detached from its devoted owner's head and whirled out of the window amid a volley of frantic "Madre Dios's." The train was really doing its "durnednest" to make up some of the lost time, but, would you believe it? After we had gone fully two miles farther it slowed down, stopped, and backed up to where that hat lay beside the track! We scolded and fumed; but the owner of that vision of loveliness went into ecstacies and nearly kissed the conductor's feet as he handed her her property.

Such is Mexico!

Henry Mountjoy, author of "The Minister of Police," is the son of a late dignitary of the English Church. His mother was one of the most brilliant and witty women of her time. His maternal grandmother was a friend of Charles Lever, and it was a story told to him by her that gave the great novelist one of the most amusing scenes in "Charles O'Malley."

GOSSIP OF THE FOREIGN STAGE.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Kate Douglas Wiggin, who has come to London to attend the first performance at the Globe Theater of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," is a delightful person to talk with. Of her own work she speaks in the most modest and diffident manner; why her books have achieved such wonderful popularity she does not attempt to explain. "I suppose," she said to me, "they must contain some particular quality which appeals to a large section of readers, but whatever that may be it has got there by itself, for in writing my novels I have never aimed at any particular mark save that of telling my stories in my own way of trying to interest and entertain the public."

"I am no dramatist," Miss Wiggin continued, "and possess little knowledge of what people call dramatic construction. I realize, however, that without that particular gift one may have much to say of an exciting and stimulating character to one's listeners and yet fail in commanding their attention. It was for this reason that I took a collaborator in the case of 'Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm,' to assist me in putting the plot into shipshape order. But the dialogue, and, of course, the characterization are entirely my own. Yes," Miss Wiggin went on, in answer to a further question, "I have finished another play and am expecting a typewritten copy from New York by next mail. It is founded on an earlier story of mine than 'Rebecca' and I am inclined to think it has more dramatic stuff in it. Still, one never knows. The moment the manuscript arrives it will be submitted to Joseph Brooks, upon whose opinion I place the highest value."

Apropos of Brooks, he gave us an exceedingly pleasant little outing on Monday last. The company which is to introduce "Milestones" to Chicago about the end of next month is having a trial run at Southampton and the idea occurred to Brooks that it would be a good thing to take some of the leading American correspondents and a few of the London critics down there in order to give the piece a send-off. With this view a special dining saloon was chartered into which some twenty or thirty of us were crowded and off we went late in the afternoon. An excellent dinner was served and with Joe Brooks at the head of the table you may imagine the journey was well-nigh over before we had time to realize that it had begun. A capital performance of "Milestones" awaited us at the theater and I can assure Chicago playgoers that, so far as the cast is concerned, their interests have been carefully studied. Immediately after the fall of the curtain we hurried back to the railway station and arrived in London again shortly after midnight. Among the company was W. H. Crane, who expressed himself in the most appreciative terms respecting both play and players. And what Crane does not know of acting is, of course, hardly worth the knowing. Next week the company engaged for the New York production of "Milestones" makes its appearance at one of the suburban theaters.

As usual at this time of the year rehearsals are the order of the day at most of the West End theaters. The result will be a rich crop of novelties next month. If quality should prove equal to quantity we may expect a really good time of it. Tree is back from Marienbad minus a few pounds of flesh, and feeling, he assures me, all the better for the loss. He is hard at work upon Louis N. Parker's pageant play "Drake," due at His Majesty's next Tuesday week. From what I have seen of the piece it looks like being a substantial success. The one obvious drawback is that Tree does not appear in it himself, and the public has grown accustomed to look for him at His Majesty's and may possibly resent his absence. Lyn Harding plays the title role; he can only remain four weeks, however, as he is wanted on your side to take up his old role of Bill Sykes, to the Nancy of Constance Collier, in "Oliver Twist." He is to be followed at His Majesty's by Frederick Ross, an actor with a singularly resonant voice, who, however, has not yet won for himself a West End reputation. It remains to be seen also how Phyllis Neilson Terry will be accepted in a part so very much too old for her as that of Queen Elizabeth. Fancy a girl of 20 playing a woman of 71.

On the spectacular side there is no doubt that "Drake" will be a very fine show. Parker is a past master in the art of producing pageants, and Tree has placed no limit upon the number of people he might care to engage. As a matter of fact, the stage seemed to me inconveniently crowded when I dropped in yesterday to see how things were going. Still, when you're dealing with the spacious times of good Queen Bess you mustn't stint yourself in the matter of supers. Tree, meanwhile, is intent upon working up the patriotic boom, striking the Imperial note. He could hardly have chosen a better method of arousing attention. Drake himself will embody the national spirit; typify, as it were, England's supremacy on the sea. And we shall all, I daresay, shout ourselves hoarse on the first night when we see him standing outside old St. Paul's Cathedral giving thanks to the powers above for the defeat of the renowned Armada and the consequent humiliation of Philip of Spain.

Among the big productions this season figures that of "Everywoman" at Drury Lane. I hear that everything there is shaping splendidly, while even those who at an earlier moment were distinctly sceptical of success have now found reason to alter their views. Stephen Phillips has done the work of rewriting Walter Browne's work admirably; although he has kept the rhythm and the meter of the lyrics the lines have now some claim to literary quality. Arthur Collins believes that he has got a bargain in H. B. Irving for the part of Nobody, despite the fact that he has agreed to pay him $1000 a week. My own impression is that "Everywoman" will easily run until the moment comes for producing the annual Christmas pantomime.

After a long silence H. V. Esmond, author of "When We Were Twenty-one," is breaking out again as dramatist. Further, he is going to do so in two places. At the Criterion we are shortly to have a farce from his pen entitled "A Young Man's Fancy." Carl Leyel, Oscar Asche's London manager, is putting the piece up: in point of fact he wished to do so last spring in succession to "Kipps" at the Vaudeville. But difficulties in relation to the cast prevented this; the author wanted Marie Lohr for his principal character and Marie Lohr was not available. Two weeks after the production of "A Young Man's Fancy" Esmond goes on tour with another new piece of his, accompanied by his wife, Eva Moore, as leading lady.

George Edwardes starts full rehearsals next week of the new musical play chosen to follow the now defunct "Autumn Maneuvers" at the Adelphi. It is the work of J. T. Tanner, author, Adrian Ross and Percy Greenbank, writers of the lyrics, and Lionel Monckton, composer. The three scenes are laid respectively in Brighton, at St. Moritz and in the big corridor of the Ritz Hotel. It is still uncertain whether Gertie Millar will leave the cast of "Gipsy Love" at Daly's in order to go to the Adelphi. The chances, however, seem in favor of her doing so. By the bye, I hear that one of Edwardes's former stars, Lily Elsie, is still very ill and that there is no longer any hope that she will appear on the stage again. It is a sad end to a career, as short as it was brilliant, which, I happen to know, she was extremely eager to take up again. For his next piece at Daly's which, however, will not be wanted for certainly eighteen months to come, Edwardes has just engaged G. P. Huntley who, for one reason or another, has been rather out of the running lately.

Robert Loraine sails for New York on the 11th of next month, starting operations at the Hudson Theater on the 30th with a revival of Bernard Shaw's "Man and Superman." He remains on your side for just upon eight months, returning to London in May. During his absence he will try one or two new pieces with the view of giving them if successful, a production in the West End here. May Blayney, to whom New York playgoers took such a fancy in "The Little Damozel," goes with him, together with Sydney Valentine.

Miss Margaret Chung, a young Chinese woman, is at the head of the movement which proposes to form an organization of American women for the purpose of assisting and encouraging the women of China in making the best use of their newly-acquired right to the ballot.

The kitchens of the Emperor Francis Joseph's palace at Budapest are considered to be the most modern and in every way the finest in Europe. In reality these kitchens are two separate ranges of buildings. The smaller kitchen contains separate offices for the chef and his chief assistants, besides the kitchen proper.

"HAIR THAT GIVES FATHER TIME THE LAUGH"

We are just about as old as we LOOK

People judge us, by the way we LOOK. The man or woman with grey hair is beginning to get in the "Old Timer's Class." This Twentieth Century does NOT want GREY hairs—it wants the energy of Youth. The big things are being done by the YOUNGER generation.

There's a sort of "Has Been" look about those "Grey Hairs." There is always one to criticise and smile scornfully.

Father Time is a stern disciplinarian. Get the best of him. Give him the laugh. Do not be a "Has Been." It's unnecessary.

80 Actual Horse Power

Lozier leadership was never so firmly established as it is today and the whole spirit of the Lozier organization is this:—

To sacrifice not a single detail of the Lozier Methods which have made Lozier motors and Lozier cars famous the world over, but by aggressive manufacturing policies to make possible a larger production of Lozier cars, so that men who want Lozier quality may be able to secure it.

The Lozier continues to lead all American motor cars, with no other builders sufficiently endowed with ideals and experience to contend for its leadership—a leadership which will be still further strengthened by another model which is to be added to the Lozier Line in November!

Time Proves the Work

Whalebone Dentists.

Some years since you made for me a lower plate of teeth. The conditions were difficult and I doubted its stability and comfort in eating. Time has proved your work, the fit is perfect and I can eat almost anything in comfort. I want others to know the superior character of your work, hence this voluntary letter.

Yours sincerely,
GEO. E. ANDROVETTE,
Mgr. Opalite Dept., Raphael Glass Works.

"The Literary Show."

OYEZ! OYEZ! POETS TODAY.

PRAISE OF A DECADE OF POETIC VOLUMES.

Neglected, but not Forgotten, the Bards Are Hereby Given Their Innings—A Survey of This Season's Poetry—The Lyric Year and Its Influence.

The poets, God bless 'em! A de ing clan, these writers of rhyme. not a word of encouragement? not a helping hand? Why not devoted to their wares? The the dramatist, the essayist, economist, the psychologist, the rian, the biographer—all receive deration from the critics; but poet (unless he be a rare bird, research, a fad, or a cadaver) is to have his works mentioned, in the "Books Also Received"

y should this be so? Why this against the bard, this ing of the muse's children, this of the songsters? Is it be we are too commercial? It is romance is dead? Is it be we are too busy with novels? because we have lost our ap of the beautiful? Or is ply because we are vulgar? complaint has been going the that we have no poets or and the complaint is not with foundation. But why haven't we Is it because the muses are that there are no songs hearts of modern men? I not. The reason lies, I be in the universal discourage of poetry. It is the lack of ap that creates the slump in poetic market; not the slump in poetic market which gives excuse of appreciation.

tunate as it may be, the poet matter how he may deny the of existence, may scoff at the of earthly things, may the worldlings and the hu woodpeckers—nevertheless must When the poet finds that he get enough to eat from the of the commodity which he is capable of producing, he puts another commodity out of sheer servation. I am no which, indeed, is a more inspiring sight; a rancorous sober poet cursing the world and maligning himself; or a wassallous poet loving the world and congratulating himself? I leave the answer to anyone who can think without sobbing.

It is quite impossible, in more ways than one, for me to invite the bards of 1912 to put their feet on the rail at my expense. And so, instead, I shall treat them as I have treated both the novelists and the dramatists in recent weeks. I shall inspect all their wares which the sweating expressman has hurled into my sanctum since January 1, select therefrom the ten best volumes, and praise them without stint—even going so far as to recommend these volumes to those who care for the best in modern American poetry.

Have I given the impression that there has been no good poetry published of late? It has not been my intention. There has been good poetry published, but not much of it. The last seven or eight volumes on the list may even be mere concessions to my superstitious liking for the numeral ten. But while no bard has proved himself a running-mate for Swinburne, or Shakespeare, or Horace, there are several whose work is significant, and one or two who crowd closely on the adjective "great." Here is the list—in alphabetical order:

"The Candle and the Flame," by George Sylvester Viereck.

"Daily Bread," by Wilfred Wilson Gibson.

"Discords," by Donald Evans.

"The Everlasting Mercy," by John Masefield.

"The Human Phantasy," by John Hall Wheelock.

"Moods, Songs and Doggerel," by John Galsworthy.

"Poems," by Gerald Gould.

"The Sonnets and Ballate of Guido Cavalcanti," translated by Ezra Pound.

"The Stranger at the Gate," by John G. Neihardt.

"The Vaunt of Man," by William Ellery Leonard.

Have I overlooked any obscure and modest Shakespeare? Have I done an injustice to an unheralded Rossetti? An Indiana Heine? A Hoboken Sapho. A sub-Potomac Milton? Perhaps, perhaps! There may be ten other books of poems just as good as these, but they have not been listed on the year's dope sheets; they have expired on the presses; they have been embalmed in their own covers. Or, perhaps, they are still living in some remote section of the country.

But I am no spiritualist. I am not gifted with second sight. I receive, by virtue of my unenviable position, practically every book of literary importance published in America. Perhaps some great and passionate free spirit has concocted stanzas whose beauty blinds the angels, but who has lacked the necessary funds to mail or express these strophes to me. If such is the case, I have no way of judging them; and so a great soul must go to the brink, unsung by me.

A tragic thought—all this; and I humble myself before those great ones of 1912, whose wares I have not seen, and whose books have escaped the compilers of catalogues. I have, however, wallowed in a hundred volumes of verse since I recovered from my New Year's spree, and these mentioned are the ten best.

Here, again, there may be quibble. What two people agree on poetry? For two critics to agree on the merits of a poetic work is like agreeing on the charms of a woman. After all, it is personal taste. I have been invited to meet ravishing goddesses with golden hair—and have been left cold. And so perhaps, when I invite you to make the acquaintance of these poets, they will leave you cold. You may prefer Richard Burton, or Cale Young Rice, or Prof. Woodberry, or even the kindly William Winter. I can offer no excuses for my taste. All I can say is that these ten volumes of poetry appeal to me.

All of this poetry is not by Americans; but each volume has been published in America. Galsworthy, Masefield, Gibson and, I believe, Gerald Gould, are British subjects. Viereck is a German-American. And John Hall Wheelock is an insurgent from Harvard—a contradictory and paradoxical combination. But he survived the classic and effeminate pedantry of that institution—a fact which, in itself, makes him unique.

Ezra Pound has shaken the vulgar dust of America from his blue feet. (I have it from competent authority that he wears blue shoes,) but he is none the less an American. These "Sonnets and Ballate" are by no means his best work; but they are worth possessing.

William Ellery Leonard is picked because of his suavity and grace. He has little of the divine fire; but the fact that he knows, and can write, the English language makes him deserving of praise. The majority of our poets seem to scorn the technique of their craft.

What of Donald Evans? I have never heard of him. I know nothing whatever about him. But I know that when I opened his "Discords"—a book published by the bookstore firm of Brown Bros., Philadelphia—I said to myself, Here is a true singer.

I have written before in these columns of "The Candle and the Flame" and "The Human Phantasy." I have called down opprobrium on my head for daring to uphold the work of George Sylvester Viereck. The entire quibble against Viereck seems to be a quibble with his themes. Bah! Such snivelling makes me sick.

Galsworthy's collection of songs are graceful, tender, buoyant, and beautiful by turns. They are not great poetry, but they stand on two legs.

The most important poet in the group is John Masefield. There is not space here to express myself fully on this writer. But let me go on record as saying that his is the most important voice in the present-day English poetry.

FEMININE AWAKENING.

WOMAN IN MODERN SOCIETY. By Earl Barnes. B. W. Huebsch, New York.

THOSE who fear woman's devotion to work outside the home, her monopoly of education and her full participation in all the activities of men, will find their fears formulated and clearly stated in "Woman in Modern Society," by Earl Barnes. Those who are eager to see women pass on to full partnership with men will be encouraged as they read these pages. Those who look upon this as a transition time, and long to get through with it, that the energies of both men and women may be set free to work out a new society where the complementary values of both sexes will be preserved and used to their interest, will welcome this book as a wise guide in troubled times.

In the last forty years, half the population of the civilized world, the women, have taken their lives in their own hands and have established themselves as partners with men in managing the economic, social, intellectual and political affairs of society. This revolution in woman's position has disturbed not only our institutions but the very foundation beliefs in which our society rests. Eight million of our women now work away from their homes; they have established a monopoly of education and are steadily feminizing all that we include in the word culture; we have a million of divorced people in the United States; and a million women, enrolled in clubs are working out new types of thought and education. With this disturbance of men's vested interests, sex antagonism grows stronger daily; and statements exalting one sex or the other come to be regarded as facts. Meantime thoughtful men and women are profoundly dissatisfied with existing conditions; and each advanced movement finds itself facing organized bodies of reaction.

Prof. Barnes's volumne presents careful analysis of the biological and historical conditions which have led to this upheaval; and in a series of studies, backed by facts and carefully compiled statistics, examines the present industrial, educational and domestic conditions.

The author of this book is widely known as a student of history and psychology and as an active observer of the world around him. As a professor first in the State University of Indiana and later in Leland Stanford Junior University, and as a lecturer in all parts of America and England, he has had opportunities to study his problem from many angles. He is not a disinterested observer, for he cares intensely how life is lived and he has spent his own life in trying to shape public opinion. But the presentation is that of a devoted student, not that of an attorney. There is a place for "Woman in Modern Society" on the five-inch shelf which we devote to the great books of the year.

Mrs. Wilson Woodrow,
Author of "The Black Pearl."

NEW BOOKS.

"Modern Italian Literature," by Lacy Collison-Morley, who was Marion Crawford's private secretary, will be published in the autumn in this country by Little, Brown Co. Mr. Collison-Morley deals comprehensively with the literature of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries and gives a really critical estimate of the recent Italian writers.

Lovers of the best literature have an opportunity to obtain in English the romances of Theophile Gautier, for Little, Brown & Co. have added to their autumn list of publications a pocket edition of Gautier's Romances in 10 volumes and a pocket edition of Gautier's Travels in seven volumes. The translations and introductions are by Prof. F. C. de Sumichrast, of Harvard, and each volume contains three photogravure illustrations. The romances, including "Mademoiselle de Maupin," "Spirite," "Captain Fracasse," "The Romance of a Mummy," etc., will be sold only in sets, but the seven volumes of travel including "Travels in Spain," "Travels in Italy," "Constantinople," "Travels in Russia," "Paris Besieged," and "The Louvre," will be supplied separately.

The author of "The Gods and Mr. Perrin," Hugh Walpole, has written a new novel, "A Prelude to Adventure," which The Century Co. will publish in this country this fall.

The long expected "Epochs of Chinese and Japanese Art," by Prof. Ernest F. Fenollosa, promised for publication a year ago, is finally ready. The first announcement of this book created much interest, for Prof. Fenollosa was perhaps the greatest American or European authority on Oriental art. But so unexpectedly numerous were the difficulties of manufacture that it was not possible to produce the book till this fall.

Houghton Mifflin Company report new editions of "The Jonathan Papers," Elizabeth Woodbridge's charming collection of outdoor essays, and of Lawrence Beesley's "Loss of the SS Titanic." The fact that within a little more than a month of the time of its publication it should be necessary to reprint large editions of Mr. Beesley's book in both this country and England is particularly interesting in view of its calm, collected, quite unsensational tone. Critics are prophesying that the book will take its place as the classic account of the great disaster.

The new book by Mr. Henry S. Harrison, author of "Queed," now nearing completion, will be published by Houghton Mifflin Company early in January. Those who have read the portion of the manuscript already finished are loud in their enthusiasm. Few books have been awaited by the public with more eagerness than this. The publishers promise that it will be at once a complete fulfillment of these expectations and a surprise.

Houghton Mifflin Company report that so great has been the preliminary demand for "Caviare," the novel by Grant Richards, the London publisher, to be issued by them in September, that it has been necessary to order a second edition before publication. As in the case of the actor-manager in the theater or the player-manager on the baseball diamond, a special interest attaches to the work of a publisher-author. Such a one is supposed to know how the thing should be done. Mr. Richards, so his American publishers assure us, has succeeded in his engaging tale of love and lucre in writing a book that proves the point.

"The Scott Originals" forms an account of notables and worthies who were the originals of characters in the Waverly Novels. W. S. Crockett, author of "Foot-Steps of Scott," "The Scott Country," etc., is the author, and the great amount of research which produced it, together with the very many full-page portraits and other illustrations, make it a thorough and illuminating work. Many portraits and relics and undoubted originals are reproduced for the first time. Among them are—"The Marriage Contract of The Bride of Lammermoor," part of the M.S. of the "Heart of Midlothian," and portraits of the prototypes of the Baron of Bradwardine, Joshiah Cargill, Rebecca Gratz, Davy Gellatly, Minna and Branda, Pleydell, The Black Dwarf, and many others.

Messrs. L. C. Page & Co. of Boston announce that Mr. Henry C. Shelly's new book—"Old Parts: Its Social, Historical and Literary Associations"—will be published on September 3. This is a companion volume to Mr. Shelley's "Inns and Taverns of Old London," published two years since.

Although Mr. Shelley makes his home in England, he is well known through his literary efforts in this country, and has a particularly large following about Boston through his weekly "English Letter," which appears regularly in one of Boston's leading newspapers.

In "Princess Rags and Tatters," which is to be brought out by Doubleday, Page & Co. this fall, Harriet T. Comstock returns to juvenile fiction, in which she scored her first success before her novel "Joyce of the North Woods" published a year and a half ago. Mrs. Comstock's earlier books for boys and girls have had a tremendous circulation, and some of them still sell steadily, ten years after publication.

Important books on widely-varied lines, some of which have already appeared, are on the publication list of Scribner for late summer and fall. In history "Causes and Effects in American History: The Story of the Origin and Development of the Nation," by Edwin Morse, and "Anson Burlingame and the First Chinese Mission to Foreign Powers," by F. W. Williams. In discussions of current questions, William L. Ransom's "Majority Rule and the Judiciary: An Examination of Current Proposals for Constitutional Change Affecting the Relation of the Courts to Legislation" with its introduction by Theodore Roosevelt, and A. G. Sedgwick's "The Democratic Mistake," which bears largely on the frequency of elections to office, and Nicholas Murray Butler's "The International Mind: An Argument for the Judicial Settlement of International Disputes," In theology and philosophy Rudolph Eucken's "Main Currents of Modern Thought," J. H. Breasted's "Development of Religion and Thought in Ancient Egypt" and "The History of Christian Thought Since Kant," by Edward Caldwell Moore, a new volume in the "Studies of Theology" series. In the line of essays Bradner Matthews's "Gateways to Literature" and John Galsworthy's ::The Inn of Tranquillity." In plays—a volume containing August Strindberg's "Miss Julia" and "The Stronger," and another volume of plays by Anton Tckekoff. In fiction, F. Hopkinson Smith's "The Arm Chair at the Inn," Mrs. Belloc Lowndes's "Mary Pechell," Richard Harding Davis's "The Red Cross Girl" and Francis Lynde's "Scientific Sprague." In fiction for younger readers Ralph D. Paine's "The Dragon and the Cross" and "Campus Days," and Frank H. Spearman's "The Mountain Divide." Two important volumes of reminiscences have just been imported—"The "Diary of Frances Lady Shelley, 1787-1817," by Richard Edgcumbe, and "The Fourth Generation," by Janet Ross.

WITH THE AUTHORS.

Albert B. Osborne, while in Europe last summer getting material for "Picture Towns of Europe," to be published this fall by McBride, Nast & Co., was arrested in a small Italian coast town while kodaking a curious fishing boat behind which there happened to be a submarine. The officer would not be pacified by Mr. Osborne's pointing out that the government boat was completely hidden and could not have possibly been photographed. On being taken before the magistrate, however, Mr. Osborne produced a "frank" of a certain express company of the United States and stated that of the United States and stated that his position in America was of such importance that this express company carried his bundles all over the country free of charge. The effect was almost magical; and it was only a few minutes before author and magistrate were smoking each other's cigarettes in peace and friendship.

Alice Jones has been spending the summer in Switzerland finishing her novel, "Marcus Helbeach's Daughter," which will be issued this month by her publishers, D. Appleton & Co.

Josephine Daskam Bacon has been spending the past month in the mountains trying to find sufficient time between tennis and boating to correct proofs for "The Inheritance," an American romance which her publishers are issuing this month.

Mrs. Wilson Woodrow, author of "The Black Pearl," was born in Chillicothe, O. Her grandparents on both sides were of Virginia and Kentucky ancestry and were among the first settlers in that first capital of the State. Her father was the leading physician there for many years and was an ardent collector of books and pictures. His library, numbering several thousand volumes, was sold in New York last year, the collection of Americans being exceedingly valuable. One of his largest paintings, of a court beauty of the era of Charles II, hangs now on the south wall of the main picture gallery of the New York public library, selected for that position by John W. Alexander. By essay, by short story and novel, by satire which has made her famous as a contributor of "Life," Mrs. Woodrow has won her place among representative American writers.

LITERARY GOSSIP

Mr. Ezra Brundo, speaking of his recent story, "One of Us," gave the following information regarding its origin:

"One afternoon in the latter part of the summer of 1909 I was sitting on my veranda, discussing John Stuart Mills, of whom I am a great admirer. In arguing some point I cited the injustice of nature in making one deformed, for instance, and repulsive in the eyes of others, and at the same time endowing him with a love-thirst for beauty. At that, I jumped up and said to my brother, 'This will be a great subject for a novel!' and rushed into the house and sat down at the library table and sketched a story which I first called 'Love-thirst.' During the following winter I wrote the first draft of the story—very simple, almost without a plot. The next summer, spending my vacation in Switzerland, the story gradually grew to its present proportions."

Harry A. Franck, author of those popular travel books, "A Vagabond Journey Around the World" and "Four Months Afoot in Spain," is on his way afoot from Bogota to Quito.

"You'd find it hard to realize," he writes in the last letter received from him in New York, "the rough shapes the old earth is bumped into down this way."

Mr. Franck will stop for a time in Quito for work on his new book on Panama.

Arthur Train is so well known as a writer about the popular side of courts, trials, and the work of lawyers and police that an excellent idea of his book, "Courts, Criminals and the Camorra," (Scribners) can be gained from the titles of his chapters. He divides the book into three parts. In the first, under the heading of "Courts," he begins with a chapter on "The Pleasant Fiction of the Presumption of Innocence," which is a suggestive discussion of the Anglo-Saxon theory of criminal law as opposed to the French. Then comes a chapter on "Preparing a Criminal Case for Trial" and one on "Sensationalism in Jury Trials," both vigorous and at the same time entertaining treatments of these subjects. In the second section of this book, under the heading of "Criminals," he takes up first a discussion of "Why Do Men Kill?"—an analysis of the motives that caused the murders in a large number of the cases that came under his notice; then he has two chapters on "Detectives and Their Work," with special reference to the private detective agencies. The third part of the book, under the heading of "The Camorra," offers a study of the Camorra in Italy and of trials of the Camorrists at Viterbo, at which Mr. Train was present. His experience in criminal law in the office of the District Attorney of New York and his study of crimes and criminals fit him well for the task of explaining the conditions of this side of life.

Wondering Why.

They hired a nurse for their baby boy,
And the nurse was a good one, as nurses go;
They busied themselves in pursuit of joy,
And the baby grew, as a child will grow.

They hired a tutor to teach the child,
And they thought it enough as they went and came,
To know that he wasn't out running wild,
And bringing discredit upon their name.

They sent him to a college in later years,
And furnished the money he needed there;
Pursuing pleasure, they had no fears
For the boy who had lacked their parental care.

They followed him into the courts one day,
Their hearts were sad and their heads were low,
And, weeping and hopeless, they turned away,
Wondering why he had failed them so.

AUTHORS ABOUT AUTHORS.

Reminiscences of an Author on What Authors Have Said About Authors.

BY MAJ. BEN C. TRUMAN.

I HAVE never traveled in Europe that I have not met many authors, especially at some of the clubs in London and at fencing schools and cafes in Paris, and have often listened to their opinions regarding other writers. Thus, one afternoon at the Savage Club, in London, Rider Haggard said that he placed Burns nearly at the head of all verse writers and Heine a good next. He loved Burns, he said, chiefly on account of his lyrical sweetness, depth of sentiment and captivating grace. He held Tom Moore highly, who, he said, possessed the same qualifications as Burns without any of the coarseness of the latter. "Heine was more cosmopolitan, but not so patriotic as Burns. Heine affected to be more of a scorner of the world than he was; he often pointed a jest when there was a tear, his images often had feet of clay, breasts of silver set with gems, and foreheads of beaten gold. I consider Byron the master of all, and his 'Don Juan' his greatest poem, with the 'Prisoner of Chillon' a close second. "Cowper," he added, "was crazy, and yet did some acceptable work; his first contribution was a classic and his hymns were good, but he was never in the same class with Pope, Gray or Goldsmith. Byron had two wolves at his door all through his life—worry and debt; the first year of his married life his house was nine times in the possession of bailiffs; Burns was also many times in debt, and so were Steele and Sheridan; Bulwer always made money and so also did Disraeli and Scott—Disraeli receiving 15,000 pounds for a single book."

I once chatted with Henry Irving at Miss Braddon's house, twelve miles up the Thames from the Parliament buildings, and many times at the Bohemian Club of San Francisco. Of course he placed Shakespeare at the head of all poets and playwrights; he gave Beaumont and Fletcher second place as writers of plays, and Sheridan and Goldsmith third. He was also an ardent admirer of Byron. Moore and Burns, as I place them; he looked upon Gray's "Elegy," Hood's "Song of the Shirt" and "Bridge of Sighs," and Bailey's "Festus" as masterpieces. He also highly praised Poe's "Raven," Read's "Sheridan's Ride" and Whittier's "Barbara Freitchie," and he considered Bret Harte's short stories more human, more entertaining and clever than Stevenson's or even Guy de Maupassant's. He rated his own English novelist, Dickens, first, and then Bulwer, Thackeray, Wilkie Collins and Charles Reade in rank, and as I place them; he stated that his three most pleasurable books were "Pickwick Papers," the "Alhambra" and the "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table." He often had a good word to say of Thomas Hardy, Andrew Lang, Alphonse Daudet and his son Leon, Lewis Carroll, Malchall, th eeminent English statistician, Justin McCarthy, Alfred Austin, Swinburne, Tennyson, E. F. Benson of Dodo fame, Sir William Morris and Max Nordau, and considered Dicken's "Tale of Two Cities," the most exciting novel ever written. Stanley J. Weyman, I remember, he spoke highly of, and also of such famous ones as Scott, Sue, Dumas and Victor Hugo. Irving was also fond of the books of Mrs. Oliphant, Mrs. Henry Wood and Miss Braddon. He also compared Theodore Hook and Tom Hood. The former warned the latter against his plays upon words, and said he would be ruined by such foolishness; but whoever hears the name of Hook alongside that of Hood? And though Hook inveighed against the habit of pruning he sometimes indulged in the habit he condemned; but no one without Hook's remarkable talent could venture to emulate his audacity. Mr. Irving once said to me that his best-dressed audiences were in New York, the most solemn ones in Philadelphia, the most attentive ones in Boston, the most brilliant ones in San Francisco, and the most uproarious ones in Chicago. He seemed sorrowed at the early death of Byron, Shelley, Burns and Schiller; and although holding up Goethe as a god he believed that Schiller would have been the greater poet had he lived as many years as the former. Once, after having been entertained by a number of the members of the Bohemian Club at supper, the clever English delineator said: "Your best and most finished actress is Ada Rehan; your most dramatic one is Clara Morris; your best comedian is Sothern; your most painstaking actor is Drew, and your biggest dramatic curiosity is Nat Goodwin."

In 1887 I met George Augustus Sala at the Savage and Reform Clubs in London many times, and we often conversed on literature and especially about English and French authors. I remember he once said that Bulwer was what is generally understood as aristocratic. Sala was editor of the London Telegraph at the time and a brilliant raconteur. Once, in speaking of Bulwer, Sala said: "He was tall and slim, with a big nose, dyed his hair, kept his face rejuvenated by artificial methods, was deaf and had impaired digestive organs, and used a big, red and blue pocket handkerchief. But his 'Last Days of Pompeii' and his plays of 'Richelieu' and the 'Lady of Lyons' will last forever; his 'Strange Story' and 'My Novel' are also masterpieces. He earned a great deal of money, but not so much as Disraeli or Scott, Dickens or George Eliot. And he was very fond of money, too, while Leigh Hunt never had a bank account except in his breeches pockets. Louis Stevenson was one of the best short story writers of modern times, but he had bad habits, and many a time smoked from fifty to seventy cigarettes a day."

Walter Besant has often said that the book which first captivated him was Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress," and then followed Shakespeare, Dickens, Scott and Homer. A member of Parliament once said to me that his six favorite books were the "Arabian Nights," "A Tale of Two Cities," the "Three Musketeers," "Pickwick Papers," "Vanity Fair" and Irving's "Alhambra."

During one of my sojourns in London I became acquainted with the editor of the Illustrated News and we often took tea together on the terrace of the Parliament buildings overlooking the Thames. He was very fond of Mrs. Humphry Ward, who, he said, was "a woman of medium height, slender in frame, but plain in appearance; her hair is dark and wavy, her nose is aquiline and slightly pinched; her eyes are brown and her dress is severe in appearance; her house is in Russell square, and she is an affable hostess; no one dislikes her. She indulges in some slight narcotic, I think; but, so did George Sand and Mme. de Stael; Cervantes, you know, seldom wrote without dosing himself with hellebore; Dryden always had himself bled, and De Quincey and Coleridge stimulated themselves with opium; De Mussett was hapless until after taking two or three glasses of absinthe.

In conclusion I must say that one of the most agreeable and entertaining persons I have ever met is M. Clemenceau of France. I had an exhibit of California (made by the Southern Pacific Company) at the Paris Exposition of 1889 and among others I became intimate with M. Clemenceau, who has since been Premier of France. He had lived in the United States once for several years, and he spoke excellent English and had many American ways. To be sure, we at times presented our opinions upon literary men; and I remember that he once said that he considered Renan's "Jesus" as one of the greatest books ever written; he did not care so much, however, for Renan's "St. Paul" and "The Apostles." He placed Sue and Hugo at the head of great novelists and the elder Dumas at the head of romancers. He pronounced Guy de Maupassant, the best writer of short stories who has ever lived, anywhere, and Bret Harte next. He then proceeded to say, as nearly as I can call what he said to mind: "Zola has been most mercilessly derided and abused, but he will some day be recognized as one of the greatest of French writers, notwithstanding he at present depicts the most horrible sides of life; he generally works from seven to eight hours a day, dines at 7 o'clock, afterward he indulges in billiards; when he was young and poor he gave up smoking and dining extravagantly in order to support an aged mother; his first great success came with "L'Assomoire;" he was then living on bread and cheese; now his royalties amount to $60,000 a year. I have a great liking for Jules Verne, but his subjects are meteoric and already his books are not so eagerly wanted as they were ten years ago. Alphonse Daudet has some fine talent, but he will never rank with the ideal ones. Paul Bourget is a poor novelist, but a brilliant essayist. Prevost and Flaubert will soon be totally eclipsed. "Ouida" has a good many heroes in her books, but they all drink like fish, smoke like chimneys, eat like swine, and are generally degenerate; and her women—well they are all preternaturally bad or supernaturally good; but her books, especially "Under Two Flags" and "Princess Napraxine," have made her a big lot of money; she is what I would term a delightfully bad writer; she is always in a pet, and has written unkindly of all American and English authors; and she has not spared many of our French writers. I presented M. Clemenceau with my "Field of Honor," and he introduced me to a number of noted duelists. He himself was considered the truest with sword or pistol at the time; he had killed or wounded every man he had met on the "field of honor" and carried no physical "souvenirs" of his many hostile encounters.

PECULIAR PEOPLE.

Liberty, Mo., has a citizen—Augustus Bishop—who says he hasn't been out of town in forty-one years, never went to the theater, never saw a horse race, never rode in a trolley car, and doesn't know what a hotel elevator is like.

Emmet G. Goewey, a Springfield carpenter, devotes his spare time to whittling with a common jackknife ornamental and useful articles. He uses wood which he has gathered from many of the oldest and historical buildings in the country. Included in his collection are a pair of tongs from the first theater built in America.

There are no permanent checkmates in the game of matrimony for William W. Joseph, 73 years old, of Indianapolis, and neither is he afraid of that old "December and May" head-line in the newspapers, for he has just taken as his sixth wife Mrs. Julia McGlow, aged 24, a little less than one-third his age.

Agnosino Lavanzin, who recently underwent a thirty-one-day fast under the observtaion of Director F. G. Benedict of the Carnegie Laboratory at Roxbury, Mass., warns individuals against "haphazard fasting," saying that, although he had scientific knowledge of the procedure, he has been four times on the brink of the tomb during fasting experiments, and his wife has been imperiled twice.

Because his wife objected to his using a mechanical device invented by him at the University of Illinois for punishing their child, Prof. Duff Andrew Abrams of Urbana, Ill., beat her and she had him arrested. He pleaded guilty, waived a jury trial, and paid a fine of $12.50. Abrams is associate professor in the engineering experiment station at the University of Illinois in applied and theoretical mechanics. He applied his theoretical mechanics to the erection of a spanking machine for the chastisement of children without the usual manual labor. When he tried to demonstrate the practicability of the device on his little son the mother objected.

Charles Studebaker, 64 years old, and a fox terrier arrived in Columbia, Pa., this week on a 4000-mile tramp. He averages twenty-two miles a day. He started April 4 from his home at Paulding, O. This is his twenty-fifth annual trip afoot. iHs object is to work our theories of his own relative to health and long life. The aged pedestrian, who bears a hale and hearty appearance, proposes to publish a book of travels, setting forth ideas of diet and exercise.

Miss Hildegarde Nash, who recently won the award of the Royal Conservatory of Music in Brussels against twenty-two contestants, is the first American in the history of the Brussels conservatory to attain this honor. The diploma given her renders her eligible to a violin professorship. She is a native of Watertown, Mass., and began her violin studies at the age of 3.

PROF. C. IRVIN ALTHOUSE,

NOTED ASTROLOGER AND PALMIST OF NATIONAL FAME AND REPUTATION.

STUDIO PARLORS, 539½ S. BROADWAY.

A RESIDENT OF LOS ANGELES 23 YEARS.

PROF. ALTHOUSE is an experienced practitioner in the science of modern ASTROLOGY, by which he has made many REMARKABLE PREDICTIONS. The horoscope shows the powerful influence of the planets in all affairs of life. It shows diseases, deaths, love and marriage, financial affairs, talents, environments, about children, relatives, when and where to travel, what to seek or to avoid, when in danger of losses, troubles, etc., etc., also your good periods coming—giving dates of these events for the future.

PROF. ALTHOUSE read E. H. Sothern, Nat Goodwin, Mary Mannering, Gadski, Admiral Schley, David Starr Jordan, ex-Gov. Pardee, ex-Senator Clark, Gen. Chaffee, Edison, Sousa, Modjeska, Julia Marlowe, Anna Held, Jefferson, Capt. Hobson, Lillian Russell, Calve, Admiral Evans, H. E. Huntington, De Wolf Hopper, Maxine Elliott, etc.

PROF. ALTHOUSE'S SKILLED WORK with his trained judgment must in no wise be classed with that of other readers. Therefore do not waste your money on the idiotic advice and warning of HUMBUG astrologers, palmists, psychics—those doing dishonest work.

PROF. ALTHOUSE is an expert PALMIST and WITH EACH PALM READING gives also an ASTROLOGICAL READING.

DR. J. A. LARSEN writes: "I want to say that your reading was the most satisfactory thing I have ever had in my life. I know a great deal about these sciences and I consider your work as the most THOROUGH and reliable of any reader in the United States."

PROF. ALTHOUSE'S wonderful proficiency in the casting of HOROSCOPES and in HAND reading has brought him a LARGE AND SUCCESSFUL PRACTICE. The most private confidences are reposed in him, and his advice is sought in the most difficult and critical circumstances. Personal attention given. STRICT PRIVACY. HIGHEST GRADE OF WORK that skill and many years of experience can produce. Therefore, HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

Daily and evening; Sunday, 10 to 2.

WANTED — WHEN THE WRITER INTRODUCED Stidger Shorthand in Los Angeles five years ago NO OTHER SCHOOL WOULD RECOMMEND A SHORT SYSTEM. There was too much "EASY" money on the Coast. What a change five years has made. Every college in town has a short system now. We control Stidger and will permit no other school to use it, but we have imitators on every side. Any boy, girl, man or woman can learn this easy, modern shorthand. Our students take dictation in TEN DAYS. We positively guarantee satisfaction. Five years of success and every student placed in a good position. In fact we are so short of young people that in order to meet the demand of our clients, we have arranged with the Pacific Coast School of Railroading to accept FIFTY STUDENTS AT HALF PRICE. We teach Gregg, Pitman, Graham and Stidger Shorthand, Book-keeping, Dictaphone, Telegraphy. Stenographers and typists should learn to use the Dictaphone. FOR EXCHANGE—APPLE LAND STOCK; My client has about $20,000 stock in a corporation which is developing a very fine tract of apple land; he will trade this stock at par for city or country real estate, clear or nearly so; the company has a low capitalization and the stock should be worth four for one in five years, and will pay good dividends from start. This stock can be divided in amounts to suit. Might assume some on good property. Submit anything in detail and we will investigate it promptly. Address B, box 158, TIMES OFFICE.

FOR EXCHANGE — WANTED — A GOOD automobile, good lot, or what have you to exchange for all my prize White Rock chickens, 22 hens, 4 cocks and 70 choice young birds, 2 to 5 months old. They will win at any show and are the best layers on earth. Are dirt cheap at $600. Here is your chance to make some money as these birds will pay 100 per cent. on investment next season. Won 12 prizes in 1911; such birds are seldom offered for sale at any price. I will assume $200 on a good trade. OSCAR CROWELL, 341 W. 13th st., Riverside, Cal.

FOR EXCHANGE—I HAVE AN UNUSUALly elegant eucalyptus portiere of 200 strings, of 11 feet length each; two clear lots at La Grande Beach, some good gold mining stock, to trade for first-class Morris arm chair, small ice box, blankets, small table, rugs, carpets, pillows, dressers, chiffoniers, what? Eilers has achieved another victory. In purchasing the enormous business of the Robert Witte Piano Company, we immediately stepped into the front ranks of the country as importers of the finest pianos. In taking over this business we find that there are on hand a number of imported pianos, also a number of slightly used pianos of the finest American makes. In order to start fresh, and to make room for importations now on the way, these will all be sold at prices that place a beautiful piano within the reach of every one. Call at the store today.

FACT AND COMMENT.

Early in the present year the Fact and Comment man announced his intention of keeping a close month-to-month tab on the building operations of San Francisco in order that any false reports emanating from the Bay City publicity mediums might be promptly and effectually nailed and exposed. For three years in succession Los Angeles has beaten the northern city by substantial margins in the number and valuation of new buildings erected, while San Francisco has been up and coming all the time, leading all eastern places of anything near its size. Notwithstanding the established supremacy of Los Angeles on this coast, however, some of the "boost" mediums of the Bay City have every year faked building statistics for the big town on the Golden Gate which have made Los Angeles appear to be playing second fiddle. These "figures of prosperity" have been disseminated all over the United States and published in every newspaper of importance in the East and Middle West. The correct statistics are always published in the leading building publications of the country and appear in many of the reputable journals, but thousands of persons are undoubtedly tricked into believing that Los Angeles is behind San Francisco in material progress.

The writer has always "called" the northern zealots by publishing the actual figures and has on more than one occasion roasted the authors of the fake statistics that may always be looked for at the close of a calendar year and which are apparently a part of an established scheme to advertise San Francisco to the world at large. The methods of certain of the Bay City mediums have, in fact, become notorious. Time after time the northern "publicists" have tried to "slip over" the entire monthly lists of recorded contracts for everything from street paving and sewer laying to building itself in lieu of the regulation building permit totals. This kind of business is all the more deplorable because it reflects upon the honor of the press of the city, which has, upon the whole, been fair and honest.

The Figures Talk.

All this is a sort of "re-hash" of comments hitherto made in this column, but that which follows justifies a proper explanatory introduction. The Fact and Comment man received yesterday a dispatch containing the complete building statistics for the month of August in the Bay City. In all 613 permits, representing a valuation of $1,950,502, were issued during the month by the San Francisco Bureau of Building Inspection. Included were one permit for class "A" fireproof, two for class "B" semi-fireproof structures, twenty-nine for ordinary brick buildings of the class "C" type and 220 for frame dwellings.

Compare this with 1571 permits and $3,212,007 valuation for Los Angeles during the same period and some idea may be attained of the relative degree of construction activity in the two leading West Coast cities. Los Angeles issued two permits for fireproof buildings of the class "A" type, thirty-seven permits for class "C" structures, and 716 permits for frame dwellings. For miscellaneous structures Los Angeles issued two permits for every one granted in San Francisco.

The valuation figures for the year to date (to September 1) were $21,511,295 for Los Angeles and $16,831,500 for San Francisco. At the rate things are now moving San Francisco will do well to reach the $24,000,000 for the year, while Los Angeles will certainly exceed $30,000,000. The question as to whether the Bay City statistics manufacturers will this year turn out the accustomed output of fiction may be easily answered. They will. They will have to go it pretty strong, however, when they start in padding to the tune of $7,000,000 or thereabouts, as they may have to do before the time comes for the annual publicity stunts of the Exposition City.

The New Water Tax.

It is apparent that there is going to be a real roar from the public over the newly-created water service tax, which went into effect on September 1. Talk of a referendum petition is already rife and many real estate men are preparing to launch protests, which may in a short time take the form of resolutions by the Los Angeles Realty Board and other civic bodies. As might have been anticipated by the framers of the law, the provision is not at all popular with those who are planning to build homes or to erect houses for the market. The Water Board, however, probably expected just the protest that is brewing when it voted for the levy and will doubtless have something to say on the subject in the not distant future.

That such a law as that just voted by the board is in effect is not generally known. The man who marches up to the window at the Water Board office bent upon securing a water connection for his building lot gets his information in the form of a real jolt, however, when instead of being asked for the time-honored flat rate of $9 he is requested to pay the rate of 85 cents a front foot of his property as a brand new additional fee. The news that he is required to pay $51.50 instead of $9 for the necessary water service for a fifty-foot lot is well calculated to startle any builder whose calculations had never led him to expect the payment of any other than the smaller tax.

The protestants against the extra tax, and they are for the most part those who find out about the new law at first hand, are up in arms over the situation. They declare that the municipality is attempting to charge more than any private corporation would ever dare demand and that the builder instead of being encouraged to build is actually being compelled to pay a penalty for his desire to improve his property. They demand that the whole city be made to share whatever burden it is that the Water Board has so suddenly and unexpectedly asked them to shoulder. Several inquiries have been directed to the Fact and Comment man and the writer has been asked by a number of people to acquaint the general public with the fact of the new law's existence.

I am setting forth these arguments to show that buying real estate today, in well improved sections of Los Angeles is as safe a business proposition as buying well seasoned bonds, and a whole lot more profitable. It doesn't take faith or nerve to buy such real estate as I ask you to buy.
You don't need a guardian—just buy as much as you can carry—and you'll win is destined to become the choicest home site property in Los Angeles county. There is not enough of it. I could sell such an addition once every month or two, and keep on doing it year in and year out if they were to be had. I have a peculiar way of selling it. I take my people out and simply show it—and then ask them to look backward about 10 years and then ahead ten years—or five. I let them supply the answer. Property that will sell itself is O. K.

MONTH OPENS BUSILY.

Nearly Three Hundred Building Permits Issued to Date in September—Valuation Half Million.

Following the record-breaking issuance of permits in August, September opened with an activity which promises to land the present month among the noteworthy periods in the city's construction history. From September 1 to September 6, inclusively, the Chief Inspector of Buildings issued 282 permits for structures, whose total cost will be $431,141.

Following is the classified report for the month to date:

	Permits.	Valuation.
Class C	3	$ 68,400
Class D, 1-story frame	80	115,524
Class D, 1½-story frame	5	9,600
Class D, 2-story frame	26	130,495
Class D, 3-story frame	2	43,000
Sheds, barns (frame)	64	8,595
Foundations only	1	1,000
Brick alterations	20	22,557
Frame alterations	80	31,870
Demolitions	1	100

LINKED WITH MAINLAND.

Balboa Island, the home resort in Newport Bay that has within the memory of man been cut off from communication with the outside world excepting by boat, no longer enjoys that distinction. It is now linked to the United States by means of a new automobile bridge that was completed during the week across the narrow channel of Newport Bay on the north. Road work on Balboa Island and at either end of the bridge will be completed in the near future when the first automobile to ever traverse the sands of the island resort will be driven over the bridge with fitting ceremony. The new Balboa Island bridge, now a reality, has been proposed for several years. It is built of wood and concrete and will be strong enough to carry the proposed electric line from Santa Ana to the island. Within the next week the bridge will be accessible from the mainland side.

CAPITAL INCREASED.

The El Segundo Home Building Company, organized to build homes, apartments, business blocks and other types of structures in the new and thriving industrial city of El Segundo, has increased its capitalization from $50,000 to $1,000,000. The company anticipates the erection of no less than 300 residences within the coming year in El Segundo. Among the officers and directors of the company are M. L. McCray, L. A. McCray, E. I. McCray, Dan Murphy, J. R. McKinnie, J. H. Parsons, J. E. O'Donnell, A. B. Brooks, H. F. Stewart, J. E. Howell and I. F. Faber.

RESIGN FROM FORCE.

Two resignations from the police force were accepted yesterday by the Chief. The vacancies will probably be filled at the next meeting of the Police Commission. Sergeant A. R. Ross, recently transfered to the University Station, has quit to engage in private business. He lives at No. 711 East Eighteenth street, and was appointed October 4, 1904. Barney Thomson, operator clerk, who had been on a leave of absence for a year, resigned that he might engage in the mercantile business. He lives at No. 2217 Elsinre street, and was appointed March 17, 1908.

Wants an "Eye-Opener."

"I just wanted a little eye-opener, and didn't have any money, so asked a man for the price. I don't call that begging," said Dock Blakley when arraigned before Police Judge Rose yesterday.

Patrolman Cantwell testified that Blakley was released at the Sunrise Court and immediately began begging for money. His case was continued until October 15. In default of $15 bail, he went back to jail.

Significant.

BIG DEAL CLOSED IN NORTH END.

LARGE TRACT TO BE MADE INTO HOME DISTRICT.

Pacific Home Builders Pay Huge Sum for Valuable Outlying City Acreage—Plan to Construct Hundreds of Attractive Dwellings in Next Few Years.

One of the large deals of the year involving outlying real estate within the city limits was made public yesterday by the announcement of the sale by the Richardson estate of 222 acres adjoining Griffith Park, to the Pacific Home Builders. The purchase price of the tract is given at approximately $400,000, and it is declared that before it is entirely built up an expenditure of more than $2,500,000 will be shown.

The property was purchased by the elder Richardson over thirty-four years ago, together with about 700 acres additional, and up to the time of his death he had refused to part with any of it. It is due to that fact that the land has been unimproved, while beyond it the city of Glendale has sprung into existence and prospered. The land is reached by a trip through a good residential section of the city, past Echo Park and on the line of hills that marks the limit of Griffith Park.

This purchase of acreage by the Pacific Home Builders follows one that was made earlier in the year of what is now the "Angelus tract," which has been developed and improved by large streets and parkings and on which many homes have been erected. The Pacific Home Builders are pioneers in this particular section and started the development that has reached its present high mark, with the tract now being put on by the Western Investment Company and the Atwater Corporation, who are now improving their holdings.

The improvement of the tract will begin immediately. Surveyors are already on the ground and on completion of their work boulevards with parking will be constructed. All the lots will carry a restriction that will warrant a high-class subdivision and, outside of a small portion reserved for business blocks, will be strictly a residential tract. The property will be known as "Angelus Park."

The tract lies on a plateau adjoining Griffith Park, and bounded on one side by Los Feliz boulevard, and on the other side by Brand boulevard. It is a fifteen-minute car ride from the heart of Los Angeles. The acquisition of the tract by the present owners insures the solid building of the city from Tropico in. The tract will be subdivided into 1300 lots of an average size of 50x150 feet.

HIS SWEET REPOSE.

Body of Murphy, Worker for Humanity, to Lie in State Before Funeral Services Tuesday.

The body of William J. Murphy, head of the Francis Murphy Association, will lie in state Tuesday afternoon from 1 to 3 o'clock in the First Methodist Episcopal Church. At 3 o'clock the funeral services will be held, Dr. Charles Edward Locke and Rev. Baker P. Lee officiating. The burial will be at Rosedale Cemetery.

The funeral services have been delayed to await the arrival of Thomas E. Murphy, a brother, who is hurrying to Los Angeles from Philadelphia.

The active pallbearers will be F. W. Blanchard, W. C. Patterson, Harry Chandler, Frank Dominguez, Capt. Eugene Merrick and Samuel E. Faroat. There will be nearly a hundred honorary pallbearers.

While the body lies in state at the church where the many friends can view the remains, it will be guarded by George Thompson and Harry Gutchess, who will represent the "pledge signers," the great army of men whom Mr. Murphy helped during his lifetime.

The funeral procession from the church to the cemetery will be headed by Chief Sebastian and a squad of mounted police. The various religious organizations which have signified their intention of taking part in the funeral are the Salvation Army, Methodist Mission, Volunteers of America and many pastors of the city.

Music for the funeral services will be furnished by Miss Irene Wadey, the choir of the church and the Apollo Quartette, the members of which have sung at many of Mr. Murphy's meetings.

PIERCE-ARROWS ARRIVE.

New Nineteen-thirteen Models Are Here and Attract Considerable Attention.

The first shipment of 1913 Pierce Arrow cars was received by the W. E. Bush Company last week. The initial shipment consisted of two six-cylinder sixty-six horse-power touring cars, one finished in maroon and the other in dark blue. The blue car was kept here and the maroon was taken to San Diego by L. R. Wadsworth.

The new cars are the largest of the Pierce family and are elegantly-finished throughout. They have all the Pierce characteristics, with a self-starter and a few other additions.

The lines of the body have been slightly changed. Work on the new home of the Pierce-Arrow at No. 1700 South Grand avenue is progressing and W. E. Bush hopes to get moved within the next two weeks. The new place will have every convenience known to modern garage and salesroom building and several unique features suggested by Mr. Bush.

WOMAN LANDS ONE.

AVALON, Sept. 7.—[By A. P. Day Wire.] Mrs. P. S. O'Mara of Salt Lake City won the distinction today of being the first woman to land a sword fish. She hooked a monster weighing 240 pounds on light tackle and landed her catch after a fight which lasted four hours. She will receive many prizes from the Tuna Club.

BULLET THROUGH WALL.

Constable Woodbury was much surprised yesterday when a revolver he was unloading suddenly discharged, the bullet going straight through the wall of the office. It passed into one of the rooms occupied by the probation department but hit nobody. Woodbury was much exercised over the incident but said he was not careless in "breaking" his weapon.

OUR idea of a home is one both PRACTICAL and ARTISTIC. By careful thought we manage to instill certain INDIVIDUALITY into each home.

It quite frequently happens that the PROSPECTIVE BUILDER'S IDEAS and PURSE do not correspond. In such cases our PRACTICAL knowledge comes to the rescue, and often where others have hopelessly FAILED, WE SUCCEED.

We build homes from the modern five-room cottage, at $900, to the most elaborate dwelling. It rests with the INDIVIDUAL, entirely, what his home will cost. By concentrating our PURCHASING POWER, combined with our PRACTICAL knowledge, and being in a position to DISCOUNT our BILLS, we can, for a given quality of work, discount our competitors' prices.

We build either by contracts on a fixed fee of 10 per cent. of estimated cost of work, or on our own lots in Los Angeles, Redondo and San Pedro, on easy terms.

We make no additional charges for our Architectural services, if we build, or if we fail to satisfy you both as to price and design.

Our REFERENCES are PEOPLE for whom we HAVE BUILT, who FREELY indorse us.

We make liberal building loans.

$2000 UNDER VALUE.

—$15,000— —$15,000— —$15,000—

Owner has left the city and this is your opportunity to buy a handsome 11-room, modern house at a bargain. Located on a fine corner, 70x150, finished in hardwood, two tiled baths, furnace, automatic water heater, garage. This is close and a real sacrifice.

BEAUTIFUL WILSHIRE HOME Of 10 Rooms.

—$14,000— —$14,000— —$14,000—

One of those houses usually spoken of as a quick seller. Located close to the boulevard on a good-sized lot, built by day labor. Long, deep reception hall, from which leads the handsome stairway, all finished in fumed oak. Dining-room is fumed oak; large living-room, off of which opens a beautiful conservatory or sunroom with tiled floor; charming breakfast-room, very light and cheerful; cabinet kitchen, pass pantry, servant's room and bath, complete the first floor. Upstairs there are four large, beautiful sleeping-rooms, with two fully-tiled baths and a shower bath; large closets. A fine large sleeping porch, also large open porch or deck. Stairs lead to third floor, which is floored for a storeroom, or can be finished up. Decorations very beautiful throughout and in keeping with the house. Furnace and water heater. Garage for two cars. A place you should see by all means before you purchase your home.

FURNISHED BUNGALOW BARGAIN.

Here's a perfect snap for somebody. A 7-room, fully furnished, modern bungalow, southwest, for $3750. It's part of an estate and must be sold. Think of it! It should bring $1000 more money. The location is on a pretty street, restricted to good homes and white people. As an investment, it pays 13 per cent., it being rented for $40 per month. It takes $1750 to handle it.

BEAUTIFUL HOME SITES, "RIDGEWOOD PARK."

NOTHING BETTER THAN THIS.

$4400.

Do you want a charming bungalow with a great big living-room? Here's the prettiest bungalow, of six rooms we ever saw. It has every detail which $6000 bungalows have, and some more besides; hardwood floors, beautiful Flemish and white enamel finish, hot water in ten minutes everywhere, a cozy den, three bedrooms (if you need them,) and garage and driveway; and it's been lived in just long enough to have flowers growing and to prove its durability. The price of $4400 is low, and $1000, with $25 monthly payments will handle it.

WILSHIRE-WESTLAKE BUNGALOW.

$5500.

If you want a close-in, seven-room, brand-new, up-to-the-minute bungalow, located near Westlake and Sunset Park, and only fifteen minutes from the center of the business district, we would advise your looking at this before buying. This beautiful little home has large, airy rooms, and the construction, finish and appointments will compare favorably with those you will find in homes selling for $10,000. Everything is in the best of taste, the arrangement is unequalled and it lies convenient to three car lines. Easy terms may be arranged. Phone us for an appointment before the attractive place is gone.

ATTRACTIVELY PRICED "RIDGEWOOD PARK."

ELDEN AVENUE BARGAIN.

$9900.

A beautiful nine-room, east front, home, located on Elden avenue, between 10th and 11th sts., lot 60x150. The lot alone is worth $6000 and we question whether the house could be built for less than $7500,—has cellar, furnace, hardwood floors throughout, two bathrooms, etc. A few hundred dollars will put it in perfect condition and make it worth $12,000 or $14,000. Exceptional bargains like this, in the heart of the Westmoreland, are seldom offered, and if you are looking for a similar home, we would advise that you see this one.

WILSHIRE SECTION, "RIDGEWOOD PARK."

JUST OFF WILSHIRE BOULEVARD.

$10,000.

A real home at the right price! Let us show it to you. Only a short distance from Ardmore and Wilshire Boulevard. Nine beautiful, large rooms, two baths, hardwood floors throughout, cellar, furnace, automatic heater, large garage with man's room; the grounds are handsomely laid out with lawn back and front, and flowers and shrubs in profusion. In fact, it's all ready to move into. Terms may be arranged.

WILSHIRE SECTION, "RIDGEWOOD PARK."

HOME AND INVESTMENT ON PICO ST.

$14,000.

A northwest corner on Pico, near St. Andrews, 70x178 feet! In a few years this lot should be worth twice what you are paying for the entire property. The house has nine large rooms including five bedchambers; the living-room is 20x40 feet; the front and side porches, all cement, measure 75 feet; and the unobstructed view of the mountains and the Wilshire district cannot be equalled. The street work alone on this corner cost over $1200, all paid. About $5000 cash will handle the property; balance as long as you want it.

ATTRACTIVELY PRICED "RIDGEWOOD PARK."

WILSHIRE DISTRICT HOME.

$21,500.

Mission home, located near Ardmore and Sixth, thirteen rooms and three baths—two of them tiled, on a lot 76x135 feet. The elevation of this home is about the most pleasing of any home in the Wilshire section, the old mission style being followed even to the genuine tiled roof. The lower floor is finished in selected hardwood, all hand-rubbed, and the upper floor, containing five bedchambers, two baths and sleeping porch, in exquisite eggshell enamel. Cellar, furnace, Ruud heater and double garage complete the home. It's new, never occupied, and ready for occupancy without a day's delay. Let us show it to you. Terms may be arranged.

BEAUTIFUL HOME SITES, "RIDGEWOOD PARK."

ARDMORE NEAR WILSHIRE.

$35,000.

Why worry yourself sick looking for a location and be a fit subject for a sanitarium when the home is completed? We have the most elaborate home in the Wilshire section at the above price, on beautiful Ardmore drive; lot 75x150, overlooking the entire city and the mountains. The house is pure white with red tiled roof, has eleven rooms, is finished in hard woods; five bed-chambers and three tiled baths on the second floor; two-story garage, with chauffeur's quarters and bath. There is no better location in Los Angeles, and we consider this the highest elevation in the whole Wilshire section. Very reasonable terms may be arranged.

This is a very charming up-to-date modern bungalow, Swiss chalet type. Oak floors in main rooms, balance of the floors to be polished and scraped; big, wide cement porch extending clear across the front of the house.

Outside of this house is covered with shakes and Malthoid roofing.

Bedrooms and kitchen in white enamel.

Lot is 50x145 and a good location.

It's on a 200-foot boulevard leading to Pasadena.

House is new and just being finished. Contains every modern built-in feature.

6207 HAWTHORNE STREET,
5-ROOM BUNGALOW.
PRICE $2850.
Terms, $150 cash; balance $26.50 per month.

This is a true type of the Swiss chalet style of house. 5 big rooms finished in a modern manner throughout; hardwood floors, fine fixtures, the best of plumbing and all kinds of built-in features.

It has very charming inglenook off of living-room; cement porch, fence, lawn and everything absolutely complete.

Lot is 50x142.

6217 HAWTHORNE STREET,
6-ROOM MISSION STYLE BUNGALOW.
PRICE $3250.
Terms, $250 cash; balance $30 per month, including interest.

This is a true type of the mission style bungalow which is so popular throughout Southern California. The exterior is all plaster and presents a most attractive appearance.

It's a well built house, new, modern and contains every built-in feature which goes to make a home comfortable.

The price includes shades, fixtures, fence, lawn and everything absolutely complete.

It's a good bargain and a good buy.

Size of lot 50x145.

6235 HAWTHORNE STREET,
5-ROOM BUNGALOW.
PRICE $2850.
Terms, $150 cash; balance $26.50 per month.

This is a most artistic Swiss chalet bungalow with five big rooms and has many built-in features; oak floors, panelling, beautiful buffet, cabinet kitchen, wall paper, cement porch, fence, lawn, everything absolutely complete.

It's a charming home and a good bargain.

Exterior is covered with shakes and Malthoid roofing.

Lot 50x145.

6245 HAWTHORNE STREET,
5-ROOM BUNGALOW.
PRICE $2850.
Terms, $150 cash; balance $26.50 per month, including interest.

This is a very charming Swiss chalet bungalow, different in style and different in type from the one mentioned above.

It contains many built-in features, has oak floors in main rooms, bedroom floors being polished and scraped; has cement porch, cabinet kitchen, wall paper, fence, lawn—in fact everything absolutely complete.

Lot 50x145.

6234 HAWTHORNE STREET,
6-ROOM BUNGALOW.
PRICE $3250.
Terms, $300 cash; balance $30 per month.

Lot 73 feet wide, about 140 feet deep.

By the way, this is a corking good lot and then again it's a beautiful 6-room bungalow, one of the prettiest we have ever built.

It's a true type of the Japanese style with a big porch extending clear across the front and around the side. Has living-room 20 feet across. Den, two bedrooms, dining-room and kitchen; oak floors, beam ceilings and many other built-in features.

It's a handsome home thoroughly complete in every way.

Out price includes everything, fixtures, shades, lawn, walks and fence.

6256 HAWTHORNE STREET,
5-ROOM BUNGALOW.
PRICE $2950.
Terms, $300 cash; balance $27.50 per month, including interest.

This is another type of the true Swiss chalet bungalow. It stands on a commanding point with a beautiful view and fine surroundings.

It has large living-room, dining-room, two bedrooms and kitchen; big front porch with cement floor.

House is finished modern throughout.

NOTE:—With reference to the above houses, will say that they are practically complete—in fact the painter is at work and will be finished in about ten days.

Our prices on all of these houses include everything absolutely complete. We propose to put in fine fixtures, the best of plumbing, handsome wall paper, oak floors in the main rooms, bedroom floors to be scraped and polished, good shades, fences, cement walks, lawn in the front yard, and turn the house over all cleaned out and ready to move into.

Remember there is gas, electricity and fine mountain water.

To reach any of these houses take the El Molino cars which runs over the Pasadena line and get off at Titus Avenue; single fare 10c, but with a book about 6c.

These are all big lots, high ground and healthy location.

It's only about 14 miuntes' ride from Third and Broadway.

If you have any proposition on the terms less than we have mentioned remember we are always open and will consider any reasonable deal offered.

NOMINAL PAYMENT,

balance to suit your pocket book.

These bungalows have been finished by the same master builder who has completed several larger homes for us, and he will tell you the finish is absolutely the same. They are beauties and you will fall in love with them.

Again we say they are finished like our $7500 homes having large open fireplaces, built-in bookcases, window seats, writing desks, and buffets, panelled dining room, beamed ceilings, den, two large bedrooms, large closets, convenient kitchens, screen porch, in fact, as snug a 6-room home as you could wish for.

And you can select the wall decorations, and fixtures. Let us take you out tomorrow.

Your ship is already in. It is here in this offering of a first-class home site in the most desirable part of the city on extremely REASONABLE TERMS.

Between Vermont avenue and Hoover street, Forty-first Drive and Santa Barbara avenue, only twenty minutes from the business center is

EXPOSITION PARK SQUARE

This may mean much or little to you. If you know a good "buy" when you see it, if you have looked and looked without finding what you want, and if you will be satisfied with none but the best, it will mean much to you.

Choice of seven car lines, with 1½-minute service.

Large lot with gas, water and electricity. Cement walks and curbs; paved streets, ornamental shade trees.

Close proximity to Exposition Park, destined to be one of the most beautiful of American parks.

Educational advantages of the highest order; Manual Arts High School and University of Southern California.

Wise building restrictions. A most desirable lot on 41st street, facing north, 50.01x123.73, only $1750. Other lots for less and some for more.

We know that you will not regret the expenditure of the few moments required to make the trip. Here is surely the place for a sound investment with large prospective profits. Agent, corner Santa Barbara and Vermont avenues.

R. S. BASSETT,

AN APARTMENT HOUSE SNAP. In the Westlake section. A modern new apartment house, just finished, and containing 36 rooms, being 12 3-room apartments. Each apartment has wall beds, bath, toilet, gas, electricity, hot and cold water, etc. The house having just been completed is not yet rented, but should bring in a handsome return on the money invested. The price is $12,500, and from the fact that $7000 has been loaned on it, is evidence that the property has been appraised at a much larger figure.

There is no safer place for your money than in the SUBURBS OF LOS ANGELES.

Do you realize that WHITTIER ACRES, while in the very heart of the richest lemon and orange growing district of Southern California, is but TWELVE MILES from the center of Los Angeles and is thus in the suburbs of this bustling, hustling, growing metropolis?

DRAW A CIRCLE

around Los Angeles, within twelve miles of 7th and Spring streets and compare prices. You will find that $2000 to $5000 per acre is the lowest—except in the Whittier District. There, $750 to $1000 per acre will buy tracts of 1 to 10 acres, on the VERY EASIEST TERMS, planted or unplanted, as you like.

Think what this land will be worth in 1920, when Los Angeles will have

ONE MILLION PEOPLE.

Think what the Panama Canal means to California and particularly to Los Angeles and vicinity.

An investment in Whittier Acres NOW will be returned to you five-fold and meanwhile you will have a home that will support you in comfort and put money in your savings bank.

Let us take you out to WHITTIER ACRES and convince you. Write or call for printed matter.

FOR SALE— Suburban Property.

FOR SALE—LETTER OF REALTY BROKER to client:

My Dear Client—While looking for frostless foothill citrus land I discovered thirteen acres of scenic hill and canyon land lying just west of the head of Mayflower avenue, Monrovia. Long non-resident ownership accounts for failure to before utilize the manifest loveliness of this charming tract.

I can deliver the thirteen acres for $10,000 and any horticulturist can make it earn good interest on this price by cultivating the deep rich soil in the frostless protected canyon. It will bear oranges, lemons, or any kind of tender and delicate plants, shrubs and trees.

But way above and beyond horticultural value is the appraisement unconsciously afforded by our neighbors. I tried to get the twelve acres adjoining west, owned by a non-resident estate. At my request a representative came and reported back—"Do not advise offering at any price. These scenic sites will command fancy figures, and should be held by the estate." I tried to get twenty acres north and first the owners said they would sell. But they got to inquiring around, and took the twenty back again. Reason—"We learn that our neighbors are holding scenic sites at startling prices. We cannot afford to let go of ours in face of present asking prices." On the east is fifteen acres of oranges, with moderate buildings, and a private water right. Price, cash $100,000. On the south the city of Monrovia comes with its charming homes right up to the street that forms our boundary on that side.

It is not alone the adjoining property that furnishes the information on price. A short distance away $30,000 was just refused for a five-acre tract with grove and moderate improvements. A little further a two-acre scenic site is held at $20,000. I make no quarrel on these facts and figures. I simply say, and it can be demonstrated, that our thirteen acres is superior in natural beauty and availability to all these sites; and the inference as to the price is plain.

Note this: Every foot of the thirteen acres lies above and overlooks the charming city of Monrovia. Nothing could possibly be finer for residential purposes.

Establish here your summer and winter home within easy motor ride of the stalls of the money changers. Let little Tom have his summer camp way up the breezy foothill trail on your own home ground. Let Ethel bring her school friends for the Christmas vacation, and show them the finest worldwide selection of botanical specimens, grown under the open sky in this frostless protected canyon. Let the good Lady Client have here her well-ordered city home in complete yet convenient isolation. And you, my dear client, surrounded by the evidences that you have toiled wisely and well for the loved ones sheltered in this sylvan retreat, may then sit content, to dream over the fairest scene possible to picture.

Will you not come, and bring the lady, and Ethel and Tom, and see what you all think about this lovely home site? You will find these words are sober truth, penned by your faithful broker, IRVINE W. BIGGAR, 607 Union Oil Bldg. Main 1980; F2390. Agents fully protected.

FOR SALE—

Mission Court, Sept. 8, 1912.

DEAR MARY:

The big lots are at Mission Court. It is only 30 minutes from Sixth and Main on the rapid Pacific Electric line, beyond beautiful Eastlake Park. The lots are 100x186. The gardens are superb. There is plenty of pure water. The streets are graded. You are right on the way to that charming San Gabriel suburban district, where fruits and flowers grow so luxuriously.

If you buy now you can get one of these great, big lots for $500; but if you wait until the rush from the East commences you will surely pay more and not have such a good choice.

There never were terms easier than EMIL FIRTH'S—$10 down and $10 a month. No interest or taxes for two years. Call on him for map and more information and buy that big lot next to mine for $500. You will find EMIL FIRTH at 346 Broadway.

ALICE.

FOR SALE—

GREAT OPENING of new

VAN NUYS-LANKERSHIM LANDS.

2½, 5, 10 and 15-acre tracts.

On Easy Terms.

The last two great ranches of the Van Nuys-Lankershim lands go on the market. Scores have been waiting the cutting up of these garden spots of the rich San Fernando Valley.

Of all the sections, few can boast of soil to compare with these great ranches. A deep, rich, NATURALLY moist soil, where great crops of potatoes, of sugar beets, vegetables, of peaches, apricots, pears and prunes can be grown.

ABSOLUTELY

WITHOUT IRRIGATION.

The location is ideal for the country estate, the money making fruit ranch or the small farm. A few hundred feet away is that magnificent $500,000 boulevard and electric car line.

On all sides are handsome country homes and beautiful young orchards.

Now's the time to get in. Buy 5 or 10 acres at these low prices.

Our machines are at your service.

FOR SALE—OWENS VALLEY BARGAINS.

380 acres, $20 per acre. Land is level, sandy loam soil, adapted to alfalfa, general farming and deciduous fruit. 125 shares of stock in one of the best ditches in the valley goes with the place; 2 miles from station and adjoining one of the largest and best ranches in the valley, where you can see them cutting 2½ tons of alfalfa to the acre now. The owner is compelled to make a quick turn to realize money, hence the price. This tract would close out at $35 per acre promptly by offering in 40's or 80's and will be worth 150 per cent. more in three years than it can be purchased for today. We have pictures in the office showing the lay of the land and other properties in the vicinity. The place is as represented, and is the greatest bargain in the Owens River Valley at $20 per acre. Act promptly.

1080-acre stock ranch, $35 per acre; splendid soil and well improved with buildings and fences, part of place now in timothy, redtop and alfalfa. Place owns 4000 inches of gravity water, stock, cattle, horses, implements, tools, hay on the place, etc., included. This is a splendid property for stock, having abundance of range near by, and also the soil and location is ideal for apples and general farming. Can deliver for $25 per acre, two-thirds cash.

200 acres, $45 per acre, level fertile soil, no waste land, adapted to alfalfa, potatoes, fruit and general farming; 40 acres now in alfalfa. 150 inches of water; house, barn, outbuildings and fences; 30 head of mares included. Nicely located, only 3 miles from station and 1¼ miles from Bishop.

80 acres, $45 per acre, level fertile soil, no waste, especially adapted to alfalfa and potatoes, as well as deciduous fruits. Adjoined by well-improved ranches, and only 1½ miles from railroad station, and in the best part of the valley. This 80 has 100 inches of gravity water, which is abundant and worth the price alone. Price $45 per acre, one-third cash.

This valley, with its fertile soil, abundance of pure mountain water and ideal climatic conditions, offers the most attractive field for land investment tributary to Los Angeles. Booklet and complete information at our office.

YUCAIPA VALLEY—

FOR SALE—

BUY
OF RED APPLE LAND

On our south bench tract in the Yucaipa Valley; set the same to the famous Rome Beauty and Wine apple trees and in a few years you will have an absolutely sure annual income of net less than $500 an acre a year.

Since the last of June, 1912, we have sold more than $120,000 worth of land in this tract, and the majority of the buyers are parties who had previously invested in our earlier subdivisions, which shows pretty good faith in the proposition.

You can buy this immensely rich land today at $200 per acre, on very easy terms. One share of water stock in a mutual company goes with each acre; the land grows everything in deciduous fruits to perfection, also all sorts of small fruits and vegetables grown between rows of your young trees will make you money.

If you are at present unable to move on the land, make your selection just the same, let us plant the same to apples for you; we have a number of parties for whom we will plant and care for their trees until such time as they can move onto the land. Under this plan you may have an orchard brought into bearing for about $415 to $425 per acre, including cost of land, trees, care, interest on your money, etc., four years being required to bring the trees into profitable bearing.

Make a trip to Yucaipa with us, let us show you the old orchards loaded down with apples, the 2500 acres of young orchards, our immense pressure water system, etc. One-year-old orchards are selling now at from $500 to $600 per acre; two-year-old orchards bring $600 to $700 per acre; full-bearing orchards are worth from $1500 to $2000 an acre. As a safe investment for sure profits yearly, as an ideal homesite, Yucaipa Valley is in a class by itself.

Excursions every day. For further information call on or write.

MURRAY J. MORLEY, SECRETARY OF the Benson (Arizona) Board of Trade, was at the Hollenbeck Hotel, Los Angeles, all of last week, and left on the excursion Saturday for Benson with eight people who went to locate a home in the fertile San Pedro Valley. At this time there are just 6 open quarter sections of land within the artesian water belt open for homesteaders. If you want one apply at once as we will positively locate no one where we do not know that water can be secured without fail. We live and own property in Benson and will not lie to any man for the few dollars of profit we might make for so doing. If you want good level land in a proven country, within 6 miles of a good town, with good churches, schools, railroads and markets, act quick. SOUTHERN ARIZONA DEVELOPMENT CO., Benson, Ariz.

OIL PROPERTY—

FOR SALE—ONE OF THE BEST EQUIPped small properties in Kern River fields; title in fee, 50-cent oil contract, territory all drilled, will pay for itself in three years; price $50,000; terms if desired. Dissension in company reason for selling.

For Sale—Long-term lease in Midway, partially drilled, shallow territory, patented land; very little cash needed to swing this.

BELLRIDGE—Operating company running short of money will sacrifice 160 acres of located land; wells under way before government withdrawal; few thousand dollars will be sufficient to tie this up. Chance to make a million.

I offer the above and other desirable propositions in Kern county fields; the time to buy is when properties are cheap. Oil is advancing in price, and the next oil boom will be here before you know it.

B. A. HAYDEN,
500 H. W. Hellman Bldg.

FOR SALE — 40-ACRE LEASE ON THE Midway field, near Maricopa, oil wells on all sides. This property has one well down over 2000 feet, and includes standard and rotary rigs, casing, complete drilling equipment, camp outfit, etc. Reason for selling, financial inability to complete well; equipment alone represents over $20,000, and $10,000 or less will handle this proposition. This is one of the best leases in the Midway field, and affords a magnificent opportunity for a capitalist or organized company to step into a bona-fide and attractive proposition at a sacrifice. You get the whole thing. Quick action essential. Address C, box 400, TIMES OFFICE.

WANTED—I HAVE AN ELEGANT CHANCE for some one to make big money. For $1500 will give you an interest in an oil well in the Lost Hills district. We are down 400 feet, need money to complete. FOR SALE—

THE FAVORED LOCATION OF UPLAND, CAL.

10 acres, $22,500, all navel oranges, full bearing and in splendid condition; free from dead wood; properly pruned and every way a healthy, vigorous grove; showing an averge yield for five years of 6000 field boxes; 912 trees on the ten acres, and carrying ten shares of San Antonio water.

Located on beautiful Euclid ave. No finer location in the orange district to live. This orchard will pay regularly a handsome return. Big crop set and no work to be done after this month until crop is ready to pick.

We estimate 6000 boxes now on trees. Terms.

A VERY CHEAP GROVE.

10 acres, $13,500. A mixed grove of full-bearing navels and about 200 Valencia buds. Also 12 grapefruit trees. Fine soil, positively never a frozen orange on this grove. Ten shares San Antonio water, and a matchless location for a home. Present indications show about 5000 boxes on the trees. This is a bargain and the price only good this month. No other grove in entire Upland district within $400 per acre of the price. Owner now lives in Redondo Beach and too busy in lumber business to run back and forward. We strongly recommend this grove. Terms.

FOR SALE—

FOR $10,000.
A FULL BEARING ORANGE GROVE.

Under instructions from the non-resident owner I offer at fully ONE-THIRD BELOW its market value one of the most profitable orange groves in Southern California.

Ten acres of ten-year navel orange trees, yielding a handsome income. The grove has been heavily fertilized and everything about it is strictly high class, including the location, on a paved boulevard with electric car line and city improvements.

$4000 cash (or even less) will handle. 116 S. LOS ROBLES AVE., Pasadena.

FOR SALE — LOOK THIS UP.; ORANGES, 110 acres full bearing, olives 16 acres, alfalfa 18 acres, pasture 4 acres. Citrus land with water, 148 acres. Total, 290 acres, together with large, fully equipped packing house, residences, splendid water system, frostless, early fruit, in best section of Tulare county. Well worth $180,000 on conservative basis. We will deliver for short time for $140,000 and pay full commission to agents. Call or write for report. A. L. TRENCH, with EDWARD C. DIETER, 1000 Title Insurance Bldg. F3033.

FOR SALE—OR EXCHANGE—I AM OFFERING for quick turn a 37-acre walnut grove about 11 miles out, not far from San Gabriel. This place has three-street frontage and has been held at $1500 per acre, but the owner has requested me to get him an offer on the property, so this means that you can get a bargain and put your property in for what it is worth, either business or residence property. Some of you shrewd traders can make a killing here. For further particulars see J. C. FLOYD, 315 Mason Operahouse Bldg.

HOTELS AND ROOMING HOUSES—
For Sale, Exchange, Lease or Wanted.

FOR SALE—

ROBERT MARSH & CO.,

HOTELS AND ROOMING HOUSES.

$4000 For the best 30-room transient house on Main st., 5-year lease at $5 per room. Never clears less than $250 per month.
$3000 cash; $1000 mortgage, at 8 per cent.

$5500 For the very best 25-room, brand new, high-class transient house in the heart of the swell hotel district. Run three months. Furniture and everything about this house is high class, clearing now $350 per month. Will do better in winter. $3500 cash handles this snap.

$8000 For a 65-room hotel on Main st. Good furniture; hot and cold water; 8 private baths. There is no limit to the amount of money this house can make if properly run as a high-class transient house. This house would be cheap at twice the money we ask for it, but other interests compel owner to sell at a sacrifice. $5000 cash will handle this big money maker.

$12,000 For 140-room hotel in the very heart of things at $7 per room. New furniture. Lease of 7 years. Under the proper management this house would clear $10,000 per year. Owner sacrifices on account of sickness to $12,000 SPOT CASH.

$12,750 For a new 75-room hotel with a 5-year lease at $7.50 per room, big per cent. of private baths. All outside rooms. Elegant lobby. Never on the market before. Owner sacrifices on account of larger hotel now being erected for him. A money maker. Always full. $8000 cash, balance easy.

$16,000 For the best 95-room hotel on Main st.; modern, elevator, etc. Always full. Clearing $500 per month all the year round. $10,000 cash, balance on easy terms.

$19,000 For 100-room hotel, close in, new, elegant, up-to-the-minute connecting baths, water all rooms. A 10-year lease at $7 makes this a very attractive proposition to the man who knows.

WOULD YOU INCREASE YOUR INCOME?

There is $100,000,000 in Los Angeles banks drawing 4 per cent. or less. If you have a part of this, I would like to show you how you can add 50 per cent. to 100 per cent. absolute safety.

Buy a gold note.
Buy a gold note.
Buy a gold note.

The notes which I offer have direct security, double in value to the note purchased, and it remains intact as YOUR SECURITY as long as you hold the note.

Now is not this worth looking up. It costs nothing to investigate. If you can make your $1000 now earning $40 a year, earn $80 with equal safety, it is worth while.

If you will send your name and address full particulars will be mailed for your examination. Address B, box 367, TIMES OFFICE.

WOULD YOU INCREASE YOUR INCOME?

There is $100,000,000 in Los Angeles banks drawing 4 per cent. or less. If you have a part of this, I would like to show you how you can add 50 per cent. to 100 per cent. to the earning power of your money with absolute safety.

Buy a gold note.
Buy a gold note.
Buy a gold note.

The notes which I offer have direct security, double in value to the note purchased, and it remains intact as YOUR SECURITY as long as you hold the note.

Now is not this worth looking up. It costs nothing to investigate. If you can make your $1000 now earning $40 a year, earn $80 with equal safety, it is worth while.

If you will send your name and address full particulars will be mailed for your examination. Address B, box 367, TIMES OFFICE.

Saves Money.
If you want money on FURNITURE, PIANO, horses, wagons, live stock or other personal property, without giving up the possession or use of same, BORROW FROM US AND SAVE MONEY.
Our plan gives you a definite amount to pay each month, including both principal and interest, and you know just where you stand at all times, and if you find that you can pay before the loan expires you will receive a substantial rebate on the total cost. In this way a loan can be paid off much quicker and cost much less than the customary loan providing for payment of interest only. The reputation we have firmly established with those who know us is A SQUARE DEAL ALL THE TIME.

Hurrah for the old soldiers.

This is going to be "open house" week.

All veterans of the Civil War and visitors invited to make our store their headquarters.

Free use of telephone and writing desks and material.

GREAT BED SALE.

We are overstocked on iron and brass beds and must dispose of a hundred this week to make room. 25 per cent. discount. All goods marked in plain figures.

Buy any bed you want and deduct 25 per cent. from the marked price and we will deliver free any place in Los Angeles.

This puts the beds down to cost, as we sell goods on a very close margin.

Be sure and visit our rug and carpet department.

A big stock, lowest prices and all sizes and kinds.

We have one of the nicest lines of Circassian walnut bedroom furniture in Los Angeles and no store sells as cheap.

We also have a big stock of birdseye maple and mahogany bedroom furniture.

Closing out refrigerators at cost. Only a few left.

We sell sheets at wholesale prices.

All kinds of dishes and cooking utensils at lowest prices.

In fact, we have everything to furnish a home, office or apartment-house and we defy any furniture store in Los Angeles that has more rent to pay than we to meet our prices and still stay in business.

We make terms to suit each customer.

Special terms and prices on large bills.

Come and see us before you buy.

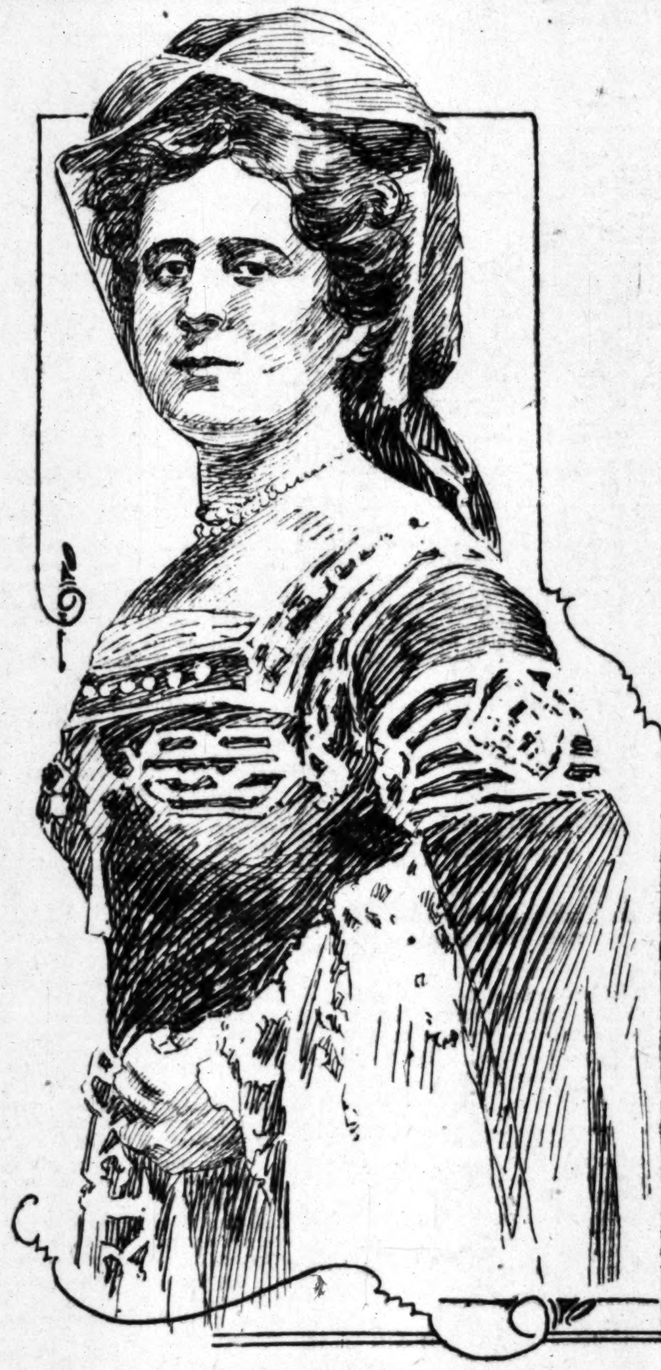
British Earl Wants to Pass Century Mark



Countess of Wemyss,

Wife of the Earl of Wemyss, who just celebrated his ninety-fifth birthday by entertaining the octogenarian members of the House of Lords and who confidently expects to be the first Earl to pass the century mark.

Fountain of Youth.

OCTOGENARIANS ATTEND EARL'S BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Frisky and in Good Health at Ninety-five, British Peer Is Confident of Passing Century Mark. Duchess of Marlborough Will Be Guest at Unique Gathering at Blair Athol Famous in Song and Story.

BY LADY MARY MANWARING.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND BY WIRELESS FROM CHICAGO TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The most Noble Earl of Wemyss, whose title dates back to 1633, celebrated his ninety-fifth birthday by giving a party to the octogenarian members of the Upper House. His Lordship, by virtue of his close approach to centenarian honors, is quite a figure in the peerage. He hopes to be the first of the earls to cross the century mark. He is notable for two things in addition to his great age and good health—the "weeper" whiskers which were dramatized in Lord Dundreary; and the popular difficulty in pronouncing his name, "Weems."

MONARCH OF ALL HE SURVEYS.

The Duchess of Marlborough will be among the guests of a notable party which is to open the autumn at Blair Athol, the magnificent place of the Duke of Athol, made memorable by the sweet Scottish song, "Cam' ye by Athol?" The Duke is a King in his own country, the absolute monarch of a Highland dominion which provides him with a regiment of 250 kilted clansmen. A week from now will take place what is known as the Athol gathering.

It is held in a beautiful spot near the old castle of Blair, which is surrounded by rugged hills and dense woodland. The gathering opens with a "march in" of the Highlanders, and a excellent programme is carried through, which includes athletic events, dancing, tent-pegging, lemon-cutting, etc. The Duke of Athol invariably wears Highland dress when in Scotland. The full-dress tartan, with sporran and dirk, is worn in the evening and there is a hunting tartan, a plain dress for use in the morning, and several other varieties.

GOOD ENTERTAINERS.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lawrence will spend the Highland season at Ferrar, a shooting near Aboyne. Mrs. Lawrence was Miss Summer of New York. She is an attractive woman and much interested in philanthropy, and at their house in Eaton-square, give most pleasant dinners, at which interesting people of all sorts are met. Mr. Lawrence, a brother of Lord Lawrence, is a man of unbounded energy, whose bright and cheery nature makes the lavish hospitality dispensed by his wife and himself one of the most pleasant features of local social life. COMPETITION IS KEEN FOR NEPTUNE'S TRIDENT.

John Bull Is Hustling to Keep What He Already Has of the Monopoly of the Seas and to Grab What He Can Out of the Shake-up that Is Expected to Result from the Opening of the Panama Canal.

BY PAUL LAMBETH.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND BY WIRELESS FROM CHICAGO TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—"The trident of Neptune is the sceptre of the world;" and never was the competition for this trident so keen—as witness the heated discussions ranging around the regulations for the operation of the Panama Canal. With his fleets of merchantmen dominating the trade of the world, one would think that phlegmatic John Bull would be disposed to sit back at his ease and view complacently his present mercantile marine advantage. Not so. Never was Great Britain more wide awake to the needs of his fleets of peace-ships, the great trade carriers which he has launched and commissioned to carry his flag and the world's wares into every port on the seven seas. The Treasury Department has just taken a step which might be copied with advantage by one of the Federal departments at Washington. The youth of England is to be subsidized for training as sailors of peace.

According to an official return made by a commissioner of the Board of Trade, British boats are manned to a large extent by foreigners. This parliamentary paper lists the number of foreign seamen, cooks, firemen, stewards and petty officers aboard British ships as more than 21,000. This is apart altogether from the lascars, Malays and others employed as firemen and stokers on the great tramp steamers. John Bull wants to see young Englishmen filling these 21,000 berths. It is contended that, helped by the new capitation grants, the coast training ships can supply the lads. The Education Department is supporting the Treasury Department and the principle of "subsidizing the men of England instead of the ships" is backed with great enthusiasm by all parties.

WEEK FOR THE GUNS.

It has been a great week for the guns, despite the dismal prospects which preceded the opening of the partridge shooting season on Monday. While in some parts of Norfolk and especially on the north coast the continued rains and cold spell destroyed the young birds wholesale—hardly a bird being left in sove coverts—around Sandringham and other favored spots the shooting was quite as good as in the best years and several record "bags" were noted by the noble guns participating in the killing.

A CAT VS. SOLOMON.

A cat—and a plain, unpedigreed mouser, at that—has contrived to put to the blush the "Judgment of Solomon."

At Tottenham court two ladies laid claim to an affectionate feline, answering to the name of "Charlie." The judge, unable to decide between them, appointed the cat as referee. The ladies contesting for ownership of "Charlie" live on opposite sides of Tottenham's main street. "Charlie" was to be placed in the center of the street and given his choice of the two houses. Mrs. Pratt, one of the two women, thought she would guard against a miscarriage of justice and, at the time appointed for the cat's verdict, she walked by the door of her rival. The cat promptly leaped into her arms, purring his delight. The judge ruled this a mistrial and puss was again placed between the two houses and both ladies ordered indoors. "Charlie" affirmed his previous decision by walking straight into Mrs. Pratt's hallway, much to his mistress's joy and her rival's chagrin.

ANAESTHESIA.

A new way of producing anaesthesia is being tried with success at St. Bartholomew's Hospital—one of the two most famous in London.

The method is briefly as follows: A vein in the arm is selected and under a local anaesthetic a hollow needle connected with a reservoir and warming apparatus is tied in. A 5 per cent. solution of ether in salt solution is then run in, and usually, after ten minutes, with very little excitement or struggling, the patient is unconscious. The depth of anaesthesia can be very accurately controlled by regulating the flow of the fluid mixture. The advantages in cases where the operation is on the head or neck are obvious, as the anaesthetist is well out of the surgeon's way. This method is particularly useful for an emergency operation or when the patient is exceedingly weak after a long illness, as the infusion of salt solution usually improves their general condition.

The patient "comes round" very rapidly after the administration is stopped, and in the limited number of cases tried so far lung complications have been very rare.

THE GEORGIAN DANDY.

The new Georgian period is being punctuated with a revival of the Georgian dandy. Man, to be up to date, must wear the short, tufted side whisker which was affected by the "First Gentleman in Europe" and his emulators. According to the most fashionable of the Piccadilly barbers, this resurrection of the whisker is a "protest against the long-haired young men who go about wearing flowing ties. Not only do they wear their hair hanging over their collars at the back, but in front also it dangles down three or four inches in front of the ears.

"The side whiskers of today, as several of the best dressed among my clients affect it, grows on the side of the face down to the lower part of the ear, but only as far as that. Not a quarter of an inch below the ear do they allow it to grow. Very long hair is quite incompatible with the wearing of the twentieth-century side whisker.

"It is an ornament complete in itself, and is not dependent on, or to be confused with, the hair of the head hanging down over it. It is short, only being allowed to grow just long enough to be slightly curled. It is not to be supposed that the pioneers of this new revival are of the type usually classed as 'Bohemian.' Some of them are actors, certainly, but they are among the most smartly, carefully and unostentatiously-dressed young men to be seen anywhere."

TOYLIKE HOUSES OF OLD JAPAN.

ARCHITECTURE OF THE EGG-SHELL CHARACTER.

Rooms Are Separated from Each Other by Partitions Which Slide Away Like Panels, and Even the Walls Are of the Same Movable Nature and Can Be Slid Away.

[London Daily News:] The painter has a very poor time of it in Japan, not, of course, the painter of pictures, but the "painter and decorator" who, in England, hangs his sign on your front balcony and makes your house uninhabitable for weeks on end. They have no use for him in this land of unpainted wood. The paint pot is practically banished from Japan.

That is the first thing you notice as you approach the coast, writes William Archer, for the first adventurous fishing boat you pass is built, it would seem, of about half a dozen broad, unpainted deal planks. So with the sampans that cluster round your ship as soon as the anchor is dropped; they are all nature colored, undecorated and undefaced by a single lick of the paint brush.

So with the houses of the first Japanese street you enter; they are weathered to the silver gray of unpainted pine. Such color as there is proceeds from the innumerable strips of calico, inscribed with huge hieroglyphics, which flap perpendicularly or horizontally before every house.

But you very soon come to feel the charm of the unpainted wood; and after a few days in a Japanese house you begin to think of the painter and paperhanger as one of the most offensive symptoms of western barbarism. It has been said that there are no permanent rooms in a Japanese house, but that rooms can be improvised at any moment by an arrangement of screens. This is a totally misleading statement. "Screens," in our sense of the word, have nothing to do with the matter. They exist, no doubt, in most Japanese houses, that the Japanese house is not di- are used, just as we use them, either for pure ornament, or to shut out a draught.

House construction becomes very much clearer when we think of the partitions as consisting not of screens but of sliding panels. Nor is it true that the Japanese houses is not divided into rooms. The line of demarcation between room and room is definitely fixed by the grooves in which the panels slide.

There is even a solid and permanent boundary, for the panels are only some five feet nine inches in height, whereas the height of the room is generally about eight feet; so that from twenty to thirty inches of fixed partition fill the space between the panels and the ceiling. It is true that when all the panels are drawn back a whole floor of a house becomes practically one large room; but this is almost as true of some English and American houses when all the folding or sliding doors are open.

So much by way of removing the misconception created, in my mind at any rate, by the use of the word "screen." Looking now at the Japanese house at large one can easily define its dominant characteristic. It is a house without walls; it is a roof raised on wooden uprights over a wooden platform some eighteen inches above the ground which forms the main and in one-story houses the only floor. The roof and the upper floor or floors are supported entirely by the beams which form the skeleton of the whole erection.

The space which in European houses is occupied by walls and windows is here given over to sliding panels of a different sort from those which form the partitions between rooms. Each house has an outer and an inner casing. The outer casing of wooden shutters called "amado," slides away every morning into cupboard boxes so disposed that a dozen "amado" slip into them with perfect ease and can be slipped out again at night with a minimum of exertion.

It is in these simple yet ingenious adjustments that the Japanese excel. Thus the outer wall (as we should call it) of the house is unbuilt every morning to be rebuilt at night. The process of unbuilding, I may add, is eminently favorable to early rising, for the shoving away of the "amado" at daybreak is conducted with a clatter suggestive of a railway shunting yard in full operation.

"And what of the inner casing? It likewise consists of sliding panels placed some two or three feet behind the outer casing; which space of two or three feet form a sort of veranda for a lower story, or a balcony for an upper story. But these inner panels called "shoji" are entirely different from the "amado," and are peculiarly characteristic of Japanese architecture. They consist of light wooden frames ,over the rectangular panes of frames, over the rectangular panes of pasted in lieu of glass. Translucent but not transparent, the paper admits light while it secures privacy; though "secure" is perhaps scarcely the word for privacy which an inquisitive baby's finger can destroy.

The reader may now understand, perhaps, something of the toylike fragility of the Japanese house. Save its roof and its floors, there is scarcely anything solid or immovable about it. When the "amado" are stowed away for the day, the walls are literally of white paper; and though these paper walls are seldom quite removed—one panel is generally slipped behind another so that to all intents and purposes the building is as wall-less as a band stand, or as a doll's house with the front unhooked. Add to this that everything is on a diminutive scale, suited to the low average stature of the people. At least ten times a day I nearly brain myself in passing from room to room. Chairs there are none—oh, the luxury of a common Windsor chair after a few hours of squatting on Japanese mats!—and the tables are about a foot high, suited to the needs of kneeling revelers. Everywhere and in everything, moveover ,the workmanship is of a toylike neatness, a finicking nicety of adjustment.

In literal fact, there are many portions of a Japanese house that you could smash at a blow, like a child's plaything. If, after an hour's squatting, you are moved to lean your aching back against the "karakami" (the partition panels,) you are as likely as not to fall into the next room.

TRYING TO KEEP ART WHERE IT IS UNDERPAID.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND BY WIRELESS FROM CHICAGO TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Lady Helen Gordon-Lennox has come to the front as a bitter opponent of the "wealthy American vandals who are despoiling England's art galleries to enrich the mushroom and mansions of New York and Chicago." Her ladyship's sudden aversion to the transplanting of English-made products rather amuses the few Americans still in town. At Broughton Castle, the Gordon-Lennox country seat near Banbury, she created herself several successful industries, among others, wood-carving. The whole of the panelling of Charles Dana Gibson's house in New York is the work of her carvers at Broughton. She also bottles fruits and sells these in the open market; but she draws the line at selling Gainsboroughs or Romneys.

Graft.

NEW KEEPER OF "PORK BARREL."

Retirement of Master of Elibank; Chief Dispenser.

Would Have Caused Scandal in United States.

Partnership With Man Whom He Raised to Peerage.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Probably not one person in a thousand, even in this country, has realized the significance of the retirement of the mighty personage known as the Chief Whip of the Liberal party. To those on the inside of English politics it stands out as a political "job" which, if done in the United States, would have raised a storm of indignation and, justly or unjustly, would have occasioned an amount of mud slinging and muck raking that would have left the participants besmeared for life.

Just consider the facts in their proper order and relation. For years the man who is always addressed as "The Master of Elibank" and not by his personal name of Murray—that being the hereditary title of the eldest son of Viscount Elibank—has been in charge of the Liberal party "graft bag." On his advice the Prime Minister and the Cabinet have distributed the "honors," or titles, among their more zealous supporters. Every knight, or peer, created in recent years, has had to come before the Chief Whip. To him were made the payments to the "pork barrel" which have kept the party going, and with him has rested the responsibility of fixing the figures at which the various titles are often almost openly sold. Furthermore, it has been his duty to choose the various Liberal candidates in the constituencies throughout the country and in a large measure to influence the political complexion of the House of Commons by the choice of candidates holding this or that shade of opinion.

One of the most outstanding of the peerage "jobs" of the present Liberal government was the elevation of Sir Weetman Pearson into the peerage. Lord Cowdray, as he is now called, is in the way of becoming the John D. Rockefeller of England. The head of a great engineering and contracting firm with ramifications all over the world, he has acquired large oil fields in Mexico, and is now fighting the Standard Oil Company for supremacy here. In passing into the peerage he had to secure the "O. K." of the Master of Elibank.

Now for the past five years it has been repeatedly charged that Lloyd George, and the Master of Elibank, and indeed the whole Liberal Cabinet were well under the control of a small clique of immensely rich Englishmen of which Lord Cowdray is the chief. Some time ago, the latter found a soft berth in his business for one of Lloyd George's sons, and the incident was hailed as significant. And now, when the Master Elibank retires from his political job and becomes a peer himself, he is offered and accepts a fat partnership with the very man whose peerage he engineered, and who is looked upon in some quarters as the evil genius of the Liberal party.

THE NEW MAN.

A new man, Percy H. Illingworth, M. P., has stepped into the shoes of the Master of Elibank. As the chief ministerial whip, he will wear a gorgeous uniform, draw a salary of $10,000 a year, and, if he does well, will be rewarded "in due course," with a peerage, but, in the main, his job and that of the chairman of the national committee of either of the two great political parties in the United States, are pretty much alike, especially as regards the delicate matter of "patronage."

The queer title of "chief whip" dates back to the days when Sir Robert Walpole was Prime Minister, and this wily statesman, who could have given points in bribery to any wardheeler, was an ardent hunter of the fox. The business of the "whips" employed to keep the members of his canine pack together was so like the business of the men employed to prevent similar defections from the ranks of his none-too-large majority in the House of Commons, that the Parliamentary underlings likewise were scornfully dubbed "whips" by the crafty premier's political opponents.

The leader of these minions, like the foremost of the men who "whipped in" the foxhounds, became known as the chief whip, and his job was a long way from being esteemed as honorable as it is today. Yet the fundamental duty of the chief whip now is the same as it was then. Walpole's "chief whip" wooed recalcitrant members of Parliament by whispers of peerages and frequently by means of banknotes of high denominations slipped under their plates at dinner; the chief whip of these days deftly dangles a title or other preferment before the eyes of whomsoever he would cajole, either to contribute to the party "pork-barrel," or to "vote straight" on a division, and he also distributes "patronage." So completely is he recognized, in fact, as the man who hands out the "jobs" for political services rendered that his actual official title for the past decade or so has been "Patronage Secretary to the Treasury," and as such he occupies offices at No. 12, Downing street, which are about the finest in London.

The practical "sale" of peerages and lesser titles in this country amounts to a scandal. Every "honors list" that is published is nearly monopolized by the names of men who are notable for nothing on earth but the money they have got. Some of them are made barons, other baronets, others knights, and the English newspapers have a hard time to discover the "notable services" on their part which "His Majesty" (who has almost nothing to do with it really) has been pleased to recompense. Of course, these are the rewards for long and unflinching contribution to the party funds—and the man who takes the "dough" and eventually hands out the honors is the Chief Ministerial Whip.

HOW 'TIS DONE.

That is, it is he who reminds the Prime Minister, when the King's birthday, or the New Year, the two chief dates on which honors are distributed, is beginning to heave in sight, that it is time that staunch radical and dissenter, Elias Snuggs, of "Snuggs's soap" fame, or (if a Tory government be in power,) that renowned Imperialist and Tariff Reformer, Hiram Stiggins, the proprietor of "Stiggins's Stout," who has "sweetened" the campaign funds whenever requested, should be turned into a peer of the realm, or at least, made a knight commander of the bath—a distinction which does not, as you might think, entitle its holder to the privilege of witnessing the royal abolutions.

Commenting on the activities of the new Chief Whip's predecessor, the Saturday Review of this week remarks: "He coaxed the shekels from the pockets of Jew and Gentile desiring (for a consideration,) to be enrolled among the gentlemen of England." A glaring instance of "payment by peerage" was the elevation to the ermine by a Liberal government of William, now Lord Pirrie of the firm of Harland & Wolff, who turned his political coat just when the radicals wanted a prominent Ulster Protestant on their side. But perhaps the most generally resented case of this kind in recent years, was the Balfour government's transformation of Alfred Harmsworth into Lord Northcliffe. A howl of indignation, it may be remembered, went up at this conferment of a lofty title on a man whose services to the nation consisted of getting rich out of newspapers and magazines that were at that time considered yellow.

PAID CASH.

Gossip declared at the time that Harmsworth had paid Mrs. George Keppel $250,000 in cold cash to use her influence in wheedling a title out of King Edward, but from what the writer has been told by a man closely in touch with court circles the story must have been a canard. This official declared that the secret of Mrs. Keppel's special "solidity" was the fact that she never used her pull for political ends. Besides as a general rule the sovereign's part in peer-making is small indeed. Probably if the titular head of the State particularly wanted a personal friend ennobled, and the thing didn't interfere with ministerial policy, the deal would go through, but as a general rule the King doesn't know whom he is going to be "delighted to honor" until he gets a little list actually drawn up by the hand of the Prime Minister, but framed, you may be sure, by that potent person, the Chief Ministerial Whip.

Then there are the jobs. As patronage secretary to the treasury, the Chief Whip has the disposition of no end of "graft" in the way of secretaryships to different government officials, clerkships in the Houses of Commons and Lords, and sinecures in the way of clerk and secretaryships to various "royal commissions" that sit for months and sometimes years on end. These berths are quite outside of this country's boasted "civil service" system, and practically the lot of them are controlled by the Chief Whip.

THE MACHINE.

The Chief Whip is the man who runs the party machine in every part of the kingdom; a machine, too, that day by day is being more dominated by a clique, to the scandal of those in this country who had fondly believed in the purity of British politics. When a member of Parliament dies, resigns, or is promoted to a berth in the House of Lords, it is the Chief Whip of his party who decides who shall "stand" as his successor, and likewise it is the Chief Whip of the opposite party who picks his opponent. Among the countless other things that a Chief Whip has to have at his fingers' ends is the exact situation in every constituency, together with all the political tides and eddies that characterize it; knowledge which enables him to pick from several willing candidates the one most likely to appeal to the free and enlightened electors.

At a conference between the chief ministerial whip and his counterpart on the other side, the date of the election is agreed on, and the former then issues an official writ, which notifies all concerned that a fight for the vacant "seat" is to come off. Then he gets busy flooding the constituency with campaign literature, seeing to it that every available "boarding" is covered with posters cracking up the party policy and roasting that of its opponents, and rushing off every unemployed "spell-binder" and oratorical big-gun to the scene of battle.

Of all the offices in connection with the government, that of Chief Whip is the one that Prime Ministers find most difficult in filling satisfactorily. The man who holds it must combine the wiles of the serpent with the gentleness of a sucking dove—and he must have a cast-iron constitution. In times of stress—and one is coming now—this office has cost its holder his life, and at best it is a big tax on the vitality of the man who occupies it. The reason for this is to be found in the duties of the Chief Whip, as the actual "whipper-in" of the party pack in the House of Commons. In this country, of course, if a government is beaten on an important division in the House of Commons, it resigns, hence the Chief Whip and his assistants, who also are known as "whips," have to see to it that the government has a secure majority from the moment the House sits, which is now at 2:30 p.m., until it rises, which may be any time up to 4 in the morning if epoch-making legislation is being pushed through Parliament with the opposition fighting at every step.

That the coming session will be a tough one for the chief ministerial whip is as sure as anything on this earth can be. The new incumbent of that office is not likely, however, to collapse under the strain. Percy Holden Illingworth, who has the fate of Messrs. Asquith, Redmond and Lloyd George in his charge, is an ex-Rugby half-back, an ex-sculler, a big game hunter, and a Boer War veteran. He is 43, comes of famous stock in the "West Riding" of Yorkshire, and has sat in Parliament for the Shipley division since 1906, when he defeated that fiery Tory, Sir Fortescue Flannery. Soon after his election he became parliamentary secretary to Augustine Birrell, Secretary of State for Ireland, and in 1910 he succeeded Sir John Fuller as Junior Lord to the Treasury and Second Whip, the position he now vacates to succeed his former chief, the Master of Elibank.

Illingworth has the two best characteristics possible for his new job—the ability to keep his temper in all circumstances, and pluck.

Percy Illingworth, M.P.,

New keeper of the liberal "pork barrel."

Lord Cowdray,

English oil magnate who has just presented a partnership in his immense business to the Master of Elibank, who engineered his peerage.

BIG BATTLE OF THE NORTH.

IRISH MIX THE SUBLIME WITH THE RIDICULOUS.

Rank and File of the Orangemen Goaded Into a White Heat of Anger—But Comedy by the Bushel Is Being Provided by the Dukes and the Belted Earls.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

DUBLIN, Sept. 7.—Preparing for the big "Battle of the North" fixed for September 28, Ulster and Belfast, particularly, present a curious mixture of the comic and the sublime. There is no doubting the determination and the sincerity of the rank and file of the Orangemen. They have been goaded into a white heat of anger. But comedy in bushels is being provided by the dukes and the belted earls who are practicing fence with "the sacred weapons used" by their forefathers "at the charter field of Liberty, the Boyne."

DESPERATE DOINGS.

Numerous accounts are printed of the desperate doings of these obese gentry with swords which were fashioned before Parliament had much to say in the affairs of the nation. One Orange earl gives it out with pride that he is using the sword which Sir William Wallace carried to urge the Scots to victory. Another practices with a mace which did service at the battl of Tewkesbury in the "Wars of the Roses." The Nationalists, of course are poking all kinds of fun at these warriors of the Twentieth Century playing with the toys of the Middle Ages. Yet, underneath the humor is the grim reality of trouble ahead.

ULSTER DAY.

The programme for "Ulster Day" is announced as follows:

A religious service will be held about 11 o'clock in each convenient locality throughout Ulster. After the service all Unionists will proceed to appoint places to pledge themselves to a solemn covenant, the terms of which will be approved by the council on September 23 and publicly proclaimed throughout Ulster the following day.

Previous to Ulster Day, anti-Home Rule demonstrations will be held in different parts of the province, at which the following speakers will be present: The Duke of Abercorn, the Duke of Devonshire, Lord Londonderry, Lord Salisbury, Lord Charles Beresford, Lord Hugh Cecil, Sir Edward Carson, F. E. Smith, J. H. M. Campbell, and Ronald McNeill, all members of Parliament and prominent adherents of Bonar Law.

Officers of the Irish militia regiments have been warned not to take part in the "training" of the Unionist rifle clubs under penalty of losing their commissions.

PICNIC AND REUNION.

Illinois Delegates to G.A.R. Encampment will Be Guests of Honor of Harvest Home Affair.

The fourth annual harvest home picnic and reunion of the Illinois Association of Southern California will be held at Eastlake Park tomorrow, and every Illinois delegate to the G.A.R. Encampment is urged to consider himself a specially invited guest of honor and answer the roll call. A special programme for the entertainment of the veterans has been arranged.

The Veterans' Fife and Drum Corps of Southern California and the Newsboy Band will contribute patriotic music, and there will be set speeches by Benson Wood, Past Commander of the G.A.R.; T. P. White of Ramona Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West; Mrs. Flo Jamison Miller, Past National President, W. R. C., and Miss Clara F. Hoover, secretary of the Chicago Woman's Club, an official of the D.A.R. The address of welcome will be by Judge F. W. Blair, president of the Illinois Association of Southern California. A feature will be the song "Illinois," played by the Newsboy Band and sung by the audience.

Mmes M. D. Hurley, Phoebe Kreider Murray, Ruth E. Snively, Myra N. Rover and Miss Edith Morgan have been appointed hostesses to entertain the distinguished women speakers.

The Reception Committee whose duty it shall be to make the veteran visitors feel at home is composed of Dr. S. A. Austin, Thomas Shea, C. W. Casey, W. F. Clark, L. T. Corder, John Dyer, C. J. Eichholtz, E. O. Felts, G. S. Fleming, R H. Franklin, Reuben Heffelfinger, Orson Hager, Israel and Nicholas Glaze and H. I. Gosper.

Throughout the week the Illinois Society will maintain a headquarters information bureau in the lobby of the Central National Bank.

picture---770 chances to win a prize.

Rules That Will Govern The Times Booklovers' Contest

The contest is open to everybody. Only Times employees and members of their families are barred. Daily for 77 days will be published in The Times a picture representing the title of a book, one each day. Beneath this picture will be a coupon to fill in with the name of the book and the author, together with name and address of entrant.

Cut out the picture and coupon, filling in the book title and author's name, writing your name and address neatly and plainly in the place provided.

No restrictions are placed on the manner in which answers to pictures are secured. Each picture represents the title of one book only. If you are not certain of your solution you may send in one to ten answers to the picture. NO MORE THAN TEN ANSWERS WILL BE ACCEPTED TO A PICTURE. Incorrect answers will not count against contestant if correct answer is also given. And put one answer to each picture and coupon. Extra coupons must be secured and used for extra answers. All answers to each picture must be kept together in compiling your set.

Additional pictures and coupons may be obtained at The Times office, by mail or by person. Answers will not be accepted unless they are properly filled out on the coupons appearing beneath each picture. It is necessary that pictures be sent in with the answers in order that all answers may be uniform.

When you have all 77 answers, fasten them together and bring them or mail them in a neat flat package—not folded or rolled—to The Times office, addressed "BOOKLOVERS' CONTEST EDITOR." Prizes will be awarded contestants sending in the largest number of correct solutions. In the event of two or more persons having the same number of correct solutions, the person using the smallest number of extra coupons in the set of answers will be declared the winner. In event of two or more persons having the same number of correct solutions, and using the same number of coupons, an equal interest in the prizes tied for will be given to each of the tying contestants, or the persons involved in the tie may choose any one of the other lesser prizes.

More than one prize will not be awarded to any one family, but each member of the family may enter the contest and submit a complete set.

Only one complete set (comprising not more than 10 answers to any one picture) of answers may be submitted by a contestant. Awards will be made strictly according to the merit of each separate list. The names of more than one person must not be written on any one coupon.

All answers will be considered on their merits. The first set filed will have no preference over the last set filed; provided only that answers must be filed within the time specified after the last picture has appeared.

The awards will be made by the Contest Editor and three well-known citizens whose names will be announced later.

The correct answers to the series of pictures will be filed with a local trust company or bank a week previous to the close of the contest.

Entry to the contest may be made at any time. All communications or letters of inquiry concerning the contest should be addressed to the Booklovers' Contest Editor, The Times.

Read This Carefully

If you have an Answer Book you need only one copy of each picture, yet you can make one or three or six or ten answers to each picture. You don't have to get extra pictures and coupons to make extra answers.

The top pages of the Answer Book are numbered from 1 to 77 inclusive. On the top of page 1, for instance, you paste picture No. 1. On the bottom of page 1 are ten spaces marked off. Here you write the answer or answers you want to make to picture No. 1. And so for picture No. 2. It is pasted on the top page of page 2, and the answer or answers written on the bottom of page 2, and so for the 77 pictures.

You need have only one copy of each of the 77 pictures, but you can write down as many answers to each picture as you want to, just so you don't make more than ten answers to any one picture.

The Answer Book is of convenient size to carry in the pocket or satchel. In shape it resembles a stenographer's note book—open from the bottom, like a note book, not from the side like a story book.

And, printed in the Answer Book are six certificates, each one of which is good for six pictures, with the exception of the last or sixth certificate, which is good for 5 pictures. To get these six certificates with the Answer Book, all that it is necessary &for you to do is to sign a three months' subscription blank, agreeing to take this paper for that period. You will need the paper every day, anyway, in order to get the daily picture, keep posted about the contest, and so you might just as well take the paper and get the 35 FREE pictures with the Answer Book.

Certificate No. 1 is good for pictures from No. 36 to 41 inclusive
Certificate No. 2 is good for pictures from No. 42 to 47 inclusive
Certificate No. 3 is good for pictures from No. 48 to 53 inclusive
Certificate No. 4 is good for pictures from No. 54 to 59 inclusive
Certificate No. 5 is good for pictures from No. 60 to 65 inclusive
Certificate No. 6 is good for pictures from No. 66 to 70 inclusive

Be sure you send in the proper certificates for the pictures you desire, and remember that no certificates are redeemable until the pictures for which they are good have appeared in the paper. For instance, suppose you wish pictures No. 36 to 41. If these pictures have already appeared in the paper, you tear out certificate No. 1 and present it at the office of The Times, and the clerk will give you the pictures, or send in the certificate by mail with the proper postage and the pictures will be sent you. If you wish pictures No. 36 to 47, tear out certificates No. 1 and 2. If you wish pictures No. 36 to 59, tear out certificates No. 1, 2, 3 and 4. Of course you cannot use a certificate for pictures until the actual pictures you want have been published in the paper. For instance, if you wished pictures No. 60 to 65, you would have to wait until pictures No. 60, 61, 62, 63, 64 and 65 had actually appeared in the paper.

POLITICAL TIPS.

The Bull Moosers cannot find candidates in Cook county, Ill., for the various county offices because of the internal warfare between Boss Medill McCormick and other leaders of the movement. Dozens of persons have been approached in Chicago and asked to consent to their names being placed on the Bull Moose ticket, but without exception a refusal has met the offer. The dire straits of those picking the candidates is shown in the fact that "hand picking" candidates for Congress which the different Congressional district meetings were asked to ratify, two of those who consented to have their names placed before the meetings are Chicago saloon-keepers. It is even said that the predicament is causing some of the Moose leaders to consider placing some women on their tickets.

Gen. R. B. Brown, Republican nominee for Governor of Ohio, announces that he will go after Col. Roosevelt rough shod in the course of the campaign. He will treat his State opponents with the dignity to be expected in an ordinary campaign, but he would attack Roosevelt in the rough and ready manner of an old soldier.

The G.O.P. campaign manual just issued, though containing 400 closely printed pages, does not mention the name of Theodore Roosevelt. On the other hand, a rather lengthy consideration of the career of Woodrow Wilson, not altogether complimentary in character, is found among the first pages.

Gov. Blease of South Carolina just pulled through the primaries with almost nothing to spare. The most serious blow he received was by Senator Tillman in the closing days of the campaign which cost the Governor a good many votes. In fact, it is said that if Tillman had not turned against him Blease would have won by 10,000. Since the result of the primaries has become known, Senator Tillman has sent word to Blease that the lesson of the campaign is for him to turn about and become a decent Governor.

A dispatch from Jefferson City, Mo., to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat says Jesse A. Tolerton of that city stands to lose about $400 because of the indifference of the Bull Moosers. During the campaign for delegates for the third-term candidate Tolerton personally pledged himself to pay the cost o fsepcial trains and other expenditures here and there, believing that it would only be necessary to wire the Dixon crowd to procure an amount sufficient to meet these bills.

Having at that time gotten about all they expected or could get out of Missouri in the way of delegates, the men in charge of the Roosevelt barrel flatly refused to give the Roosevelt workers in Missouri any more funds. The fact that Tolerton would be forced to dip into his own pocket to meet bills incurred in behalf of Roosevelt had no weight with the colonel's managers.

Some of the claimants are wanting their money and Tolerton will soon have to dig up unless the Bull Moosers come to his rescue, which he considers very unlikely.

"William Allen White, who represents Roosevelt in Kansas even more than Governor Stubbs, is not getting up much enthusiasm among the farmers whom he seeks to enlist for the Colonel," says Warren T. Yates of Topeka.

"The efforts of Mr. White have been devoted to drawing dollars out of the pockets of the grangers to aid in the battle of Armageddon; but so far the response has not been encouraging. To tell the truth there is no excitement in agricultural circles, and the way they are holding on to their dollars suggests that Roosevelt can stand at Armageddon without their company."

Gov. Stubbs of Kansas, who beat Senator Curtis for the Senatorial nomination at the primaries, reports having spent only about $800 in his campaign while Curtis spent a little over $5000.

The report comes from Pennsylvania that becauses of the split in Republican ranks no Republican State ticket will be placed in nomination, but there will be a full list of Taft electors which will end the battle so far as regularity goes. Then the organization Republicans will throw their strength to the Democratic candidates for the State offices.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

Respect for Our Flag.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 4.

[To Editor Times:] I wish to take advantage of the opportunity that you so graciously offer the public through your columns, to comment or criticise questions of public interest. The topic I am about to comment on I do so superficially and more with the view of inviting discussion and opinion from wiser heads, hoping that the response will be generous and of an educative value to your readers.

Are we, as a nation, becoming disrespectful to our flag?

I do not accuse, yet appearances are against us. We will take an incident yet fresh in the minds of perhaps thousands: On Labor Day, somebody thoughtlessly (for I would hate to think that a true American could do it otherwise) had his dog in the procession dressed in the American flag. As if a DOG were fit to be the bearer of the American Standard! The boys, our future soldiers and voters—the real power behind the throne—saw this, and I venture to say the example has been imitated and some mangy cur in a back alley, or even in a street front has likewise been decorated. Is it right? Does it foster a patriotic respect for the flag? In my humble opinion it is a rank outrage, a thoughtless indignity to the colors that, if it cannot be stopped in any other way, let legislation do it.

We see in board fence advertisements a life size Uncle Sam telling his people to chew "Plug Cut Tobacco," in another we see his likeness in a whiskey bottle, also recommending it to his people for "purity." Now, I am no saint—I use both tobacco and whisky—but I prefer the other brands, the ones that respect our national emblem. What a queer combination have we here. We try to teach our boys to respect the flag and its symbol, Uncle Sam, and we sternly forbid them the use of tobacco and whisky.

We find the flag used for decorating target galleries, picture shows and numerous other public places. It is used profusely for decorations of all kinds and for all occasions. Should this privilege be restricted to national holidays, Federal buildings and schoolhouses? Then what about the national hymns and airs? Should parodies be allowed on these? While the saying that "familiarity breeds contempt" might not be applied here literally, yet it could breed indifference.

FACTS ABOUT WHALES.

They Are Warm-blooded Animals Same As Cows and Cannot Stay Under Water Longer than Bovines.

[Baltimore American:] It is a curious fact that the true nature of the whale was not discovered in all the ages of its existence until the last 150 years, since the time of Linnaeus, who still regarded it and called it a great fish. The truth is that a whale is no more like a fish than a cow is. The whale can stay under water not more than ten minutes, and a cow can be under as long as the whale in proportion to her size. The cow will fight to protect her offspring and so will a whale fight for her calf until she is killed.

This is in great contrast with the large fish that care nothing for their little fish, and do not even know them. The fish are cold-blooded, whereas whales have warm blood, like that of human beings. Whales, like all sea mammals, also are like human beings in having greater intelligence than other animals.

The whale's mouth has the capacity of a large living-room for a family, but cannot swallow a ball as big as a man's fist. Notwithstanding its great size, its food is principally microscopic. It takes into its mouth a roomful of water, but does not swallow it. With the aid of its elastic whalebone "baleen," located within its great mouth, it separates the microscopic food from its containing water, and then spouts the water through its nostrils into the air. Then it lets the microscopic food glide gradually into its stomach, where it is digested into oil, fat, blubber, flesh and bones.

In nursing, the old whale has to be careful not to smother her young calf, only ten or twelve feet long. For both the mother and calf have to breathe frequently while the intake of whale milk is going on. So after exhausting one mammal gland the mother and babe gently roll over to the other side, where the feeding process is renewed, accompanied by sportive maternal endearments—such as standing on their heads perpendicularly in the water and shaking out their tails and fins and then breathing again.

Whale food can be manufactured artificially by slightly acidulating tubes of water with sulphuric or other acid and allowing it to stand in the sunlight and shadow alternately, as water is conditioned on the bays of seas and oceans.

Tests may be made in a small way by pouring a spoonful of sulphuric acid from a bottle into another bottle, and then carefully pouring it back again. Enough of the acid will adhere to the inside of the second bottle to acidulate the water that fills the bottle. If the bottle be filled with water and set aside, the whale food will appear in it within a week, and may be readily recognized on holding the bottle in the light. As this process is constantly going on naturally in bays and bayous all over the world, the whales always have a plentiful supply of food, and they know how to get it. While experimenting in this line caution must be used in pouring and otherwise handling the acid, as it will burn the skin or any cloth on which it may be allowed to fall.

BUYS FOR INVESTMENT.

O. E. Farish, president of the California Realty Corporation, reports the sale of a lot 63x120 feet in size, improved with a two-story frame building of fourteen rooms, on Rampart street between Wilshire boulevard and West Seventh street, for Thomas Teegarden to Adolph Lofton. The consideration is given at $12,000. The purchase was made as an investment.

BOHN APARTMENTS SOLD.

The Provident Investment Company reports the sale through its house and lot agents, Phebus and Lindsey of the Bohn apartments at No. 1656 Winfield street, to James A. Tolin, for a consideration of $23,000. Tolin recently came to Los Angeles from Mexico and purchases the property subject to a ten-year lease. The building is of an attractive design and well appointed.

Co-Operative Farming Wins on Merit

The first announcement of this mutual profit-sharing plan of co-operative farming awakened thousands of people all over the country to the tremendous possibilities of such an organization.

The simplicity of the plan—the safety of such an investment—the certainty of big profits—has won for this company the good will and approbation of thousands.

The absence of inside manipulation, promotion stock, salaried officers and promoter's "rake-off"—the character, standing and ability of the officers—won the confidence and co-operation of the rank and file of the investing public.

It's another step forward in economic progress. It's another perfected and proven plan of successful enterprise that has for its aim the benefitting of those who, because of limited capital or business or professional cares, have not heretofore been able to enjoy the security and profit of California farming.

Monday, September 9th, marks the new era—the commencement of positive progress of this organization. On that date we commence selling stock in this company at par—$1.00 per share. We go ahead assured of success for we know the people are with us. Their financial backing has helped us to win for them.

You should share in this success. You should get your share of farming profits. You should have your money invested in this company because it will then buy an interest in farm property—it will be used to develop what will soon be one of the greatest alfalfa, dairy and stock farms in the West.

Until Sunday night you can buy as much of this stock as you want, from 50 to 10,000 shares, at 75 cents and pay for it in cash or ten equal monthly installments.

Applications at 75 cents must be mailed or paid in person at our office not later than Sunday, September 8th. Don't lose this 33⅓ per cent profit.

Office open Sunday from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Call if possible. If not, mail your subscription and payment with this advertisement.

JOB said, "Oh, that mine enemy would write a book." The Bull Moose leader, who, like Iago, "is nothing if not critical," has written several books—"Winning of the West," "Naval War of 1812" and "Life of Thomas Jefferson." From these volumes we extract the following choice extracts:

Concerning President Thomas Jefferson:

"He was vacillating, timid, incompetent and ungrateful. He was guilty of intriguing against Washington, of secretly aiding the French, of exercising an influence distinctly evil. He was the most incapable Executive that ever filled the Presidential chair. He was constitutionally incapable to put the proper value on truth."

Concerning President James Madison:

"He was timid, incapable and feeble. He was guilty of imbecile incapacity and of bringing shame and disgrace to America."

Concerning President James Monroe:

"He possessed no special ability. He was, as Secretary of War, a triumph of imbecility to the last."

Concerning President Andrew Jackson:

"He was a figurehead managed by politicians. He was ignorant. Low politicians moulded him to their will. His administration corrupted the public service in every way."

Concerning President Martin Van Buren:

"He faithfully served the mammon of unrighteousness. He succeeded because of and not in spite of his moral shortcomings."

Concerning President James K. Polk:

"He was the very smallest excepting Tyler of the line of small Presidents who came in between Jackson and Lincoln."

Concerning President John Tyler:

"He was a politician of monumental littleness. To call him a mediocre man is unwarranted flattery."

Concerning President Franklin Pierce:

"He was a truckling, time-serving northern politician of low capacity and mean surroundings."

Concerning President William Henry Harrison, Zachary Taylor and Millard Fillmore:

"They were small Presidents.'"

Concerning Foreign-born Citizens:

"They are usually of little or no education, with exceedingly misty ideas as to morality, and possessed of an ignorance so profound that it could only be called comic were it not for the fact that it has at times such serious effects upon our laws."—[American Ideals, volume 1, page 71.]

Concerning Populists:

"Refinement and comfort they are apt to consider quite as objectionable as immorality. . . . A taste for learning and cultivated friends, and a tendency to bathe frequently causes them the deepest suspicion. . . . Though they often make war on vice, they rather prefer making war on prosperity and refinement.

"Thrift, industry, and business energy are qualities which are quite incompatible with the true Populist feeling. Payments of debts, like the suppression of riots, is abhorrent to the Populist mind. Such conduct strikes the Populist as immoral."—[American Ideals, volume 2, page 23, and pamphlet issued in 1896.]

Concerning Government by Injunction

"The men who object to what they style 'government by injunction' are, as regards the essential principles of government, in hearty sympathy with their remote skin-clad ancestors who lived in caves, fought one another with stone-headed axes, and ate the mammoth and woolly rhinoceros.

"They are interesting as representing a geological survival, but they are dangerous whenever there is the least chance of their making the principles of this ages-buried past living factors of our present life.

"They are not in sympathy with men of good minds and sound civic morality.—[American Ideals, volume 2, page 18.

Concerning Quakers:

"A class of professional noncombatants is as hurtful to the real healthy growth of a nation as is a class of fire-eaters, for a weakness or folly is nationally as bad as vice, or worse, and in the long run a Quaker may be quite as undesirable a citizen as is a duelist.—[Life of Benton, page 27.

Concerning Cowboys:

"They are brutally dissipated. They cut mad antics when drunk on villainous whisky, riding horses in saloons, firing their pistols right and left—[Ranch Life and Hunting Trail, page 9 and 10.

Concerning Farmers, Farm Hands and Mechanics:

"Cowboys are much better fellows and pleasanter companions than small farmers or agricultural laborers; nor are the mechanics and workmen of a great city to be mentioned in the same breath."—[Ranch Life, page 10.

If "consistency is a jewel," as the proverb runs, the great Bull Moose leader has not a sparkler, or a ring, or a watch chain, or even a marked-down-to-29-cents gold-washed scarf pin to his name.

Will the "drunken cowboys" vote for Roosevelt? Will the "small farmers and agricultural laborers" who are not "such good fellows or such pleasant companions as the drunken cowboys" vote for him? Will the union workers who are "in sympathy with their remote skin-clad ancestors," vote for him? Will the Populists who "regard thrift, industry and business energy as quite incompatible with their feelings" vote for him? Will those who "regard with suspicion people who bathe frequently" and who "prefer vice to refinement" vote for him?

Suppose that in the streets of London, or Paris, or Berlin, or Rome, or Vienna, or Madrid, a blackguard of an Englishman, or German, or Frenchman, or Austrian, or Italian, or Spaniard, should accost an American tourist and tell him that the author of the Declaration of Independence was a liar, that Madison was "an incapable who brought shame and disgrace to America" that the author of the Monroe doctrine was an imbecile, that Jackson, the hero of New Orleans, was ignorant and corrupt, and that Van Buren, and Harrison, and Taylor, and Fillmore, and Tyler, and Polk, were all small-minded mediocrities, without learning, or ability, or character, would not the American tourist—even if he were a Progressive—knock the slanderer into the gutter? Will an American citizen who loves his country and honors her illustrious sons, vote for this scurrilous lunatic who insults the living and the dead?

METEORIC RISE OF BARTLETT.

PRIVATE TO MAJOR-GENERAL IS HIS RECORD.

As College Student of Twenty-one He Records Sympathies for South and Enlists Same Day and Fights Heroically for North—Brilliant Soldier.

Wherever grizzled veterans of the great Civil War shall foregather this week and swap anecdotes of that terrific struggle, some one will be sure to mention William Francis Bartlett, whose star still shines brightly in the vast constellation of heroes whose blood dyed the battlefields a deep crimson during the four years of internecine strife.

Maj.-Gen. Bartlett, in whose memory Bartlett-Logan Post, G.A.R., of this city is named, was a student at Harvard when the war broke out. Gen. Pifrey finds in Bartlett's diary a declaration of sympathy for the cause of the South, and says Bartlett enlisted with the Fourth Battalion, Massachusetts Volunteers, on the very day that entry was written.

The private who put love for his country above his principles and shed his life's blood in several battles and narrowly escaped with his life more than once, rose gradatim, by sheer pluck and on account of his wonderful grasp of soldierly duties, to be a brigadier-general and finally was brevetted major-general. How this was done, what he suffered, how he struggled and bled and fought, is faithfully told by Gen. Palfrey in his "Memoirs of General Bartlett." The facts here related are taken from that work.

Bartlett's first service was doing garrison duty in a Boston fort. He was engaged a month in this work and returned home when the battalion was dismissed. He had taken a keen interest in this and so zealous was he in learning the duties of a soldier that he attracted the attention of Col. Palfrey, who was to be in a position later to help the young soldier. In June, 1861, Col. Palfrey was given the opportunity to name some line officers of the Twentieth Regiment Massachusetts Volunteers, and Bartlett received the commission of captain. After a six-weeks' whippin-in process, regimental rank of companies was arranged in accordance with the estimate of soldierly capacity, and Capt. Bartlett was named senior captain of the regiment and his company took the right of the line.

His first baptism of fire was at Ball's Bluff, where his regiment lost many of its brave men and officers, including its colonel, major, adjutant, assistant surgeon, first lieutenant, a captain and two lieutenants. Capt. Bartlett, through these casualties, became the second officer in command of the regiment and he so continued during the remainder of 1861.

He tells in his diary of seeing the gallant Col. E. D. Baker shot down before his eyes. In April, 1862, when his command was in front of Yorktown, Capt. Bartlett while kneeling and examining the enemy through his field glass received a wound from a sharpshooter's rifle that cost him a leg. He passed several weeks in a Baltimore hospital, and then went to his home in Massachusetts. His splendid constitution enabled him to recover rapidly. He went to his class commencement at Harvard and received his degree, although his senior year work was performed while serving his country at the front.

Capt. Bartlett was offered the command of a camp at Pittsfield, Mass., known as Camp Briggs, where the Forty-ninth Regiment Massachusetts Volunteers, a nine-months' regiment, was assembled. He accepted the offer and undertook the business of training his soldiers with his usual vim.

A formal election was held by the regiment November 10, 1862, and Bartlett was elected colonel, receiving all of the votes. A short time after this he appeared with his first artificial limb. He rode a spirited Vermont horse, and in addition to his regulation equipment as a mounted officer he had a pair of crutches buckled behind his saddle. He and his command were later ordered to the Gulf, sailing January 24, 1863, for New Orleans on the steamer Illinois.

Gen. Banks made his first disastrous assault on Port Hudson, May 27. Col. Bartlett with his command occupied a position in a wood, and was soon ordered to assault. He was the only officer mounted and was of course a conspicuous mark for Confederate bullets. It was either for him to go into the assault mounted or not go at all. He says in his diary. "We had got two-thirds across the slaughter field when, just as I was shouting to the men to keep close on the colors, pop, I went off my horse like a rocket. As for me God had been very good. The ball, a round one, luckily struck in the joint of my wrist, shattering the bones. It was very painful. The other wound was slight. A buckshot struck the outside of my right ankle and glanced down entering the flesh, and passing through the sole of my foot."

So much were the Confederates impressed by the signal valor of the mounted officer that it appears their officers gave order not to fire on him. After being removed to New Orleans he remained there for some time for medical treatment and sailed for the North July 23. His regiment was soon mustered out, but the restless colonel could not content himself with civil life while there was any fighting to be done. He was named colonel of the Fifty-seventh Regiment, Massachusetts Volunteers, which he was to raise and command. After organizing the regiment he was suddenly stricken with a serious malady of the eyes and had to subject himself to careful treatment. He soon recovered sufficiently to resume his duties. He left Worcester with his regiment April 18, 1864 for Annapolis and there his command of 923 men became part of the First Brigade, First Division, Ninth Army Corps. He was wounded in the head at German Ford and lay for some time on the field among the dead and wounded. He lived in an army ambulance during the days of Chancellorsville and Fredericksburg and was finally taken to Washington about May 11.

A dramatic incident occurred at the Battle of the Wilderness. Bartlett and Macy (his friend and comrade) had last seen each other in the field on April 24, 1864, when both were captains in the Twentieth Regiment. In the Battle of the Wilderness both were wounded at about the same time, and as they emerged from the woods, Bartlett drooping over the neck of his horse and with his arm clinging around it, and Macy borne on a stretcher, they met, each now a colonel of a Massachusetts regiment. Col. Bartlett was sent to a Baltimore hospital and on June 28 he received his commission as brigadier general and was assigned to the Ninth Army Corps. He left Washington for the army in front of Petersburg July 19, and on July 23 assumed command of the First Brigade.

After the mine was sprung at 4:40 o'clock he led his men into the "crater." He says a shell knocked down a boulder of clay which crushed his wooden leg and killed the man beside him. He was captured, surrendering to Gen. Mahone, and was taken with other prisoners to the military prison at Danville and afterward transferred to Libby Prison. After untold sufferings and heartbreaking delays and disappointments he was at last exchanged and sent North, more dead than alive, September 24.

He recovered slowly, but was unable to do anything during the remainder of the year 1864. In April, 1865, he applied for duty, but nothing came of the application. He got a surgeon's certificate and in July made another application. The memoirs say: "On the first of June he commanded the military escort of the great procession which that day filled the streets of Boston, upon the occasion of the ceremonies commemorative of the late President Lincoln; and those who saw him then are not likely to forget the striking appearance he presented as he rode in full uniform at the head of his column of many thousand men."

He took command June 9, pursuant to orders of the First Division of the Ninth Corps at Tenallytown, near Washington. The army was about to be mustered out and before many weeks he received his commission of brevet major general.

GUNS, BILLIES, AT THE POLLS.

HOW JOHNSON-DISSNER-FINN TOOK SAN FRANCISCO.

Movement Foreshadowing Another Grand Jury Investigation in Bay City Begun by Citizens Incensed at Bald Blackjack Methods of the Third-Term Outfit.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Investigation that may lead to action by the grand jury against Johnson-Lissner-Finn manipulators in this city are quietly carried on by citizens interested in exposing the crooked methods by which the third-termers sought to make a clean sweep of the executive nominee in this city as well as the delegates to the county committee.

The utmost secrecy marks the work of the investigators and it is rumored that when their work is done at least one Roosevelt sympathizer of standing in the community will be involved.

Not in the palmiest days of Buckley, Kelly, Crimmins or Martin has San Francisco been subject to the gang rule at the polling places and in the districts to the extent that it is being subjected to in the elections held here since the Johnson State machine got in good working order.

Tuesday was vacation day on the water front. Boss Tom Finn, crusader-emeritus for Johnson and Lissner, herded his help away from the jobs that they are paid to perform and marshaled them at the polling places. In all of the south-of-Market districts Finn's men were sprinkled thicker than thieves. There was no rough work done because the average Taft voter was thoroughly well informed of the brand of plug-uglies that he would be up against if he attempted to make trouble and refrained from comment. Many Taft voters and particularly women, kept away from the polls altogether rather than take a chance of becoming embroiled with Finn's henchmen.

General knowledge of the fact that Finn's men had received orders to come to the Republican County Committee meeting last month to be "ready for trouble" served to scare people from the polls. On that occasion one of the watchmen at the Ferry building bragged openly of the fact that he came "heeled with a billy and a gun." Respectable citizens had no desire to take a chance at a billy from behind or possibly a bullet. It must be admitted Finn took good care of his men.

Although the spectacle of a wagon load of beer on election day being driven from place to place to win voters with drinks may not be edifying to the respectable element in the community it certainly proved that Finn and his rowdy brigade understand the essentials of gang politics.

It was a desperate fight on Finn's part to retain his grip on the waterfront patronage against the rising tide of Taft sentiment, reflected in the scant 5000 majority given the third-termers on the Congressional vote. Every vote that could be begged, brokbeaten or bribed was forced to the polls.

The expose of Finn's methods has brought a reaction against the so-called Progressives, who in realty have the most unscrupulous machine in this city that has ever held a city throttled.

Sensational exposures are expected shortly throwing new light on the methods of vote-getting employed by the Johnson outfit not only in this city but elsewhere.

SAN DIMAS FRUIT GROWERS.

Four Hundred Sit Down to Annual Feast and Hear the Official Reports Read.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIMAS, Sept. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The San Dimas Orange Growers' Association held its thirteenth annual meeting at its magnificent packing-house here today. Several hundred people were present, many being growers from neighboring towns. Over four hundred sat down to the excellent dinner prepared and served in the house.

Manager Wheeler's report showed that the association had shipped 626 cars during the year just closed and that the association had received $436,129 for the fruit. The average net return to the grower was slightly higher than last year and altogether the record made was extremely good inasmuch as most citrus communities had suffered during the year from the frost, freak hail storm, and heavy wind. All oranges from here were shipped under a guaranteed brand of being "frostless and full of juice."

All business was disposed of in a manner which showed conclusively that the growers were satisfied with the directors and management and as a further evidence of such satisfaction the old directors were reelected with the exception of J. R. Dennison who resigned.

The directors and officers are W. A. Johnstone, president; W. E. Mount, vice-president; F. B. Landon, secretary. J. J. Maechelten, E. W. Hart, W. M. Ferry and J. S. Billheimer, E. M. Wheeler was reengaged as manager and John C. [illegible] made treasurer.

Dr. Robert Gamaliel Cornwell of Riverhead, N. Y., who has been nominated by the Suffolk County Democratic Committee for Coroner, enjoys the distinction of having been named on 19 different occasions for that office by the Democrats.

DEAL INVOLVES THREE MILLIONS.

RANCH OF SEVENTY THOUSAND ACRES SOLD.

Vast Property Lies Twenty Miles West of Fresno and Has Interesting History—Holding to Be Subdivided by New Owners Into Small Farms.

One of the largest land deals ever consummated in California has been completed in the purchase by Benjamin F. Graham of the famous James ranch of 72,000 acres, lying about twenty miles almost due west of Fresno. Graham, who is a heavy land owner, not only in many parts of the United States, but in Mexico and Canada, paid a reported consideration of $3,000,000 for the tract, which comprises 113 square miles. The ranch, which will hereafter be known as the Graham ranch, is to be subdivided into small farms.

The Graham Farm Lands Company, as the new concern will be known, will have its headquarters in Los Angeles, where it was incorporated a few days ago for $3,000,000. Graham has transferred his residence to this city, where he can be in close touch with the operations of the company, which was organized practically for the sole purpose of carrying out a well-defined plan of interesting settlers from other States to locate in California.

The Graham Farm Lands Company will include among its holdings a portion of a large acreage set aside by the James company, called the Colony ranch, and previously sold to settlers on contracts. Of the 8000 acres sold in the Colony ranch, a large portion is now under cultivation in tracts of from forty to 160 acres. This acreage has been bearing crops of all kinds of grain and practically every kind of fruit except those of the citrus variety.

Over 30,000 acres will be turned under for grain within two weeks, when half a dozen caterpillar engines will begin ploughing at the rate of over 400 acres a day. Graham plans to make the grain-raising business one of the largest operations on the ranch, and much of the acreage that has been utilized for alfalfa by the James company and other tracts which have been under lease will be cultivated in this manner. A portion of the ranch will be given over to grazing purposes.

It is estimated that $250,000 has been expended, prior to the purchase, by the James interests in the construction of canals and ditches from the San Joaquin and Kings rivers, both of which run through the ranch. Considerable money has also been spent in drilling artesian wells.

Approximately $1,000,000 will be spent on improvement work, the construction of roadways and boulevards and further water development, it is stated by Graham. More artesian wells will be drilled and a network of canals constructed from both the San Joaquin and Kings rivers. One large canal from the San Joaquin will be dug entirely through the ranch. This canal will be of sufficient depth to make surface water available when the river's flow is at its lowest point. A seventeen-mile boulevard has already been started, which will extend parallel to the new Hanford branch of the Southern Pacific.

An interesting feature has been the laying out, on the Hanford branch, of the new town of Graham. This new town is formulated along modern city building lines, having its industrial section on one side of the railroad and its business and residence sections on the other, through which two boulevards 130 feet wide will extend. A large park space in the center of the town and opposite the railway station will be an added feature of beauty. A new $50,000 hotel will be one of the first buildings in the new city, only preceded by a large creamery, which will be built and operated by the company. The construction on this enterprise will begin at once.

The famous old James ranch has had an interesting history. Nearly fifty years ago it was acquired by the late Jefferson G. James, under the Swamp Land Act. For years the Kings River overflowed this section every winter. Mrs. Maud J. Graves, daughter of the late Jefferson James, and her two sons, J. G. Graves and W. C. Graves, Jr., inherited the ranch, and subsequently operated it as the J. G. James Company.

Benjamin F. Graham is a Texan and one of the back-to-the-land enthusiasts in the country, having done a vast amount to further this cause. He will spend much of his time on the ranch.

NEW VERMONT SQUARE.

Sales of lots in New Vermont Square are reported as follows: P. H. Muskat, four lots, south side Forty-first street, between Gramercy and Arlington, $4225; Nils A. Walburg, south side of Forty-first drive, between St. Andrews and Gramercy, $1100; Chris Wilson, Jr., south side of Forty-first street, between Western and St. Andrews, $1200; Mark B. Folsom, south side of Forty-first drive, between St. Andrews and Gramercy, $1100; Mrs. Henrietta Martin, west side of Western, between Forty-third street, and Forty-third drive, $1500; Miss Minnette Shafer, west side of Western, between Forty-first street and Forty-first drive, $1675; same buyer, corner of Western and Forty-first drive, $2500; Paul F. Kampa, corner Forty-first street and St. Andrews, $1400; C. E. French, south side of Forty-first street, between St. Andrews and Gramercy, $1125, and John Sward, south side of Vernon, between Kansas and Budlong, $1275.

SOUTHERNER BUYS GROVE.

The sale of a ten-acre orange grove at Redlands is reported by Earl A. Norton, manager of the land department of the Gibraltar Investment and Home Building Company. The consideration is given at $20,000, one-half cash and the remainder in high-class Hollywood property. A. E. Newton of Redlands is the seller, and George W. Signor of Shreveport, La., the buyer. The latter is a wealthy railroad tie contractor who has for some years been investing largely in Los Angeles realty, and who is now extending his investments to the adjacent country.

SUMMER SEASON LATER THAN EVER THIS YEAR.

Accommodations Taxed in Attractive Beach Centers—Many Sales of Lots Reported and Numerous Homes Projected—Other Enterprises Rumored.

The summer season at the South Coast beaches bids fair to run well into the fall months this year. Almost all of the cities report that the accommodations are still full to running over and many houses, tents and rooms have been reserved for weeks to come. All are preparing for the biggest winter season ever experienced.

Many people are buying and building at the various beach resorts in this section and real estate is experiencing quite an advance movement. There will be several business and hotel blocks erected during the winter months.

During the past two weeks at Bay City eight or ten lots have been sold to investors seeking beach residence sites and soon there will be a number of new houses in the course of erection. Two beach bungalows are now under construction on the ocean front.

The move on the part of the Supervisors of Orange county to vote $1,270,000 bonds for good roads in the county has met with great enthusiasm on the part of the owners of property at Sunset Beach. H. A. Pierce & Co. have opened a real estate office at this place, with a view of engaging in a general real estate business, and especially to manage the improvements that are planned for several blocks of lots recently purchased by them.

Several new homes are projected at Huntington Beach, among which will be a bungalow for Louis Paul Hart, editor of the Huntington Beach News.

A big movement is on foot to have a City Hall site purchased by the City Trustees at a convenient location. It is very probable that the plan will succeed and a suitable building for municipal purposes will be finished during the coming year to house, not only the city offices, but also the public library. At the next meeting of the Woman's Club on September 10, the plans for a new clubhouse, which that organization is planning will be discussed, and it is probable that a decision will be reached as to cost and location of the new structure.

West Newport has been one of the most active of the South Coast beaches during the past summer. The excellent transportation afforded by the Pacific Electric of forty-two trains and forty-five-minute service has induced many to visit this charming place. Recent buyers are planning to build a number of handsome seaside bungalows and cottages. One purchaser recently bought a block of fourteen lots for the purpose of erecting a number of bungalows and chalets, which will be ready for occupancy by next season. A two-story apartment-house is among the contemplated buildings. Plans for two new business blocks are also in the hands of architects.

Negotiations are under way for the erection of a pavilion on the ocean front, near Thirty-sixth street, to meet the demands of the increasing crowds of pleasure seekers. There will be a restaurant included in the building.

A club of men and women high in the social ranks of Los Angeles has submitted to its members a proposition to purchase a number of lots and erect an expensive clubhouse on the island bounded by the Santa Ana River and the wide canal.

Arrangements have been made by interested tennis players at East Newport, whereby a handsome new tennis court of regulation size will be built. Another improvement that will be made this fall is the extension of Bay avenue along block 6 in East Newport. This street will be bulkheaded and filled in and a cement walk with be put in.

Walter Martin of Indianapolis is among the recent buyers of realty at this place. He purchased a lot on Island avenue.

RAMONA ACRES SALES.

R. T. Hagen of Kansas City purchased through the Janss Investment Company, within a few days past, a seven-room home and an acre lot at Ramona Acres, and will make his home there. W. C. Gilman of Pasadena, purchased an acre on which is an unique bungalow. Fabling & Hannigan, selling agents with the Janss company, report sales totaling $45,800 for the month of August, in Ramona Acres lots, as follows:

Mrs. Daisy E. Nansel, one acre, $1500; J. Webb Smith, one acre, $1500; Mrs. Elizabeth Malone, one acre, $800; M. L. Streeter, two acres, $1500; Miss M. L. Traub, one acre, $1000; Harry Ford, one acre, $1000; William Stickler, one acre, $1200; J. L. and Cora Sturdivant, one acre, $800; B. W. Josten, one acre, $1700; Irwin W. McKee, one acre, $1000; John W. and Emma Pepperwell, one acre, $1400; Arthur E. Heintz, one acre, $1200; Robert McHugh, one acre, $700; C. H. Mark, one acre, $450; E. R. Bishop, one acre, $700; F. W. Curtis, one acre, $900; F. J. Berka, one acre, $1300; Margaret H. Simpson, one acre, $1200; Mary Hillenbrand, one acre, $1100; John J. Thompson, one acre, $900; E. C. Pross, one acre, $1200; Dr. D. N. Welch, one acre, $1500; John Lahosky one acre, $750; Mrs. Rose B. Kost, one acre, $1000; Julia C. and Lena E. Feade, one acre, $1700; R. A. Teshera, three acres, $2400; Mrs. Dora Kelsom, one acre, $900; J. Fitzgerald, one acre, $900; Miss Minnie Gunthard, one acre, $1000; Mrs. Della Hoover, one acre, $1100; Mrs. E. F. McBride, one acre, $1200; Mr. and Mrs. Aldof Fredericks, one acre, $1300; Peter Westergard, two acres, $2300; T. J. Steel, one acre, $1200; Mrs. Jean McDaniel, two acres, $2200; G. W. Steves, two acres, $1100; Mrs. Jennie Roe, one acre, $2400; Annie and Gertrude Bledsoe, one acre, $1200, and Fred P. Barjos, one acre, $900.

THE WESTWARD TREND.

Victor G. Kleinberger, F. H. Edwards, subdividers, report sales in the West Adams and Washington boulevard tract as follows: George T. Alberts, $750; Al Wood, $975; O. L. Hall, $825; E. G. Traversy, $1325; John B. Titun, two lots, $800 each; Mrs. Caroline Kendall, $1025; Kate C. Willis, $590; J. T. Browning, $2500; Arthur A. Williams, $900; Orville Warde, two lots, $975 each, and E. A. Waltrin, $825. Other sales follow: In the Eagle Rock City tract—W. L. Carpenter, $450; Mrs. Mary S. Winn, $650; B. J. Sherley, $650. At Thirty-ninth and Western—Edward E. Johnson, $875 and $1025; W. H. James, $1000. At Slauson Junction—Joseph Rancke, $600, and Alex T. Clore, $650.

THE M'CARTHY TRACTS.

The McCarthy Company reports sales in the south and southwest parts of the city as follows: R. Drabeek, lot of the Normandie Avenue Square tract on Fifty-first street, between Brighton and Normandie avenues; Robert R. Hawkensen, house and lot in the Florence Heights tract, at No. 820 West Seventy-third street; Rudolph Dupjera, lot in Normandie Square tract, on Fifty-first street, between Dalton and Denker avenues.

Venice.

NEW PIER MARVEL OF ENGINEERING.

PILES WILL WEIGH FIFTEEN TONS EACH.

Whole Structure to Be of Reinforced Concrete—Jetting Will Be Accomplished by Novel Pressure Process—Other Important Projects in Sight.

VENICE, Sept. 7.—The new Maier pleasure pier, now being constructed at Center street, will be one of the largest and finest concrete amusement piers in the country.

Over 800 solid reinforced concrete piles will be used as a foundation. The piles are larger in circumference and weigh a ton more than those used in the construction of the municipal concrete pier at Santa Monica.

The difficult work of jetting these concrete piles will begin next Monday on the arrival from the East of a huge pump which has a pressure of 150 pounds to the square inch and which forces 1500 gallons of water per minute through a two-inch pipe in the center of the pile. This washes away the sand at the base, allowing the pile to sink to bedrock under its own weight.

Within the next six months many important improvements are to be made in the property adjoining the new pier. Among these is a six-story hotel that will contain 200 rooms and plans for which are now being drawn.

The ocean front walk for a distance of four blocks directly opposite the new pier is to be widened to forty-feet and several stores are to be erected along this stretch of walk as well as on both sides of Center street from the ocean walk to Trolley way. Center street itself is to be widened materially, and an arcade of uniform style of architecture is to adorn the fronts of the stores, twelve feet from the building line, on this thoroughfare and along the ocean walk.

The building of the Maier pier at Center street means that this vicinity is to be an important addition to the business section of Venice. The Pacific Electric Railway is to build a station and platforms at Trolley way and Center street next spring in anticipation of the great throngs of people that will be attracted to this point with the opening of the mammoth pleasure pier, scheduled for Easter Sunday next.

Santa Barbara.

BIDS ASKED FOR SCHOOL GROUP.

New Normal Buildings to Cost Quarter Million.

Manual Arts Course Will Be Greatly Enlarged.

Instituion o Be Unique on Pacific Coast.

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 7.—Announcement was made a few days ago by President Ednah Rich of the Santa Barbara Normal School of Manual Arts and Economics that bids for the proposed new $250,000 group of State buildings to be erected on a beautiful site in this city will be opened on September 10. Miss Rich declares that promise is given that the new structures will be completed and ready for the summer term of next year.

Of her many attractive features Santa Barbara is especially proud of her State Normal School. During the past three years it has forged ahead so rapidly that it now equals in rank the best and oldest schools in the East. With the completion of the new group of buildings even more is expected of the school.

There are other manual training schools in California, but Santa Barbara's stands out prominently for many reasons, one of which is that its faculty is composed entirely of specialists and that it is the only school where the entrance requirements are so high that the pupil graduating may be judged on the work completed rather than on the basis of weeks or months applied.

This year a course has been mapped out for men students who will be taught industrial arts and manual arts, qualifying them to meet the various positions that are offered in technical schools, high schools, city, rural and intermediate schools, prevocational schools, upper grammar grades and in special departments of government schools and institutions.

Entrance prerequisites are based on certain special qualifications and fitness, and are made a matter for individual adjustment between the student and the governing board.

The manual arts course includes joinery for High School, the work for grammar grades, the applied arts, including craft metal work, printing, wood-carving, design, etc., and does not presuppose definite previous training in the use of tools. The courses are thoroughly practical and give special attention to the educational phase of the work in developing standards, appreciation, etc.

Industrial art emphasizes shop practice and shop methods with an underlying educational basis.

Joinery is a prerequisite for the industrial training, and practical experience is desirable. Turning, pattern-making, forging, machine-shop practice, sheet-metal work, etc., with special problems in mechanical drawing, give a wide range for individual development.

All students have practice teaching in regular public school classes and opportunity to elect, when time permits, and to observe any of the many courses offered for men and for women.

The men who will attend the Santa Barbara Normal will get training and education which, it is declared, they could not obtain in any State training school except in a branch school in Kansas and one in Massachusetts, this statement, of course, not applying to colleges or universities. These advantages are given without any tuition.

One of the other significant features of the Santa Barbara Normal School is that no student is accepted who does not give proof that he or she intends to use the knowledge in teaching. Anyone desiring to acquire the education in this school just for personal good is not accepted.

VALLEY ACTIVITIES.

C. E. Shade of Tacoma, Wash., has purchased, through the Janss Investment Company, five acres near the Owensmouth speedway and adjacent to the little town of Marion, in the Van Nuys-Lankershim lands of the San Fernando Valley. The consideration is given at $3000. E. S. Engeste of Ontario has purchased five acres near Marion for $2875, and will shortly build a home. F. N. Unger, formerly of Texas, has bought five acres in the same vicinity. Unger will raise poultry on his property.

ANOTHER SPURT IN BUILDING.

FALL ACTIVITY CERTAIN IN VALLEY TOWN.

Permits Issued for Several Substantial Improvements—General Realty Market Keeps Pace With Construction — Citizens Boosting for Railway Line.

GLENDALE, Sept. 7.—Another spurt in building is being experienced by Glendale. The activity is general, no section having the advantage. Indications are that as the fall season advances the building will become more brisk.

Albert G. Hesse has the contract to build a two-story sixteen-room frame flat building at No. 3847 Adair street, for L. M. Appleby. The building will contain four suites of housekeeping rooms of four rooms each and will cost about $4800. A seven-room Swiss chalet bungalow has been started at corner of Central avenue and Hawthorne street for John H. and Stella M. Orth. J. M. Ward will build a seven-room bungalow at the corner of Second and Jackson streets. G. J. Stanton has taken out a permit for a two-story business building to be erected at Chestnut street and Brand boulevard. R. P. Foss will chalet bungalow of five rooms. Chalet bungalow of five rooms.

The Commonwealth Home Builders of Los Angeles have taken out permits for eight Swiss chalet bungalows to be built on Myrtle and Alexander streets near Pennington. Work has been started on these improvements.

The First National Bank of this city will begin at once the erection of a two-story bank building at the southeast corner of Brand boulevard and Broadway, upon a lot which the bank purchased several days ago from T. A. Wright. The building will be 26x100 feet and will face on Broadway. It will be entirely of brick, with enamel brick front and will contain a fully equipped modern safety deposit vault. The directors of the bank are organizing a savings bank to occupy the National bank's location at No. 340 Brand boulevard. The latter bank's capital is $50,000, while the savings bank's capital will be $25,000.

T. A. Wright, owner of fifty feet east on Broadway from the piece just sold by him, will build in conjunction with the bank, his building, also to be two stories and entirely of brick. The main floor will be divided into two storerooms, with apartments above. The price paid for the lot was about $10,000, and the price of the combined buildings will be at least $25,000.

William G. Hagan of Los Angeles has started foundations for an apartment-house building on the east side of Central avenue, just north of Dryden street. The building, which faces west, will be strictly modern, containing four flats, and will cost about $10,000.

The Misses Kent of Los Angeles, one a teacher in the Polytechnic High School, the other an instructor of Spanish in the Y.M.C.A., have started the erection of a residence on Central avenue south of Dryden street to cost $2500.

Marshal Tilden has sold his property on Louise street, facing west, between Stocker and Randolph, comprising a lot 166x200 feet and a seven-room house, to Mrs. Ada Tillotson of Los Angeles, for a stated consideration of $5500. C. M. Walton has sold to William Allen for $3000 a bungalow of six rooms at No. 1016 Central avenue. Allen, who has large ranching interests in the San Fernando Valley, is now moving into his new home.

In a recent interview with Paul Shoup of the Pacific Electric Company, a committee from the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, composed of R. A. Blackburn, chairman; R. E. Chase, H. C. Tupper, J. P. Shropshire, T. W. Watson, J. A. Eppinger and Frank Zerr, were definitely informed that if the residents of the east side of Glendale would furnish the railway company a free right-o-way, no bonus being asked, the company would run a line branching from the present line at Tropico and running through the eastern part of Tropico and up to Broadway, Glendale, thence along Broadway to Glendale avenue and up Glendale avenue to the city's northern limits. The committee met this week and mapped out a plan of action toward the securing of the right-of-way, which work will start at once.

UNIQUE STRUCTURE BEGUN.

Beautiful New Lodge Home of Fresno Woodmen Under Way. Result of Successful Ventures.

FRESNO, Sept. 7.—Work on the home for Manzanita Camp, No. 160, Woodmen of the World, has been started, and the new $40,00 structure will be completed about the first of the year. The excavation has been finishel and the contract was let this week. The home for the Woodmen marks a new era in fraternal buildings for this city. The Woodmen building will be located near the corner of K and Tuolumne streets, and next door to the Parlor Lecture Club.

The new fraternal home will be three stories high and will have a frontage of seventy-two feet on Tuolumne street and 150 feet on K street. The two upper floors will be used for the lodge rooms and the lower floor will be cut into six large storerooms, all of which have already been rented.

The lodge room will contain colonnades of trees carried out in cement.

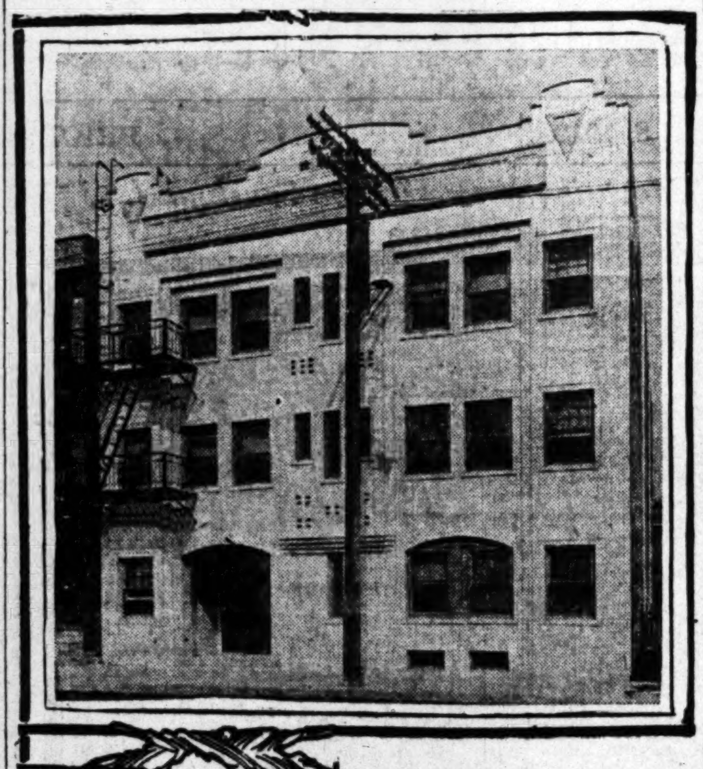
On special occasions partitions can be raised behind the trees, giving a seating capacity of 700. The cement "forest" will have a twenty-four-foot ceiling. The second floor will contain club rooms and smoking rooms.

The third will be a mezzanine floor and will face onto the lodgeroom. The banquet hall will be on this floor. There will be a roof garden on which will be open-air banquet rooms and a dance floor. At one end will be a buffet kitchen.

The building will have a steel frame and will be made of pressed brick from Livermore. The bricks will be of several different shades to give a tapestry effect and will be laid in Flemish bond.

The erection of the Woodmen home comes as the realization of a dream of the oldest members of Manzanita Camp when years ago they purchased several lots on Tulare street, near the new Rowell-Chandler building. These lots were sold about a year ago at a good advance, netting the camp enough money to purchase the property on K street and leaving enough to start the erection of its new home.

Attractive East Side Hostelry.



Hotel Glacier, No. 523 Ruth Avenue.

Fifty-room building planned by Noonan & Kysor for Mrs. H. E. Little.

SEEK STRIKING EFFECT.

Believing that the advantageous location will enable them to attract widespread attention by erecting a building of distinctive design, the officers of "Home Builders" will endeavor to combine striking architectural effect with substantial construction in preparing the plans for the skyscraper which will be built at the southeast corner of Spring and Eighth streets.

"The building will be visible a distance of several blocks each way," said Joy A. Winans, president of the company yesterday, "and we believe that it will attract much attention if there are distinctive features about the architectural design. It also will make it easy for the public to remember the location of our business. Tentative plans for the building are being prepared now."

Active building operations will not begin before next spring on account of leases on present property. Preparatory work will thus be well in hand, and it is expected to make a "speed record" in the erection of this class and size of structure.

LIKES SOUTHLAND.

J. B. Smyth, a Detroit capitalist, has renounced his home city to become a resident of Los Angeles. He has purchased for $15,000 cash a large residence near Gramercy place and Wilshire boulevard, through Ford and Allee, managers of the house and lot department of the Janss Investment Company.

OPENS OFFICES.

W. T. McKee, formerly with the Wright & Callender Company and later associated with W. Ross Campbell & Co., has leased offices at Nos. 409-410 Title Insurance, where he will go into a general real estate business for himself. He will specialize in business holdings and in properties owned by himself and associates.

SELLS HARVARD HOME.

The A. E. Halsey Company reports the sale of a twelve-room house at No. 512 Harvard boulevard for James A. Rogers to William F. Staunton for $18,500. The lot is 60x150 feet in size. Staunton will make the place his home.

FINE IMPROVEMENT.

One of the finest of the new east-of-Main improvements is a fifty-room hotel recently completed for Mrs. H. E. Little at No. 523 Ruth avenue. The structure, which was planned by Frederick Noonan and Charles H. Kysor, associated architects, is three stories in height and of substantial brick construction. The front is handsomely faced with pressed brick, with ornamental terra-cotta trim. The place is thoroughly modern in appointment. The property was recently leased to Mrs. W. Distall through the agency of W. H. Taft & Co.

The seats of the Auditorium are handsomely upholstered.

The frontage of the Academic building is sixty feet. The building itself, besides its auditorium, further contains on its second floor a music hall. The seating capacity of the music hall is one hundred and ten.

The offices of the principal, vice-principal and teachers are on the first floor of the Academic building, while the offices of the Board of Education, occupy an imposing sweep of rooms on the second floor.

"MANUAL ARTS AND COMMERCE" AND SCIENCE, HOUSEHOLD AND FINE ARTS."

The "Manual Arts and Commerce" building, occupying a space of 182 feet by 67 feet, will be devoted to the studies that its name implies. Its first floor is devoted to a foundry, a forge, machine shops, rooms and appliances for cabinet making and practical physics, provisions for milling, a stockroom, dry kiln, finishing-room, fuming-room, instructor's room and two laboratories.

In the basement will be located the wood turning and pattern making shop. On the second floor of this building will be found the commercial department, with its mechanical drawing, applied arts and exhibit room. Such distinctive features as automobile repairing, plumbing and electrical wiring will be taught as a part of the course in practical physics.

The "Science, Household and Fine Arts" building, irregular in shape, occupies a space of 96 feet by 62 feet. On it first floor are two lecture rooms and laboratories for chemistry, physics, biology, botany, physical geography, together with apparatus and dark rooms and instructors' rooms.

The second floor is devoted to the department of household and fine arts, including cooking, general sewing, dressmaking, millinery, housekeeping, laundry, free hand drawing, designs and water color.

One of the striking features of this splendid school, that puts it in a class by itself, is its unusual health advantages. It not only is provided with two immense open air study halls, open on three sides, while protected on the fourth; but all of the windows are so arranged that a perfect circulation of air may be had at all times.

The Academic building is to be heated by warm air carried throughout by a perfected fan system, while the other two buildings will be heated by water. A rest room for the girls is another unique, extremely important feature of this building. This room is to be provided with every possible facility for the perfect care of its occupants in practically any emergency.

This superb school to be made of tapestry brick, concrete and tile is just one of the many details of equipments of Santa Monica, that marks for her in the next few months and years a career absolutely without precedent in her present position as the perfection of health and pleasure resorts and beach cities throughout the world.

Rummaging through his pockets the official said offering the questioner a piece of paper. "Anyway—here's a bill of fare for yesterday. Everything was served to the boys. If it had not been we should soon have gotten to know about it."

Breakfast—"Germea," fresh milk; fried ham, scrambled eggs; hot cakes, "Makakake" flour; hot coffee, "Newmark's Pure;" fish (supplied by camp anglers;) toast, Bradford's bread and Santa Ana butter.

Dinner—Soup, pure of tomato, "Bis Bis;" relish, cold slaw, dressed lettuce; entree, baked barricuda with drawn butter sauce, baked macaroni with cheese, "Calmaco;" vegetables, mashed potatoes, stewed tomatoes and carrots; dessert, baked curent pudding with lemon sauce; apricot pie, "Sperry's Flour," Bradford's bread and Santa Ana butter; ice cream, lemonade, Newmark's iced tea; assorted jam and jelly, "Tropical Preserving Company."

Supper—Cold roast beef, Stetson's pork and beans, boiled rice, baked potatoes, potato salad, assorted cakes made from "Sperry's Flour;" cocoa, "Bishops;" mince pie, Tropical Preserving Company's "Mince Meat;" Bradford's bread and Santa Ana butter.

"The aggregate weight of foodstuffs which have been shipped from the mainland to supply the Times Camp during the thirteen weeks of its existance could not be hauled on two regular flat cars. Daily a fresh supply of vegetables have been brought from the regular merchants of Avalon. Our aim has been to see that each boy had plenty to eat, plenty of amusement and left the camp with many real true things to talk about. It is probably the most unique plan ever adopted by an American newspaper. The entire outing could not be purchased for less than $15 per boy for a four day's stay, nevertheless The Times feels amply repaid for the enthusiasm which has been displayed by parents and outside visitors to the Camp."

The outdoor life, sleeping and eating outdoors, is wonderfully beneficial. The climate of Catalina is so mild, that even the most delicate can live outdoors the year round. To encourage ideas of economy amongst the boys, a savings bank was maintained by the official of the camp. During the third week of August nearly $300 were on deposit at one time. Amounts of 5 cents to $1 could be drawn each day. When a depositor desired to withdraw more than $1, friendly advice was given him if his intention was to spend his money foolishly. Eiler's player-piano situated in the music tent, a bountiful supply of good reading matter, a cup of Bishop's cocoa and a few "Bis Bis" have proved themselves adequate "consolers" for the tired and happy youngsters before retiring each night. Never once has the services of a physician been necessary. Mrs. Galloway, a graduate nurse, was always in attendance to apply soothing lotions for sunburned shoulders and bandage other minor bruises of the youngsters, caused by ragged rocks, cactus or trees.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER.

California Was the First to Utilize Water Power With Long Transmission Lines and High Voltage.

[Rollins Magazine:] In California occurred the first development of generating electricity by water power and transmitting the electricity long distances. From small plants sending the power a few miles at a relatively low voltage, there occurred in quick succession the building of larger and larger plants with longer transmission lines and higher voltages.

The art has spread all over the world, but the development in California has kept abreast of progress elsewhere, and some of the largest and best equipped plants are found in that State. Hence, according to the Rollins Magazine, to write the history of the development of hydro-electric generation and transmission of power in California is to write practically its entire history from infancy to the present advanced state.

At the time when the electric development commenced, the vast oil fields of the State had not been discovered and California was without fuel. Coal in any considerable quantities has never been discovered and that which was used was imported at a high cost. The necessity was felt for a cheap source of power.

California was settled by a race of giants—the gold miners of '49 and the '50's. In the search for gold there were developed by the miners the ditches and flumes, the riveted iron and steel pipe lines, the rock fill dams, the hydraulic giant and lastly the impulse water wheels. Go where you will among the Sierra Nevadas of Central California, you will find the ditches of the miners, most of them now unused.

On the walls of cliffs hundreds of feet above the canyon still can be seen the rusty iron brackets of some long abandoned flume with possibly a rotting timber hanging here and there—mute testimony to the daring and energy of the men of the golden era, who never turned back in the face of any physical difficulty.

The formation of the Sierra Nevadas may be given as another reason for the beginning and progress of hydro-electric development. The mountains range from a summit elevation of about 8000 feet in the northern to over 14,000 feet in the southern part of the State. Geologically, they are of recent formation.

The rain and snow fall in the mountain ranges from twenty inches to over one hundred inches. In some places the snowfall is over thirty feet and it remains well into the late summer. The result is that numerous rivers flow down the slopes of the mountains into the two collecting rivers, the Sacramento and the San Joaquin.

These branch rivers have cut deep canyons into the relatively soft lava cover from 1000 feet to 3000 feet average depth. The canyon of the Tuolumne River is at one place over 4000 feet deep and less than two miles wide at the top. The descent of the rivers is swift, ranging from 100 to 150 feet fall a mile. This means a torrent of water dropping in successive falls and cascades.

Last but not least is the presence at the base of the mountains of great valleys such as that of the Los Angeles River in the south and of the San Joaquin and Sacramento Rivers in the north. Numerous prosperous cities lie in these fertile valleys, and on the near-by seacoast are two of the large cities of the country, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Such was the situation. High mountains with heavy precipitation at high altitudes offered the power. The quick drop of the rivers rendered economical development possible. The gold miners of a former time had shown what it was possible to do in the way of controlling and utilizing the force of water. The absence of cheap fuel created a demand for some other source of power and oil had not been found. The population of the State was rapidly increasing with a consequently rapid increase in demand. Under these conditions and demand it seemed that the response was immediate. Starting with a small plant near Redlands, the possibilities became apparent to far-seeing men and the development has gone on rapidly from that time until the present.

WHAT IS WOOL?

It Can Be Obtained Not Only from Sheep and Goats but from the Flanks of Cows.

[Literary Digest:] If a cow has wool instead of hair, is it hair or wool? This sounds like the query, "If a cat had kittens in the oven, would they be kittens or biscuits?" In other words, are we to judge by the source or the characteristics in deciding whether wool is wool or something else? Questions of this kind sometimes involve large sums of money in this age of exact definition. The meanings of commonly-used words, with which mankind has been reasonably familiar for centuries, are being questioned, adjusted and revamped to suit new conditions. Most of these words have been used loosely, but the requirements of commercial law, especially in connection with the passage of all sorts of new statutes in regulation of trade, have necessitated the formulation of more exact meanings. The latest of these queries is that at the head of this article, which J. E. Lord, an English microscopic analyst, proceeds to discuss in Knowledge (London, June,) premising that the possibility of any doubt on the subject will doubtless "cause some mild surprize," or will even "be to many unthinkable." The writer goes on to say in part:

"There can be no doubt that wool, besides being one of the best-known and most widely-used fibers, was also one of the very first to be used by man to protect himself from the inclemency of the weather, following, indeed, very closely upon his first tentative, but unsatisfactory, essay in this direction. One's first thought is, very naturally, that wool is the hair of the sheep. This is, however, far from being the last word on the subject; for if we make the necessary inquiries we shall discover that commercially, at all events, the term wool is not solely confined to the product of the sheep. Hairs from several animals are described as being wool, no doubt from their having characteristics similar to those from the sheep. I need heer only mention that the hairs of several species of goat, such as the Alpaca, Angora and Kashmir, are invariably designated wool; as are also the hairs of the llama and camel. Indeed, there can be little doubt but that many animals would furnish hairs which most microscopists would characterize as wool.

This question is not merely of academic interest, as is shown by the following story told by Mr. Lord. Some time ago, an English manufacturer of felt submitted a sample for microscopical examination. He had contracted to supply to a German merchant a felt free from wool, as the tariff on all goods containing wool was prohibitive. On arrival at the German port it was examined by the revenue authorities and refused admittance except on the higher scale on the ground that it contained wool

"On examination, it was composed, according to my view, of cow's hair and jute, with a small percentage of flax and wool. A report was given to this effect, which, of course, was unsatisfactory, as one was desired certifying to the total absence of wool. Shortly afterward another sample was submitted, the materials of which had been mixed under the close personal supervision of the head of the firm, who gave me his word of honor that absolutely no wool had been used in the making of that particular sample of felt. Again wool was found, roughly to the extent of about 4 or 5 per cent. This was inexplicable, and I was assured that there must have been a mistake somewhere, and a delicate hint was given that it could hardly have occurred at their works. Separate samples of the materials used in its manufacture were then asked for, and in the cow's hair was found what was unhesitatingly pronounced to be wool, and it was suggested that this was probably the source of contamination and the explanation of the apparent discrepancy. I was assured, however, that no admixture of wool had taken place at their works, and that the considerably higher price of wool (at least four times the price of cow hair) was a sufficient guaranty for the honesty of the merchant from whom the cow hair had been purchased. . . . On thinking the matter over, I determined to procure hairs from different parts of the cow direct, with the satisfactory result that from various parts, but especially from the flank, I was both astonished and delighted to find that a considerable proportion of the hairs had all the characteris- own dictum, I sent off specimens of this wool-like cow's hair to several friends who are experienced microscopists, one of whom undertakes chemical and microscopical analyses for commercial men, and in every case it was unhesitatingly pronounced to be wool. I am not aware that the fact has been previously noted, and as the matter appears now to have some commercial as well as scientific interest, this record may be considered as not without some value. It is also gratifying to note that the German revenue authorities, on the result of this modest piece of research being submitted to them, have intimated that similar qualities of felt will now be admitted free, if accompanied by an affidavit to the effect that there has been no addition of sheep's wool. . . . It would appear from this that our German friends are now willing to ocnsider that wool-like hairs, if not from the sheep, are not wool, but they may readily be excused, I think, if the practise gets commoner, or if our manufacturers should utilize other animal hairs of a somewhat similar character, if, for revenue purposes at all events, they should revise their definition and insist that all wool-like hairs, from whatever source, are wool."

ANTI-EUGENIC.

I thought that I would marry, and I started with a will,
Upon the supposition that a Jack could find a Jill,
But nowadays the fashion is to take account of stock,
And courting of our fathers' sort has met a sorry shock.
The first I loved was Mary, and Mary
she loved me,
But up rose her old doctor, who said
it mustn't be,
For he recalled her grandpop, and swore that he had fits,
So on this ground he trampled our poetry to bits.
Thereupon I tried for Susan, since
Mary was no go,
And this time 'twas a lawyer who wouldn't have it so,
For in the county poorhouse were people of her name—
He wasn't sure that they were kin, but likely were the same.
Just so with Peg and Polly, likewise with Kate and Nan,
I seem to get no further than I was when I began.
I find that Jack and Billy are in the self-same fix—
The parson and the doctor hold the trumps and take the tricks.
I wonder how our forbears got along without this fuss,
Never dreaming their example'd seem deplorable to us.
I wish to goodness I'd been born before the microbe came,
Before each wriggling, squirming mote received a special name—
The glad unscientific days when people fell in love
And married in their ignorance of all set down above.
They seemed to come out well and strong, and fit to do their part—
I'm thinking that what science needs is just a little heart.

ONE PERMIT A DAY.

BUILDING RECORD WORTHY.

SOUTH PASADENA, Sept. 7.—Twenty-nine building permits were issued in the city of South Pasadena during the month of August, an average of one per day, the total amount representing a valuation of $28,948.

Although the record is not up to that of August of last year, when the permit for Huntington Hall was issued, it helps to swell the summer's average when added to the bumper record of the preceding month. The following are some of the larger permits issued during the month just closed:

S. F. Johnson, six-room dwelling at No. 1118 Stratford avenue, $2500; Edgar Brown, six-room dwelling in Valley View tract, $1900; Huntington Hall alterations, $1000; Arthur Babcock, nine-room residence, No. 1217 Stratford avenue, $3000; L. C. Christian, six-room dwelling, No. 624 Meridian avenue, $2500; Mrs. Pearl Nolan of Long Beach, six-room dwelling, No. 1720 Bank street, $2500; Arthur B. Wilbur, five-room dwelling, No. 867 Montrose avenue, $1800; A. C. Ahlswade, seven-room dwelling, No. 836 Stratford avenue, $3150, and H. E. Allen, eight-room dwelling, No. 617 Prospect avenue, $3600.

S. M. Packer of Cook, Sweet & Metcalf reports the sales for A. Ratcliffe to George W. Cook of Gardena of two lots, each 50x164 feet, on Lynden street, between Fremont and Fair Oaks avenue, improved with a seven-room, two-story house, the reported consideration being $4500. Cook transferred to Radcliff twenty-six acres of unimproved orange ranch property in Orange county, close to Garden Grove, at a consideration of $7000. The difference was adjusted.

THIRD AND MANHATTAN.

Three attractive dwellings of twelve rooms each have just been completed by John B. Althouse at Third street and Manhattan place. The places, one of which has already been sold, are on large and sightly lots and look to the east. The lower floor rooms of each house are finished in mahogany and quartered oak, the walls being decorated in imported tapestry. The upper rooms are in white enamel. Each place has a garage in architectural keeping with the house. The improvements constitute a noteworthy west-end development.

NEW INTEREST IN ALFALFA.

High Cost of Feed Encourages Prospective Buyers.

Los Angeles Company to Grow Hay for Market.

Porterville Scene of Great Realty Activity.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

PORTERVILLE, Sept. 7.—Due largely to the high prices which the alfalfa men of this district are securing for their feed this year, there is an added interest in the alfalfa lands to the west of this city, in the Poplar, Woodville and Tipton districts, and in all portions of the foothills dairy belt there have been transfers of land to Southern and other California investors who are glad of an opportunity to put their money into this sort of land at a price which is only a fraction of the ruling figure demanded from them in some other similar districts of this State.

H. O. Smith, who is associated in the business with Lucien J. Clarke, a Los Angeles attorney who is making his home in this district at the present time, and who operates under the corporate title of the H. O. Smith Investment Company, has secured control of an additional 320 acres of Tipton district alfalfa land and is developing water and levelling, preparatory to putting the entire property out to feed. Smith and his associates will make no attempt to raise dairy or other cattle and the hay will be sold at the ranch or baled for the city trade.

Some idea of the activity in the Tipton and Pixley alfalfa districts may be gained from the statement that there is now under cultivation in preparation for the coming year's sowing enough alfalfa land to make a ranch of 2500 acres. This has been largely purchased in small tracts by southern investors.

W. E. Premo, a Porterville business man, has added still further to his holdings of alfalfa lands by the purchase of a section and a half of dairy lands in the Pixley district, the property having been bought from several of the old-time grain ranchers of that district. The property is to be leveled and sown to alfalfa as soon as water can be developed.

W. H. Ellis and W. E. Ehrer of Pasadena have purchased forty acres of land in the Exeter foothills, and are preparing to make their future home in the Central California citrus district. The tract will be put out to oranges as soon as the necessary preliminary work can be completed.

PAYS RECORD PRICE.

O. L. Jordan, formerly of Whittier, has sold to Howard Mills of Iowa a tract of eighty acres of alfalfa land west of this city at a figure which establishes a new record for this class of property. Mills paid $400 per acre for his purchase. At this price the transfer is said to represent a clear profit to Jordan of $20,000 in just about three years. The land is all improved and Mills expects to make of it a fine stock ranch.

City property sales show some interesting items, as well. Mayor Tetrault has purchased from the Mills estate a seven-room cottage and seventeen lots at the southwestern city limits. He intends to improve with some cottages.

Earl Gardner, Deputy Chief of Police, has sold seven lots at the west end of Olive street in the southwest section to P. J. Callahan, a Westfield rancher. Callahan will put up a city home on two of the lots.

Robert Angus Mack has bought of H. D. Johnston, former agent of the Southern Pacific in this city an acre tract just outside the city limits on West Olive street. The tract is to be improved and will be set out to deciduous trees and grapes.

Clarence E. Nunemaker of Los Angeles has purchased from the Terra Bella Development Company, the Los Angeles corporation formed for the marketing of the Terra Bella property, a ten-acre tract of orange land near the townsite. Nunemaker is preparing to develop water and will level it for early planting.

O. C. Houghton, a Porterville business man, has purchased from Mrs. Leba Gibson four lots of the original townsite of Porterville, the deal including a modern bungalow. The consideration is reported to have been approximately $3500.

BUY RAW LANDS.

J. B. Garver, a business man of this city, has sold to a syndicate of Visalians, which is headed by Hugh McHail, a half-section of raw lands west of the Terra Bella citrus belt. The property is said to be exceptionally fine alfalfa land and exploration for water, which was made prior to the transfer, shows that an abundance is to be had cheaply enough for the economical production of alfalfa. The plans of McHail have not been announced, but it is stated that the property is to be improved, possibly for subdivision.

J. R. Hines from Southern California, has purchased from J. J. Doyle a ten-acre tract of deciduous lands in the old Reservation tract. Hines will improve the property.

As an indication of the probable fall season in the realty market, it is reported today by the dealers in city property that there is not a modern bungalow for rent within the city limits at any price. This condition of affairs is normal early in November, but coming at this early period in the fall, it indicates an unusually early activity, as regards the influx of new people.

BEAUTIFUL DWELLING.

A beautiful home of twelve rooms will be started during the coming week on Hobart boulevard between Twentieth and Twenty-first streets by John W. Kemp. The plans, which were prepared by Horatio Coggswell, call for a house with cement plaster exterior on the first story and shingles above. The garage is in architectural keeping. The dwelling will contain three baths finished in tile. The lower rooms will be finished in Juana Costa mahogany and oak, while those above will be in white enamel. The lot is one of the sightliest in the West Adams Heights section.

TO HEAD DEPARTMENT.

C. H. Cummings and G. G. McCombs, formerly with Althouse Bros. and lately with Robert Marsh & Co., have just associated themselves with the firm of Tatum-Winstanley Co., and will have charge of the house-and-lot department of that concern.

Privately Owned Railroads.

[Syracuse Post-Standard:] Public ownership of railways is not nearly as much of an epidemic abroad as some advocates of Socialism have imagined. Statistics published by the Archiv fur Eisenbahnwesen show that in Europe privately owned lines are about equal in mileage to the "socialized" railroads, that Brazil is the only country on this continent that has gone extensively into public ownership, and that in the world at large much less than a third of the total mileage is in the hands of governments.

Picturesque and significant is the further fact mentioned by "The Railway Age Gazette" that many railroads owned by the public are leased to private managers. There is an offset to this in private roads controlled by the public, but it proves that the flag of public ownership is not one of those things that are never pulled down and that can't come off.

With This Type of Fire-Proof Construction

The photograph above shows how the calamity pictured below could have been prevented.

The Aiken System of fireproof construction has been proven by the U. S. Government to be a success. Hundreds of thousands of dollars of buildings have been erected by this method at a lower cost than brick.

By this system the walls are moulded on a horizontal platform. Steel window and door frames are set in place. The reinforcements are laid on flat and the concrete tamped in solid. This eliminates the possibility of "void" spots or weak places in the wall. All ornamentations are moulded and finished flat. After twenty-four hours the wall is raised in one piece by patented screw-jacks. This system eliminates the cumbersome and expensive forms now used in concrete construction.

Concrete is the building material of the future for homes as well as skyscrapers. The Aiken System is the only system that can compare with brick or wood construction. It is far in advance of the old methods in speed of erection, safety and economy.

The Concrete Building & Investment Co. owns the exclusive rights to use this system of building in Southern California. Contracts are now on hand and being closed rapidly. To complete the financing of these contracts we are offering for public subscription 50,000 shares at par value, $1.00 per share.

This system of building will supplement all others. It's cheaper, safer and more profitable to builder and owner. The profits of this company will be large. Share these profits by securing some of this stock at the initial price of $1.00 per share. Write for particulars, or call between 11 and 1, or 4 and 5:30.

WORKING FORCE INCREASED.

Companies at Superior Seek to Open Ore Bodies.

Lone Star and Lead Hill Under Option.

Demand Springs Up for Outlying Claims.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Sept. 6.—Fifty more miners have just been put at work at Superior. The Magma Company has started a new three-compartment working shaft, to be sunk 100 feet of depth, tapping the wonderful ore body which has been thoroughly explored to about that level of the old workings. This mine [illegible] the richest copper ore now being [illegible] in the Southwest, in a well-defined ledge formation which [illegible] away into adjoining properties.

The operating company, a Lewisohn offshoot, seems to have made [illegible] decision thus far concerning the [illegible] or reduction of its ores, [illegible] of those brought to the surface [illegible] ordinary course of development [illegible] exploration. Of these ores a few [illegible] a week are being shipped [illegible] Florence with very rich returns. [illegible] the Magma is the well-known [illegible] mine, now under a working [illegible] by the Calumet and Arizona Company of Bisbee. The property is [illegible] by an incline shaft to about [illegible] feet of depth. The water with [illegible] it had become filled has been [illegible] out and the new operators [illegible] starting a couple of vertical [illegible] to give much better working [illegible], while a large force of miners [illegible] be put at work on the lower [illegible] in the hope of striking another [illegible] vein. Already exposed, however, are large bodies of pay ore, [illegible] for stoping.

The Calumet and Arizona Company [illegible] a two-year option upon the [illegible] Hill and Lone Star claims near [illegible] from Frank Schneider, for [illegible], upon four claims at $2400 [illegible] Thomas Enright and Charles H. [illegible], and upon several more claims [illegible] from John Sandal.

For several miles around Superior [illegible] whole country has outcroppings of [illegible] ore. Upon the basis of the [illegible] deep developments at the [illegible], a lively demand has sprung [illegible] for outlying claims and there is [illegible] prospect that at least a score [illegible] shafts will be started within the next sixty days on what now are mere prospects. One property especially well situated with respect to the Magma lode is that of the Queen Creek Copper Mining Company, which formerly held a $50,000 bond upon its now famous neighbor.

Along the Gila above Florence disaster has descended upon a couple of mining enterprises in which Los Angeles capital has had interest in the past. One is the Florence Smelting, Milling and Mining Company, whereof John H. McCabe of Los Angeles has been manager. At Price station is a lot of machinery and equipment, including a waterjacket furnace, engine and boiler, pumps, etc., unerected and under attachment for $690 on a judgment given for wages due Henry Zeuner, who has been watchman for months past.

A similar situation is that covering the Newberry Mining Company, which has property a few miles from Price. This property, machinery and buildings have been sold by the Sheriff on judgments secured for about $3000 by Goldman & Co. of Phoenix and by the watchman, R. C. Schofield.

SHATTERING ILLUSIONS.

An Iconoclast Has Now Exposed the Origin of the Maltese Cat and Says It May Be Irish.

[Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph:] In these utilitarian times the iconoclast is kept busy shattering illusions. He undoes the romance of history, proves Joan of Arc to have been a myth, demolishes the William Tell apple story and banishes the Washington cherry tree anecdote to the realm of light fiction. He drops into our schoolhouses and opens the eyes of the children to the appalling fact that Santa Claus is an imaginary being, and that Christmas gifts are mere commodities, bought and sold in a cold-blooded way. Show him a pet tradition and he is ready to demolish it on the instant.

Occasionally this disturber of the peace appears in an official character and it is just such an official appearance that calls forth the present commentary. An official iconoclast arises in the person of the Consul of the United States in the Island of Malta, who, without visible provocation, takes occasion to state that in Malta there is no such animal as a Maltese cat. The cat known in this country as Maltese may, he intimates, be Irish or Teutonic or Scandinavian, but has no right or title to a pedigree originating on the ground made illustrious by the Knights of St. John. Thus one more popular belief is dashed to the ground. The Maltese cat being so disposed of, it will be no surprise if the celebrated tail-less Manx cat should be the next to be branded as a pretender, evidence being produced to show that the cat without a tail does not exist in the realm of Hall Caine. The schoolmaster is abroad and the chances of checking his pernicious activity are not promising.

An English Bird Sanctuary.

[Country Side:] On the North Norfolk coast hitherto rare bird visitors have been more ruthlessly shot by collectors and their agents than perhaps anywhere else in the British Isles. Blakeney Point juts out into the North Sea, and seems to offer sanctuary to the weary, storm tossed travelers who have almost always been warmly welcomed with shotguns. One would tire of recounting the list of rarities in private collections of stuffed birds "secured" at Blakeney Point.

But there is good reason to hope that an end has come to this now. The land was put up at auction recently and was bought for the National Trust, with the object of maintaining it as a sanctuary of wild life. There will be great difficulty at first, no doubt, in stopping the collectors, who have been accustomed for many years to go to Blakeney at migration time in order to pick up rarities. But the National Trust can, we think, be relied upon to carry out its resolve to make the Point a place of safety for all wild life, both animal and vegetable.

NEW LINCOLN STONE.

Italy Will Send Another Tribute to the Memory of the Martyred President to Replace One Lost.

[Washington Star:] A dispatch from Rome says that all hope having now been lost, of finding the stone taken from the Agger of Servius Tullius in 1865, and destined as a memorial of Rome to Abraham Lincoln, Engineer Ferdinando Gerardi, one of the survivors of the committee of forty-seven years ago, has obtained from Signor Credaro, minister of public instruction, permission to take another similar stone to replace the one lost, and to be sent probably to Hardin county, Ky., for the museum of the great President.

Thomas J. O'Brien, United States Ambassador to Italy, has expressed his satisfaction at the renewal of Italy's tribute to the American patriot, and has been willing to take it upon himself, once the stone is ready, to have it sent to America in such a way that this time there will be no danger of its failing to reach its destination.

The stone will bear the same Latin inscription and the same date, June 20, 1865, originally carved on the stone intrusted to the British steamer Uhla, which, commanded by a Capt. Lincoln, sailed from Leghorn August 4, 1865, and was wrecked near Bermuda, losing all her cargo, together with the precious memento.

ACQUIRES FINE GROVE.

TREES TEN YEARS OLD.

AZUSA, Sept. 7.—W. C. Hendrick has purchased of R. B. Demmitt an orange grove situated on Azusa avenue, near the mouth of the San Gabriel Canyon. It is one of the choice groves of the region, containing 11.39 acres. Most of the trees are 10 years old, a few having been set out two years ago.

W. H. Kishbaugh is building a five-room bungalow on the ranch of W. C. Hendrick, south of town. It will be occupied by Hendrick's son and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hendrick.

Hillhurst Park

A Subdivision for Palatial Homes
Inside the City Limits

Hillhurst Park is the largest high-class residence subdivision in the city, comprising 355 acres, 7500x2500 ft., 1½ miles long, ½ mile wide.

Hillhurst Park has an equable climate, is high above the fog and frost, and surpasses all other subdivisions for beautiful and unique character of homesites offered.

Hillhurst Park is the city's only subdivision with 5 miles of exquisitely delightful scenic drives, commanding an unequaled view of city, valley, mountains and ocean.

Hillhurst Park has any number of handsome residence lots and plots, ranging from ½ acre to 5-acre parcels, with all the city conveniences, gas, electricity, water and telephones.

Hillhurst Park is situated along Los Feliz ave., 120 ft. wide, from 200 ft. wide Western avenue eastward past Vermont avenue, another 120 ft. boulevard. In Hillhurst Park these avenues are parked and planted to tropical trees and shrubs, which here grow freely out-of-doors.

Hillhurst Park adjoins residences which form the chief group of show-places Angelenos are proud of, and our subdivision is protected by building-restrictions varying from $10,000 to $25,000 in various parts of the Park. There can be no apartment-houses, no stores.

Hillhurst Park while catering exclusively to those who seek the very highest class restricted residence subdivision in the city, is quoted at prices which are generously low, especially when it is considered that the Park is only 17 minutes by auto from the business center.

Hillhurst Park is handsomely illustrated and excellently described in our booklet, which we shall be glad to send on request.

First Dividend

Our Directors will declare the first quarterly dividend upon our shares October 1st, payable October 15th.

Books close on Monday, September 30th, at midnight. All payments and subscriptions in, or mailed, before that hour, receive the dividend.

Shares advance to 27½ cents at the same time,—an increase of 12½ per cent.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA HOME BUILDERS

This announcement means a great deal to us. It is the tangible evidence of the success of the business policy laid down before this Company was actually put into operation.

No time has been given to making a small success, so that dividends might be paid during the first few months.

Instead, a solid foundation has been created, backed by plenty of capital, and with a first class organization.

Today we own sub-divisions in Los Angeles and San Diego and have enough building on our property to keep us busy for one year at the rate of one finished house every working day.

In a few months we have accomplished what has taken older companies several years and yet we have our entire future before us.

The price of our shares, instead of being raised to a prohibitive figure, has been purposely kept down.

You will find no other home-building company that has over three thousand shareholders, and more than four hundred thousand dollars' subscribed capital, in which you can buy shares at twenty-five cents.

The entire speculative value of our shares has been saved for our own, real, genuine shareholders. You will appreciate what this means when the price is double the present figure.

Our plan has been to distribute our shares in small amounts, among the steady, reliable, non-speculative investors.

We want the people who do not speculate but who put by a little money every year and who are loyal to their investments.

We only advanced prices when compelled to, to prevent the entire issue from being sold before we got the distribution we wanted.

As a result, only 16 shareholders out of over 3300 have found themselves pressed for money and had to call on us to take their shares off their hands. Our strength is in our shareholders,—in ourselves.

You understand from this what we meant and what we have accomplished by getting our shares distributed in a certain way. We have avoided the speculator and have gathered around us the solid and substantial, who consider carefully before they make their selection and then stay with their decision.

Less than 20% of our authorized capital remains unsold.

These 3300 shareholders have taken over 80%, or more than $400,000.

These are real subscriptions, commencing with the $30,000 subscribed by the original 22, who started this business.

In the opinion of our Directors, we will average among ourselves at least $100 each of new cash capital every year, that will go into this Company.

This means $300,000 annually for new investments in real estate and building.

$300,000 new cash, annually, in the hands of one management, is far better than one million dollars distributed among 3000 different people.

You know what can be done with $300,000 actual cash in the way of making profits out of real estate and building in this section.

You know, too, that it means the gradual accumulation of income property that will pay a fine return on the Company shares, regardless of new development operations.

These are the concrete reasons why this home-building company is the strongest young institution of its kind in Southern California.

Our shares bought at twenty-five cents, will show a profit of 12½% with the advance to 27½ cents. Add to these profits, the 2½% cash dividend.

It means cash dividends of TEN PER CENT, paid in amounts of TWO AND ONE-HALF PER CENT EVERY THREE MONTHS.

Whatever you pay in is earning at the rate of 10 per cent, whether you pay in full or on the monthly payment plan.

The dividends will be distributed quarterly on partial payments the same as on fully paid shares.

These will be figured the same as if deposited in a savings bank that paid 10% interest on deposits.

The more money this Company has working, the greater its earnings, the greater its dividends, the greater your share, and the greater its future.

Start with 100 shares, paying $1.25 monthly. Then grow with us and share the profits.

Use the coupon for information. It is easier and time is short. Or phone.

WILL DREDGE FOR LOST GOLD.

Believe Precious Metal Lies in Carson River Bed.

Large Quantities Dumped There by Old Mills.

Los Angeles Capitalists to Seek Its Recovery.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

SACRAMENTO (Cal.) Sept. 5.—Los Angeles capitalists have acquired control of the Carson River channel, below the famous old Mexican and Morgan mill sites. The channel lies below the famous Comstock mines, and for a quarter century the tailings from the two big plants were discharged into the river.

Under the crude milling methods then in vogue large quantities of gold and silver were constantly lost, and it is believed the bed of the Carson contain large quantities of the precious metals thus escaping the amalgamating plates and concentrating tables. The Angelenos have commenced the building of a dredge, and expect to begin operations within a few months. The boat has been especially designed to meet the local conditions and the promoters are confident the project will develop into one of the most remunerative dredging ventures ever launched on the Coast.

Throughout their long periods of service, the Morgan and Mexican plants treated immense quantities of ore from the Comstock Lode, with some of the richest quartz of the old bonanza days passing under the stamps. During the earlier era of activity only ore of highest quality was handled, the operators disregarding quartz that would now be considered almost high grade.

For twenty-five years the two mills, ranking among the most pretentious plants of their day, treated the rich Comstock ore, and although it was known that large percentages of gold and silver were escaping, it was deemed inexpedient to attempt a higher rate of recovery during the greater portion of this time. Consequently the rich tailings were permitted to run to waste. The remarkable success attending mining gravel in California, Montana and other fields with dredgers has encouraged the Angelenos to adopt this process for the recovery of the long-neglected values.

The Oustomah quartz mine at Nevada City has been taken under bond and option by the Klinker brothers of Los Angeles, and arrangements have been consummated for the operation of the property. A small crew has been set at work making repairs to the shaft, and the pumps will go into action within a few days. As soon as the lower workings are opened lateral work will commence, and the shaft will probably be sent deeper. The Angelenos have carefully examined the upper workings and appear pleased with conditions. The Oustomah was formerly one of the best producers in the district, but of late years has only been worked in a small way.

NEW SMELTER PLANNED.

The Afterthought Copper Company announces arrangements have been made for the immediate erection of a modern smelting plant at Ingot. Orders are being placed for equipment, and the company expects to enter upon an active production period early in 1913. It has evolved a new patented process and is confident the zinc and copper values will be recovered readily. Experiments have progressed for several months, and the results led to the decision to erect a large plant. The Afterthought ore carries large percentages of zinc-blende, a metal that in the past militated against satisfactory copper production.

In former years the company devoted attention almost entirely to the production of copper, with the zinc attracting scant attention. In fact, the latter was considered a particularly detrimental factor. The recent demand for the metal, together with the advancing price, has converted the hitherto objectionable zinc into a valuable asset and in the future plans of the Afterthought zinc will claim as much attention as copper.

The company recently acquired the Terry railroad from Anderson to Bella Vista and will extend it from the latter point to Ingot. With the culmination of the outlined work the company expects to become a heavy producer. Indiana, Arkansas and Southern California people are interested. S. E. Bretherton is manager.

MAY PROVE PROMISING SECTION

The Modoc Mines Company has decided to sink to a depth of 500 feet, and active work will commence next week. The shaft is now down seventy-five feet with three feet of milling ore in evidence. Tests indicate this ore will net the company $10 per ton. The work at the Big Four and Ft. Bidwell Consolidated properties shows excellent deposits at depths of 100 to 200 feet, with the veins indicating persistence to depth.

The work outlined by the Modoc Mines Company is expected to exercise a wide influence on the district, as it will distinctly prove one of the most promising sections of the field. The company is controlled by William Wrigley, Jr., and associates of Chicago. J. H. Patrick, representing Wrigley, has arrived at High Grade to outline the future work of the company.

The Secombe & Jones mines, near Placerville, have passed under the control of the Atwood Mines Company, composed of Southern California people. A cash payment has been made and active developments will start immediately. The properties have been opened to a fair extent and large bodies of milling ore disclosed. The new owners plan to go to depth and to prosecute extensive lateral work. A. W. Tennant of Los Angeles is manager.

Tennant and associates are also interested in the Martin mine, in the Grizzly Flat district. An examination of the reserves is under way and it is stated a stamp mill will be erected. This is one of the old mines that has yielded fair values in the past, and with vigorous management is expected to develop into a good producer. The same interests also control other properties in El Dorado and adjoining counties.

SENSATIONAL GOLD STRIKE.

One of the richest gold strikes ever made in Trinity county is reported from the Blue Jay mine, in the Coffee Creek district. At grass roots the owners, Hildreth and Connelly, uncovered a black seam two feet wide which shows gold throughout. The first pan of quartz yielded five pounds of gold ore and the owners are wildly elated. Thus far the ore exposed and extracted is valued at $15,000.

The men had worked on the claim for several months and had about abandoned hope. Connelly was particularly disgusted, and but for his partner would have left before the strike was made. The rich stuff was first found below a huge boulder. The discovery has caused intense excitement in the vicinity of Carrville, and claims are being staked for extensive distances around the strike.

The shaft of the Plymouth Consolidated mine has been unwatered to below the 1200-foot point, and it is expected the 1650-foot level will soon be rendered available. As soon as this point has been reached extensive lateral work will be undertaken to demonstrate the extent and value of the reserves in the old workings. Should conditions prove satisfactory the shaft will be deepened.

This property is one of the most famous of early-day Mother Lode producers and yielded fortunes to pioneer operators. About two years ago it was taken under bond and option by British capitalists, identified with Bewick, Moreing & Co., the noted London mining syndicate.

Indianapolis capitalists, headed by John C. Wright, the Indiana magnate, are arranging for the resumption of activities at the Grand Victory quartz property, near Placerville. The property has laid idle twelve years, but formerly ranked among the premier producers of El Dorado county. During the height of its activity sixty stamps dropped constantly. It is said extensive ore reserves still remain in the old workings, and that with modern methods the mine should again become a profitable one. The ore is low grade, but is free milling. The Indiana people are also heavily interested in Mexican properties. It is probable George M. Clark will be placed in charge of the Grand Victory, according to present plans.

WILL OPEN BIG COPPER FIELDS.

Riverside Mountains Rich in Red Metal.

Deposits Are Practically Unworked.

Company With Large Capital to Develop Them.

Within five years Southern California will have one of the largest developed copper fields the world has ever known, is the prediction made by mining men familiar with the mineral zone in the Riverside Mountains, now situated about six miles from the little town of Calzona on the new Parker "cut-off" of the Santa Fe.

Although the richness of this field has long been known, lack of transportation facilities has held back its development, and only in scattered sections have pay claims been worked and then only for the gold values, while great bodies of copper ore have remained untouched.

After an exhaustive examination — extending over two years — by skilled mining engineers and metallurgists who have in the past been identified with the development of the great copper sections of Montana, Utah, Nevada and Old Mexico, billions of tons of copper ore running 4 to 5 per cent., or from eighty to 100 pounds to the ton, have been uncovered or located, and an area one and a half by four and a half miles, including sixty-five claims, has been acquired by a group of Los Angeles and Pasadena capitalists, who have recently organized the Republic Smelting Corporation with a capitalization of $7,500,000, and will at once begin the erection of a million-dollar smelter with a capacity of 1000 tons daily and a value of output in excess of $20,000.

"This new corporation is in no sense a speculative proposition asking for small subscriptions from the general public," said F. C. Fenner, president of the Republic Smelting Corporation, "but is financed for its initial undertakings by the incorporators, and the stock that will be for sale will be oversubscribed within ninety days by European capitalists who are present or previous investors in properties developed by members of our corporation.

"We have gone ahead and secured these large holdings because we know the immense possibilities contained in the ores if properly worked. In the past twenty years numerous claims have been worked in this locality for their gold values only, and some good money has been made. In fact, there are three large working mines on the property now—the Corem Mining and Reduction Company, the Steece & Martin Co. and the Calzona Copper Company—all of which have been absorbed by our corporation.

"The building of our smelter will open up this great mining district, for we will take care of the ores of independent operators as well as our own, and within a year a great mining camp will build up on the property. But the greatest benefit, from a population standpoint, will come to Calzona, which is already a thriving town, and with the development of the several irrigation systems now being installed the agricultural lands of the region will be brought into productiveness. But there must be an outlet and a base of supplies. This immense patronage will naturally come to Los Angeles, and the products of our smelter will furnish many cargoes for the vessels that come into San Pedro harbor."

Contracts will be let within the next thirty days for the erection of the smelter and administration offices, but the home office of the corporation will be in the Story building, Los Angeles.

The officers of the Republic Smelting Corporation are: F. C. Fenner, president; W. J. Robinson, treasurer; Relly G. Munn, secretary; J. A. Chestnut, general manager; W. W. Wishon, consulting engineer; S. J. Gormly, metallurgist; A. L. Engledow, superintendent, and James E. Kelby, head of the legal department.

DEVELOPING RICH COAL BEDS.

Possibility at Last Becomes Accomplished Fact.

Deposits Valuable Because of Coking Qualities.

Will Benefit Southern Nevada Mining Sections.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

GOLDFIELD (Nev.) Sept. 6.—The development of commercial deposits of coal in southern Nevada, long regarded as a possibility that was extremely remote, has apparently become an accomplished fact, and the product of coal fields situated near Coaldale is now being successfully used in several of the mining camps of this section. This is a semi-bituminous coal and is said to be well suited for the most ordinary purposes of heating and domestic use. Perhaps the most important feature in connection with the discovery and development of these deposits is the fact that the coal already exposed is of a fair coking quality.

In the event of this district opening a coking product in large volume, no adequate appraisement can be made of its importance and the value to the mining districts of southern Nevada. These districts contain, and have exposed, vast quantities of smelting ore, the profitable treatment of which has been prevented by the high cost of smelter fuel and the prohibitive rates of transportation to distant smelter points. With an available supply of coal and coke, many mines that are now idle could be made to pay large profits.

The coal fields in question are situated in the northern part of Esmeralda county, near the main line of the Tonopah and Goldfield Railroad, and were discovered in the early 80's by William Groezinger, a German prospector who became widely known in the mining camps of this section as "Jackass Bill." Groezinger was working under a grub-stake agreement for W. A. Ingalls, then a merchant at the old camp of Candelaria and now Sheriff of Esmeralda county. Other entries were made subsequently by William Wilson and Clay Peters, who, together with Ingalls and Groezinger, secured United States patents to a large area of the ground and performed a considerable amount of development work.

L. K. Koontz of Goldfield, with Pittsburgh, Pa., associates, later acquired these titles and these men have expended about $50,000 in developing the property and have succeeded in exposing a limited area of semi-bituminous coal, several carloads of which have been distributed among the adjacent mining camps and used with good success for domestic purposes. The work thus far performed has demonstrated the presence on the ground of five separate strata, but the development has been confined chiefly to two of these, which have been opened sufficiently to show from four to six feet of commercial coal and a consistent improvement in quality as depth and pressure increase.

COKING QUALITY OF COAL.

Development has shown that all of these veins dip to the east and as a rule, particularly in the deeper workings, they are between uniform walls that are well defined. The coal is shown by numerous laboratory tests to be comparatively free from an excess of ash and sulphur, and it is said that the coking quality of the product from one of the veins developed has been demonstrated to the satisfaction of the owners of the property. Mr. Koontz states that a flattering offer has been made recently for this property by responsible persons, but the owners are not disposed to part with their holdings.

The property is now owned by the Nevada Coal Company, headed by L. K. Koontz of Goldfield and P. V. Rovnianek of Pittsburgh, and a portion of the ground is under lease to the Nevada Coal and Fuel Company on a royalty basis. The property can be reached by an easily-constructed spur from the main line of the T. and G. Railroad, within a distance of a mile and a half. Koontz, who has a wide acquaintance with coal properties and coal mining, states that the veins are to some degree deceptive at their outcrop, both in volume and quality, as they have been subjected to disintegration and expansion by exposure, but almost invariably assume a normal condition at a depth of 100 feet or more. It is estimated that 50,000 tons of commercial coal has been exposed by superficial development of not more than 3000 feet, and that 10,000,000 tons would be a fair estimate of the contents of the entire property if the present showing is maintained with further development.

On Tuesday of this week the directors of the Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company met at Reno and declared the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share. This means a distribution of $1,067,744.40 on October 31, and brings the total paid by the Consolidated up to $23,840,819.90—the biggest dividend record of any gold mine in the world.

CONSOLIDATED REPORT.

The detailed report of the Consolidated for July has just been released. It shows:

During the month of July, 1912, the total production of the company was 31,907 tons, containing $474,955.84, or an average of $14.89 per ton, of which 29,000 tons were milled with an average extraction of 91.05 per cent., and 2907 tons were shipped of an average value of $16.42 per ton, the net recovery from all ore being $13.69 per ton. The total net realization to the company was $238,278.70, or $7.47 per ton.

Development work—2923 feet of development work was performed during the month of July, 1912.

Operating costs—The total cost of mining, development, transportation, milling, office and general expense was $6.41 per ton, distributed as follows:

Combination—The 402-G stope, 300 feet north of the shaft between the fifth and sixth levels, produced 399 tons of $30 ore, this being the deepest point in the mine at which ore has been found.

A new stope on the second level, eighty feet east of the 136 stope, pro-

"The City Among the Oranges"

Do you want to make some Easy Money?

Foolish Question No. 18,634½

You never heard of a man getting rich just simply out of his own business, without other investment. You may have heard of such a man, but if you investigated his career, in 199 cases out of every 201 you found LAND was at the real fountain-head of his wealth. Here's some land YOU can get rich on or by. Bloomington, "the City Among the Oranges," is beautifully located on both the Southern Pacific through line and the Crescent City Ry., also on street car line leading to Riverside, only 7 miles away. Bloomington, moreover, is at the crossroads of various good-roads systems, respectively toward Los Angeles, Riverside, Ontario, San Bernardino and Colton. The soil is simply great. The magnificent groves in full bearing, many 12 and 14 years old, testify to both ground and soil conditions. Bloomington is now shipping fruit to Honolulu and all parts of Europe. If interested in orange land, HERE is the spot. You can have 4 years time, and our prices of $450 and up for young groves are remarkable, considering what adjoining property is selling for. Town lots at Bloomington are an ideal purchase for either investment or homesite. Did you ask: Water? We cannot possibly use all we have, even in ten years to come.—Actually, land with more water than asked for. You get a share of the water stock free with every acre, and our water assets are sufficient to assure us $150 per share in the market for the stock alone. There wouldn't be a bit of this land for sale, but it has all been held for many years as an undivided estate. We have big lemon and orange packing houses, and important S. P. depot, school, church, oiled streets, domestic and irrigating water galore, electric light and power, telephones. Gas is now being installed. Wise men with a few dollars laid aside will get busy on this opportunity. It's one of those things you hear of once in a great while and rarely meet in such prime condition. Let us send you maps, etc.

CONSUMPTION OF SALT.

An Apparently Enormous Quantity Used by the World—Held as a Monopoly by Europeans.

[Dietetic and Hygienic Gazette:] If one were to ask a hundred housewives to name the indispensable articles for the culinary department there is little doubt that five score of them would put salt first in the list. It is regarded as absolutely essential to almost every edible that is placed on the table, fruit being the only exception, and even some kinds of fruit are supposed by some persons to be improved if slightly saline.

Whether the fondness for salt is natural or acquired is a question that has not been definitely answered, but in view of the fact that most of the herbivora crave it, we are justified in assuming that the liking of "humans" for it is inherent.

Although the salt production of several countries is reported with a close approximation to accuracy, it is impossible to tell how much is taken for personal use and how much is otherwise consumed. While it is easy for a family to keep a record of all the salt it uses directly, a considerable quantity is fed to cattle, which is also assigned to the family.

Thus it will happen that two families having an equal number of members will consume a very unequal quantity of salt. In the United States there were produced somewhat more than 4,000,000 short tons. This would allow more than eighty pounds to each individual, an amount that seems hardly credible. It is, however, so cheap that a great deal is wasted. Large quantities are also used in the arts in various forms.

In Europe the quantity of salt apportioned to each individual, outside of Russia, is reckoned at thirty pounds. But the various countries differ greatly in this respect, rather less than ten pounds being assigned to Spain, twenty-five pounds to England and forty to Germany. Where the price is high and the people poor it is sparingly used; where it is cheap and the standard of living relatively high a great deal is wasted.

The salt monopoly was perhaps the most oppressive form of taxation devised by government. It was levied on the assumption that it is indispensable and that the subject must have a certain amount of it and will buy it without regard to cost. This method of collecting revenue prevailed in almost all the countries of Europe until far along in the modern era, its object being to collect the largest amount of revenue without regard to the financial ability of the consumer.

Not only was the manufacture of the article a government monopoly, it also appointed inspectors, whose business it was to see that every subject purchased an amount arbitrarily apportioned, but that he did not sell any part of his allotment. Even those persons who lived on the seashore, where they could provide themselves with salt without expense, were forbidden to do so, and the coast was patroled to prevent them from obtaining the brine.

This monopoly was abolished in France, at least on paper, in 1790; in Prussia in 1816; in Saxony, a country that produces but little salt, not until 1840. At the present day there is still in some countries a sort of embargo or revenue tax on the manufacture of the article, and salt works are guarded like the distilleries in the United States. In Austria all salt wells and mines are the property of the government. England has levied no tax on salt since 1825; Belgium only since 1871.

Some countries still raise considerable revenue from salt if their situation is such that its manufacture cannot be carried on cheaply. The statistics of the Italian government for 1897-98 report that the largest item in the budget was derived from the revenue of the salt monopoly. Since then the price has been much reduced, yet only last year the government collected $17,000,000 from this item. Common salt costs in Italy 4 cents a pound at present. This is a very high price in a country where the laborer works ten or twelve

SOCIALISM MEANS ROBBERY.

[EDITORIAL.]

SOCIALISTS prate about destroying the wage system of "robbery" as they call it, but they never tell us how they are going to do it, nor do they tell us how they are going to really do anything except (as in the last civic election in Los Angeles) to carry the red flag of anarchy at the head of their processions and to speak of the glorious Stars and Stripes as that "ten-cent rag."

If the government owned all the means of production and distribution the wage system would have to go on, because there is no other way in which work could be carried on. No one being permitted to own capital and carry on industry, all would be compelled to work for the state, and the state could distribute products only through payment of wages. If the wage system is slavery now, it would be ten times worse under Socialism. Whether or not Socialism fixes upon us an equal wage or unequal wage, it could give us neither liberty nor justice.

Socialism would give no reward for the development of superior ability. Under Socialism no one could possibly have any incentive to thrift or economy. There would be no rewards for large accomplishment, nor punishment for poor or unproductive effort. The Socialist state could not discharge a workman.

The freight rates on the Socialist railways of Germany are just about double the rates in this country, says F. G. R. Gordon, and wages are less than half the rates paid in the United States. If the people of this country had had to pay the same rates for the transportation of freight as the Germans paid last year, our freight bill would have been $1,250,000,000 more, or a loss of over $4,000,000 a day for three hundred working days of the year. Suppose all industries were, under Socialism, to be run with such losses, how long would it take to starve the world? Twenty years, ten years, one year—no! not even six months. Socialism would destroy pauperism, they say; not so; on the contrary it would speedily make us all paupers.

Socialists have manufactured much discontent in this country (this is what Job Harriman was trading on in his fiasco of December 5, last, in this city) by preaching to the workers that they are robbed of 80 per cent. of what they produce. The monumental ignorance and malicious falsity of such a statement ought to be apparent to everyone, but it isn't. In order to arrive at such a statement the Socialists willfully ignore the cost of taxes, insurance, rent, expenses of selling the goods, the cost of machinery, cost of clerks, foremen and superintendents, the power to turn the machines, the plant itself, and, most important of all, the cost of materials.

If Socialists were to attempt to socialize the industries at this time they would discover the value of such property to be not less than seventy-five billions of dollars. How is the Socialist state to acquire this vast wealth? It must acquire it in one of two ways—by purchase or by confiscation. This talk about purchase is hypocritical. Already in this country (as frequently in England) a Socialist organ has declared confiscation the only way to the "co-operative commonwealth." These statements have not been disavowed and represent the real Socialism sentiment and principle. Therefore, as now held, Socialism in action would be and is nothing less than robbery—robbing as vile as the Socialist robbery of the French Revolution of 1789.

Confiscation means that all of us, 90,000,000 people, are to share alike in the grand division of $75,000,000,000 of stolen capial. The man who by his superior ability has produced a great invention or perfected a superior organization of some industry and thereby saved to society millions or even billions of dollars, must be placed on a level with the ignorant, the stupid, and even the vicious. The British minimum wage guarantee to coal miners is a long step towards the Socialist confiscation so strongly urged in that country, thanks to Socialist Lloyd George and the present weak semi-Socialist government there.

Land piracy is not one whit different from sea piracy, so far as robbery goes. Can any sane citizen imagine the American people will quietly submit to be robbed? Worse than this, the grand larceny is to go on indefinitely, for, mark you, the best and wisest of Socialist statesmen (Lloyd George, for instance) have failed to tell us how they are going to pay labor under Socialism.

Seeing the tremendous difficulty of fixing any sane or economical plan for the division of labor-created wealth, fixing the value of different kinds of labor and the value of each, and realizing that to pay different amounts to different workers and to arrive at anything approaching a just system of values is beyond their brains or power; they are fast coming to see that the only avenue of escape is to pay all alike. Hence the agitation for the "Minimum wage" which, by its lack of incentive to effort, would soon become the (really) "maximum" or universal wage, under Socialism. When Jack sees that Bob, even though doing less work than he easily could, is sure of a certain wage, then Jack will stop doing any more work than Bob, and the whole status of labor will go down, wages and all. In that way Socialism in action will destroy Socialism in theory, as it always has (the French Socialist revolution, various Socialist communes, etc., for instance.)

This Socialist leveling of wages (a union labor bad practice of today) would rob every superior man of his superior ability at the start, but it is most likely to cure itself shortly, because all workers (as above shown) would sooner or later degenerate to the level of the slowest and lowest.

If all men are paid alike, the better men being robbed, what will become of the wife and children? Will the Socialist state compel the single man to aid in supporting the children of the family man, robbing him for that purpose? If so, then all men will wish to remain single, and what then becomes of the family, the institution which has since civilization began, been the greatest single factor in the advance and progress of the world? Is this greatest and best institution of all our civilization to be destroyed? If you Socialists answer "yes," you strike at the very root of society; if you answer "no," you say in effect that your gigantic scheme of robbery will go on for ever and ever.

What about present evils? What about the unemployed? Investigation proves that 98 per cent. of all the poverty in this land is due to the foolishness or viciousness of the individual. The working classes of this country spend annually $1,700,000,000 for drink, picture shows, in the "red light district," and sending money home to Europe. Because the working class spends its wages so foolishly, you Socialists blame Morgan, Rockefeller and the rest. Much of their wealth has been gained, particularly in the first accumulations of earlier years, by saving and investing what you waste.

If only one-half the money spent foolishly had been expended for better food, clothing and shelter, and in nest-egg deposits in the savings banks, or to pay for homes, you would never hear anything about the unemployed, for every man who wanted work and could work would have work and its weekly pay envelope.

It is within the power of the individual, as a rule, to cure the evils that most affect him. He need not go over to wealth and wages destroying Socialism, with its destruction of liberty, its decrease of wealth production, its robber system and its economic and political slavery of us all.

Herbert Spencer, one of the best friends labor ever had, in his book, "The Coming Slavery," truly said: "All Socialism involves slavery." Not only that, Socialism means robbery, and inaction would be robbery of all classes, of employer and employed alike.

Labor's Unrest.

STRIKES ON AND OFF AND STRIKES COMING.

SIX collieries are idle at Llwynypia in the Rhondda Valley, Wales, owing to a curious wage dispute. A boy was killed and on August 24, when the men were paid, they received only one-third of their wages for the day the accident occurred, as work was stopped after the accident, says a special cable dispatch to the Sun of New York. The men claimed full pay for the day, saying they had never been "docked" under similar circumstances before. (The forced "minimum wage" was not in force "before.") Their representations to the mine owners were unavailing and 4000 men quit work and are still out.

Striking furriers in New York City are threatening and obstructing the police. Arrests, convictions and fines are many.

The culminating strike of the series which has crippled British business during the past two years is seriously threatened by officers of the merchant marine. The officers are well organized and are violently discontented. Inadequate salaries is the foremost count in the indictment against the companies. Masters of some of the largest passenger ships are paid no more than $2000 a year, and most of them have families ashore to maintain. It will be recalled that the White Star Line, owners of the unfortunate Titanic, recently paid a dividend of 60 per cent. on last year's business. There seems justice in this strike.

Strike rioting is serious along the waterfront in Buffalo, striking freight handlers attacking strikebreakers and police fighting both to stop the violence. Many arrests.

This is what Gompers & Co., principally, did with the $236,105 collected from union-labor's wages for the MacNamara murderers' defense fund:

Paid Clarence Darrow (no data of use)	$200,000
Paid Leo V. Rappaport of Indianapolis	11,000
Paid Henry Seyfried, Indianapolis	2,500
Other payments	14,411
Total payments	$227,911

What a fearful waste of union-labor's wages money. Nearly a quarter of a million dollars of earned wages money literally "burned up" and nothing to show for it except two self-confessed guilty men in the penitentiary, plus Clarence Darrow yawping about the "rights of the poor." "I am their defender" and all such rot—literal rot.

In Buffalo the waterfront strikebreakers are using violence towards each other, as well as fighting strikers. That's anarchy—revolutionary anarchy.

Voting is unanimous in favor of a strike of the railroad telegraphers on the Pennsylvania lines east of Pittsburgh. They want a uniform schedule and 10 per cent. more wages. Not less than 3000 men are directly involved. If the strike comes many thousands more workers will be indirectly affected.

A big strike has been on for weeks at Wilson's Bobbin Works, Garston, Liverpool, Eng., and rioting is serious because 700 people have remained at work. They have to be escorted to and from their employment by police. Street cars full of girls are being stoned and upset by mobs of 5000. In so many cases everywhere male and female strikers become brutes while on strike, influenced only by their unreasoning passions. That was so last year in Chicago, when male strikers beat girl workers, needy workers, almost to death in the streets. Also this year at Lawrence, Mass., where actual murder was committed, without protest from William D. Haywood, one of the strike leaders whom Clarence Darrow saved from the gallows in Idaho.

The Council of the London Chamber of Commerce has conveyed to the Board of Trade its opinion "that the direct intervention of the government in labor disputes where voluntary conciliation boards exist is most undesirable except in cases of national emergency."

Antwerp dock strikers attempted to burn the Finland of the Red Star Line, which carried the American Olympic team to Stockholm. This is the third attempt at arson since the Red Star dockers struck, two months ago. What cared these striking savages if the American athletes met their death by fire or by water to escape the fire? From strike violence to murder seems but a step.

Not satisfied with the award handed down by the Arbitration Committee, which considered their demands for a ten-hour day and time and a half for overtime, the telegraphers on the lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway are about to poll on the question of whether or not the committee's award is acceptable. If the men pronounce against the award, a strike may be called. Included in the award was a 10 per cent. increase to all telegraphers.

The strike of apprentice engineers against the deduction of insurance payments from their wages is rapidly spreading in the West of Scotland. Several thousands are now idle, principally from Glasgow works. Lively scenes took place yesterday during the usual parade of the lads. At one establishment the apprentices tried to gain admittance to induce others to leave, but they were repulsed with a fire hose. At Dalmuir a number of the strikers presented themselves at the gates and asked for a conference with the management. This was not only refused, but the lads were locked out, whereon they raised the cry, "Down with Lloyd George!" Another large party marched through the principal streets shouting and singing.

The United Kingdom is peculiarly susceptible to industrial disturbances, as the concentration of its population tends to a likeness of thought and prompt unity of action. Upon a territory of 120,892 square miles there is a population of about 45,217,000 people, being approximately 374 persons to the square mile, as compared with about thirty-one persons to the square mile in the United States. In 1910 of the working people of the United Kingdom 2,435,704 were members of labor unions. There were 581 strikes and lockouts, involving 385,085 persons, being a greater number than recorded for any previous year. Since then, however, there have been several far-reaching strikes, involving far greater numbers than in 1910, and affecting such basic industries as coal mining, shipping and railroad transportation. The immediate cause of the present unusual activity in seeking a solution for labor troubles is the very serious nature of the recent industrial disturbances, with nothing to indicate that any plan has been devised to prevent a recurrence of strikes at any time in any part of the country.

The German labor market was active throughout the year. The demand for labor increased steadily, and the average supply of labor in Dresden alone was only 123.6 for each 100 positions, as compared with 143.1 in 1910 and 160.8 in 1908. In the smaller towns the demand for labor was even stronger. In many cases wages were increased to meet the increased cost of living. Strikes were more numerous than in former years, 75,310 workers being out in 1911 from 1207 establishments in Saxony, as compared with 42,959 from 1715 establishments in 1910. The metal-working trades, chocolate and cocoa manufacturers, and the lithographic industry were the branches principally affected in the Dresden consular district. In the piano industry a strike at the busiest period of the year was averted only by making considerable concessions to the employees.

In the proposed street car (surface and elevated) in Chicago W. D. Mahon, international president of the Carmen's Union, is asked not to return to Chicago because he sensibly advises arbitration. The surface line employees overwhelmingly voted to reject the terms of settlement he had accepted. The vote was 6351 to 866 against him. With a Chicago winter coming on this seemingly socialist desired strike would be a grievous calamity to the strikers and the public generally, but the men seem determined on it. Violence and starvation, like in London recently, would inevitably follow the strike.

An Unexpected Use.

[Harper's Magazine:] The inexperienced district school teacher had exhausted all other expedients for the maintenance of discipline. Going out into the school yard she broke off a good-sized switch that was growing there and administered primitive punishment to Jimmy Kelley.

There were strange expressions of horrified amazement on the faces of the children, and when school was dismissed at noon they gathered in excited groups and talked in whispers. Finally the teacher's curiosity could stand it no longer. Calling Henry Thomas to her she demanded the [illegible] stammered, "that—that switch you licked Jimmy with—that was the tree we all set out last Arbor Day."

REPORTS ON WAGES AND CONDITIONS.

Timely Bulletins from All Parts of the World.

Why any man needing work and able and willing to work at any honest employment should be idle in Los Angeles today is hard to understand. A man may not be able to get just the kind of job he wants at first, but if he takes the next best, or what he can get, and keeps his eyes open, it will not be long before he gets a job more to his liking. At this writing the following jobs are with many others, publicly made known as being open in or near Los Angeles.

Kind of job.	Wages, per day.
Cook, fry	$2.00
Foreman carpenter, beach	4.00
Concrete form carpenters, three, beach	3.50
Concrete form carpenters, six, city	4.00

And so on, daily, weekly and monthly engagements, through a long, long list and all at good wages; such wages as are far better than the wages generally paid in other cities and adjoining localities, with work here practically all the year round. The appearance of the men and women in the Labor Day parade here last Monday showed prosperity among all classes of Los Angeles workers. No pinched cheeks and weak steps as one sees in labor parades in London, for instance, but all stepping out with the buoyancy of strength and hope. When labor lets itself alone, labor is prosperous and happy. Given discontent and strikes and all is weakness and despondency. Labor's present and future is in labor's own hands, no matter what its socialistic leaders or strike agitators say. The latter have all to gain and nothing to lose by strikes while labor has all to lose and nothing to gain. That's the point, the vital point, for labor to consider at all times.

Servants' Wages in Mexico.

Coachmen, withoutt board, a month	$12 to $20
Chauffeurs, without board, a month	$15 to $25
Errand man (mozo,) a month	$7.50 to $13
Gardeners, without board, a day	37c to 50c

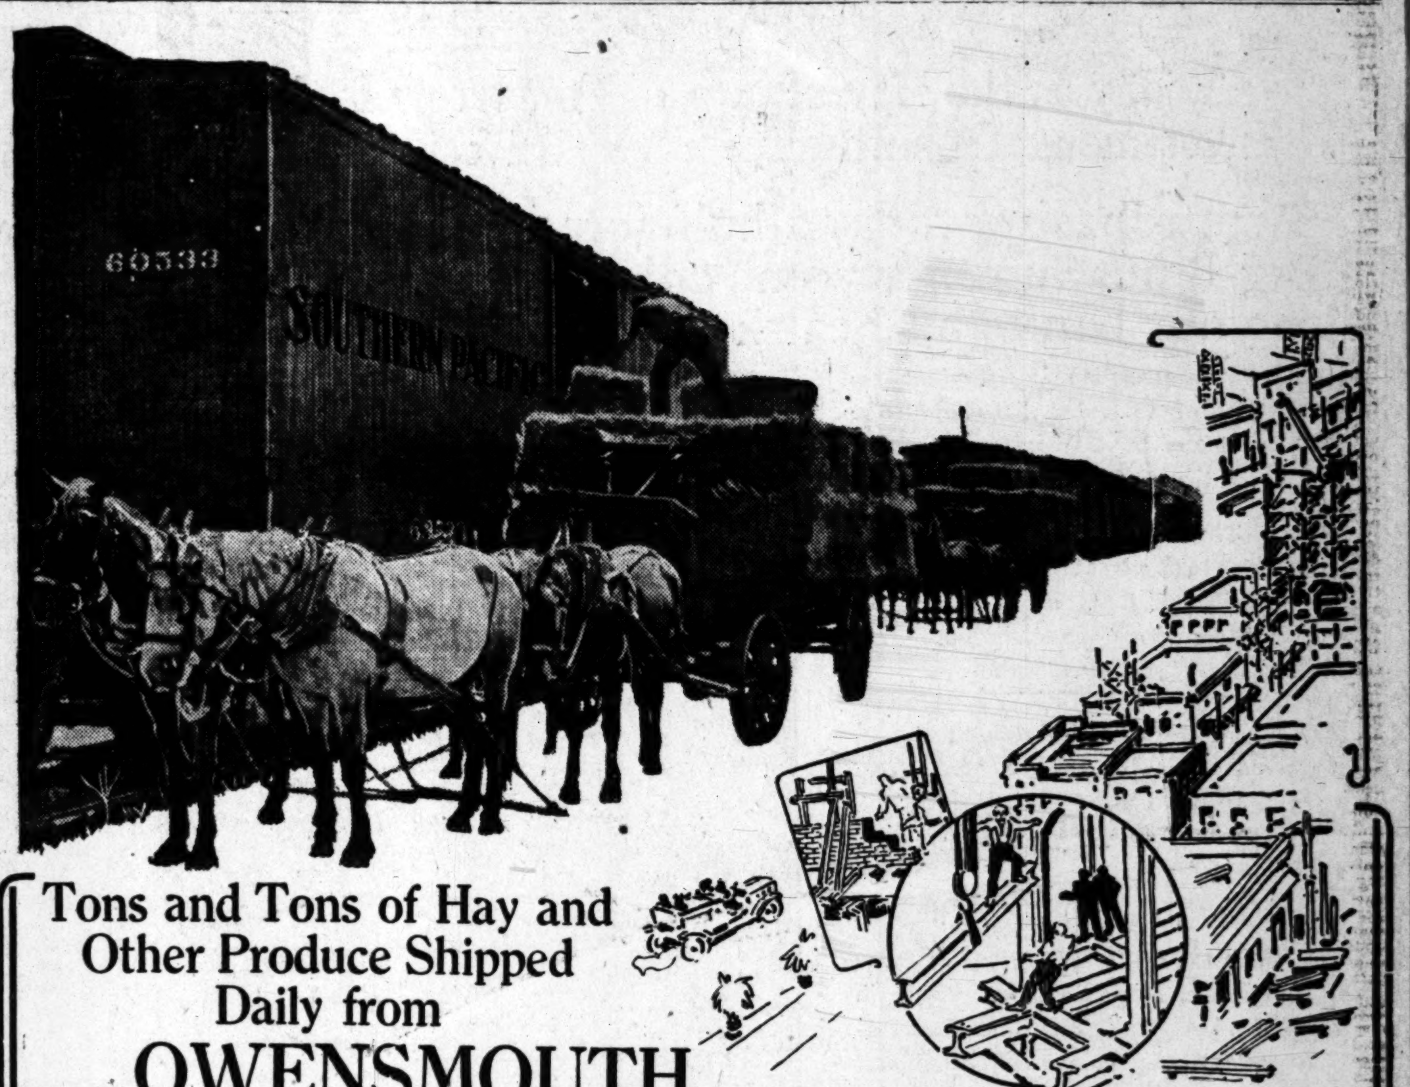
German Toy-Making Industry.

Labor conditions are far from satisfactory in the German toy-making industry, although wages have increased from 10 to 15 per cent. in the past year. Limiting the hours of females and children is unsatisfactory to the industry.

In German pressed and fancy papers there is a general lack of experienced female workers, although wages were advanced 50 per cent. last year and in many instances more.

England Saved by Its Cats.

[New York Tribune:] In an article on cats "Our Dumb Animals" quotes this from Muxley: "The prestige of England on sea and land depends on the old maids of England, and why? Because the maiden sisterhood cared for innumerable cats. The cats destroyed the field mice, and so the mice could not destroy the bumblebees and without the bees no clover could be grown. And no clover, no good English beef, and therefore no English yeomen to man the ships or fight on land and sea for the great nation on whose possessions the sun never sets and whose war drums are heard around the world."



Tons and Tons of Hay and Other Produce Shipped Daily from

OWENSMOUTH

The Coming Metropolis of the San Fernando Valley

Men are astounded at the business rushing to this new city of the valley. The great sugar beet fields stretching as far as the eye can see, are alive with men—immense loads of hay and produce crowd the shipping yards.

Big gangs of men are rushing to completion the connecting link in the electric road to Los Angeles. In a few weeks cars will be running.

Now Is the Time to Invest

Get in ahead of the trolley. Owensmouth offers a wonderful opportunity for investment or for business to the man with small or large means. Handsome business blocks are going up as if by magic. Many are already occupied—and doing a splendid business. A Chamber of Commerce has been organized and plans laid for a school. See the magnificent $500,000 Owensmouth Speedway—the finest automobile boulevard in the West, connecting with the paved streets of Los Angeles.

Do not delay—invest now in a residential or business lot, $300 and $500, on easy terms. Come and see for yourself. Join one of our auto excursions.

Tonopah.

COPPER BELT IN FINE SHAPE.

High Values Usher in Era of Prosperity.

Returns from Outputs Show Decided Increase.

Fine Ore Body Discovered on North Star.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

TONOPAH (Nev.) Sept. 6.—Recent reports from the office of the State Bullion Tax Collector show the conditions prevailing in the copper belt to be more than satisfactory. This is owing to the high and sustained value of copper which is reflecting additional luster on the districts of Nevada making a specialty of copper reduction.

For instance, the reports of the Mason Valley Smelter at Thompson show a congestion which can only be relieved by the construction of an addition which will increase the capacity of the plant to more than 1200 tons daily. The bulk of this ore emanates from properties owned by the smelter interests, but at the same time numerous small producers as far north as Tonopah find an outlet for their ores at prices which enable them to make a fair return on their labor and investments. This week the smelter treated 2001 tons from the Nevada Douglas at Ludwig, 2204 tons from the Mason Valley mines and 746 tons from small shippers, while the output of copper aggregated ten carloads for the same time.

Fred Adamson, Bullion Tax Collector, has received a remarkable statement from the Nevada Consolidated Company at Ely, showing an output for the first quarter of the year of $802,620.02, compared with $945,266.19 for the second quarter ending July 1. During that period the company treated 821,421 tons of a gross value of $2,338,918.56.

Developments following the strike brought out the fact that the company has two streaks of high-grade ore merged in a solid mass with over two feet of heavy black sulphide ore interspersed, with spots and blotches of ruby silver. The remainder of the vein is of milling grade.

The discovery was made in trachyte and assays taken across the face gave values of $19 and $37 a ton, omitting several streaks of heavy sulphide ore that will assay $70 a ton. The latter would make the entire body good pay ore to send to the Belmont mill, which is now making contracts on a custom basis.

The effect of the strike was instantaneous, as the stock is held chiefly in San Francisco, and the company has been operating on the assessable plan in the hope of cutting the Montana ledge. The discovery is near the west boundary line of the Montana Tonopah and the ore body is undoubtedly a continuation of one of the latter company's veins.

This is the week of small mines which are coming to the front as fitting spectacle to the skyrocketing of the big Belmont and Merger. The McNamara has opened a rich body of ore on the 300-foot level. The shoot was uncovered in a stope above that level, and is said to be three feet of massive silver quartz carrying picture values, and is so heavily crystallized that it is producing some beautiful specimens.

Not to be excelled by its neighbors, the Montana Tonopah has picked up three new ore bodies which promise to increase materially the already large ore reserves of that company. The first strike was on the 300-foot level, where a crosscut was being driven to pick up the eastern extension of the shaft vein. This broke into a body of good milling ore which has widened to five feet without giving any evidence of a wall. On the 765-foot level a raise in the eastern workings has opened up with a width of four feet of ore which may prove to be the downward extension of the south vein.

Another new source of ore supply has recently been discovered in several old stopes from which shipping ore was mined several years ago. In several of these considerable tonnage of good ore is available. On one of these in an old stope on the south vein there is visible two to four feet of high grade.

The first shipment of bullion from the new mill of the Tonopah Belmont was made this week, but for the present the management prefers not to furnish authentic reports of the operations of the plant. These reports will be forthcoming when the mill has been keyed up to regular efficiency. During the week the company treated 3091 tons at this plant, and the underground developments are normal, without any of the features reported during the last three months. On the thirteenth level the east drift on the Belmont vein made the usual progress on a full face of splendid ore. Raising on this ore has now been started preparatory to stoping. The regular dividend was declared this week.

Tact in Married Life.

[London Chronicle:] How do they do it? The couples who gain the Dunmow Flitches? Tact undoubtedly plays a part. One recalls the simple system of a Sussex couple to keep peace at home. When the wife came in a little ruffled she flung her shawl over her left shoulder, and the husband knew that silence was golden. If he came home with hat cocked forward the wife knew that something was wrong, and she likewise lay low. It's the simplest tact that keeps the peace at home, where you may never be at loss for a quarrel you look for.

Tucson.

BIG DEAL IS CONSUMMATED.

New Holdings Acquired by Lewissohn Interests.

Property Will Be Developed Extensively.

Wave of Activity Sweeps Over Johnson Camp.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) Sept. 5.—The Centurion-Arizona mines at Johnson and Dragoon have been taken over by the Lewissohn interests, and are to have extensive development. Already much work has been done, a large body of 12 per cent. ore having been blocked out at Johnson in several of the twenty-three claims acquired. H. C. Brown, the former manager, is still to hold that position.

The management of the United Mines Company, one of the larger Johnson properties, has started work again, after months of idleness. Other properties in the same camp upon which activity again is noted are those of the Black Prince Company, Johnson Copper Development Company, Arizona and Michigan Company, Empire Mining and Milling Company, Peacock Company and Peacock Copper Company.

The camp has a small and immaterial smelter, and the mines generally are well provided with machinery. Much ore has been shipped to El Paso and it is probable a short railroad line to Dragoon station again will be placed in operation.

The management of the Copper Queen Company is said to be well satisfied with the results secured by development of a number of properties which for a couple of years have been held under bond in the Northern Catalina Mountains, north of Tucson, and it is told that final payments soon will be made on the Reid, Ramsdell and Leatherwood groups. Final payment lately was made of a balance due on the $65,000 purchase price of the Geiseman property, in the same locality, a mine which has been under development by the Copper Queen for some time past. It is expected that the El Paso and Southwestern Railroad will be extended at once from Tucson to the Northern Catalinas, to furnish an outlet for the ores to the Phelps-Dodge smelter at Douglas.

DEVELOPING COAL BEDS.

duced 275 tons of average $17 ore.

Mohawk—The 3-J sill, north of the 8-E stope, in the old Sheets-Ish workings, produced 279 tons of average $28 ore. The 170-J stope on the 250-foot level, or the downward extension of the old Sheets-Ish stope, produced sixty-nine tons of $58 ore.

The 202 stope, which is being carried through the old Frances-Mohawk workings, produced sixty-eight tons of $40 ore.

A new raise at the south end of the 348 stope, between the 450 and 350-foot levels, has encountered a body of ore assaying $40 per ton.

An important development was made on the intermediate level, between the 450 and 600-foot levels, about 700 feet north of the shaft. The 426-X cut penetrated a body of ore, and the 490-I sill, which is being cut in the ore, produced 756 tons of $40.80 ore.

Claremont—The 571 drift on the downward extension of the 510 ore body, between the 750 and 900-foot levels, produced fifty-five tons of $40 ore. In the Grizzly Bear 250 tons of ore averaging $30 per ton was shipped from development work on the 1300-foot level. Work on this level has been prosecuted rather slowly on account of being carried on in conjunction with sinking the shaft. The 1400-foot level of the shaft will be reached during the coming month, and lateral work from both levels can be carried on more rapidly.

NEVADA HILLS SHOWING.

The report of the Nevada Hills Mining Company, covering operations in July, has just been issued, and shows that highly satisfactory results are being obtained in the mines and mill. The average value of the ore treated was $28.44, slightly below that of the previous month, and the total production was approximately 3550 tons of a gross value of $107,293.72. The percentage of recovery was 91.2, or several points better than in June. Net profits amounted to $64,894.10. One shipment of high-grade ore, less than seven tons, was valued at $964.30 per ton, and yielded a net return of $5951, or almost sufficient to pay for the entire month's development work. The property is in a highly satisfactory condition, and new ore reserves are constantly being placed in sight. It is notable that milling costs have been reduced to $2,96 per ton, with a materially advanced rate of recovery.

The Big Pines

Today Is the Day of Investment Opportunity Tomorrow Is the Day of Investment Profits

By purchasing today a half-acre bungalow site in the Big Pines Summer home colony you are adding riches to your bank and health accounts of tomorrow.

Procrastination is not alone the thief of time, but likewise of the profits of those who are not imbued with the Do It Now Spirit.

The people who succeed are those who take advantage of the opportunities of today by acting immediately upon their convictions.

Here Is a Pointed Question for You to Answer

What will lots in The Big Pines Summer home colony be worth in two years from now when Los Angeles has a population of one million?

Think the matter over awhile and then call at our office for price list and detailed information regarding the most picturesque mountain resort on the Pacific Coast.

Don't delay that visit too long, however, for the choicest lots are being rapidly disposed of.

"We're going to smash her up," said the executive officer to those on the bridge. "She might have smashed us, and we'll pay her back."

Creating as much excitement as though the vessel were actually going into action the report ran through the ship. The five-inch rifle on the forward deck was trained on the iceberg. The Birmingham was steaming toward the berg, but began to swing in an arc, so as to bring it to starboard of her.

At 1000 yards Capt. Hughes from the bridge gave the order to fire at will with the bow five-inch gun. There was a roar, a belch of flame, a cracking sound and a shower of ice rose in the air and splashed back into the water.

But the iceberg scarcely quivered. Presently the big gun forward spoke again and another shower of ice crashed into the ocean.

The Birmingham had swung well round now, and the starboard battery of three-inch guns and the secondary battery of twelve-pounders started to beat a tattoo on the sides of the big ice castle.

Some of the shots bored clean, round holes into the ice, but most of them threw up geysers of splinters and huge chips. As the Birmingham swung past the crews at the port guns were allowed to take a chance at the enemy with the starboard rifles.

Every time a shot landed and knocked off a piece of the berg the gun crews broke into cheering, and they could not have been more enthusiastic over the work if the object of their fire had been hurling back tons of lead and attempting to launch torpedoes at them.

With the last salvo from the starboard batteries before the Birmingham swung around too far for them to be effective a turret-like corner of ice dropped off and fell into the water with a mighty splash. One of the ensigns, standing on the forward deck near the five-inch gun, danced about and waved his hat.

"We've got 'em now!" he shouted.

Everybody laughed, the ensign grew crimson and replaced his hat.

A boat was sent to determine the damage done to the berg. It had listed to one side, but so far as could be seen it was about as solid as ever. It was more than 200 feet long, 175 feet wide and almost 100 feet high. When the Birmingham was close to it, Lieut. Whitlock took some photographs, which show that it towered away above the smokestacks and the mast of the Birmingham.

The officers were surprised to learn that the terrific bombardment had not done more damage. But the sea was strewn with chunks of berg which would have sold anywhere from $10 down in New York. As the boat was pulling for the vessel some one called through a megaphone:

"How about filling the ice box? We ought to get something out of all this shooting."

Accordingly a big piece was towed alongside and hoisted on board. The Filipino steward said it wouldn't half fill the depleted refrigerator, so a boat was sent to gather a cargo.

Capt. Hughes reported that he found no ice south of 40 deg. north latitude. Most of the ice he did see was between 42 and 44 deg. It seems to drift back and forth near the Grand Banks in a region of the ocean which lies practically between the southward bound Arctic current and the Gulf Stream, which flows at that point in a northeasterly direction.

The Birmingham showed signs of rough work when she steamed to her pier in the Philadelphia Navy Yard. One of the first things the officers did was to send to Capt. Albert W. Grant, in command of the station, and to Rear-Admiral Knight, in command of the Atlantic reserve fleet, a big chest full of iceberg for their private refrigerators.

THE ELECTRIC FAN.

Simple Enough to Produce a Breeze After Fine Workmanship and Ingenuity Have Produced the Fan.

[Electric News:] Those who push a button, when the heat gets oppressive, and instantly command a nice cool breeze of fresh and invigorating air imagine the electric fan one of the simplest of modern conveniences. It seems simple enough—at the pressure of a finger the fan blades revolve and the breeze begins to blow, but, as a matter of fact, the modern electric fan is an excellent example of fine workmanship and modern ingenuity and the wonder is that it can be sold so cheaply.

Take the ordinary sixteen-inch fan, for instance. This fan consists of some 670 different parts, nicely assembled and all working in harmony. These range in size from a tiny screw to the brass blades, and in cost from a few pennies to several dollars each. For example, there is included in its construction 1272 feet of wire—nearly a quarter of a mile. This wire, of course, is the best copper, insulated with cotton and fine silk.

Great skill is required in designing and building electric fans. The motor is one especially intended for the operation of the fan blades. It must be delicate to save bulk and weight; it must be efficient, because it has a hard task to perform, often for long, continuous periods. Above all, it must be economical so that the price of the fan itself will not be prohibitive and to obviate a large consumption of current. So satisfactorily have manufacturers combined all these considerations that a fan of the sort we are describing can be bought at retail at from $10 to $25. It requires for its operation about the same amount of current as consumed by the ordinary incandescent lamp.

Southern Phosphate Rock.

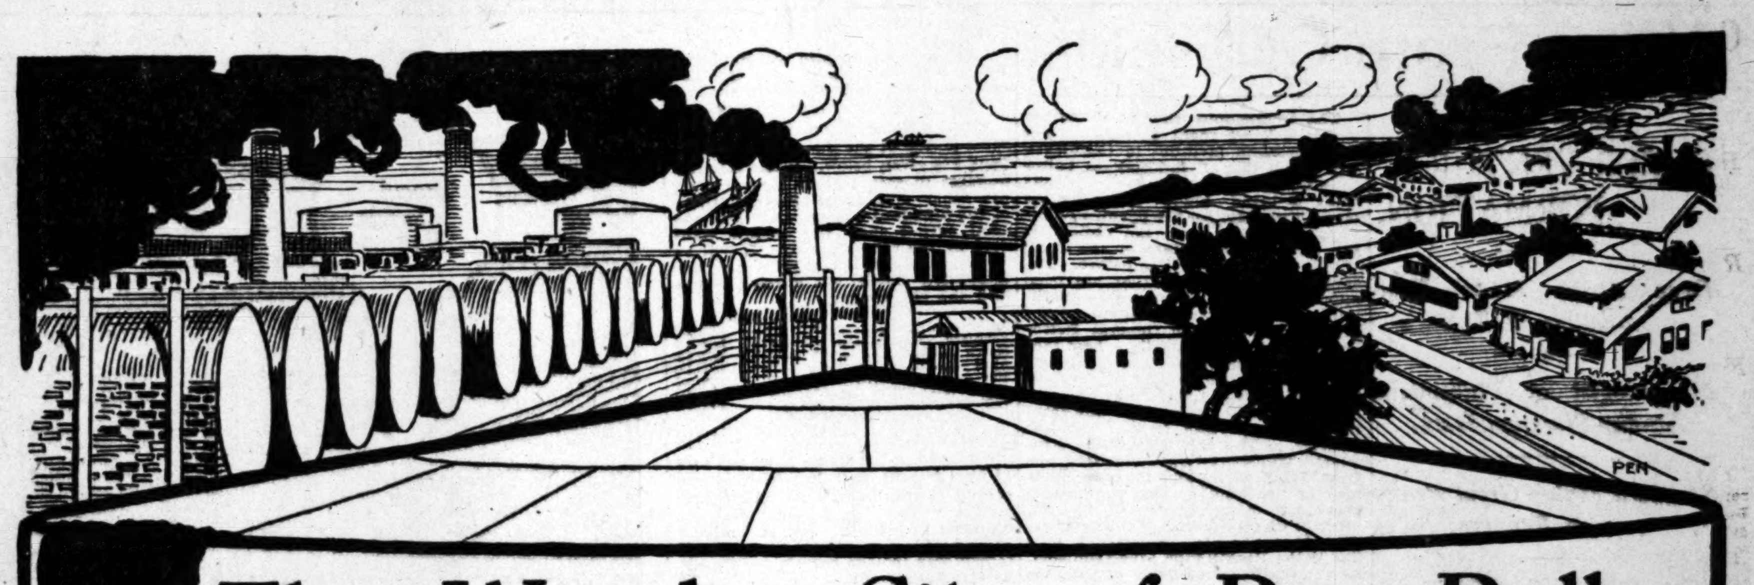
[Manufacturers' Record:] Phosphate mining began in this country on a commercial scale in 1867 in South Carolina, and since then 39,640,810 tons of rock, valued at $162,329,275, have been marketed. Of the total South Carolina has marketed 11,200,074; Tennessee, which began to produce in 1894, 6,483,983 tons, and Florida, which came into the market in 1888, has sold 20,371,290 tons.

Practically all of the phosphate rock mined in the country has been produced in the South, the figures of Tennessee including a small production in Kentucky and Arkansas.

How much prosphate rock remains in the South cannot be estimated. Last year there was prospecting in a new field in central Kentucky, which it is thought may become a considerable producer, and, in the same year, investigations in a field embracing parts of Idaho, Wyoming and Utah became the basis of an estimate that the field had a productive capacity of 2,500,000,000 tons.

Exhaustion of the Southern fields is not likely to occur shortly. But when it comes the Western fields will probably be more accessible, so that no one need dread a possible lack of a supply of phosphoric acid in this country.

"BURKE'S Dry Gin—conspicuous for cleanness, delicacy and bouquet of flavor."



The Wonder City of Pay Rolls

Comparatively few people in Southern California realize the wonderful transformation that has taken place at El Segundo during the past year. They do not realize that a thriving industrial city is growing by leaps and bounds right at their very door.

The greatest corporation in the world, the Standard Oil Company, has done big things and is still doing them at El Segundo. While the present capacity of the refinery is 15,000 barrels per day, the capacity will undoubtedly be increased until it is as great or greater than the capacity of the Richmond plant.

It is reported that the Standard will begin the construction of an asphalt plant next week. Three additional stills will probably be necessary for the asphalt plant, and will have a capacity in the neighborhood of 25,000 tons of high-grade asphalt yearly. The plant when completed will require about one hundred additional men, and will give employment to quite a body of men throughout the year. The Standard is also contemplating other projects but as they are large, they demand considerable time in their development.

Eastern manufacturers are being attracted to El Segundo by the unusual industrial advantages offered there. Cheap fuel offered by the residuum from the refinery, terminal rates, free factory sites, excellent transportation facilities and the wealth of raw material from the Southwest will ultimately bring many industries to El Segundo. In fact, it is predicted that by the time the World's Fair opens in San Francisco in 1915, El Segundo will boast of a population in the neighborhood of 15,000.

Almost $1,000,000 worth of property has been purchased by wise investors at El Segundo during the past twelve months. These people have visited El Segundo and studied the wonderful possibilities from every angle. They were alert to the handsome profits to be made by investing at once. Plenty of business lots, residence lots, and acreage is left yet at low prices.

El Segundo can truthfully be called the wonder city of payrolls. It is now only one year old and the pay roll of this town now amounts to more than $600,000 annually.

Don't you see what the payroll of this town will amount to in three or four years from now?

The commerce of the world will soon be at our doors. The completion of the Panama Canal and our great harbor at San Pedro will mean untold millions of added wealth to Southern California. It will not be long until we will be ranked with the greatest of industrial centers. Where there is now acreage at El Segundo there will soon be residence and business lots. It is not a town of shacks and shanties—it is a modern California industrial city in every sense of the word. There is nothing that will retard its growth. It is bound to be a city of thriving industries.

Millions have been made by investing in California real estate. Millions are yet to be made. Are you going to get your share?

It does not require any nerve to invest in El Segundo property after once seeing it. Purchase some property at El Segundo — it breeds smiles, good humor, and satisfaction. There is only one crop of El Segundo real estate—it will never be cheaper than it is today. An investment will grow many times its original amount, if made in El Segundo real estate.

Why hesitate! Wealth waits for the man who dares. Visit El Segundo today. You can't see it by staying in your office or remaining at home.

To visit El Segundo, take the Del Rey and Redondo car from the Hill Street Station. Cars leave every 30 minutes. Or come to our office and we will take you there in one of our autos. They leave at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. daily.

News From Oil Fields.

The Oil Industry.

QUEER VENTURA FORMATION.

Deep Strike Made Near Shallow Wells.

Mineralogist of Philippines Studies Situation Here.

Standard Makes Great Progress on Refinery.

The Calumet Oil Company has made a strike in its first well in the Ventura district, which has aroused interest because of the fact that the hole is the deepest in that vicinity. The pay sand was found at a depth of 3600 feet, whereas all the wells on the neighboring property of the Montebello Oil Company are very shallow. Most of them are from 200 to 800 feet deep and are drilled in a very short time. Fifty to sixty barrels of light oil of about the same gravity as that found in the vicinity has been secured from the Calumet well.

In drilling no oil sand was encountered at shallow depth, and had the well been drilled in other territory than the Ventura district it might be said to have proved up a new oil horizon. In that section though it is only a further proof of the irregularity of the formation which is a rather unique feature.

Studying Conditions.

Again the California oil fields have attracted the attention of a student of oil conditions. Warren Du Pre Smith, chief of the division of mines and the bureau of sciences of the Philippines, has been touring the districts in this State for the purpose of learning the methods of developing oil, and will apply the knowledge thus gained in the unearthing of the oil resources of the islands. There are a number of oil seepages on Cebu, Leyete and Tayabas, and on the first-named a well was drilled to the depth of 1000 feet with good results. The oil was of very high gravity. On Tayabas there has also been some prospecting, and a few barrels of oil were secured at a depth of 160 feet. Smith is also to study the best methods of handling the oil situation in the Philippines, whether the best results are to be secured by leasing the land or by private ownership.

World's Largest Oil Plant.

The Standard Oil Company is very active in its new construction work on the Richmond refinery. Thirty new stills for refining oil have been built this summer, and new buildings and new stills are spreading out over the western portion of the city. A monster engine is also being installed in the pumping station on the long wharf to pump sea water from the bay, which after it has been clarified is made use of in the oil process. It is said that probably a third of the $25,000,000 increased capitalizaton of the Standard will be used in work on this Richmond refinery, which will be made the largest oil plant in the world.

Besides this, the Standard has completed its third pipe line to the southern fields 300 miles away, and another one is projected.

The tremendous amount of money which is being spent on refining and transportation facilities in California, will place the oil industry in better conditions than ever before. Everything is being made ready by the large companies for the opening of the Panama Canal, when the outlet for the gigantic production of the State will be greater than ever before. The same wave of activity that has been apparent in the Standard's operations has also swept over the other big companies. The General Petroleum, which is practically a new factor in the oil situation, is not only doing a tremendous amount of development work in the fields, but has also now under way its big pipe line from the Midway district to the Port Los Angeles. The doubling of the Producers Transportation Company's line from Junction Station to Port Hartford is also another step forward in providing a better outlet for the product of California. Another company that has also projected a pipe line is the Pacific Pipe Line Company. As yet the exact pathway of this has not been decided upon.

Considerable interest now is being aroused by the advent of the Indian Refining Company, which is establishing its stations along the Coast, and it is believed that this company will have quite an influence on the gasoline situation in this State.

The Indian Refining Company intends to bring large shipments of the refined product from its fields in India, where its operations are very extensive. The quantity of oil suitable for making gasoline in California is limited, and the consumption of the product is increasing at such a rapid rate, that it is hoped that the importations of the Indian Refining Company will at least keep down the price.

This is one of several important factors that have come to have a bearing on the gasoline supply in the State in the past twelve months. The enlarging of the refineries is another. So much importance cannot, however, be attached to the new methods of making gasoline which have been evolved—namely, its manufacture in gasoline-from-gas plants and in small field stills from crude oil. Neither of these is capable of affecting seriously the high price of the fuel.

Field Notes.

The loss of the bailer in the hole at 1800 feet has temporarily blocked the drilling on well No. 2 of the Associated Oil Company on section 34, 32-28.

The Stockton Midway Oil Company used a dynamite shot in No. 4 well to shoot off the casing to permit the further drilling, and the top water may be shut off.

On section 36, 12-24, the M. J. and M. and M. Consolidated is planning to work on three new rigs. Drilling will be commenced shortly after these are up. The M. J. and M. and M. got a production of 100,000 barrels of oil during August. The company has a number of very fine producers on this section. The No. 8 well is making about 1400 barrels a day, No. 1 about 200, and No. 10 about 1600, and No. 9, which was recently perforated at 2010 feet, is producing about 700 barrels.

One of the 55,000-barrel tanks of the Associated Oil Company at Canares caught fire from an explosion. It was thought that some of the oil would be saved.

Personal.

E. J. Miley, president of the State Consolidated Oil Company, who was in Los Angeles a short time ago, has returned to Maricopa.

Roscoe W. Stevens, who was the Union Oil Company's superintendent in the Santa Maria field, is now an advisory superintendent in the Palmer Union. This company expects soon to carry on active development work.

The Oil Industry.

STANDARD BATTLES FOR CALIFORNIA CONTROL.

Independent Producer Turns for Relief to Union Agency Combine—New Output High Water Mark for Month—Crude Production Continues to Increase. Sunset-Midway Heads the List.

When the Standard Oil Company entered California eight years ago it came with one purpose in view—that of controlling the petroleum industry in all its branches. It had unquestioned control in every other oil field in this country, because the producers in the eastern fields had apparently given up the fight and accepted the situation with the best grace at their command.

In California the Standard found another class of men to deal with and different conditions of trade than existed in any of the eastern districts. The fact that California oil was considered primarily as a fuel and treated as such necessitated different methods of handling and marketing. To those who watched the operations of the big concern in the early days of its California history it was easily seen that the Standard had "got off on the wrong foot." Standard oil, in fact, was in California several years before it really "got started."

HEWING TO THE LINE.

But it apparently has never lost sight for a moment of the purpose for which it came, and has gradually been extending its influence along the entire Pacific Coast. The writer is not arguing whether it is or is not a good thing for the producers to be "in the hands" of the Standard, but if it is not, the California producer can save himself from such a situation in only one way, and that is by supporting the only organization on this Coast that is capable of making a successful fight against the Standard. The Union Agency combine offers the independent producer a chance, and, although the path of the agency members has not been one of roses all the way, they no doubt realize that in the present crisis the advice of a certain illustrious patriot, given to his colleagues in the early days of the American republic about "hanging together," is good advice now.

S. O. GRIP TIGHTENS.

It is a fact, whether oil men generally acknowedge it or not, that the Standard has in the past few months been tightening its hold on the oil business in this State, as shown by actual figures. These show that the Standard is securing control of the output. It is producing all the oil it can and buying all it can get, thus encouraging outside operators to further drilling.

The statistical report of operations in the California oil fields for July, which have just been published, shows that the California producer is still willing to pile up stocks at the rate of a half-million barrels a month without fear that at some future time this surplus may be used as a club in the hands of the Standard to beat down or at least to keep down the price of crude oil; for the figures show that by far the greater portion of this surplus is going into the storage tanks of the Standard Oil Company.

NEW OUTPUT FIGURES.

Of the State's total output of 7,560,748 barrels, which, by the way, is the highest point ever reached in one month, with the exception of January, last, the Standard ran through its lines 2,262,448 barrels, or 30 per cent. of the whole amount. Of the total month's surplus of 577,809 barrels, the Standard placed in its tanks 366,487 barrels, or nearly 65 per cent. of the total.

The Union Agency organization is now selling about as much as it produces and is not accumulating any further stocks. The prediction made by some agency members that they will be drawing on stocks by January 1, 1913, is likely to come true, but under the circumstances it does not bespeak better conditions for the independent producer. The Standard now has approximately 28,000,000 barrels of oil in storage. The Union Agency has about 13,000,000 barrels. Without a large supply on hand it will be impossible to accept a large delivery contract. To deplete the stocks would be fatal to the agency.

SUPPLY AND DEMAND.

By way of showing what the Standard is really doing, some figures of operations since the first of the present year may be of interest. The total production of the State from January 1 to August 1 was 51,258,490 barrels. The consumption during the same period was 46,930,832 barrels, showing an increase in stocks of 4,327,558 barrels. The Standard, according to its own statement of runs and shipments, increased its surplus during that time 3,240,428 barrels, leaving the surplus for all other interests in the State only 1,087,130 barrels.

The statement of the Standard's runs and shipments given below show that from January 1 to August 1 it ran 14,753,912 barrels of the total of 51,258,490 barrels produced.

The production and consumption for the period named, showing the stock increase, is given herewith:

BY WAY OF COMPARISON.

The runs and shipments for the same period of the Standard Oil Company are given below. While it is not possible to secure these figures from the other marketing concerns, those of the Standard as compared with the total output show the amount handled by the others jointly. It will be noted that the Standard's runs are increasing slowly but surely, as are also the shipments:

	Runs.	Shipments.
January	2,177,190	1,687,491
February	1,911,947	1,484,920

July	2,262,448	1,895,961
	14,753,912	11,513,484
Placed in storage		3,240,428

The increase in stocks since the first of the present year has been at the rate of 618,223 barrels per month. The amount placed in storage by the Standard averaged 462,918 barrels. The average amount for all other interests was 155,305 barrels per month. The following shows the increase by months:

The output of crude oil from the California fields for the seven months of the present year to August 1, shows the tremendous total of 51,258,510 barrels and instead of the falling off predicted, the production has been increasing month by month. The appended list of the several fields with their output for the period named, shows their standing in the order of their importance and present some interesting points.

By far the greatest field in the State is the Sunset-Midway, and of the total amount of oil produced, this district alone is credited with 17,351,915 barrels, about one-third of the State's output. With the collapse of the Lakeview gusher, the wise ones decided that this field had seen its best day, and it was doubted if the output would ever again reach the volume it had then attained, but even with the Lakeview well crossed off the map the output has continued to grow. In the days of the gusher, the field was producing about 1,750,000 barrels a month. In July last the output was 2,604,752 barrels. It is impossible to make any prediction in regard to the future of this field. It is one of the most wonderful ever discovered, both in extent of territory and in richness of the sands. There is no doubt but that if the wells now drilled in this field were producing to their capacity the output would be nearer 5,000,000 barrels than half that amount. Gushers continue to be brought in with great regularity and hardly a week passes that a sensational well is not added to the list.

Great Rush of Sales Causes Subdividing of Last Big Ranch

VAN NUYS-LANKERSHIM LAND

This last ranch, the splendid Marion lands, was reserved from sale to be placed on the market when the vast im ments were entirely completed. But the demand for 5 and 10-acre tracts was enormous; we were soon sold people clamored for more. Men wanted country estates, fruit and walnut orchards close to Los Angeles. We subdivide this last big ranch and place it on the market.

The Newest Subdivision in 3½, 5 & 10 Acre Tracts

Do not delay—Do not overlook this ripe opportunity for investment or for country estate.

Water is piped. The soil is deep, rich and sub-irrigated, producing great crops without irrigation. The largest crop in the history of the valley is now being harvested on these lands.

The property shown in the picture above sold 18 months ago for the same prices as the new ranch NOW offered. Today it is worth two or three times as much.

Through the center of the new lands runs the same magnificent half-million dollar boulevard and electric road.

Think of owning a splendid country home adjoining this boulevard and right in line of these wonderful improvements.

Hundreds of acres are being planted to orchards and scores of handsome homes are under construction.

Now's your opportunity, this new ranch, this fertile suburban land at country acreage prices. Call, 'phone or write.

Wilshire Court

A Subdivision Masterpiece

Fronting on Wilshire Boulevard and adjacent to some of the newest and finest tracts in the whole of Wilshire. Wilshire Court, at the intersection of Wilshire and Crenshaw Boulevards, is on a par with surrounding property—but the prices are fully 60% lower.

An Exceptional Buy For Bargain Hunting Investors

It takes very little shrewdness and foresight to figure out the "profit future" on this property. At the very start you make a profit, because the price is lower. Later on—in just a little while—prices will have to go up because the elegant mansions and high-class improvements going in all around will bring values up. Then if you want to sell the profit is yours.

An Exceptional Home Tract With Private Streets

Wilshire Court residents have the advantage of private asphalted streets. Wide parkings and underground public service facilities are found here. The successful business and professional man looking for a real "home site" where the environment is perfect and where he can have exclusiveness without great expenditure—should see this $40 and $50 frontage easily worth $80 to $100 per front foot.

We will make extraordinary inducements to the builders of the first ten houses.

Phone for Auto Appointment. Our representative is at the tract all day.

been some failures in the La Habra Valley, although it is a new district and none of the territory has been definitely condemned. It is all wildcat territory and drilling alone will tell at what depth the sand lies. The original well of the Amalgamated was finished up at 3300 feet and struck the sand at 2990 feet. This company's No. 3 well, directly west, was drilled deeper, but No. 4, two locations south, was finished up at 3000 feet and was by far the best well on the property. Drilling has not progressed in any direction enough to determine how the strata lies.

EXCEPTION TO THE RULE.

The Whittier-Des Moines Oil Company's test well in section 7-3-10 was one of the failures recorded. The location is only one mile due north of some of the big producers of the Murphy Oil Company and the hole was drilled to a depth of 3760 feet but no oil was obtained. Some operators would not consider that depth a proper test in this territory, but it was sufficient test on the bank accounts of the stockholders and they abandoned the proposition.

The Shaffer Oil Company, on section 8-3-10, was another failure, but the failure was due rather to a lack of experience in California drilling than to the territory tested. The Shaffer brothers came here from Pennsylvania and declared without equivocation or mental reservation that they would give California operators an ocular demonstration as to the proper way to drill an oil well "quick." The Shaffer Oil Company lasted "quick," also. Drillers were brought here from the East and no California driller or tool dresser or roustabout was allowed on the job. Work was carried on for six months and a hole 400 feet deep is the net result—except the experience gained at the cost of several thousands of dollars. The entire "works" are shut down and what was once the property of the Shaffer Oil Company stands as a monument to the presumption that all the knowledge necessary in operating oil wells is possessed by the Pennsylvania oil man.

With the single exception of the McAnders Oil Company, which is drilling with cable tools, all the operators in the valley are using the combination rotary outfit. The experience of the Standard on the Yriarte lease and the Petroleum Company on the Gilman lease, however, has taught the operators that it is dangerous to attempt to go into the oil sand with the rotary, and the policy has been adopted of taking off the rotary at a certain depth and after cementing, to continue drilling with the cable tools.

The La Habra Valley, if further developments should prove it to be an extensive oil field, will be but an extension of the old Fullerton field, which includes the wonderfully rich pool at Brea Canyon and the almost equally good spot near Olinda. This old field extends along the south slope of the Puente Hills, and until the Amalgamated drilled their first well in the valley operators clung tenaciously to the hillsides on the theory that the oil sands in the valley would lie so deep they could not be reached with the ordinary methods of drilling. The same conditions obtained in the Midway field and it is possible that the future will see an unbroken forest of derricks extending from the Puente Hills down across the La Habra Valley to the Coyote Hills.

INDUSTRIAL. NEWS FEATURES.

Value of Manufactures.

According to the advance bulletin on manufactures just issued by the census bureau, in 1909 the United States had 268,491 manufacturing establishments which gave employment during the year to an average of 7,678,578 persons, of whom 6,615,046 were wage earners.

These manufacturing establishments paid $4,365,613,000 in salaries and wages, and turned out products to the value of $20,672,052,000, to produce which materials costing $12,141,791,000 were consumed.

The value added by manufacture was $8,530,261,000. This value covers salaries and wages—which represent over one-half of the total—overhead charges, depreciation, interest, taxes and other expenses attendant upon the manufacturing operations, as well as the profits of the undertaking.

During the first five years of the decade the average number of wage earners increased 16 per cent.; during the second five years, 21 per cent. The value of products increased 29.7 per cent. during the first period and 39.7 per cent. during the second period. The rate of increase in the value added by manufacture shows less difference between the two periods, being 30.3 per cent. during the first five years.

During the ten years from 1899 to 1909, the number of establishments increased 29.4 per cent.; the capital employed, 105.3 per cent.; the average number of wage earners, 40.4 per cent.; the amount of primary power, 85 per cent.; the value of materials consumed 84.6 per cent.; the value of products, 81.2 per cent. and the value added by manufacture, 76.6 per cent. The gross value of products in 1909 exceeded that in 1899 by more than $9,000,000,000, and the value added by manufacture in 1909 was, in round numbers, $3,700,000,000 more than in 1899.

Olive-oil Production in Italy.

Consul-General James A. Smith of Genoa reports that, according to figures furnished by the Ministry of Agriculture, the production of olive oil in Italy was 67,601,230 gallons in the season of 1909-10, 37,142,372 gallons in 1910-11, and 65,170,862 gallons in 1911-12. Dealers usually make their estimates of oil production upon a uniform average of 20 per cent. of oil to the weight of the olives, but the percentage of oil produced during the last three years actually works out at 16.73 per cent. in 1909-10, 15.03 per cent. in 1910-11, and 17.5 per cent. in 1911-12.

STANDARD BATTLES.

in second place, but is a good second with 11,380,986 barrels for the period the upgrade and the thousands of acres of proven territory yet undrilled insure for a long time to come a conmentioned. This field is also still on stantly increasing output.

The Kern River field, once the leader, is now in third place and produced during the last seven months 7,416,495 barrels, or more than 1,000,000 barrels a month. When it is known that Kern River was a big producing district before the Midway field was heard of and also considering the restricted area in the field, the wonderful record may be understood. And although Kern River has no doubt seen its high water mark, it will be a big producer for years to come.

FULLERTON FIELD.

One of the big jumps taken is noted in the output of the Fullerton field, which has passed McKittrick, Santa Maria and the Salt Lake fields in output and is well on its way towards the top. If the La Habra Valley develops as it is now believed it may, this district will soon be crowding Kern River. As it is, the production here is steadily increasing and developments in the old proven territory have not yet nearly reached their limit. Fullerton is already one of the big fields of the State, but is sure to become bigger as development continues.

McKittrick, even with the large output from the Belridge district (which is included in the McKittrick figures) has fallen off on account of the natural decline in the old producing belt. In fact, Belridge is all now that keeps McKittrick where it is in point of output, furnishing alone one-third of the total.

SANTA MARIA-SALT LAKE.

Santa Maria is by no means what it once was as a producer, but is still putting out about 500,000 barrels a month. At one time, however, its output was in excess of 900,000 barrels a month. That it will gain on its present production is certain on account of developments in Cat Canyon and the recent new lease of life taken in by the old district, where several good wells have been brought in, in practically new territory.

The Salt Lake field is on the toboggan and is gradually "slipping." Its present monthly output is about 260,000 barrels as compared with 450,000 barrels four or five years ago. The territory is fairly well defined and is pretty well built up. Unless an extension toward the west is discovered it will continue to drop.

LOST HILLS-WHITTIER.

Lost Hills is now one of the good fields and will probably increase its output rapidly, as soon as the Standard is prepared to take the Universal Oil Company's product. The output is restricted at present.

Whittier is losing caste as an oil field and is a rather small affair as oil fields go in California. Its output is now less than 90,000 barrels a month. The producing area is small and the wells average only twenty barrels per day each. There is no particular future for the field, although it will be a producer for a long time yet.

SMALLER POOLS.

Ventura county includes a number of small pools scattered throughout the county, the most important of which at present is the Monte Bello pool near Fillmore, where a number of sensational wells at unusually shallow depth (even for Ventura country,) have been brought in. Other pools are those at Santa Paula and in the Sespe district.

The wells generally are small and only average six barrels each per day, but on account of the gravity of the oil and its value, drilling continues in all sections of the country.

Summerland, the picturesque, is almost a thing of the past as an oil field and turns out less than 6000 barrels a month. The field is still a sight for tourists with its wells drilled from wharves, extending out over the ocean. Puente, one of the oldest fields in the State is still producing 2500 barrels a month from fifty-six old wells some of which have been producing for twenty-seven years.

Arroyo Grande is now entirely abandoned. It was at best but a flash in the pan, and although it looked at one time as if quite a field might be opened, developments did not show anything but a very light production.

A LUSTY "INFANT."

Although there are those who say the oil business in California is in its infancy, it is still a fairly lusty infant as the following figures show. Until there is a demand for more oil we do not need any more oil fields, but no doubt when the necessity arises, some wildcatter will produce the field.

The output of the fields for the seven months ending August 1, 1912, is as follows:

Sunset-Midway	17,351,918
Coalinga	11,380,986
Kern River	7,416,495
Fullerton	3,740,058
McKittrick	3,650,683

The "Dream" Bungalow

It was 7 o'clock Sunday morning and Mr. and Mrs. Robinson were preparing their breakfast—he always helps her on Sunday morning.

"I do wish dear, that we were buying a home. It seems like such a shame to be paying out $35 a month rent with nothing to show for it," said Mrs. Robinson.

"Yes," he replied, "Thirty-five dollars a month rent is $420 a year, it wouldn't take long to buy a home at that rate."

After some discussion it was decided to take the Sunday Times—look over the desirable advertised places and after church they would go out and buy the one that suited them.

After breakfast they took the Real Estate section and searched it carefully and made a list of several desirable places. One ad in particular appealed to them. This was it:

MOST CHARMING BUNGALOW AT 1742 West 51st place, convenient to Grand Ave. and 48th St. yellow car, new, 6 rooms, strictly up-to-date, including built-in electric stove, built-in wall bed, automatic water heater, built-in combination lock safe, beautiful and expensive plumbing fixtures, full length pier mirror in bed-room and oak floors throughout the house. Located in the midst of a finished, restricted tract of ten acres of such houses, all of which are differently designed and arranged and are owned and for sale on easy terms by the WESTERN BUILDING AND INVESTMENT CO. of 303 West Second St. All open today for inspection and a courteous sales manager on the grounds to show them.

After further discussion they became so enthusiastic that they decided not to go to church, but to start out at once.

They looked at a number of houses and finally came to the bungalow which had appealed to them.

It was a beautiful place amidst the choicest surroundings. After they had looked it over, Mrs. Robinson sat down on the porch railing and said: "Well, this surely looks like home to me. I've dreamed of this place all my life, but never hoped to own it. I don't want to leave at all!"

The deal was soon closed. They paid $300 down and were to pay $35 a month, including interest.

The $ That Grows Offers You An "Immediate Opportunity"

California presents to the investor of today one of the safest and surest roads to wealth that this country has ever offered. Gibraltar offers an immediate opportunity that is one of the greatest and soundest that the Golden State has ever included in its wonderful record of rich returns. This opportunity is an immediate one, for the reason that the Gibraltar enterprises of land development, with the use of our own growing trees, are advancing at a rate that is actually taxing the company to keep pace with them. We are being carried forward faster than we planned for by the insistent demands of the thriving olive industry, and our preferred stock is intrinsically worth 30 per cent. more today than it is selling for. The public press daily reports the big prices being paid for olive trees, of which Gibraltar owns the largest stock in the world. Ten-year contracts are being offered for pickling olives at most profitable figures. The eyes of the world are upon California as they have not been since the days of '49. The greatness of the olive and the effect of the Panama Canal upon land values are back of every dollar invested with Gibraltar. These two big facts, joined to as broad and liberal a plan of co-operative profit-sharing as could be conceived, are back of mother earth's dividends, which have always offered the surest form of wealth production on the face of the globe.

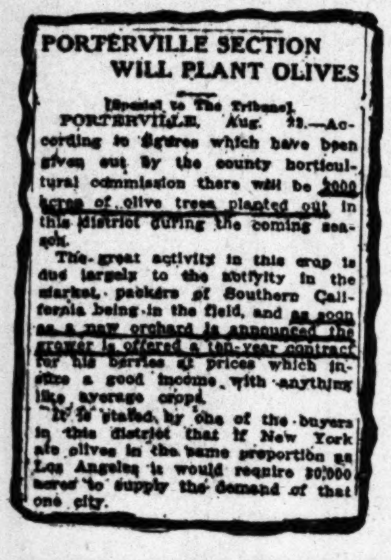
[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Aug. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "This Pacific Coast is the only part of the country which, to my mind, will derive any material benefit from the Panama Canal," said Judge Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the board of the Harriman system, today. "The canal will mean a heavy immigration movement into this country; it will result in the bringing of a great volume of labor and it will bring new settlers who will help greatly to develop and build up this country

L.A. TRIBUNE



PORTERVILLE SECTION WILL PLANT OLIVES

[Special to The Tribune.]

PORTERVILLE, Aug. 23.—According to figures which have been given out by the county horticultural commission there will be 3000 acres of olive trees planted out in this district during the coming season.

The great activity in this crop is due largely to the activity in the market, packers of Southern California being in the field, and as soon as a new orchard is announced the grower is offered a ten-year contract for his berries at prices which insure a good income with anything like average crops.

It is stated by one of the buyers in this district that if New York ate olives in the same proportion as Los Angeles it would require 30,000 acres to supply the demand of that one city.

The Money-Making Hour Is Now

For the realization of the fullest earning power of your dollar your should act now. GIBRALTAR will always be a big profit maker, but the investor today will receive the full benefits of the present remarkable conditions and of his judgment in embracing a great opportunity at the start. Without consideration of the money to be made by us from subdividing land and by the use of our own trees in planting orchards, the great advance in the value of our properties insures the SELLING OF OUR 8% PREFERRED STOCK FOR AT LEAST 15c A SHARE BY JANUARY 1. The conditions of the business this company is engaged in have advanced so rapidly since our incorporation in May that we hesitate to place an estimate upon the value of our stock by next May. We have advanced the selling price of our stock in simple justice to our shareholders. Our future profits are beyond estimate, but are as sure as the greatness of California and the olive industry. THE CO-OPERATIVE STRENGTH OF 1287 SHAREHOLDERS is now joined to Gibraltar's valuable assets, and to our remarkable record of growth, in backing the earning power of every dollar invested. The strong approval shown by the investing public is backed by big facts.

GIBRALTAR COMPANY HAS 30 NURSERIES

OLIVE INDUSTRY EXPANDING UNDER OPERATIONS OF GIBRALTER COMPANY

The greatness of the olive in this state and the growing record of the world-talked-of riches produced by the Southern California territory tributary to the Panama canal are strongly reflected in the expansion of the Gibraltar Investment and Home Building company. This company, which only began business in May when offices were opened in Los Angeles, has received strong support from investors that appreciate the plan of receiving profits from the land development and orchard planting plans of the company, combined with home building.

The greatness of the olive industry is back of the success of the company equally with the popularity of the idea of the land and the living and the fact that the preferred stock may be exchanged at full market value at any time for any property that the company has for sale.

In addition to the arrangements completed for the planting and propagating of 5,000,000 more olive trees the Gibraltar company has just acquired by installation and purchase twenty-three more nurseries which supplement the immense olive and orange nurseries in the world

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY.

ENQUIRIES FROM AND ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Strontianite.

ORAIBA (Ariz.) Aug. 8.—Q.: I am mailing you a sample of a heavy kind of mineral that I do not know what it is. It comes from near Keam's Canyon and from a dry-wash five miles southeast, and I found it with others like it in the wash. Will you please test it and tell me what it is through your valued columns?

N. W. K.

A.: The globular grayish-green substance is named at the subheading. It is of uneven fracture; vitreous luster, white streak, soluble in hydrochloric acid with effervescence; hardness 3.6; sp. gr., 3.7; and is of difficult fusion, with alkaline reaction after ignition.

The blowpipe flame is colored bright red by the sample, and if moistened with hydrochloric acid the color shown by the flame is of a more pronounced brilliant red. The composition of the sample is approximately: Carbon dioxide, 29; strontia, 70, with traces of lime.

Iron Oxides.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—Q.: I herewith send you some samples of rock from a location about seventy-five miles from Los Angeles and near railroad. Would be pleased to have you state whether they carry minerals of any commercial value? Do samples Nos. 1 and 3 carry carnotite or uranium?

Thanking you for the great service you and your paper give to prospectors.

C. W. D.

A.: Your kind words are appreciated. Nos. 1 and 3 are colored with yellow ferric and ferrous (iron) oxides, and do not carry a trace of uranium. Both samples are porphyritic. Sample No. 2 is further made up of quite a number of thumb specimens, but we understand the ways of the mining boys in the hills. This lot of specimens represents what you have on the claims, and you want to know all about them. Quartz, iron oxides, porphyritic rock and traces of antimony and lead "is all there is to it." No. 3 is in part chloritic, calcite present, with granite on one side. No. 4 is a mixed conglomerate, as you boys term it, and shows crystals of feldspar (so-called porphyry.) The samples look mighty lean.

Samples of Interest.

LONE PINE, Aug. 10.—Q.: By this mail I am sending you some samples that I would like you to name. All of them have been picked out by me all about the country here, and from near Mt. Whitney also. No 1 seems heavy and may be zinc. No. 2, what are the specks on this? What kind of sulphide is in No. 3? It melts and smells bad while burning. I take No. 4 to be lead carbonate? Is there any potash in No. 5?

H. C. S.

A.: Glad to hear from you. No. 1 is garnetyte and carries but little zinc. No. 2 is a fairly good molybdenite and of but little commercial value unless the crystals of molybdenite are concentrated; it would not pay to hand-cob the crystals from the quartz matrix. Arsenical pyrite is the chief constituent of No. 3, and while burning yields fumes of arsenic (garlic-like odor.) No. 4 is baryte (heavy-spar or barium sulphate,) and it is pure enough for use in the paint industry. The saline matter comprising No. 5 carries 11.50 per cent. potash.

Selenite.

VENTURA, Aug. 14.—Q.: Please find enclosed sample of some kind of mineral, gotten about twenty miles from Ventura. Would like to know what it is and what it contains? Any value?

W. C. H.

A.: The sample is a crystallized variety of gypsum. Plaster of Paris can be made therefrom provided you have sufficient quantity. It is composed of hydrated sulphate of lime; lime, 32.56; sulphuric acid, 46.51; water, 20.93, percentages, respectively, and approximately.

Ripidolite.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11.—Q.: Regarding samples I would say that the small one is mine. The large ones were sent to allow for selection and were originally wrapped together.

C. C.

A.: Very often The Times receives samples in "busted" containers caused by the wear and tear in transit. On every specimen that we cannot trace positively to a particular correspondent we endeavor by personal correspondence to obtain positive proof as it were.

The sample in question is ripidolite, massive and scaly. Of lamellar fracture. Hardness 2.4; sp. gr., 2.75. Of pearly luster. Color green and file-streak greenish-white. Composition: hydrous silicate of alumina and magnesia. Iron present with arsenic traces. Partly soluble in sulphuric acid. Not tested for gold or silver.

Variety Tetrahedrite.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12.—Q.: Enclosed I hand you nine samples marked from A-1 to 9, which please classify for me. I am specially interested in the rare minerals the ores may contain; they come from Northern Sonora.

G. G.

A.: Naturally with so great a number of varied specimens, and no suggestions as to what rare minerals are suspected as being present, it is possible to give you a qualitative test only.

The 112 separate specimens are chiefly varieties of tetrahedrite, and many of them can be classified as fahlerz (a refractory ore,) and best treated by smelting.

No. 1-A consists of ten samples of amphibole (asbestos.)

No. 2-B (ten samples,) titaniferous iron, iron oxides antimony, arsenic, lead and zinc present. No. 3-C (twelve samples) pyritiferous, jasper with the mass, iron oxides, copper present. No. 4-D (fifteen samples,) Barium, silica, lead, antimony, arsenic, zinc and sulphur present. No. 5-E (seventeen samples,) chalcopyrite with fahlerz. No. 6-F (ten samples,) iron oxides, carbonates present, and porphyritic. No. 7-G (sixteen samples,) quartz, in part pseudomorphic after pyrite. No. 8-H (ten samples,) antimony, lead, arsenic, iron, copper and traces of vanadic acid. No. 9-I (twelve samples,) antimony, arsenic, lead, pyrite, chalcopyrite and pyrrhotite. No sample was tested for gold, silver or platinum.

Copper Present.

MINNEHAHA RANCH (Colton) Aug. 15.—Q.: Three samples; red clay, big bed. Outcrop, copper indications? Hills, granite?

R. T. & R. J. C.

A.: "Hills," quartzitic and porphyritic granite, but not pegmatite. "Outcrop," copper present. "Red clay,"

TO DEVELOP BELRIDGE LAND.

Standard Oil Company Makes Extensive Preparations to Work New Holdings in Light Oil Districts.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

M'KITTRICK (Cal.) Sept. 6.—The Standard Oil Company, which recently acquired several tracts of land in the McKittrick-Belridge district, has signalized its advent into this territory by establishing three camps, work on two of which is now approaching completion.

On section 19, 28-21, the erecting of two bunkhouses, an office, a dwelling-house and a cookhouse has just been finished. Work on the camp buildings on other sections is in progress and will be pushed as rapidly as possible. The company is laying a two-inch water line from the Belridge Oil Company's property to this camp, and is also having hauled material for the construction of a rig on this section.

The Standard has material on the ground for the building of various structures and a rig on Section 25, 28-20, and lumber is on the way for similar buildings and a derrick, to be located on section 23, 28-20. This week witnessed the completion of the Standard pipe line from Pond station to the camp of the Belridge Oil Company, traversing a distance of twenty-five miles. The company has in addition to this connected up with the Panama-Belridge Oil Company's lease, and entered into a contract to take all the oil from the wells of the latter concern.

The Panama-Belridge Oil Company has material on the ground for rig No. 2 on section 4, 29-21.

It is said that the General Petroleum Company has taken over the interests of the Petroleum Production Company—the Yancey and Barnsdale Company—in sections 4, 5, 6 and 9 in township 29-21, and section 36, in township 28-20, and sections 23 and 31 in township 27-20. The transaction was completed this week.

The General Petroleum Company has abandoned well No. 2, on section 2, 29-21, and removed the rig to the northwest corner of section 3, 29-21.

HAWAIIAN ISLAND GROWN TOBACCO.

VALUABLE RESULTS EXPECTED FROM EXPERIMENTS.

Sumatra Leaf Without Any Bitter Taste and of a Thinner Texture Than Is Grown Elsewhere Is Being Developed, as Well as a Special Brand Peculiar to the Islands.

[Paradise of the Pacific:] Indications are that before so many years have passed tobacco experts of the country will be turning to the Territory of Hawaii to secure the highest grades of tobacco, and paying the highest kind of a price for it. Experiments started by Jared Smith in the Island of Hawaii have demonstrated the practicability of raising the plant successfully, and experts now at work are optomists when it comes to foretelling the possibilities of the industry.

While there are a number of tobacco growers in the Territory at this time, there are two large plantations backed with the necessary capital which are proceeding with experiments on broad lines and with every hope of final success, under the direction of men who are acknowleged experts in their business of knowing all about the growing and handling of the "noxious weed.' These men are William B. Schrader, manager of the Hawaiian Tobacco Company, of North Kona, Hawaii, and Manager Daniels, of the Kona Tobacco Company, in South Kona.

As yet it might well be said that the industry is still in its experimental stage, although what has been accomplished is enough to show what the possibilities are and to interest shrewd business men enough to induce them to advance thousands of dollars as a stake. That they are justified in their confidence of eventual dividends is evident from the progress of the work which is going on at these two plantations.

On the Kona company's plantation the work is going straight ahead for the raising of Sumatra leaf and good tobacco, along recognized lines, and the progress of this work is such that there is every indication that next year's crop will be a well-paying one But it is on the Hawaiian company's plantation that, possibly, the most important work, so far as the future of the industry in this territory is concerned, is being accomplished.

It is principally due to the peculiar climatic conditions which prevail in the Kona districts of Hawaii that the experts have hope of bringing about the growth of a new style of tobacco, climate combined with soil is the background for the skillful work of the cross-fertilizer. In the first place the climate is a moist one the heavy clouds which veil the sun during the hottest part of the day serving as a curtain which prevents the danger to the delicate plant that would otherwise follow from the sun's rays. In Florida and Connecticut the tobacco growers of leaf wrapper tobacco are compelled to go to an expense of from $300 to $450 an acre to cover the growing plants with lattice work or muslin, but in Hawaii there is no such expense necessary.

In the Kona districts the soil is a loose, friable dirt, easily cultivated and very rich, being composed in large measure of decomposed lava rock and vegetable mould, the gathering of centuries of semi-tropic sun and rain. Also the water supply, an important item, is really no longer a problem with these plantations. Still another advantage in favor of fine crops in Hawaii is the absence of the horn worm, which so often devastates the fields of other countries. Here this pest is missing and tobacco-raisers are hoping that it will forever be kept out of the Islands. Thus it is easily seen that Hawaii has some natural advantages for the tobacco farmer which the growers of the eastern mainland would consider worth millions of dollars.

One of the methods which Mr. Schrader is now following in his effort to secure a special brand of tobacco which wil be known as only Hawaiian, is in his seed selection. From seed of the Sumatra leaf he is growing a large acreage, but seed from picked plants of other varieties are also grown, for as he says, what may grow well in one district may not prove a complete success in another.

From these selected plants Mr. Schrader is again selecting the seed of such plants as appear to most nearly approximate his idea of what an ideal wrapper leaf tobacco should be. These plants are carefully chosen and from the time when the blossom on the top of the stalk develops they are tied up in roomy paper bags, not only to keep the insects and other possible raiders away, but particularly to prevent any cross-fertilization from the pollen of other plants, for it is a curious thing that the blossom of the tobacco plant is self-fertilizing. Because of this it is easy for an expert to develop along a direct line, yet he can artificially fertilize a certain plant with the pollen from another and the seeds resulting will have the characteristics, more or less, of both plants. One tobacco plant parent under favorable conditions will produce from 200,000 to 300,000 seeds, and manager Schrader in September had 700 parent plants tied up in paper bags in order to obtain his future seed supply.

At present the finest Sumatra leaf tobacco, worth several dollars a pound, is a thin, tough, well-flavored and light tobacco, of which it takes from two to seven pounds to wrap 1000 cigars. It is the hope of Mr. Schrader to grow a Hawaiian tobacco which will be so light that it will take less than two pounds to wrap 1000 cigars. He is also in hopes of securing a tobacco which will escape the bitterness in taste which much of the fine tobacco now in the market has.

But there is another ambition which Mr. Schrader has, one he is reluctant to speak about. That is the growing of the real Turkish tobacco. Efforts have been made to do this time and again at great expense, one New York dealer spending as much as $20,000 in experimenting, but without success. This tobacco is aromatic in a peculiar degree and only in certain districts of Turkey can it be grown with success. Schrader, however, is convinced that he can grow it here. In fact he has already grown a little of it and states that he has used some of it as filler in home-made cigars, to which it has given a flavor all their own.

Mr. Schrader was formerly in the service of the Department of Agriculture as an expert tobacco grower, and it was through Mr. Smith that he came to the Territory. When he took charge of the plantation of the Hawaiian Tobacco Company he found several varieties of the plant growing there, and it was then he determined to start the experiments now under way, with the idea of developing a distinct brand of Hawaiian tobacco.

Still another thing which Mr. Schrader expects to bring to perfection is the growing of a stalk that will produce three crops of tobacco leaf. At present practically two crops can be grown here and on some of the plants now growing on the Hawaiian plantation three crops of leaves have been picked. How important this can become from a commercial point of view can be realized when it is known that only one crop is the usual result of a planting.

Mr. Schrader states that there is already a great improvement in the quality of the Kona-grown tobacco, even with the use of less fertilizer, and he is confident that the finest kind of wrapper tobacco will be among the exports from the Territory in a comparatively short time.

"I am convinced that the tobacco industry is going to prove a Godsend to the small farmer, the man who has a few acres of his own, and seeks to make a comfortable living from them," said Mr. Schrader. "Of course it takes some knowledge and skill, but this is the case in all special farming. Another point is that the Sumatra leaf here loses its bitter flavor, such as it has in Florida, and all of this tobacco grown here can be utilized in the making of cigars, even if not all of it is available for wrapper."

"So far, the tobacco belt is at an elevation of between 1400 and 2500 feet, and the higher the better.

The varieties of tobacco are numerous, and they range from Porto Rico and Florida through the Carolinas, Virginia, and Middle States to Connecticut and Massachusetts on the east, to Ohio and Wisconsin on the northwest. Kentucky and Tennessee are famous for their heavy export tobacco, for which representatives of European firms eagerly bid. This is a heavy tobacco, particularly adapted for snuff and chewing. The other sections produce varieties used in the manufacture of smoking and cigar tobaccos.

Florida has been very successful lately as a tobacco district, after expensive experiments, and took the world's prize for ideal wrapper leaf at the Paris Exposition.

Before the manufactured article, in the shape of a cigar or a bag of smoking tobacco, reaches the consumer, it has passed through many manipulations, each of which require skill and dispatch, which increases its initial cost seven-fold. It is not an unusual occurrence for large concerns to have three crops in various stages of growth, and this not only requires abundant financial backing, but skill and confidence to go ahead.

Certain varieties of tobacco require certain soils to produce a satisfactory article. It is proved beyond a doubt that given proper facilities for handling the plant, the friable soil of Hawaii will produce a very fine wrapper. But it takes time to do all this, and the tobacco business requires, not only selected seed, proper fertilization and correct buildings for curing, but also a trained corps of helpers.

Patterson Ranch Sold

Provident Investment Company of Los Angeles Purchase $200,000 worth of Land for Subdivision into Small Farms.

THE two-thousand acre ranch belonging to Dr. W Patterson which has been one of the show places of Surprise Valley has been sold to the Provident Investment company of Los Angeles. The deal was closed by Dr. Patterson and T A. Johnson at Gerlach, Mr. Johnson stopping there on his way East.

The deal is a significant one for the Valley. It is the beginning of the sub-division of the large ranches into smaller and more productive farms, the rapid increase of population and the general opening up of the country. The deal has been pending for some time and was closed on the strength of the railroad building plans.

The selling price of the Patterson ranch was not made public but the figure was approximately $200,000. This is the second big deal in Surprise Valley land, the Turner ranch having been sold last winter by the Provident company to Mr. Alvord of Ventnra.

USE FOR MICROBES.

A London Hospital Uses Dead Ones to Slay Evil Ones and the Cure of Disease.

[New York Times:] The old American frontier adage that the only good Indians are dead ones is more than pertinently applicable to the microbe war that is going on at St. Mary's Hospital here, for in this hospital the dead good microbes are used to slay the living evil ones.

Sir Almroth Wright, who has a way of making scientific subjects popular, calls St. Mary's the Scotland Yard of microbes. Here he has organized his staff just as the detective staff of a great criminal detection department is organized. The work he describes in a report just issued.

"Having found the central abode of the criminal microbe," writes Sir Almroth, "the doctor hands over the administration of capital punishment to members of its own class. By inoculating a patient suffering with inflammation with a suitable number of dead microbes of the same variety as are found to be causing the inflammation, the natural opponents of microbic life in the blood are stimulated into action and assist the cure."

How the principles of Scotland Yard are applied at St. Mary's may be best learned by the description of one with hip disease who had been much of several hundred cases whose history is given in the report:

"There is a girl now in our wards troubled by neuralgia of long standing. Removal of the worst teeth did not suffice to cure the neuralgia, which was due, we supposed, to microbic activity in other teeth not yet so grossly decayed as to warrant their removal. A microbe obtained from inside of one of the removed teeth was used for the preparation of a vaccine, to inoculation of which the neuralgia at once showed itself so amenable that in a week or two it had entirely gone."

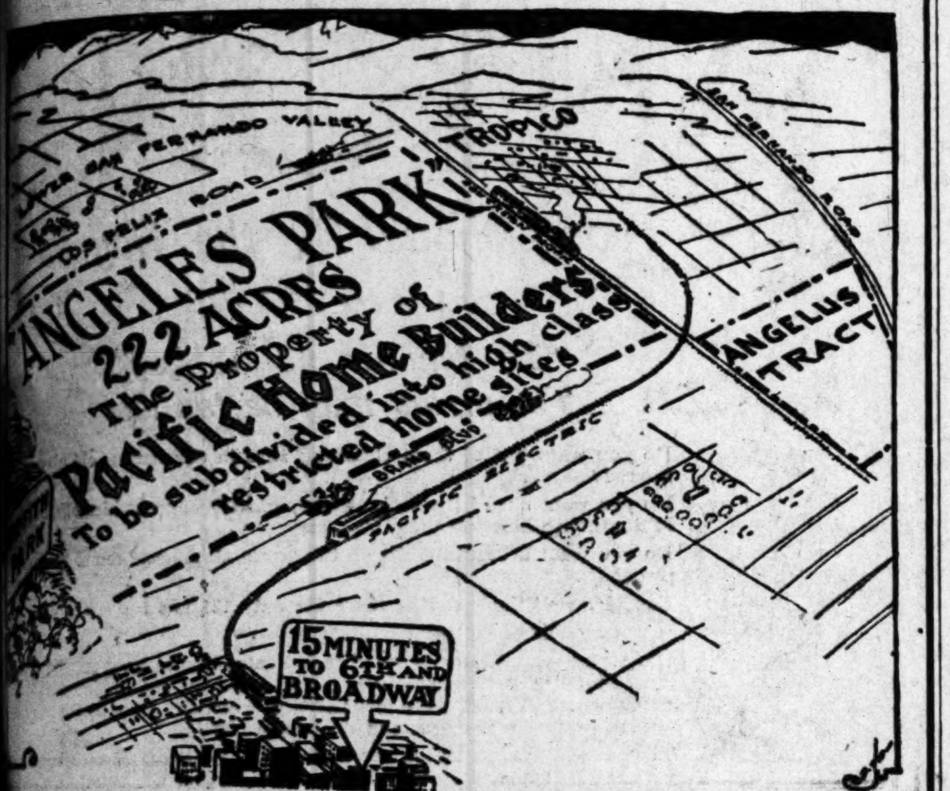
The research toward the eventual cure of "hay fever" by inoculation with antipollen substances is also stated to be producing satisfactory results. The seasonal character of this disease is apparently the only hindrance.

"Scarcely yet," says the director of the department, "has a due appreciation been attained of the large part played by microbes on the stage of our common life, their striking role in the infectious and epidemic diseases blinding in such sense of their similar complicity in such prosaic (alternative) maladies as 'indigestion,' 'colds,' 'toothache,' 'bronchitis,' etc. Throughout so large an area of human disease microbes are at work, and over just such an area may our expectation of the success of vaccine therapy legitimately extend, although not without certain limits."

Suppress College Rowdyism.

[New York Tribune:] Rowdyism by college students is to be suppressed in France by novel and drastic measures. A bill has been presented to the education department for approval which constitutes college faculties trial courts with power to enforce their decrees by fine and imprisonment. Students who resort to violence to gain their ends are to be compelled to study the lives of the most polished men of France, and they are to be held in custody until the professors give them a diploma which shows that they have read diligently the autobiographies of Chesterfieldian politeness. M. Leconte, the author of the bill, says the conduct of rowdies such as those who disgraced the last commencement at the Sorbonne threatens to rob France of her reputation as the most polite nation on earth.

Angelus Park



222 Acres

An Increased Asset of Pacific Home Builders

ANGELUS PARK, as it will be known, comprising 222 acres of the choicest residence property in the city of Los Angeles, has just been purchased by the Company. It will subdivide into 1300 lots, which will be restricted to high-class types of bungalows. To improve this property and erect homes, there will be expended in the next few years a sum in excess of and will show the same high-class development that has been shown on our "Angelus" and other tracts subdivided by the Company. It will be improved immediately, our surveyors are already on the ground. It is 15 minutes from the heart of the business section of Los Angeles, within the city limits and adjoins Griffith Park, the largest and what will be one of the most beautiful parks in the world.

You will want to help subdivide and share in the profits that will be made on this magnificent tract through the sale of homes and lots. You will become enthusiastic over the great possibilities if you will view it, as have all of PACIFIC HOME BUILDERS shareholders who have inspected this recent acquisition of high-class property.

$1.50 Per Share

PACIFIC HOME BUILDERS stock is now being sold at $1.50 per share and when you consider the great amount of acreage owned by the Company, nearly 400 acres, you will acknowledge that it is the best investment offered to the public today. Discriminating investors will readily see what this purchase means to the shareholders of PACIFIC HOME BUILDERS, both those of record and those who will, in the near future, avail themselves of this opportunity now presented to join capital with the

who has made a record for rapid, stable growth, who has paid continuous quarterly dividends showing fine returns on the investment and at the same time establishing a substantial surplus fund for the protection of its business.

PACIFIC HOME BUILDERS stock is attracting the attention of investors in all parts of the country, for with its increased earning power and large assets, it is the very best industrial investment on the market, and it is a better buy at the present price now, than ever before. Our next quarterly dividend will be declared October 1st, and will be 3 per cent. quarterly, or 12 per cent. per annum on par.

As there is an unprecedented demand for this stock at the present price, $1.50 per share, and as this allotment is limited, we advise an immediate investigation and subscription as the next allotment will be sold at $1.60 per share.

THE STATUTES OF THE AIR.

Some Speculations on Probable Laws Growing Out of Aerial Navigation.

BY C. DEAN BREEZE.

ALTHOUGH there have not been any notable improvements in airships for the past few years, and the present form of aeroplane is very unstable and uncertain in its action, depending entirely upon the skill of the aviator for its successful operation, the progress already made in aerial navigation, as evidenced by the innumerable marvelous feats of the birdmen, is sufficiant guaranty that the means of aerial navigation will be so improved and perfected in the very near future as to render the navigation of the air comparatively safe and inexpensive. Whether this will be accomplished by machines using planes for their support or by those using inflated bags, or by both, or by some other entirely new device, cannot be foreseen, but the feats now being performed almost daily are a sufficient basis for a belief in the ultimate success of man in using the air as a means of transportation for himself and his goods, safely, cheaply, and quickly.

Land is becoming so valuable especially in cities where the transportation problem is the greatest, and the railroads are becoming so inadequate as a means of distribution of the products of the interiors of the land areas of the world, that the charges are necessarily very great and the service very poor. In the beginning, probably passengers only will be carried aerially; then passengers and freight in common with the railroads and then the railroads will gradually disappear from the earth and their unsightly and cumbersome tracks, cars and grades with their smoke and noise will cease to afflict man and rob him of his peace and quiet.

There is a great shortage of transportation facilities in many parts of the world and while air-craft are becoming known and established and also being improved and perfected, no doubt the railroads will remain and have all they can do, but when the safety, speed and economy of aerial transportation are thoroughly established, the railroads will be obliged to give way and it will be a cleaner, brighter, quieter world to live in. Probably water transportation will outlive rail transportation, but eventually the ships of the sea will be replaced by those of the air in the carrying trade.

Once the problem of resisting the law of gravity is solved, the air will be an ideal field for transportation operations. Although only a layer of atmosphere a mile or two in thickness around the earth will be commonly used, it is hard to conceive of the congestion of the air with traffic. When aircraft become more common than automobiles, any monopoly of distribution will be impossible and with the air open to all airships it will be impossible to build up any trust, or monopoly in business through a favorable arrangement with, or rebates from, any transportation company; probably also the distribution of products over the earth will become so perfect that oppressive monopolies of every kind will cease to exist, for most trusts may be said to be based on some advantages in transportation facilities, either for the raw material, supplies consumed in the course of manufacture or for the distribution of the finished product. It is safe to say that the mind cannot conceive the great changes in all commercial and industrial affairs and the life of man generally which will directly and indirectly grow out of aerial navigation.

Law which prescribes the conditions of man's entrance upon the earth, rules his actions while passing through life, and at last administers his estate when he has passed on, will of necessity modify its rules to fit changed conditions. As law is said to be the "perfection of reason," possibly some laws which will be rendered necessary or expedient by changed conditions may be reasoned out on the hypothesis that aerial transportation will soon supersede rail, and, eventually, water-transportation.

First there must be a right-of-way or easement for air-craft over the land of public and private owners, for the owner of land owns also the air over it and is protected from all encroachments upon his property, so that no one may construct anything overhanging the land of another, such as eaves and gutters. It is a doctrine of law that the owner of realty owns an inverted pyramid whose apex is at the center of the earth and whoes base is an infinite distance above the earth's surface. By this rule all the atmosphere over the land area of the earth is held in private and public ownership, so that the airman passes through it only by permission, or sufferance of the owners of the underlying realty. As man has given up many of his rights individually for the good of society in general, so it seems reasonable to believe that he will have hereafter to grant free passage over his real property to the airships of the world, probably without any compensation.

Intimately connected with this right of passage should be the means of landing and probably public stations will be maintained by municipalities and States wherever necessary and kept open for all, thereby helping to prevent monopoly, unless by that time monopolies shall have been turned to the general advantage of all the people. It will also be necessary for the enforcement of government inspection laws (indispensable to public safety) to require all air craft to arrive and depart from a government station. This would also assist in the collection of customs and duties on imports, the apprehension of fugitives from justice, and the enforcement of immigration laws.

Then, no doubt there will be national, or, more probably, international police regulations as to the examination and licensing of pilots or drivers of air craft; the registration, identification and inspection of air ships; and regulations for lights, bells, whistles, flags, signals and safety devices. Uniform rules could be established by international convention.

These air craft will travel so fast, and frequently at night, passing over one State after another and the territory of nation after nation without distinction, and different nations will learn each other's language, customs and characteristics, so that the brotherhood of man will become more and more an established and admitted reality, and because war will have been discontinued and because aerial commerce will be so world-embracing that it cannot be encompassed by mere local or national laws, the nations of the earth will probably construct in representative convention all the laws, rules and regulations governing aerial transportation and this will lead to the establishment in every nation of courts having jurisdiction of all public offenses committed in the air, in, upon, about, from or by means of, any device, or contrivance for navigating the air, in short any crime directly connected with, or growing out of aerial transportation, and also all civil cases arising out of aerial commerce, or in fact all commercial transactions, which will be an extension of the old law merchant which has so long governed international commerce. It seems possible that universal aerial courts can be established by agreement by the time they are seriously needed, with a code and laws identical in all parts of the world and administered in the same way. Each State and nation can maintain whatever aerial courts shall be necessary for the expeditious handling of the business naturally arising, which courts must be conducted in conformity with the universal agreement. There can be a representative congress, meeting at stated intervals, for the making of laws necessarily universal in their application and enforcible by the universal aerial courts, whose process shall run to all parts of the world and be executed by officers in each nation. Public offenders charged with aerial crimes may be brought to trial in the universal aerial court wherever apprehended, or returned to the place from which the ship on which or from which the offense was committed, sailed last before the commission of the crime, or for good cause appearing, may be tried elsewhere.

Another reform which appears likely to grow out of universal aerial navigation is the changing of our extradition laws and treaties, for it would be an intolerable condition, if aero-bandits or pirates could swoop down upon their victims and then fly off to another country from which they could not be extradited at all, or extradited with exreme difficulty. All restraints on extradition among the several States of our own country will probably be abolished entirely, so that one accused of crime may be taken without question from any place where he is found back to the place where the offense was committed, without regard to the territorial boundaries of the States. Warrants for the arrest of persons charged with having committed felonies could be made effective beyond the State in which the offense was committed only when issued by a court of record. Justices' courts could continue as at present to issue warrants for the arrest of persons charged with the commission of both felonies and misdemeanors and effective only in their respective States as to felonies, but effective anywhere within the United States as to misdemeanors.

International extradition could be founded upon the same court of record warrants previously described, with the exception that political offenders could be excluded from extradition and an accused person, objecting to being taken back, on the ground that he was really wanted for some political offense in his own country, could be heard on habeas corpus in the universal aerial court, or by treaty it could be agreed that anyone brought back for trial on a criminal charge from any foreign country should be immune from prosecution for any political offense. Thus the rights of the individual would be preserved and society would be enabled better to deal with those who ever delight in defying the authority of the State and menacing the lives and property of the citizens.

CORROSION OF SEA WATER.

Scientific Study of the Deterioration of the Relics of the Battleship Maine Gives Interesting Results.

[San Antonio Express:] The resurrection of the Maine after thirteen years at the bottom of Havana harbor furnished an unusual opportunity for study of the effect on metals and wood of long submersion in tropical waters. This opportunity was utilized bo Dr. Maximilian Toch, to whom every opportunity was given by the Government to make his investigation thorough and exhaustive. Many valuable specimens from the shattered and worn hull and fittings, illustrating the effect of the various destructive agencies at work, were obtained during the investigation, and now lie in the museum of the College of the City of New York. Dr. Toch gives a brief resume of his findings in the Engineering News of July 4.

The first thing that he discovered was that, contrary to popular report, the hull consisted not of cast and wrought iron, but of modern steel. The anchor chains and pumps were the only parts of cast and wrought iron. The hull had sunk into the mud to within a few feet of the upper deck. All the paint below the mud line was gone, but the wood was as perfect and sound as on the night the Maine sank. Above this line, however, the teredo had riddled all the pine until it was a mere shell, but the mahogany had not been touched. The notion that the teredo works only between high and low water was disproved, for it had attacked the pine of the Maine right down to the mud line.

The metal of the hull was "corroded clear through" in but one place. In many places there was a coating of rust nearly an inch thick; but the growth of submarine animals over the steel seemed to have acted as a protection against further disentegration. It was found that wherever the steel had been close to copper or brass, corrosion was more marked, as the result of electrolytic action. The breech of a ten-inch gun, for example, which had brass fittings, was eaten away "practically completely." The brass and copper, however, suffered very little. The pumps, composed chiefly of iron and bronze, were scarcely aged at all by the long submergence. In fact, at least one of them was fitted up with new piston rods (the piston rods, being of steel, were badly corroded,) and used in pumping the liquid mud out of the hull.

The ammunition was found in surprisingly good condition. Many of the smaller rifle shells could be exploded, although the report was weak, owing to the partial degeneration of the smokeless powder. The rubber packings were in perfect condition. Regarding the condition of the human skeletons, Dr. Toch says: "All the bodies found were entirely disarticulated. No vestige of clothing, with the exception of such metallic objects as were in or on them, remained, but it is worthy of note that in thirteen years the bones had suffered no decomposition whatever."

RARE MINERALS.

this is a sandy mixture of aluminum silicate with iron oxides; might try it for bricks.

An Odd Question.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 15.—Q.: It seems that a student interested in geology asked my niece. "Is the Rampherhyncas an extinct animal?" I was appealed to by the little girl for an answer, and was compelled to "give it up." I have always deemed it wise to confess ignorance when unable to answer a question, and it may be right and proper for me to ask The Times for some information on the Ramphorhyncas without being regarded as a self-confessed idiot?

MRS. A. R. H.

A.: It is a rather common mistake of certain students to use "catchwords" and isloated phrases for the purpose of confusing their elders, and to enjoy a laugh at the expense of the one questioned. Such questions, "like the explosion of steam boilers, can only do harm, and are commonly most fatal to the engineers." Snobs and dudes, including other varieties of lunatics and idiots, are commonly addicted to the use of fool questions, and the positive mark of the ignoramus is, that the question propounded by "It" is invariably answered with a grin, closely allied to that of the hyena.

A definition of the Ramphorhyncas is not given in the common dictionaries. Geologically the "varmint" is extinct, and in its day was "a curious intermediate link between birds and reptiles." It was the happy owner of a tail which it smeared along the ground; it was a four-footed creature with a head on the enlarged pattern of a heron. It was noted for its prominent upper and lower teeth; it possessed two spike-like "big sticks" at the tips of its wings (or arms,) which wings were on the order of the flying squirrel, and those of the vampire.

The Ramphorhyncas is often observed now-a-days as a fossil-skeleton in certain Kansas and other rocks. In mineralogy there is, undoubtedly, such a substance as pseudomorph after Ramphorhyncas, but it is not found in the "regular" limestone.

Perhaps our safe, sane, and good President of this republic, William Howard Taft, has some knowledge of the latter-day Ramphorhyncas. Like the hybrid of old in its "progressive" movement, it perambulates backwards, and attacks all and everything at the front in an envious manner with words and phrases soaked in bildge-water, as it were.

The Ramphorhyncas, phonetically, can be referred to as the ram for ink, cuss. There sure has been a lot of (printer's) ink used in the exploitation of the "progressive?" rams, of high and low degree!

In Part Native.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16.—Q.: The enclosed samples were found 200 feet deep in an oil well at Newport Beach. What is the substance? It looks like blue-chalk.

G. W. K.

A.: And by the same token some of the pill-shaped masses are blue chalk of commerce, but not of mineralogy. Bitumen is present in two of the pills. Why not prospect for more?

Low-Grade Talc.

SILVER LAKE, Aug. 17.—Q.: I am mailing you some samples of what I call kaolin. It is in a vein of four-foot width and within seven miles of Silver Lake. Has the ore a commercial value that would pay to mine and haul?

W. C. B.

A.: It is very doubtful if the material could be mined at a profit. The sample is a low-grade talc with deleterious substances present, such as iron oxides, manganese, dioxide, and lime traces.

Ores and Minerals.

BEATTY (Nev.) Aug. 18.—Q.: Please have the kindness to classify these ores and minerals for me. I have been prospecting hereabouts for three years and now ask your help on the specimens. No. 1 comes from five miles west of Beatty. No. 2 is from a parallel vein on the location, and I take both samples as tungsten ore. No. 3 is from the Lee district, and while iron is plentiful in the rock, it seems to me that it must carry cinnabar. Is the bright metal in No. 3 mercury? No. 4 is from the Funeral Range of mountains, and I take this as white silicate of zinc. No. 5 comes from my partner's property near Gold Mountain, what is the rock, and why does the gold kill the quicksilver? Is No. 6 lead carbonate?

F. P. W.

A.: Sample No. 1 is a mixed hubnerite with wolframite and carries a big percent. of tungstic acid of commerce, it is from a very narrow lead, however. No. 2 does not carry a trace of tungsten, it is an iron oxide (gothte.) No. 3 is hematite (variety Indian war paint.) and the silvery white matter present in the mass is a low-grade mixture of mica in combination with a variety of graphite accompanying the mica. No. 4 is simply porcellanite (porcelain-jasper.) which is 'a clay altered by heat, and having the aspect of certain kinds of porcelain." No. 5 is a ferruginous quartz carrying native (flour and rusty) gold. Work the pulverized ore with quick-silver in a muller, this will "brighten" the gold so as to enable it to form an amalgam with mercury. Much of the flour gold is in combination with altered pyrite, in miscroscopical forms, and to save the greater per cent. of it (which goes off in, and with, the tailings.) you must resort to wet methods—chlorination preferred. No. 6 is baryte (barium sulphate or heavy spar.)

Silver Glance.

FLINT (Idaho) Aug. 18.—Q.: I am mailing you in this sack a sample of ore that is from a narrow ledge on my Parrot claim, located near Silver City, tagged No. 1, which I think is gray copper. No. 2 is from a gouge on the claim which may be silver, too. None "of the mining boys" seem to get just what No. 2 is.

A. M.

A.: Sample No. 1 is not gray copper, it is silver-glance (silver sulphide) of a very high-grade. The sample is partly in rhombic dodecahedrons." with traces of dodecahedral cleavage." Color, blackish lead-gray; and has acquired by exposure, a superficial, iridescent tarnish. Opaque, and of metallic luster. Sectile and malleable. Streak shining and same as color of the ore. Difficulty frangible. Flexible. Fracture small-grained and uneven, and yields easily to the knife-blade. (Some specimens of silver-glance are of imperfect-conchoidal fracture.) Hardness 2.4 Sp. gr., 7.35. Approximate composition: Silver, 77.-50; sulphur, 14.50; iron, 2; copper, 2, and lead, 4 percentage respectively. Before the blowpipe (or even in the flame of a candle.) the sulphur is driven off with intumescence and the silver is reduced to its metallic state. In concentrated sulphuric acid the ore is soluble, and from the solution the sulphur separates.

Sample No. 2 is Aphrite; "a nearly pure lime carbonate, differing from schiefer-spar in being less coherent. It has a very pale, yellowish, nearly silver-white color. Occurs massive and disseminated, sometimes solid, more often in a loose or friable state, and composed of fine scaly particles, with a shining luster intermediate between semi-metallic and pearly. It is opaque and very soft. It is usually found in veins or cavities in limestone rocks." Very often, on our trips to the hills, we find aphrite at many cabins and homes of the mining-boys. We have given you, therefore, a clear description of this deceptive mineral for the benefit of "the bunch," so as to "hit the bull's-eye" hereafter, as it were.

Smoky Quartz.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19.—Q.: Find enclosed quartz. Please tell me its value if any? Found north of Sierra Madre.

H.F.L.

A.: The quartz with titaniferous iron and iron oxide traces is of no value unless assays show gold present.

Dolomitic Limestone.

MOJAVE, Aug. 19.—Q.: Under separate cover I am sending you sample gray formation found south of Mojave, Cal. Will you please inform me whether it contains any mineral of value? I do not expect it carries any silver or gold, but had an idea it might carry zinc, tin, or magnetite. It was found four feet from the surface and has a depth of fifteen feet.

H. J.

A.: Sample is dolomitic limestone, with traces of magnetite, hematite, and trace of tungstic acid. Mineral represented by the sample has but little commercial value.

Gannister and Calcite.

SAN BERNARDINO, Aug. 19.—Q.: Herewith three samples from a point within five miles of El Casco, Riverside county, Cal. I cannot determine what variety of rock belongs to No. 1 specimen, and Nos. 2 and 3 may be phosphate rock?

A.: Sample No. 1 is well described as follows: "Gannister is a refractory silicious cherty stone mixed with fire-clay, used for lining Bessemer converters and for macadamizing roads." Samples Nos. 2 and 3 are lime carbonate; No. 2 is crystallized and No. 3 is massive. Phosphoric acid not present in either sample.

The Old Guard.

HEARTFELT WELCOME TO GRAND ARMY VETERANS.

Preparations Complete for Entertainment of Honored Guests, Many of Whom Come for the Last Time from Distant States—They Represent Half a Million Survivors of the Formidable Union Army.

WITH a record of past and present achievement of which the whole nation is proud, the Grand Army of the Republic is assembling in this city to hold its forty-sixth annual encampment. The delegates have come from the distant Atlantic Coast, the Middle West and the Rocky Mountain region. They number less than 1000, but they represent 500,000 survivors of the formidable army that crushed the rebellion. With them are wives, sons, daughters and friends to the number of possibly 50,000, first and last.

They are men of achievement and efficiency in peace as well as in war. The people of Los Angeles and of all California accord them all honor, respect and admiration, and a sincere and heartfelt welcome that is in no respect perfunctory.

Visitors and residents have already entered fully into the spirit of the occasion. The delegates who are here say they are delighted with their reception and their first impressions of the sunny Southland. No State in the Union is more purely American or more loyally patriotic than is California. Although it is on the outer border of the country and many of the veterans have been obliged to journey far to attend this encampment, they feel that it is worth while, for they are encountering a genuine California welcome and are about to begin the work of the encampment under ideally favorable conditions.

The Executive Committee and the subcommittees have completed their work of preparation and the encampment arrangements are complete. Comfortable and convenient quarters have been found for every Grand Army visitor. Elaborate precautions have been taken lest any mishap occur to mar the great parade, and the route has been carefully arranged to give everybody a chance to view it without making it too long.

Side trips to the beaches, mountains and orange groves have been arranged, so that they will not conflict with any of the business of the Grand Army and its auxiliary organizations.

It will be a memorable week for both hosts and guests. To the people of this city it will be an event of historical and present significance. To the old soldiers it will be a joyful reunion, an opportunity to live over again, around the campfires, the stirring scenes of half a century ago.

Forty States will be represented. In the convention halls and in the parade will be exhibited tattered and bullet-torn battleflags and other relics. There will be formal and informal speech-making and important business to be transacted at the regular encampment sessions.

CONTEST FOR COMMANDER.

The campaign for Commander-in-Chief is already well under way, and three candidates are running an apparently close race for the honor. They are Alfred D. Beers, Bridgeport, Ct.; George Tibbetts, Orting, Wash., and Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, New York City. Each of the candidates has a strong following and an interesting contest is anticipated.

The business streets have been appropriately and elaborately decorated in honor of the Grand Army and the flag. Practically every store and business building has been draped and myriads of electric lights will make the night decorations even more effective.

General headquarters of the encampment will be in the Sunset room of the Pacific Electric building. In addition to the registration clerks there will be a branch postoffice, an information bureau, an emergency hospital and rest room. Details of Grand Army members, women of the Relief Corps, and Spanish War Veterans will be on duty continually.

Other information bureaus will be established at the three railroad depots, the Alexandria Hotel and the Chamber of Commerce.

Of the 1500 members of the National Encampment entitled to participate this week it is believed that more than half will be present. Fully 750 delegates will be here, representing the Woman's Relief Corps, Daughters of Veterans and the Ladies of the Grand Army.

An important and interesting feature of the week will be the presence of sixty or more army nurses. They are getting along in years now, but in the early sixties they were young, rosy-cheeked girls who left the comforts and luxuries of home to go to the front and nurse the sick and wounded. They are the special guests of the local Grand Army committees, and every consideration will be shown them.

IMPRESSIVE PARADE.

The strikingly impressive event of the encampment will be the parade. Leading Grand Army men believe this will be the last time the national body will march on this Coast. Only a few more such parades will be held anywhere.

When the veterans of the Civil War march through the streets of this city next Wednesday morning they will be viewed by hundreds of thousands, most of whom know of the thrilling events of the nation's greatest crisis only by hearsay and reading. To the crowds that line the streets they will represent the courage and daring and persistence that conquered a valiant foe. To the more thoughtful they will represent also achievement in civil life, for these men had the patient courage, the strength and patriotism to do their part and more in building up the nation which had been torn asunder and well-nigh wrecked.

The men who are here this week represent the youngest and sturdiest of the great Union army. While all of them are past the prime of life, hundreds and thousands are still actively and prominently identified with business and political affairs. They have accomplished much in war and in peace and the end of their usefulness is not yet.

Capt. H. Z. Osborne, executive director of the encampment, has recently made extensive research concerning the achievements of the Union soldier in civil life. He says in this connection:

"After Lee surrendered at Appomattox there were nearly 2,000,000 men in the Union army. It was considered a serious question as to what would happen when they were released from military restraint, and many predicted a wave of lawlessness and demoralization. Instead the 2,000,000 Union soldiers and the 1,000,000 Confederate melted into the mass of society with scarcely a ripple.

"Their energy, vigor and experience were soon felt in all branches of industrial activity and the nation entered upon a career of material prosperity which has continued to the present day and which has never been paralleled in the world's history.

"Before the war men lived and died in the neighborhood of their birthplaces. Those who left their homes to go to the front and survived had a widened vision and experience, and they broadened out in every direction. The Far West and the Pacific Coast owe much to their energy."

Six Presidents, Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Arthur, Harrison and McKinley, and great numbers of Governors of States and members in Congress have come from the soldier ranks. The most conspicuous figures in the Spanish war were Civil War veterans. In politics and affairs of State, as heads of banking institutions, as owners and managers of great industries, as publishers of newspapers, the old soldiers are everywhere conspicuous, and they will continue to be for some time to come."

THEIR FIRST ENCAMPMENT.

New Grand Army Posts at Monrovia and in This City Will Participate in This Week's Events.

Two Grand Army posts will participate in this week's encampment which were never before represented at a national encampment. They are Admiral Robley D. Evans Post, No. 200, of this city, and Monrovia Post, No. 202.

The Evans post was recently organized in this city with thirty-eight members and a membership roll limited to 100. They have adopted a navy uniform. James O. Boyer is Commander and Henry Harrison is Senior Vice-Commander.

The new Monrovia post came into existence last week, with forty-nine members. Its commander is Joseph Coombs. S. J. Dyer is senior vice-commander. A woman's relief corps was organized at the same time with thirty-nine members.

TO KEEP FLAG UNSULLIED.

California Women to Join in Movement to Prevent Its Use as a Trademark.

While the American flag is flying over every quarter of the city this week, an organized effort will be made to secure legislation to prevent its desecration. Mrs. Isabell Worrell Ball, chairman of the National Committee on Desecration of the Flag of the Woman's Relief Corps, has come here from Washington to meet local women and enlist their co-operation in the work which is already well under way in the East.

Mrs. Ball will present a great deal of information, which she and her colleagues have gathered, showing that the flag and other national emblems have been used as trademarks and for various unpatriotic purposes. It is probable that the meetings this week will result in the formation of a branch of the National Committee.

WELFARE OF THE VETERANS.

Elaborate Preparations for the Parade Include Free Lemonade, Physicians and Ambulances.

Among the important aids for the veterans during the parade on Wednesday, will be the brigade of dispensers of free lemonade, who will be stationed at various places along the line of march with buckets filled with refreshing drink. The work will be prosecuted by boys of the several military schools of the city.

To be in readiness to care for any of the aged men who may fall by the wayside during the parade, a large number of doctors, who have volunteered for the service, will also be stationed along the line, and will have at their disposal fifteen ambulances.

The number of automobiles placed at the disposal of the General Committee for the use of veterans is said to be in excess of 500, but others may not hesitate to offer their machines, as the demand will be heavy. Each machine will be decorated with the Grand Army emblem, and, without cost, will be at the service of any veteran who may wish to reach any part of th city.

DESCENDANT OF SOLDIERS.

..National President of Woman's Relief Corps of Long Line of Military Ancestry.

Mrs. Cora M. Davis, National President of Woman's Relief Corps, is a resident of Oregon, a native of Michigan, and her father served in the Twelfth Indiana Volunteer Infantry. Her ancestors were soldiers in the Revolutionary War and the War of 1812. For many years she was a successful public school teacher and has taken a deep interest in the affairs of the Relief Corps. She is Past President of the Department of Oregon and a Past National Inspector; is a woman of natural executive ability and of great dignity of character.

SOUVENIR OF PRISON DAYS.

Nelson P. Cozens, Junior Vice-Commander, Department of Colorado and Wyoming, carries a grim souvenir cane, presented to him by a comrade who died after spending twenty-two months in the damnable Andersonville prison. During his imprisonment he made the cane and carved on it the emblems of the first three degrees of Masonry

To Martial Strains.

ROUTE OF PARADE AND ORDER OF FORMATION.

THE GRAND parade will move at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. The route is one and seven-eighths miles long and is arranged to take in as much of the business district and to pass as many of the principal office buildings as possible with so short a line of march.

The procession will form on Los Angeles street, north and south of Fifth street. The line of march will be as follows: West on Fifth to Main, to Second, to Spring, to Sixth to Broadway, to the Courthouse, to Temple and New High and disband. The order of formation is as follows:

interest in Grand Army cir manifested over the three-cor contest for the honor of be elected Commander-in-Chief of famous veteran organization dur the Los Angeles encampment. There has always been lively com for the place, which is the of the hopes of every old sol who thinks he has a ghost of a at it, but this year the cam is even keener than usual. such a thing as "quitting" most unlikely as long as warm blood of patriotism con to pulse through the veins of sands of men who went through great American conflict, the pos may have added zest to what are inclined to believe the last ce.

There are but three candidates who made a campaign. They are Al B. Beers of Bridgeport, Ct.; W. Tibbetts of Orting, Wash.; Daniel E. Sickles of New York. prognosticators have figured it that Beers has the inside track. reason for this is that Connec has never before presented a didate, and in the forty-five years never been nearer the top than place—Junior Vice-Commander this was filled by Beers. In all they argue, the choice must year go back to the East to the Pacific Coast. As the latter, the election has more than just dipped its in the west side of the Missouri and Coast veterans argue that wouldn't be expecting too much to that this populous Coast be given chance at the honor ere it is too by the choice of Tibbetts.

allant old Gen. "Dan" Sickles, full honors and of years, promoted to general and given a medal of for bravery upon the Gettys field, where he left his good leg, is said to be making a fight for the coveted office, not standing the fact that he is 87 of age and confined to a wheel. That a great popular wave enthusiasm would greet his elec goes without saying. The pic of the rugged old soldier was in 1911, and the autograph ture was written specially for Times.

Capt. Beers has the distinction enlisted at the age of 16 and of coming out with a cap commission at the age of 20. commander of hte Department of necticut in 1880, Judge Advocate ral of the national organization 1902 to 1908; Junior Vice-Com der, 1909; Committee on Rules, and 1911. He was admitted to bar in Connecticut in 1871, was Attorney of Bridgeport for four for sixteen years Judge of the Court, and held other places of and responsibility. He has the usiastic indorsement of the De ment of Connecticut, and in urg their claim they carefully avoid ing any obstructions in the way other candidate; but they are for the "nutmeg" candidate.

George W. PROMINENT PROHIBITIONIST.

Massachusetts Veteran and Shoe Man Quits Business and Strives to Conquer King Alcohol.

John B. Lewis of Massachusetts, national patriotic instructor of the Grand Army, served three years as a private in the Forty-fourth Massachusetts Regiment, and was one of the 1160 men who successfully defended the fortifications at Little Washington, N. C., for seventeen days against the assault of a superior body of Confederate troops.

At the close of the war he located in Louisiana in the shoe business, and after fifteen years returned to his native State, following the same line. He retired in 1900 and has since devoted most of his time to the uplift of humanity. He is active in all lines of temperance work, and in 1907 was elected a member of the Massachusetts Legislature. At the present time he is vice-chairman of the Prohibition party, and in the past has been their candidate for Governor of Massachusetts and for Congress.

Mr. Lewis is a good speaker and will have charge of the camp fire in Shrine Auditorium on Thursday evening, where actual camp scenes will be re-enacted, speeches made by prominent veterans, music and other entertainment. He will also preside at a meeting of patriotic instructors tomorrow forenoon and hopes to form a permanent organization of patriotic instructors of various societies allied with the G.A.R. for the teaching of patriotism and good citizenship.

HELPFUL ORGANIZATION.

National Alliance, Daughters of Veterans, Elects National President by Promotion of Next in Line.

The first tent of the National Alliance, Daughters of Veterans, was formed at Massillon, O., in December, 1885, and the present National Treasurer, Miss Augusta Snyder, of the organization, is a member of that tent. This was followed closely by the organization of a tent in Alliance, O., and the G.A.R. posts of these two cities have never recognized the claim of any other auxiliary organization. Full recognition by the Grand Army of the Republic did not come until at the National Encampment of 1900, and the Daughters of Veterans now have a membership of over 10,000. The National President is Miss Philippine M. Schoeman, who is also President of the Department of New York. The custom has been adopted of promoting the Senior Vice-President to the place of National President, and hence there is no contest for the chief office. The contest is for Junior Vice-President, but as that involves three years' attendance at the National Encampment, before the climax can be reached, there is little excitement in the contest. The present Senior Vice-President is Miss Nina M. Littlefield of Cambridge, Mass., who will succeed to the Presidency, and Mrs. May Kidder of New Hampshire, who is Junior Vice-President, will step up to the next place. The chief purpose of the organization is to keep alive, patriotic sentiment in memory of their fathers, and to offer aid and friendship to the aged veterans, their widows and orphans.

MEMENTOES OF COLD HARBOR.

TWO RELICES MOST CHERISHED BY ARKANSAS VETERAN.

Confederate Flag and "Shin Plaster" Gifts of Grateful Confederate, and Dimly-written Diary Is Complete Record of a Michigan Cavalry Company.

A gift from a grateful Confederate soldier and a dimly-written diary, which is almost a complete record of Co. C, First Michigan Cavalry, are cherished relics which link past and present for George W. Clark, Past Department Commander of Arkansas, who is here as a delegate to the national encampment.

George W. Clark

Of Arkansas, who possesses relics of a kindness extended at Cold Harbor.

"I kept the diary during the last two years of the war," he says, "when I was commissary sergeant of my company in Custer's brigade. I purchased the book in order to keep a record of the members composing the messes, and it is therefore a complete company roll. The writing has become faint and dim, as I used a lead pencil, and most of the notes were written under trying circumstances. Our regiment served in the Army of the Potomac, and we were kept on the move most of the time. In the diary I kept a full record of the numerous engagements in which we participated.

"The other relic is a very small copy of the Confederate flag, white ground with bars in the upper left-hand corner, made of silk. On it is inscribed in a woman's handwriting, "Emblem of purity, symbol of truth." With the flag I keep a 50-cent "shin plaster" issued by the city of Richmond.

"These were given me by a young Confederate soldier at the battle of Cold Harbor, May 30, 1864. He was about 18 years old, my own age at that time, and was apparently mortally wounded. I helped him to a tree and propped him up, where he would not be trampled on by the cavalry, of which there were many companies in the vicinity. He asked me for a drink of water. I gave him what he wished from my canteen and offered to leave the canteen with him. He refused to take it, and also said he had no message to send. I never heard from him afterward, and presume he died from his wounds."

The Pernicious Drug Habit.

[The Century:] Whether a man has acquired the habit knowingly or unknowingly, its action is always the same. No matter how conscientiously he wishes to discharge his affairs, the drug at once begins to loosen his sense of moral obligation, until in the end it brings about absolute irresponsibility. Avoidance and neglect of customary duties, evasion of new ones, extraordinary resourcefulness in the discovery of the line of least resistance, and finally amazing cunning and treachery—this is the inevitable history

The drug habit is no respecter of persons. I have had under my care exemplary mothers and wives who became indifferent to their families; clergymen of known sincerity and fervor who became shoplifters and forgers; shrewd, successful business men who became paupers, because the habit left them at the mercy of sharpers after mental deterioration set in.

THE OFFICERS IN COMMAND.

Heads of Grand Army and Their Attainments.

Chief Is Attorney Who Has Held High Office.

Records of Men Whose Terms Soon Expire.

The national officers of the Grand Army of the Republic, whose terms of office expire this week, are men of high attainment and ability, with splendid records in war and peace. During their administration the affairs of the organization have been conducted harmoniously and efficiently.

COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF.

Harvey Marion Trimble, Commander-in-Chief, was born near Wilmington, O., in 1842. The breaking out of the Civil War came before he had completed his studies at Eureka College and he left his books to enter the army. During his army career, which lasted three years, his conduct was distinguished by great personal bravery and a manly and soldierly bearing that attracted the attention of both his superior officers and the men who served with him.

He participated in every battle in which his command was engaged except one minor skirmish which occurred while he was held prisoner, following his capture while on scout duty. Before his release from duty as acting assistant adjutant-general, he received a note of formal commendation from Gen. Clark, commanding the brigade.

He resumed the study of law upon his return to private life and was admitted to practice in 1867. Less than a year later he was made Master in Chancery of the Circuit Court of Bureau county, and held the position for nine years.

He was elected a member of the Board of Education, was four times elected County Judge of Bureau county, and has been commander of Ferris Post, president of the Bureau County Soldiers' Association and Judge in the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit of Illinois. Judge Trimble is recognized by his comrades of the Grand Army as a man of scholarly attainments, courtly bearing and high administrative ability.

SENIOR VICE-COMMANDER.

Gen. Nicholas W. Day, Senior Vice-Commander, was born in New Brunswick, N. J., in 1840. He entered the army as quartermaster sergeant of the Seventy-first New York, a three months regiment. Later he was captain in the Ninety-sixth New York, from which position he was promoted to the rank of major.

He served with distinction in the Army of the Gulf, and was promoted to a colonelcy because of his conspicuous gallantry in the series of assaults upon Port Hudson. In 1864 he served under Sheridan. At Winchester he received on the battlefield the thanks of his corps commander, Gen. Emory, and was brevetted a brigadier-general for his services on that occasion.

At a critical moment in the battle, when his command was beginning to falter, Gen. Day seized the regimental colors and dashed to the front, calling upon his men to follow.

JUNIOR VICE-COMMANDER.

Capt. William A. Ogden, Junior Vice-Commander, was born in New Jersey in 1843. He enlisted as a private in 1862 in the Fifteenth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers. He was commissioned a first lieutenant in 1864 for gallant conduct in action, and the following year was brevetted captain for meritorious conduct when in charge of Ft. Mahone.

He was in the Army of the Potomac and participated in twenty-two battles, beginning with Antietam and ending with Appomattox. He is now a resident of Ness City, Kan. He is a member of the Masonic Fraternity, the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States and of the Grand Army of the Republic.

INSPECTOR-GENERAL.

John Hogue McClay, Inspector-General was born in Ohio in 1843. When a boy of 14 he enlisted in the Forty-seventh Regiment, Illinois Infantry, and participated in the following engagements: New Madrid, siege of Corinth, Iuka and Corinth, first expedition against Vicksburg, second expedition against Vicksburg, siege of Vicksburg and assault, Mechanicsburg expedition against Johnston, Arkansas expedition against Gen. Thompson, Red River campaign, campaign in Mississippi, siege of Mobile. He re-enlisted in 1864 and was in command of a company of sharpshooters the last year of the war, being mustered out in 1866.

He was a member of the Nebraska Legislature in 1883, 1885 and 1888. He served with distinction with the Army of Occupation under Gen. Fitzhugh Lee in Cuba as lieutenant-colonel of a Nebraska regiment. He is a member of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion and a Mason of the thirty-third degree.

SURGEON-GENERAL.

Dr. John D. Hanrahan, Surgeon-General, was born in Ireland in 1844. In June, 1861, he was appointed assistant surgeon in the United States navy and served through the entire Civil War. In August, 1863, the vessel on which he was serving was captured at the mouth of the Rappahannock River and all on board were made prisoners. Dr. Hanrahan was confined in Libby Prison for a time and was then released on parole on condition that he would attend the Union prisoners at Belle Island.

He is now physician and medical examiner for St. Peter's Hibernian Society, American Order of Foresters, Catholic Order of Foresters, Ancient Order of Hibernians, Rutland Council Knights of Columbus, Circle Companion Foresters of America. He has practiced medicine in Rutland, Vt., for forty-three years.

CHAPLAIN-IN-CHIEF.

Rev. J. Wynne Jones, D.D., was born in Wales and came to this country with his parents in 1854. He enlisted in 1862 and was mustered into service in the Twenty-third Regiment Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry, in his seventeenth year. He served through many campaigns and was mustered out in 1865.

He entered Princeton and graduated from that university and later from Princeton Theological Seminary. He has been for thirty-five years pastor of Abbott Memorial Presbyterian Church in Baltimore. He was twice Moderator of the Synod of Baltimore and was elected president of the Presbyterian, Reformed and Congregational Association of Baltimore. He was commissioner to the Presbyterian General Assembly in Portland, Or., in 1892.

Had Her Suspicions.

[Kansas City Journal:] A Missouri lawyer, who at an early age acquired a taste for milk and not so many years later learned that the addition of a "jigger" of booze made a drink really more to his liking, has not outgrown his fondness for milk punch, even though his wife is a loyal churchwoman and member of the W.C.T.U. and permits no intoxicants on the sideboard.

That she may not know of his occasional libations, the attorney always kept a package of "breath improvers" in his desk and after indulging in his favorite drink he never neglected to supplant the telltale odor with the spiced cachous.

One evening as he sat on the veranda of his home, having just arrived from downtown after a very laborious day at the office, his wife approached him and, noting the familiar perfume, said tremulously:

"Robert, dear, I want you to quit using those lozenges. I'm afraid they have whisky in them."

Robert solemnly promised and now pins his faith in aromatic chewing gum.

Past Commanders-in-Chief Are Live Factors.

Active in Business and in G.A.R. Circles.

Proud Records, Both Military and Civil.

Of the forty-six commanders-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, but seventeen are now living, including the present commander, Harvey M. Trimble. The living past commanders are:

Gen. Louis Wagner, Philadelphia.
Robert B. Beath, Philadelphia.
S. S. Burdett, Washington, D. C.
William Warner, Kansas City.
A. G. Weissert, Milwaukee.
T. S. Clarkson, Omaha.
W. C. Johnson, Cincinnati.

James Tanner, Washington, D. C.
Robert B. Brown, Zanesville, O.
C. G. Burton, Kansas City.
Samuel R. Van Sant, Minneapolis.
John E. Gilman, Boston

The surviving past commanders-in-chief are without exception, so far as they have responded, active in business and are men of importance in their several callings. A number of them, out of a just recognition of their services, are in government employ.

GEN. LOUIS WAGNER.

Gen. Wagner, the dean of the past commanders, entered the service at the age of 23 and is now 74 years of age. He was born in Germany and on account of his father's participation in a revolutionary movement, the family came to America when he was 11 years of age. He was a lithographer by trade when the war broke out and enlisted in the Eighty-eighth Pennsylvania Infantry in July, 1861. He participated in the second battle of Bull Run, where he was wounded and taken prisoner. Although he went out as first lieutenant, he was colonel of his regiment when taken prisoner, and was brevetted brigadier-general for bravery and efficiency. He was released from prison in time to take part in the battle of Chancellorsville, but on account of his wound was taken from the field and placed in charge of Camp Penn, where he was in charge of the work of sending 14,000 colored troops to the front in two years. He was a number of times elected to the Common Council of Philadelphia, and was Director of Public Works. He is high in the Masonic order and has been a great temperance worker; has been a successful insurance man and is now president of the Third National Bank of Philadelphia, but his chief delight is said to be in a large Bible class that he organized a generation ago and still teaches.

COL. ROBERT B. BEATH.

Col. Beath was born in Philadelphia and enlisted, upon the first call for troops, in the Twenty-third Pennsylvania Volunteers, served the three months' term, and re-enlisted at once in the Eighty-eighth Pennsylvania Volunteers. He was slightly wounded at the second battle of Bull Run and lost his right leg at New Market Heights. When able to wear an artificial leg he returned to his regiment and was promoted to lieutenant-colonel. He was elected Surveyor-General of Pennsylvania in 1871, has held almost every position of honor and responsibility in the Grand Army, and is author of The Blue Book, the only history of the organization. He has attended every national encampment since 1870, being the only comrade having that distinction. He is at present president of the United Firemen's Insurance Company of Philadelphia

A. G. WEISSERT.

A. G. Weissert of Milwaukee served as a private in the Eighth Wisconsin Infantry for three years, and was wounded at Nashville in 1864, from which wound he has been crippled ever since. He is a lawyer; was department commander of Wisconsin, senior Vice-Commander-in-Chief in 1888; Commander-in-Chief in 1892, and is now chairman of the Committee on Rules.

WILLIAM CHRISTIE JOHNSON.

Col. Johnson is a native of Ohio and served in the Eighty-ninth Ohio Volunteer Infantry, participated in many campaigns and was on Sherman's march to the sea. Since the war he has been a merchant and banker at different times, and is now assistant postmaster at Cincinnati. Was Vice-Commander-in-Chief in 1898 and Commander-in-Chief in 1899.

MAJ. LEO RASSIEUR.

A Prussian by birth, Leo Rassieur came to this country with his parents in childhood; graduated from the High School of St. Louis and McKendree College; served as a volunteer in a Missouri regiment, entering as a private and being promoted to major. After the war taught school and read law and was for four years a probate judge in St. Louis, where he is now practicing his profession. He was Commander-in-Chief in 1900.

LIEUT. ELI TORRANCE.

Eli Torrance is the son of Rev. Adam Torrance, who, with his three sons, entered the service from Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania. He served in the Ninth Pennsylvania Reserves, having entered the service before he was of military age, and later re-enlisted in the One Hundred and Ninety-third Pennsylvania Reserves, and as a lieutenant was in charge of the bodyguard over the remains of Lincoln when they lay in state. He was barely 21 years of age when he was mustered out, after four years service, and entered the practice of law. He has held many places of trust, and has repeatedly been appointed Judge Advocate-General of the Grand Army, and was Commander-in-Chief in 1901.

GEN. JOHN C. BLACK.

As president of the United States Civil Service Commission, Gen. John C. Black is widely known. He is a native of Mississippi, entered the army as a private in an Illinois regiment and was successively promoted, reaching the rank of brevet major-general. By repeated wounds he is disabled in both arms, and since the war he has been Commissioner of Pensions, United States District Attorney and member of Congress from Illinois, and is now at the head of the Civil Service Commission.

CORP. JAMES TANNER.

James Tanner, who became famous throughout the country as "Corp." Tanner, lost both legs in the service, having them amputated on the field under fire at the second battle of Bull Run. He is a native of New York, and served in the Eighty-seventh New York Infantry. He has occupied many important places in the governmental service and is now Register of Wills for the District of Columbia. He was Commander-in-Chief in 1905.

CHARLES G. BURTON.

Mr. Burton is a native of Ohio, and served two enlistments as a private in Ohio regiments. After the war he was admitted to the bar in Ohio, and removed to Missouri in 1868, where he still resides. He has been honored by election as Circuit Attorney, District Judge and to Congress, and, under appointment, he is now Collector of Internal Revenue at Kansas City. He was Commander-in-Chief in 1907.

HEADS GRAND ARMY MUSTER.

Only Survivor of the First Post Organized.

Illinois Sends Him Delegate to Los Angeles.

Conceiver and Founder Was Member of Same Post.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2, 1912.—[To the Editor of The Times:] At this vital point in the history of the Grand Army of the Republic nothing is of much more interest than the men who inaugurated the great movement for the preservation and perpetuation of the patriotic sentiment inspired by the great conflict.

Among those men who stand out with prominence is Capt. Christian Riebsame of Bloomington, Ill., the last survivor of the original post No. 1, organized by himself and twelve other veterans on April 4, 1866, at Dacatur. Edward Riebsame, son of this prominent veteran, has been a resident of Los Angeles for the past three years, employed as a pharmacist by Off & Vaughn, druggists. He said yesterday that his father is still in vigorous health and gives promise of living for many years. He spent a portion of last winter here with his son, and at the last meeting of the department of Illinois, was chosen a delegate to the Los Angeles encampment.

Capt. Riebsame was born in Germany in 1839 and came to this country in 1853, settling first at Chicago and five years later taking up residence in Decatur. He enlisted as a private in the 116th Illinois Infantry, upon the first call for troops, and continued in the service until the end of the war, having by several promotions reached the rank of captain.

In 1869, when political feeling ran high, all the posts in Illinois disbanded, as learned from Col. Beath' History of the Grand Army of the Republic, with the exception of one at Rockford. By this action, the Decatur post lost its number, and in the reorganization, it became known as post No. 141, but this fact can in no way affect the standing of Capt. Riebsame, who is today the oldest member of the Grand Army in the United States.

The first Commander-in-Chief was Maj. B. F. Stephenson, who was one of the thirteen original members of the Decatur post. He had not only this distinction but the yet greater one of being the conceiver and founder of the organization, having suggested the plan to a member of his regiment W. J. Rutledge, while they were yet in the field in 1864. Immediately upon being mustered out, Stephenson took up the project in connection with other veterans, and was named as the first Department Commander of Illinois. He became a member of Post No. 1 on the night he mustered in as Department Commander, and three months later was chosen Commander-in-Chief, and presided at the first national encampment held in Indianapolis in November of the same year.

At this encampment the States of Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Iowa and Minnesota were represented by departments, and the States of Ohio, Missouri, Kentucky, Arkansas, Massachusetts, New York and Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia were represented by posts. From this time the growth was very rapid and soon covered the entire country.

In 1872 all the records of the national organization were destroyed in a great fire in Boston, which fact gave rise to much confusion, following which there were rival claims as to where the first post had been organized, but Col. Beath, after an exhaustive study of the question, gives the priority to Decatur. Maj. Stephenson died in 1871.

Capt. Riebsame, who was chosen officer-of-the-day at the first meeting of Decatur post, still has in his possession the minutes of that meeting, and thus is able to maintain its claim against all comers. That the facts are indisputable has been settled for all time by the placing of a monument in Washington for which Congress appropriated $10,000 and the members of the Grand Army $25,000, perpetuating the memory of Maj. Stephenson as founder of the organization.

The picture of Maj. Stephenson is taken from the book of Col. Beach, and that of Capt. Riebsame was furnished The Times by his son. It was taken during the national encampment at Atlantic City in 1910.

Eating Mastodon Steak.

[New Orleans Times Democrat:] "How would you like to have a steak 50,000 or 100,000 years old served up to you?" asks Mr. James Oliver Curwood, who, during a northern trip, came across some Indians who had discovered the carcass of a mastodon exposed by the falling of a frozen river cliff. "The flesh," says Mr. Curwood, "was of a deep red mahogany color, and I dined on a steak an inch and a half thick. My first taste of the flesh sent me back, I suppose, 50,000 years or more. The flavor of the meat was old—not unpleasant—but simply old and dry. That it had lost none of its life-sustaining elements during those hundreds of centuries of 'cold storage' was shown by the fact that the dogs throve upon it."

Capt. Christian Riebsame,

Only survivor of the first post and hence longest-time living member of the organization.

COMMANDER'S LONG TENURE.

Capt. William R. Thomas, Department Commander of California and Nevada, has been Commander of Appomattox Post at Oakland for fifteen years. He was Chief of Police of that city in 1885-6, and Mayor 1897-8. He enlisted in Illinois and at different times was a member of the staff of Gen. W. T. Ward, Gen. Joe Hooker and Gen. Butterfield. He was twice wounded and was honorably discharged after serving three years.

SOLDIERS' HOME DAY.

Tuesday will be Soldiers' Home Day and many of the veterans will pay informal visits to their comrades and inspect the grounds. The commander of the Home is making elaborate preparations for their entertainment and it is the wish that as many as possible may accept the invitation. Comrade Bond extends an invitation to former residents of Utah to come at the same time, bringing a picnic lunch. They are asked to meet near the library at 11 o'clock.

Although the President had slept the deeper sleep for eighteen days, during which time he had been mourned as never the great man of any nation had been before, his face still bore the same sweet calm, spiritualized by years of care, that it had worn when first his eyes were closed to pain and friends. Wiggans says the majesty of death had never so impressed him as when he looked upon the silent lips of the man who less than two years before had stood at Gettysburg and exclaimed: "This nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth."

From their hotel the next day Mr. and Mrs. Wiggans watched the long cortege moving the two miles from the Capitol to the historic graveyard. A march to the grave that was one of the most impressive ever witnessed in America.

FOR GRAND ARMY VETERANS.

Kansas State Society to Combine Celebration for Old Soldiers With Their Summer Picnic.

Members of the Kansas State Society will combine an elaborate out-of-door celebration in honor of the veterans visiting the city with their semi-annual all-day picnic at Sycamore Park on Saturday, the 14th inst.

The programme is as follows:

Address of welcome by the president, H. H. Huntsberger; song, "Want to Live in Kansas Where the Sunflowers Bloom," by Belle C. Harris, past national president of the W.R.C. of Emporia; "A Message from Kansas," by J. N. Harrison of Topeka, Department Commander of the G.A.R. of Kansas; address by Hon. Webster Davis, ex-Mayor of Kansas City and former Assistant Secretary of the Interior in the Cabinet of President McKinley; "The Heroes of '61," by P. H. Coney, Past Department Commander of the G.A.R. of Kansas

The Kansas Society is having a special button made which will be given to the G.A.R. guests. The State Society headquarters during the week of the reunion will be at 708 Ferguson building. The members of the Reception Committee are P. B. Plumb, George E. Overmeyer, Clarence H. Matson, George W. Hamlin, William Waddle, L. M. Fall, Lucien Earle, J. A. Hammers, Capt. D. R. Kilbourne, C. E. Lamme, George B. Harrison, H. M. Weisler, Mrs. Charlotte Weaver, Mrs. L. M. Fall and Mrs. H. M. Weisler. The veterans will be extended the courtesies of the Metropolitan Club during the week of their stay.

NOTABLE ORGANIZATION.

Lafayette Post of New York Numbers Men of High Rank and Has Great Record of Presentations.

Lafayette Post, G.A.R., of New York, was organized December 18, 1880, and since that time has received into its membership 973 comrades. Of these 403 have answered the life roll call and 264 have been transferred, discharged or dropped, leaving the present membership 306. On its rolls are carried the names of one lieutenant-general, eleven major-generals, nineteen brigadier-generals, four rear-admirals, and many field, line and staff officers of both the army and navy. Lafayette Post has been notable in its work of presenting flags to schools, both in New York and other cities, having in all presented 2331 flags. Of this number 460 were presented to schools in Porto Rico, 900 in the Philippines and 320 in Hawaii.

BATTLE-HYMN OF THE REPUBLIC

Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord:
He is trampling out the vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored;
He hath loosed the fateful lightning of his terrible swift sword:
His truth is marching on.

I have seen Him in the watch-fires of a hundred circling camps;
They have builded Him an altar in the evening dews and damps;
I can read his righteous sentence by the dim and flaring lamps.
His day is marching on.

I have read a fiery gospel, writ in burnished rows of steel:
"As ye deal with my contemners, so with you my grace shall deal;
Let the Hero, born of woman, crush the serpent with his heel,
Since God is marching on."

He has sounded forth the trumpet that shall never call retreat;
He is sifting out the hearts of men before his judgment-seat:
Oh! be swift, my soul, to answer Him! be jubilant, my feet!
Our God is marching on.

In the beauty of the lilies Christ was born across the sea,
With a glory in his bosom that transfigures you and me;
As He died to make men holy, let us die to make men free, While God is marching on.

FOR ILLINOIS VETERANS.

Visiting veterans from Illinois will participate in the harvest home picnic and reunion to be held at Eastlake Park tomorrow by the Illinois Veterans' Association of Los Angeles. The affair will also be in the nature of a celebration of the anniversary of the admission of California to statehood. Col. Charles Koch of Chicago, Assistant Adjutant-General of the Grand Army of the Republic, will deliver an address. The association will maintain an information bureau through the week in the lobby of the Central National Bank.

IOWA'S BIG DAY.

Reunion and Picnic at Long Beach, and Campfire at Night—Reception Committee Will Meet Train.

The Iowa Association has completed its arrangements for greeting the Iowa veterans upon their arrival in this city on Monday morning and entertaining them while here in attendance upon the national encampment.

The Reception Committee consists of Mayor Alexander, Col. J. J. Steadman, Thomas J. Evans, (Long Beach;) Dr. E. Henderson, (Pomona;) A. H. Stutzman, (Santa Ana;) Dr. E. Satterlee, F. A. Nichols, C. H. Parsons, Judge Houser, Maj. J. A. Donnell, Professor Hamilton, (Pasadena,) and Judge Willis. There will be 600 persons on board the special train and this committee will meet them at Riverside and escort them to the Angelus Hotel upon arrival.

On Saturday, September 14, a great reunion will be held in Bixby Park, Long Beach, where dinner will be served, followed by a platform meeting. Col. Ormsby will preside and many famous Iowans will be the speakers. In the evening a rousing campfire will be held on the beach, over which Col. Steadman will preside. There will be speeches by men who were figures in the Civil War, music and fireworks. Gen. G. M. Dodge, one of the last of the great commanders, ex-Gov. Van Sant, Department Commander Blodgett of Ohio, Judge Wilbur, Capt. Brown, Assistant Adjutant-General Newman, and others will speak. Dr. Blodgett is said to be the only minister ever elected to the office of Department Commander, and he is Ohio's candidate for Chaplain-in-Chief. He was an Iowa soldier, however, and they are standing with Ohio. It is believed that 20,000 people will attend this reception and it will be one of the big features of the week.

HANG OUT THE COLORS.

The Committee of Management wishes to make the strongest possible appeal to all the citizens of the city, urging upon them the great importance of displaying the Stars and Stripes on their residences as well as business houses, throughout the entire week of the National Encampment. Be the flag in your possession ever so small, show your colors.

AGED VETERAN STRICKEN.

New Hampshire Junior Department Commander Taken Ill on Eve of Departure for This City.

Capt. O. B. Douglas, junior vice-department commander of New Hampshire, was suddenly taken ill on the eve of his departure for this city to attend the encampment to which he is a delegate. A telegram of regret has been received by the local committee. The news was received with sorrow here and a telegram of condolence has been sent to Capt. Douglas.

His wife, May L. Douglas, president of the National Association of Civil War Nurses, refuses to leave her husband's side. She is one of the most prominent women connected with the Grand Army organizations, and was to have taken a leading part in the encampment this week.

BOOSTED BY TWO STATES.

Dr. Blodgett, Ohio's Candidate for Chaplain-in-Chief, Also Corrals the Department of Iowa.

Ohio has a candidate for Chaplain-in-Chief, in the person of Rev. Dr. Charles W. Blodgett, a Methodist preacher, well known throughout the country as a lecturer, as well as the pastor of a prominent church in Cincinnati, and he has always been in great demand as a campfire speaker. He is probably unique among the Department Commanders of the country, having been unanimously chosen by the Grand Army of Ohio last year, which State boasts the next largest encampment in the nation, after the national encampment. He served as a private in an Iowa regiment, where he resided a number of years before removing to Ohio, and among his chief boosters for Chaplain-in-Chief are the members of the Department of Iowa.

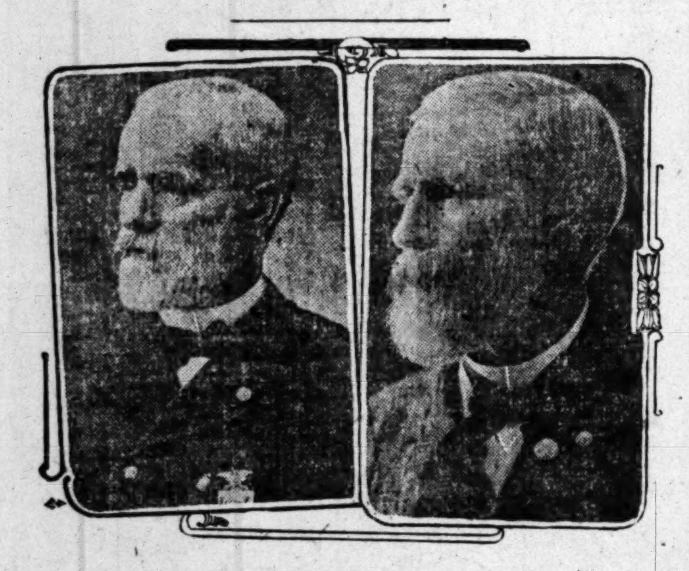
UNIQUE LIFE STORY OF TRIMBLE BROTHERS.



Their Careers Have Run Parallel.

Harvey M. Trimble, Commander-in-Chief, left, and Albert M. Trimble, Past Department Commander of Nebraska.

THERE is perhaps no more interesting chapter of family history in connection with the Grand Army, than that of the present Commander-in-Chief, Harvey M. Trimble, and his brother, Albert M. Trimble, who has just vacated the office of Department Commander of Nebraska.

The lives of the two brothers have been parallel throughout. They are near the same age, were reared on the same farm, enlisted together in the Civil War in the same company and regiment; tented together, bunked together, messed together, mourned together over the loss of friends and comrades; both held the non-commissioned title of sergeant-major, and both left the service at the same time, at the end of three years. They separated into diverse lines of business activity after the war, and in May, 1911, nearly fifty years after they were mustered out, Albert was elected Department Commander of Nebraska, G.A.R., and in the fall of the same year, Harvey was chosen Commander-in-Chief. The former was born in 1840, near Wilmington, O., and the latter at the same place in 1842. Later they both removed to Illinois and still later both took up residence in Nebraska, where they now live.

Spirit of '61.

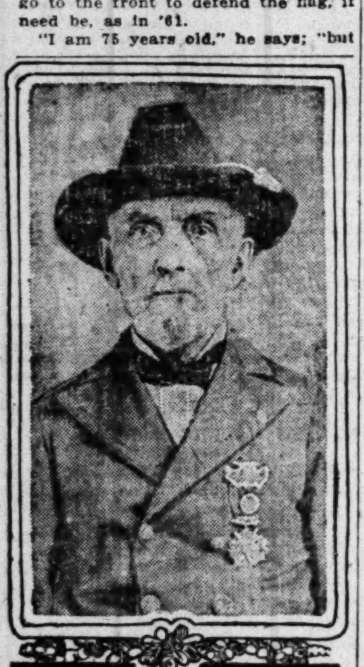
YOUTH'S FIRES STILL BURNING.

"ONE MORE FIGHT LEFT," SAYS KENTUCKY VETERAN.

Adjutant-General Proud of Long War Record and Six Sons and Four Grandsons to Take His Place as Flag Defenders if the Necessity Should Arise.

Andrew Offutt of Lebanon, Assistant Adjutant-General of the Department of Kentucky, who has arrived as a delegate to the encampment, is just as ready and willing to go to the front to defend the flag, if need be, as in '61.

"I am 75 years old," he says; "but I am sure if the necessity should arise there is one more good fight in me. I have six sons and four grandsons coming along to take my place, but the place won't be vacant for a while."



Andrew Offutt,

Kentucky veteran with red blood at age of 75.

Capt. Offutt enlisted in '61 in response to the first call for volunteers and was enrolled in the Fifth Regiment, Kentucky Cavalry. He was promoted to the rank of corporal in October, 1861, and the following April was made a sergeant. In May, 1863, he was promoted to the first lieutenancy of Co. K and during the September following was promoted to the rank of captain and assigned to Co. B.

He commanded a troop in Kilpatrick's cavalry division on Sherman's march to the sea and through the Carolinas. He remained on duty until the war was ended, having been discharged in May, 1865.

LONG CAREER IN SURGERY.

Arizona Presents One of Its Prominent Veterans for Election for Surgeon-General of the G.A.R.

One of the grizzled veterans who is in attendance at the encampment is Maj. Warren E. Day of Prescott, Ariz. He is the new State's candidate for Surgeon-General and that department is here with one of the largest delegations, with full official authority to work for his choice.

Dr. Day was born in New York in 1840, was appointed assistant surgeon of the Sixty-first New York Volunteers in 1861 and was continuously in the service in different regiments through the Civil War, and continued in government service up to 1877. He was wounded at Ft. Wagner, S. C., and still carries the bullet. In a letter to The Times, in response for any souvenir he might have of the Civil War, he wrote:

"I have a bullet inside of me—entered my mouth and lodged in the back of my neck. I would send that, but I have worn it so long I maybe would get out of balance."

He was executive officer in charge of Camp Parole, Md., during 1864, and had charge of several thousand men from Andersonville and other southern prisons; was surgeon at Sherman General Hospital, which he established after the battle of Ft. Fisher, and was in charge of all the hospitals in the Wilmington district, during which time he cared for 1600 paroled Union soldiers and for many of Sherman's wounded after the battle of Bentonville. After his discharge he re-entered the service for duty with the Freedman's Bureau. In 1867 he was a volunteer surgeon during the yellow fever epidemic at Key West, Fla., following which he was ordered to Dry Tortugas, Fla., thence to New Orleans, and then to St. Joseph, La., and the military prison at Ft. Jefferson, Fla. He next became a field surgeon in the United States army under Gen. Cook in Arizona. After five years of this service he began the practice of his profession in Arizona, and is now physician and surgeon for the Home of Arizona Pioneers, a State institution. He has been an examining surgeon for the Pension Department since 1865, and in the Indian service for fifteen years.

He has held Territorial, county and city offices during his residence in Arizona, and is now medical director of the Department of Arizona, G.A.R. He says if he is now elected Surgeon-General the ambition of his life will have been achieved.

TALKS STRAIGHT.

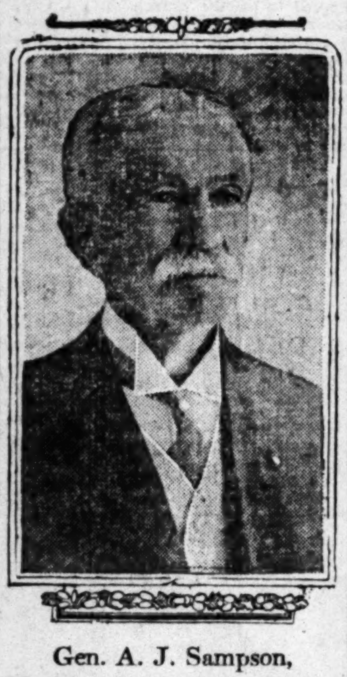
Gen. Sampson of Arizona Takes Encampment by the Forelock and Declares His Sentiments Freely.

Gen. A. J. Sampson of Phoenix is usually to be found where the army buttons are thickest. He served his country well "back yonder," and he has served the West well since the days of '64.

"Feel just as young as I did thirty years ago," says the general, and he looks and acts it. Over in Phoenix no real function is without his presence, and no dinner complete if his name is not on the toast list.

Gen. Sampson spends his summer in California, where he is about as well known as in the new neighboring commonwealth. He is a vice-president for the Panama-Pacific exposition, and is working up a lot of enthusiasm for it in Arizona.

He is as enthusastic as a boy over the new State and is willing to talk about its wonders on the slightest provocation—or without provocation.



Gen. A. J. Sampson,

Who boosts for Arizona and the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

STAND BY THE FLAG!

(BY JOHN NICHOLAS WILDER.)

Stand by the Flag! Its stars, like meteors gleaming,
Have lighted Arctic icebergs, southern seas,
And shone responsive to the stormy beaming
Of old Arcturus and the Pleiades.

Stand by the Flag! Its stripes have streamed in glory,
To foes a fear, to friends a festal robe,
And spread in rhythmic lines the sacred story
Of Freedom's triumphs over all the globe.

Stand by the Flag! On land and ocean billow,
By it your fathers stood, unmoved and true;
Living, defended; dying, from the pillow
With their last blessing passed it on to you.

Stand by the Flag! Immortal heroes bore it
Through sulphurous smoke, deep moat and armed defense,
And their imperial shades still hover o'er it—
A guard celestial from Omnipotence.

Stand by the Flag, though death-shots round it rattle,
And underneath its waving folds have met,
In all the dread array of sanguine battle,
The quiv'ring lance and glitt'ring bayonet!

Stand by the Flag, all doubt and danger scorning!
Believe, with courage firm and faith sublime,
That it shall float until th' eternal morning
Pales in its glories all the lights of Time.

Women Take a Hand.

OPEN HEADQUARTERS TO HELP CANDIDATE.

INDIANA patriotic women do not propose to yield all the honors to the veterans of their State, but are at the front with an enthusiastic band of boosters for their candidate for National President of the Woman's Relief Corps—Mrs. Ida S. McBride, Past Department President of Indiana.

The boosters are in command of Mrs. Belle Wasson Ephlin, Department President, and Mrs. Sarah C. White, Department Secretary, and their headquarters at the Alexandria Hotel will be one of the live angles on the skirmish line.

Mrs. McBride, who has held many places of trust and honor in both State department and national organization, has the distinction of being daughter, wife and mother of soldiers, and has devoted her life largely to helping preserve the honors they helped to win. She has the backing of the Relief Corps of the Department of Indiana, as well as of the Grand Army of the Republic, and comes prepared to wage a strong fight. Her husband, Robert W. McBride, who is still active in the Grand Army, was a member of the Union Light Guard organized by Gov. Tod of Ohio, and known as Lincoln's bodyguard. He is also a former judge of the Supreme Court of Indiana. Her father was Dr. James N. Chamberlain, who served as surgeon of the One Hundred and Fifty-second Indiana Volunteer Infantry.

BELIEFS ABOUT BABIES.

Everything in Their Lives Is Believed to Be in the Hands of the Three Fates.

[New York Times:] The peasantry of Greece firmly believe that the future of every child is determined by three fates, known as the Moral. The trio is supposed to be three old and wrinkled women who dwell in a mountain cave, and who come simultaneously to the house in which a new baby has made its appearance. In order that their aged and uncertain feet may not be hindered, all furniture is carefully set aside, and money, cakes, bread and wine are set out so that the important though invisible guests may refresh themselves. If the household is sufficiently wealthy to possess a little real money, this, too, is placed on the table with the food.

All things, good and bad, are in the hands of the three fates. On no account must the child's beauty be alluded to at the time when the visitors might be present. To do so would cause its good looks to instantly disappear. Nothing must be said or done which might in any way annoy or displease the Moral, and this makes the situation a bit difficult, as no one is quite sure what might or might not please them.

The idea that ill luck will be the portion of the child who cuts its upper teeth first, is found in several lands. Among one or two African tribes this superstition is so strong that they regard it as a mercy to promptly kill any child whose upper teeth appear first, and they do so.

Should a child grow up bad in China, it is merely remarked that the parents forgot to bind its wrists, alluding to a very widespread superstition that if a red cord is tied about an infant's wrists it cannot fail to grow up quiet and obedient.

Spaniards lightly sweep the faces of their children with pine boughs in order to assure them a happy future. To keep an Irish baby from harm, a belt of woman's hair is placed about it, and with the same object the Roumanian mother ties a red ribbon around the ankles of her infant.

In Holland, garlic, salt, bread and steak are put in the cradle of a newly born child, so that it may never want for food during its lifetime, and in order that the children of Wales may always be protected, a pair of tongs and a knife are placed in each bed. In Iceland, the cutting of the first tooth is celebrated by giving to the child a tiny lamb.

GIRL FROM BOSTON GIVES THE CORRECT POINTERS.

Executive Secretary Who Knows All the Details and Hands Out Information With a Genial Finality. Held High Office and Attended Ten National Encampments.

A smart member of the Grand Army of the Republic went into Executive Committee headquarters, in the Chamber of Commerce the other day, and was tendered some first-hand information concerning the great patriotic organization by a young woman who sits at a desk at the elbow of Capt. H. Z. Osborne, Executive Director of the coming encampment.

"I guess you don't know much about the Grand Army of the Republic," was the curt response of the inquirer.

"Well, if there's anything I don't know about it, I will be glad to have you tell me."

With a startled glance at the bold young woman, as he turned on his heel to go, he said:

"You must be that girl from Boston!"

It was a good guess. The young woman is Miss Katharine R. A. Flood of Newton, Mass., a suburb of Boston, who is recognized as the readiest authority in the United States on details pertaining to the Grand Army of the Republic. She knows by name and feature many Grand Army men of prominence in the United States, and some of them personally; can readily give their postoffice address, together with particulars of their station or past service, and the finality of her information expedites matters amazingly at headquarters.

When Capt. Osborne was made Executive Director of the national encampment, he looked around for somebody who understood the details of the big undertaking, and his attention naturally fell upon Miss Flood, who has attended ten prior national encampments, has served as secretary to various commanders-in-chief, and distinguished herself last year as secretary to Commander Gilman.

Miss Flood meets every visitor with a frank show of interest, and required information is handed out with the facility one might expect from an automatic device, but in a vastly different spirit. Her work in preparing the details of the encampment and in getting in touch with department officers throughout the United States has been of inestimable value to the director and the Committee of Management. "Just speak to Miss Flood," is as common as bidding the time of day at committee headquarters.

She is the daughter of a Massachusetts veteran of the Civil War, and took to things military as naturally as a bird takes to the air. After she left Radcliffe College she taught school for five years, and having been patriotically active in the Daughters of Veterans, in 1897 she was elected Department President of that organization for the State of Massachusetts. In 1906 she was made National Inspector, and she is now second member of the National Council of the organization, and chairman of the council in the absence of the one first named. She was President of the Army Nurses Memorial Association of the Massachusetts Daughters of Veterans, at the time she accepted the call to Los Angeles, and resigned that she might not cripple the work of the association by her absence.

Her efficiency, promptness and genial bearing tend to make her as popular as she is useful about headquarters, and she is the natural director of the detail work.

MISSISSIPPI-MADE LANDS.

The Great River Adding Miles of Territory to the Country About Its Entrance to the Gulf.

[Philadelphia Record:] A great reclamation work is constantly being conducted by the Mississippi River, which, in the course of its career has, it is computed, added 1200 square miles to the area of the country about the mouth of the stream. But this good work is being done at the expense of the channels, which are undergoing constant changes of location and depth. In order to keep the channels open the work of dredging must be carried on without cessation by the United States government. For this work the suction dredge New Orleans has been especially designed and is now at work on the river bed.

The craft has many novel features. The mud is removed from the bottom of the river through the means of a suction head, which is suspended below the stern of the boat, its depth being capable of adjustment to meet the varying conditions. This head is somewhat like a huge rake, eighteen feet across and through the sharp cutting teeth of this rake water is ejected at a high pressure to disintegrate the soil and make it of suitable consistency to be sucked through a pair of suction pipes into the pump, from which it is deposited in any of the ten hoppers carried by the dredge.

These hoppers have a combined capacity of 3027 cubic yards, or approximately 3000 tons, and under favorable conditions they may be filled in the remarkably short space of thirty minutes. The dredge may then be run to the dumping ground at a speed of ten knots.

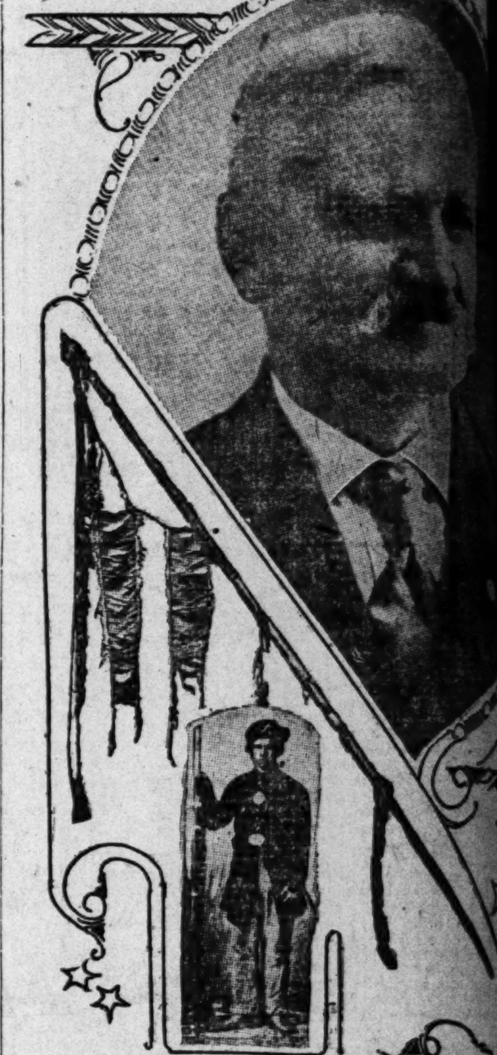
TORN BATTLEFLAG'S STIRRING HI



Capt. G. I. Reiche,

Assistant Adjutant-General of Montana, the battleflag of the Ohio Infantry under which he fought, and below, a picture he enlisted at the age of 14 years.

AROUND campfires, in convention and at informal gatherings this week many a stirring tale of heroism and patriotism will be retold. In many of them will appear the heroic figures of brave soldiers who rallied against fearful odds around their regimental flags. Some of these flags, tattered and torn by bullets, are preserved by Grand Army men and State governments as priceless relics. Part of them will be exhibited in this city during the encampment. Others are too badly worn to remove from the keeping of their custodians.

Capt. G. I. Reichle, Adjutant-General of Montana, who is here as a delegate and who was one of Sherman's youngest soldiers, was formerly custodian of the famous battleflag of the Seventy-fifth Ohio regiment. His description of the second battle of Bull Run, during which the flag was almost captured by the enemy, recounts one of the most thrilling episodes of the war.

"The Union forces were suffering terribly from the onslaughts of the enemy, particularly where the men of the Seventy-fifth Ohio were posted," he says. "The regiment was in the Yield of a Grain of Wheat.

[Baker's Weekly:] Very few bakers have an idea of the bounty of nature. A scientist of Cambridge, England, recently made an instructive experiment which showed that a single grain of wheat, sown in June, produced within fourteen months 576,840 grains, weighing 47 pounds 7 ounces. One acre of fairly good land will produce thirty bushels of wheat or1260 pounds of flour.

BY FRANK H. SHORT.

NTLY, Col. Roosevelt, in an before the Chicago Progressive Convention, announced he called his "Confession of otherwise termed by him his with the People."

upon this so-called "confession" and "contract" he is a far greater degree than American ever did to have people surrender to him government, their future and country, it is altogether proper wise and thoroughly consider actual nature of these suggestions good faith or lack of it in they are asserted, and their to the American Constitution and American institutions. PREVIOUS ATTITUDE.

not possible, in a brief statement of this kind, to attempt a complete review of Col. Roosevelt's It is sufficient, however, to up to and including the time retirement from the Presidency of the most orthodox party the country. He worked with and apparently approved principles, policies, procedure and of the Republican party, vigor, and even with violence, defended its principles, policies practices against all of its adversaries. In season and out of season denounced Mr. Bryan and all and all Democrats for all or un-Republican theories or He consistently and persistently as long as they aided and him or worked through and such political bosses as Tom Matt Quay, Boies Penrose and of similar prominence, standards and methods. Not only is all of obviously and undeniably true, declared his continued loyalty Republican party and his belief in its policies and principles by to be its nominee for President and through the Republican held in June, 1912.

FOR NOMINATION.

Roosevelt sought the nomination as Republican on the Republican platform, and consistent with principles, in the convention June, 1912.

the most striking and complete evidence of Col. Roosevelt's time-serving and principle- and self-aggrandizing tendency is illustrated by the above and its undeniable truth.

Chicago Republican Convention 1912, adopted and announced that, while it was in an sense progressive, was devoted of the fundamental principles party, consistent with its and loyalty to future simplicity was expressed.

Roosevelt's follow Roosevelt has assumed, practically all of nostrums, theories and the Hearst papers, and in becoming the devout fol Col. Theodore Roosevelt, become the equally devout followers of William Hearst, who points out that now advocates, and Mr. Hearst, always has advo following things. We of thousands of our remember the day when

Mr. Roosevelt himself used to call this newspaper 'anarchistic' and 'socialistic' because it expounded and indorsed the very ideas which he gives out today as new."

He then proceeds to point out that Col. Roosevelt now supports and indorses, woman suffrage; the election of United States Senators by popular initiative and referendum and the recall; the strengthening of the pure food laws; insurance and old age pensions for employees; regulation of the conditions of labor and hours of work for women; prohibition of child labor; international waterway improvements; government ownership of Alaskan railroads; a large navy; fortification of the Panama Canal.

It can further be pointed out that Col. Roosevelt also advocates the recall of judges, which is apparently not mentioned except under the general head of the recall, of which the Hearst papers have heretofor, and until recent years, had a practical monopoly.

Col. Roosevelt also advocates the recall of judicial decisions; the nomination of Presidents by direct primaries, and that, "it is vital that the people shall keep in their own hands the right of interpreting their own Constitution when their public servants differ as to its interpretation."

"SOCIALISM—ANARCHY."

To quote Col. Roosevelt's language, he says:

"I am well aware that every upholder of privilege, every hired agent or beneficiary of the special interests, including many well-meaning parlor reformers, will denounce all this as 'socialism' or 'anarchy'—the same terms they used in the past in denouncing the movements to control the railways and to control public utilities."

And Col. Roosevelt might have added in the same language that I have used in recent years, only in milder form, in denouncing the very same things that I now advocate.

And the colonel naively adds: "As a matter of fact, the propositions I make constitute neither anarchy or socialism, but, on the contrary, a corrective to socialism and an antidote to anarchy."

In other words, the advocacy of both, it is assumed, prevents the occurrence of either. Col. Roosevelt also desires: social and industrial justice to workers; to prevent human waste; that tool-users shall become, in part, tool owners; minimum occupational standards; that all industrial conditions which fall below such standard shall come within the scope of governmental action, etc.

"We hold that minimum wage commissions should be established in the nation." "For standards of sanitation and safety" and "we stand for a living wage." "A standard high enough to make morality possible." "That night labor for women and children is abnormal, and should be prohibited." "That employment for women for over forty-eight hours per week is abnormal and should be prohibited." "That one day's rest in seven should be provided by law." "That where continuous twenty-four hours' work is required, they should be by law divided into three shifts of eight hours." "Temporary construction camps are abnormal homes, and should be subject to governmental sanitary regulation."

He also opposes child labor, and "our aim should be to secure conditions which will tend partially toward regular industry, and which will do away with the necessity for rush periods, followed by out-of-work seasons, which put so severe a strain on wage-workers."

JUST AS EASY.

The idea appears excellent. You should cut your wheat, husk your corn, dig your potatoes, pick your fruit, manufacture your wine, and dry your raisins during the entire year, and not bunch them in the abnormal way they are now done.

Each industry should provide for the protection of and not throw back upon the community, "the human wreckage due to wear and tear, etc."

And "we favor woman suffrage." He also suggests that "In those conservative State where there is a genuine doubt how the women stand on this matter, I suggest that it be referred to a vote of the women," etc.

Along with the rest of humankind, the government should take over, nurse, nurture, protect and defend the farmer. Which, parenthetically, we might observe, is a feature of love and attention that has been common among politicians since the beginning of history, and that of all people on this earth, probably the farmers have, more than any others, worked out their own comfort, prosperity and happiness for themselves.

The colonel is also in favor of country schools, which "must fit the country life," and in the country, as elsewhere, "education must be hitched up with life." We humbly pray that nobody shall suggest that they be unhitched.

PLATITUDISTIC.

The colonel is also in favor of the Young Men's and the Young Women's Christian Associations, and that every farmer shall own and work his own lands, and the question of rural banking and rural credits is also of immediate importance.

In the matter of "Business and the control of the trusts" (excepting, as heretofore, we assume, the steel trust and the harvester trust,) the colonel is necessarily and wisely in favor of the most vigorous control. The colonel says: "Unfortunately, those dealings have tended to divide it into two camps, each as unwise as the other." After which naive suggestion the colonel naturally proceeds to ladle out the real wisdom to both.

Observing parenthetically, it may be pointed out that Col. Roosevelt should be the greatest authority on the trusts. Roughly speaking, when he became President, the corporated capital in what is called the "trust system" amounted to about $3,000,000,000. At the date of his retirement from office, these largely unlawful associations had multiplied practically tenfold, and represented about $30,000,000,000 of capitalization. Having permitted, if not nurtured, such a magnificent growth in monopoly, the colonel should be the highest American authority on the subject.

ONE MAN GOVERNMENT.

The remedies which Col. Roosevelt proposes are not Constitutional laws and restraints, applicable to all, but an industrial commission. It will be observed, therefore, that Col. Roosevelt's idea is practically to take the power away from Congress, and from the courts, and invest it in a so-called industrial commission, which the President would appoint, and the executive power largely direct and control, and since Col. Roosevelt now assumes that he is to be our President, not only for the next four years, but for indefinite time, he, through a commission, would practically control all of the industries and monopolies of the country, and undoubtedly all of the good trusts (those who love and obey the colonel, like the steel trust and the harvester trust,) would live long and prosper, and those who did not love and obey the colonel, like the Standard Oil and the Tobacco trust, would largely go up in flame and smoke.

The colonel expresses it this way: "We favor co-operation in business, and ask only that it be carried on in a spirit of honesty and fairness. We are against crooked business, big or little. We are in favor of honest business, big or little." The colonel is also in favor of "foreign commerce" and we presume every one else is.

A VERBAL AURORA.

Upon the question of "the tariff," the colonel displays his best capacities for what appears to be courage, but upon the actual test, turns out to be nothing more or less than evasion and adroitness. He says, "In other words, there is no warrant for protection, unless a legitimate share of the benefits gets into the pay envelope of the wage-worker." Undoubtedly, if the colonel is president, by some unknown process, more of the benefits of protection will get into the pay envelope of the worker than will be the result if President Taft or Dr. Wilson should occupy that office.

The colonel is also against the "high cost of living," and if we understand his dissertation on this paramount subject, along with his references to the Barnes-Guggenheim national convention etc., we understand that it is that the farmers shall get better prices for their products, the manufacturers shall make a larger profit, the wage-earner shall get better wages, the business and industries of the country shall be operated at larger profits, and the ultimate consumer shall get his food and clothing at less cost. To this end, may the Lord give strength and prosperity to the colonel! The only wonder is that during his previous eight years of administration we had to go on working and slaving and making small profits, and paying high prices, as heretofore. But dark and bitter as has been the past, and gloomy as have been the years when the colonel controlled, guided and directed the ship of state, nevertheless, the future is covered all over with beautiful rainbows, and the sun of righteousness, peace, plenty and prosperity, will never set, so long as the colonel lives to slay the bosses and occupy the Presidential chair, and draw the salary connected therewith.

ALL FOR EACH.

The colonel is also in favor of a sound currency, and objects to panics—including, we may assume, the panic of 1907. As heretofore, the colonel is in favor of conserving everything for everybdy, to the end that all of the resources of the country may be held for the benefit of the whole people, and that each may have his share, and that each local community may have more benefit after the distribution than heretofore. It is so easy to fill a quart bottle from a pint cup that there will be no difficulty to have greater local enjoyment of the local resources and prosperities after an equal share of the benefits have been distributed to "all of the people."

The colonel is also in favor of the immediate development of Alaska, and "the government should at once construct, own and operate railways in Alaska," and should "keep the fee of all the coal fields," and "the telegraph lines should be operated as the railways are," and, "Moreover, it would be well in Alaska to try a system of land taxation which would, so far as possible, remove all of the burdens from those who actually use the land, whether for building or for agricultural purposes, and will operate against any man who holds the land for speculation," etc.

TRYING IT ON THE DOG.

We have usually observed that the colonel succeeds more nearly than anybody else in pleasing everybody, but whether the advocates of public ownership of the railroads and of telegraph lines, and of the single tax, and the other cure-alls of the ills of humankind, will be content to have their cherished and most-beloved social and political remedies put upon alleged trial in the cold storage regions of Alaska, we have some doubt. So far as we are concerned, the idea meets with our approval, since a considerable portion of Alaska lies north of the Arctic Circle, and the major remaining portion of it is mountainous, precipitous and full of icebergs, we think it will be an excellent place to try the public ownership of railroads by the Federal government, and the operation of telegraph lines, and the system of single taxes on land, which would certainly "cut some ice" in that country. Speaking seriously—the test suggested would be as practical and effective a test, as it would be to test the suitability of our common country to produce tropical fruits to suggest that we plant bananas, oranges, lemons, pineapples and alligator pears in competition with the junipers, the Arctic furs, and the flora and fauna that ordinarily thrive under the Aurora Borealis.

The doctrine seems to be that everything you are ready for should be tried at home, but as to the still more fanciful ideas, put them in cold storage and try them on Alaska. This may be a little tough on the Alaskans, but since there are few of them, and none of them can vote for President, perhaps they deserve it.

Col. Roosevelt also wants a small army at a high pitch of perfection. Which reminds us somewhat of the one joke that is accredited to George Washington. Some one moved that a provision be inserted in the Constitution that the standing army of the country should never exceed 5000, and Gen. Washington is credited with having moved an amendment to the effect that no foreign power should ever invade the country with a larger army than 3000.

Referring to the Panama Canal, Col. Roosevelt says: "When the American people make a promise, that promise must and will be kept." All of which tends to remind us that the colonel's proudest moment was when he committed the most meritorious, but at the same time, indefensible, piece of international highway robbery that was ever committed in the history of the world, when, without arbitration or compensation, he forcibly seized and took possession of Panama fromm Colombia. To use his own picturesque language, he "took" the canal zone, and "left Congress to debate about it."

In the beginning of his conclusion Col. Roosevelt says: "Now, friends, this is my confession of faith. I have made it rather long, because I wish you to know just what my deepest convictions are on the great questions of today."

Without undue levity, and without any intention to do injustice to Col. Roosevelt, I may observe that if his convictions are as deep as he suggests, they are exceedingly sudden.

OFFICE IN PERPETUITY.

Upon the vital question as to when, if ever, if elected to the Presidency, the colonel will retire, I find only this illuminating language:

"Our government system should be so shaped that the public servant, when he cannot conscientiously carry out the wishes of the people, shall, at their desire, leave his office, and not misrepresent them in office."

Which would indicate the probable purpose that the colonel desires and intends to stay in the office, if he ever gets back, so long as he can persuade the people to let him hold it, and by the experience of other republics, a powerful and capable politician, once seated in office with this in view, may continue until revolution ends his term.

It is notorious that up to the beginning of his present campaign, or rather, his campaign for the Republican nomination, that Col. Roosevelt had been well understood to be thoroughly and even violently opposed to woman suffrage. In a statement issued but a few months ago, he stated that his views were very "tepid" upon this subject. Now, clearly for the reason that he comprehends that the women do vote in a number of States, and that their votes might turn the scale, he is an open and aggressive advocate of what he but a few short months ago was known to be a vigorous opponent of, and which he announced, even more recently, he regarded as with "tepid" doubt.

CONSISTENCY! CONSISTENCY!

Upon the occasion of his last visit to California, Col. Roosevelt, before he arrived in this State, delivered an address in Arizona, in connection with which he took occasion to vigorously oppose the recall of the judges, then under consideration in connection with the Constitution of that proposed State, stating that he thought we should especially seek to preserve the "rugged independence of the judges." Since which time he has been convinced that the initiative, the referendum, the recall (including the recall of the judges,' and woman suffrage) are popular.

He also has apparently concluded that the idea that the Federal government shall rejuvenate the home, look after the farm, nurse industry and promote, protect and conserve the happiness and prosperity of all of the people, regardless of their individual industry and capabilities, are popular. And therefore, he is for them, one and all.

Everything that Bryan taught, that Sockless Simpson preached, and that William Randolph Hearst distributed over a smiling land, one and all, he has gathered them to his bosom, and with an inconsistency that must make the Angels weep, he throws off the teachings and traditions of the past, denies all virtue and respectability to the party that he has always advocated and defended and which has bestowed upon him all of his offices and honors.

ME, THE PEOPLE.

Having no other occupation but politics, and no business except holding office, and being the most absolute and arbitrary boss in America, he refers always to what we "the people" demand of our "official servants," and constantly he laments the existence of "politicians" and "bosses."

Standing face to face, and hand in hand, and talking heart to heart, with Bill Flynn, George W. Perkins, Cecil Lyons, Dan Hannah, Munsey and McCormick, he delivers a heart to heart talk on the wickedness of the bosses in politics.

No matter who you are or what you are, whether you are in "big business" or "little business," whether farmer, lawyer, doctor, laborer or capitalist, he promises health, wealth, happiness, greater prosperity to you, one and all. Whatever you desire advanced or promoted, you will find some form of promise for its promotion. Whatever you may want retarded, restricted, or punished, in some form or other you will find that that is promised also. If you are a laborer and want better wages, step up and find better wages in your "pay-envelope." If you want larger profits in business, sure enough, that is promised also. If you want the profits of other industries or other business restricted or controlled, that is promised with equal fervor. or the producer, better prices. For the consumer, lower prices.. For youth, better education. For old age, a pension. For women, votes. For the anarchist, anarchy. For the law-abiding, an antidote for anarchy. For the Socialist, Socialism. For the individualist, an antidote for Socialism. For the advocate of public ownership—public ownership—in Alaska. For the single tax advocate—single tax—likewise, in Alaska. For those who advocate peace—peace. For the advocates of war, two Dreadnaughts a year.

If you are equally religious and pious, you will find much that will inspire and enthuse. If you are addicted to sport and to the prize-ring, you will find much language and comment that will make your heart glad. If you desire revenge and retribution, revenge and retribution are provided. For all that desire recompense and reward, there is that sort of thing in abundance.

ALL THINGS TO ALL.

If any reader thinks that these are mere assertions and exaggerations, read the colonel's "confession of faith" carefully and thoroughly, and you will find that it gratifies every desire, fills every want, cures every disease, and that no such genegeral cure-all and remedy for everything was ever proposed equaling this since the world began.

Usually we call a doctor who promises more than he can cure, a quack; a lawyer who promises to win all his cases, a shyster; a vender of articles or medicines who promises more than he can possibly perform, a faker, and a candidate for office or the political leader who appeals to all of the prejudices, passions, hopes, ambitions and inclinations of the people, a demagogue.

But we have no word coined at the present to describe the public man who at one and the same time promises all cures of medicine, the redress of the law, the opportunities of revenge and reward, and to gratify all of the aims, desires, hopes and ambitions of life, at one and the same time.

With supreme contempt for all past promises, pledges, policies and principles and obligations, he now announces a new "confession of faith" and, having broken all past contracts, he announces a new "contract" with the people.

THE GREAT REPUDIATOR.

When we come to consider that the fundamental doctrine and idea of the American Republican has been that the least government is the best; that each branch and function of the government should perform its own duties, and interfere with none other; that the Federal government should religiously look after the common defense and the general welfare and perform its functions and none other; that the several States should perform each all of the functions of local self-government and all of the other powers of government not expressly delegated to the Federal government, we cannot be otherwise than profoundly amazed when we observe many of those, heretofore the strongest and clearest advocates of the fundamental principles of government, following Col. Roosevelt, as he now espouses and advocates practically every fallacy, every vagary and every delusion that has been preached or practiced since the world began.

No thoughtful person will deny that 90 per cent. of the prosperity and happiness of every human being depends upon his own qualities of integrity, intelligence and industry. That 90 per cent. of those things that pertain to the integrity, unity and well-being of the home, depend upon the fathers and mothers and the children that make up that home. And that 90 per cent. of what we call "social justice" depends upon the industry, the frugality, and the character with which the individual safeguards, protects and establishes his own social and industrial position. And that even as to those things which pertain to government; that under our system, 90 per cent. of the remainder belongs exclusively to the State government, its Legislature, its laws, its courts and its administration, and that a mere trifling part of the "social justice" and individual benefits about which Col. Roosevelt talks, in no manner pertain to the nation or to its Congress, or to its government, but to the several States and to their people, to their Legislatures, to their courts and to their officers.

But none of these perfectly undeniable considerations appear to disturb the agitated followers of the "Bull Moose" candidate. None of the considerations of possibility, or impossibility, practicability or impracticability, appeal to them. Whether they believe in God or keep His Commandments, or have the slightest conception of religious belief, they follow him, singing, "Glory, Glory, Hallelujah!" as though they were upon the immediate prospect of the second coming of the Savior of the world.

Col. Roosevelt is entitled to the distinction of having made obvious, glaring and undeniable inconsistency a virtue, and consistency now appears to be necessary and proper, if at all, only in ordinary people of less capability than the colonel.

"LIAR! CROOK!" HE ARGUES.

Not only this, but, however, short of the ideal we have fallen in the past, there has always existed some respect for the decencies of debate, and some regard for the logic and fairness of the situation. Take, for example, the great debates between Lincoln and Douglas, in the midst of the greatest sectional difference and the most violent bitterness that ever existed in this country. With great power and acumen, with undeniable vigor and great logic, those two illustrious Americans, with courtesy and fairness, and personal respect, debated these issues to the enlightenment and the benefit of the American people. To observe the level of the discussion of today is painful, and of all others, Col. Roosevelt is the greatest offender. His mildest description of his adversary is to call him a crook, a liar and a fool. So long as Tom Platt supported him and aided him in New York, there was no denunciation of Platt. So long as Matt Quay and Boise Penrose aided and abetted his operations in Pennsylvania, they were subject to no denounciation. In other words, all that aid or abet the colonel are distinguished, virtuous and illustrious citizens; all that oppose him are grovelling bosses and lying crooks. At this particular moment he is busy denouncing and reviling Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania, and each is trying to prove that they were the most responsible for the contribution of the Standard Oil in the campaign of 1904. And now one of the greatest ambitions of Col. Roosevelt is to live to uproot and destroy Boise Penrose in Pennsylvania. And to what end." To supplant him with as corrupt and as ignorant and as common a boss as ever invaded any American ,State, in the person of Bill Flinn. Bill Flinn, who does not deny that he telegraphed Archbold to get the support of the Standard Oil to get him into the Senate of the United States, and who for years has been a corrupt boss, controlling municipal governments and making millions contracting with the same municipalities which he controlled. Yet Col. Roosevelt is hand and glove with Bill Flinn, boss of Pennsylvania, and no whit better than any other American boss of recent years whom he now so roundly

LET THERE BE LIGHT.

In view of all these obvious inconsistencies; in view of the clearly Machiavelli tendencies of Col. Roosevelt, to assume that all that aid and assist him in ruling the country are good, and that all that in anywise oprenunciation of his past, and of his ronunciation of his past, and of his assumption of belief that he has heretofore repudiated and denounced—I utterly deny the sincerity of the virtue or the truth of Col. Roosevelt's confession of faith. I express the opinion and belief that the more the campaign progresses, the more the American people will see and understand his inconsistencies, his obvious insincerity, and the tremendous danger that will be involved in violating all precedent by placing him again in the President's chair of the United States.

THE SENSES NEED TRAINING.

The Mind Is Sometimes Affected by Auto Suggestion and the Senses Seem to Lie to Him.

[New York American:] Your senses do not always tell you the truth. Or, to put it in another and perhaps a more polite way, things are not always what you are quite certain they are. For instance, in the early days of the telephone a lecturer arranged for a trumpeter to play at the other end of the wire at a certain time. At that time the lecturer took down the receiver that the audience might hear, and declared he heard the trumpeter.

The lecturer was honest, enough; he really thought he heard the trumpeter; but the audience did not and for a very good reason—the trumpeter was not there at all, having mistaken the date.

Now, this man's senses lied to him. He knew what he expected to hear and he was so certain of his arrangements that he actually believed he did hear the music.

A man was watching a moving picture film of a religious ceremony in Burma. There were pictures of bell players or ringers among the Burmese musicians, while the actual orchestra, with the moving picture exhibition, was composed entirely of stringed instruments. Yet this man solemnly declared he heard the bells ringing. It was autosuggestion, but through that suggestion his sense of hearing had actually informed his brain of sounds that were not—had lied to him, as it were.

Another instance of auto-suggestion with moving picture films was during views of the surf. A ventilator in the hall was open and a man in the audience was certain he felt the damp sea air and smelled the salty atmosphere. Still another, seeing pictures of a barnyard with men unloading hay, insisted he smelled new-mown hay. What he really smelled was violet perfume on a lady near by. His sense of smell had deceived him.

The senses have to be trained, and even with training they are frequently fooled. A child sees a stick in a pail of water. The refraction makes the stick look as though it were broken. The child believes it is broken. The training of the sense of sight by means of a knowledge of cause and effect can remedy this. Apparently the child's vision told him what was not true. A concave or a convex mirror makes one look thin and tall or wide and fat, as the case may be, yet we know we do not look like either one of the reflections.

In children the training of the senses, so necessary, is for the most part unconscious and self-attained, as in games, yet the science of psychology has invented tests to aid such training of the senses. There seems to be a lot of truth in the old saying: "Do not believe all you see, nor half you hear."

It is well known that in mock initiations the victim is shown an iron heated red hot and told he is to be branded. Then he is blindfolded and a piece of ice suddenly thrust upon his neck or his forehead. For a moment the victim is certain he has been branded, the sudden extreme cold felt like heat to him and he invariably tears off the bandage and looks in a mirror to see how badly he has been blistered, when, to his surprise, there is no mark whatever upon him. This time is an instance of his senses telling him what is not true, although he has had the aid of his mind in believing this, for he saw the hot iron.

THE TOMB OF AARON.

St. Louis Clergyman Pays Surreptitious Visit to the Sacred Mosque on Mt. Hor in Arabia.

[Chicago Tribune:] The Rev. Dr. William B. Palmore of St. Louis, who has just completed a 40,000-mile tour of Europe and the Orient, says his most remarkable exploit was a recent nocturnal expedition, at the risk of his life, to the tomb on Mt. Hor, near Petra, Arabia, which is revered by three religions as the burial place of Aaron, brother of Moses and the first high priest of the Hebrews.

Dr. Palmore, a Confederate veteran, is editor of the St. Louis Christian Advocate and a leader in the southern division of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

For three days Dr. Palmore lingered in Petra among the Bedouins, planning how to reach the little mosque, the white dome of which he could just perceive on the mountain's barren crest.

To his satisfaction he learned that the custodian of the sanctuary locked the mosque every night, and descended into Petra to sleep.

His guide succeeded in possessing himself of a key to the mosque.

Late on the last night of his stay in Petra, Dr. Palmore stole out of the city, attended by his guide and by his soldiers.

When the little party at last stood on the mountain top they found the mosque to be a ramshackle building of white stones, rudely piled together. The guide applied his stolen key to the lock and the door swung open.

"I found myself in a chapel about 40x40 feet," says Dr. Palmore. "According to the Moslem custom it contained no seats. It was bare, save that in the center stood a cenotaph, or empty sarcophagus, covered with a green cloth. Carved in the stone was an inscription in Hebrew, so nearly obliterated by time that I could not decipher it. I calculated that the inscription was more than 2000 years old. There was also a legend carved on the cenotaph in modern Arabic.

"I had little time to waste, for I was confident that if the Arabs in the valley discovered my departure and traced me to the mosque they would kill me. In one corner I discovered a hole in the floor, revealing a flight of stairs cut in the rock and leading downward.

"Holding my candle aloft, I descended the steps and found myself in an unlighted cave of no great size. Like the mosque, it was bare and rude. But across one end were stretched two chains, like sentinels against intruders, and behind them hung a tattered curtain.

"I stepped over the chains and swept the curtain aside. The sealed entrance to a natural vault was revealed and this vault was the tomb of Aaron."

There was little time for sacred reverie, for, if day broke before he descended the mountain, his errand might be detected and avenged by the Arabs of the valley. So Dr. Palmore, after touching the sealed vault reverently with his hand, ascended the stairs, passed through the mosque, and stood again in the open air.

His guide gravely locked the door and concealed the key once more in his garments. The party made its way safely back to Petra without discovery, and within a few hours was miles away on the return trip north.

FIDDLING BOB TAYLOR.

His Brothers Will Tell the True Story of How He Got Into Politics and of His Famous Lecture.

[New York World:] "So you are the man who fiddled your way into Congress, are you?"

This was the way an aged man, leaning upon a cane, put it when he was introduced to the late Senator Bob Taylor by one of Bob's brothers, many years ago. At that time Bob Taylor and his brothers, James P. and Alfred, were thinking about a popular subject for a lecture. Bob was then at the bottom financially, having saved nothing from his income as Congressman and Governor. The three brothers had gone over the matter for three days without definite results, when this aged countryman came to their rescue.

"I have it," said Bob the moment the aged man spoke of him as the individual who had fiddled his way into Congress: " 'The Fiddle and the Bow,' that's the subject." And Jim and Alf chorused: "You are right; no better subject could possibly have been conceived."

The aged countryman was thanked heartily for his suggestion and next day Bob Taylor began to assemble material for what proved to be his most famous lecture. Now that the Senator and lecturer is no more, his three brothers, James P. Taylor and Alfred Taylor of East Tennessee and Hugh A. Taylor of Ft. Worth, Tex., have begun the preparation of a biography.

"We shall tell," said Alfred Taylor, "those things which have appealed most to popular sentiment in the life of our lamented brother—characteristics of his early life and environments, how his political career was inaugurated, what figure the fiddle cut in his political aspirations, etc."

The story of how Bob Taylor got into politics and how he became a lecturer, and the origin of "Yankee Doodle and Dixie," the dual lecture written by himself and his brother Alf, will be told.

"We are writing this story," said Alfred, "because we want the people to get the true facts about his career."

When Bob Taylor decided to become a lecturer, he said: "My firm has good business in the prospective, but what good is business in the prospective to a fellow if, in the meantime, he has starved to death?"

In the introductory of this biography a picture is drawn of Bob Taylor's native "Happy Valley" and the environments which led up to his beautiful perorations.

The biography will be ready for the press not later than the first of next year, possibly early in the fall.

SIAMESE USE MUCH PERFUME.

They Have Also Other Habits Such as Chewing Tea Leaves Instead of Drinking the Infusion.

[Boston Herald:] Perfumery is extensively used in Siam, and Eau de Cologne, Florida water, scented hair lotions and oils, face creams and cosmetics are in constaint demand. German, French and English firms send out salesmen every year or six months to look after this trade. Few, if any, American perfumes are to be found on the Siamese. The people here prefer jasmine, rose and violet scents.

Ordinary kerosene lamps are used in most Siamese houses outside of Bangkok, as only that city has electric lighting and coal is too expensive for use in producing illuminating gas. The greatest demand is for wall lamps, which are used in the thousands of houseboats, which line the rivers and canals of Siam, and in the homes of the peasants. Such lamps sell at 25 to 50 cents each, but according to consular and trade reports, nearly every kind of lamps finds a sale in Siam. Only the most ordinary lamps are made in this country by the Chinese tinsmiths, the rest being imported.

Instead of being used as a beverage, the leaves of the tea plant, after being fermented, are rolled into balls, one of which is placed in the hollow of the cheek and allowed to remain there until the soluble contents have been exhausted by the saliva. The use of tea is common in Northern Siam. The tea plant is cultivated to only a small extent, but is found wild on hill slopes. In lower Siam tea drinking is indulged in to a considerable extent, especially among the Chinese.

Most of the tobacco produced in Siam, about 3,000,000 pounds a year, valued at $500,000, is consumed at home, the exports last year amounting to only 10,267 pounds, most of which went to Hongkong. The tobacco leaf grown here is said to be of peculiarly fine texture and would probably displace foreign tobacco in the local markets if it were cured by modern methods.

WHY Not Use The BEST Skin Soap instead of the poorest? The difference in cost is trifling; the result in use often astonishing.

Los Angeles Times

Midwinter Number

"Greater Than Ever"

ON or about January 1st, 1913, The Times will issue the greatest special edition of a newspaper ever published in the West—greatest in volume of material contained—greatest in immensity of distribution—greatest in power to effectively exploit Los Angeles and Southern California.

For many years The Times Midwinter Number has been recognized as one of the powerful established factors in the growth and development of the "Great Southwest." No other newspaper has given so freely of its space in proportion to the volume of paid advertising. The Midwinter Number of The Times has never been exploited as a money-making enterprise for the publishers, excepting as they benefit in common with the thousands whose interests prosper with the development of the country. It is essentially a herald of the natural wealth and marvelous opportunities which the Southwest holds for seekers of financial and physical weal.

Special Features

The 1913 "Midwinter" will contain many unusual features that will distinguish it as far-and-away the most remarkable special number ever produced in California. There is not a phase of the Southwest's eloquent appeal to homeseeker, tourist or investor that will not be fittingly and ably treated by experienced writers and splendidly illustrated with superb photo engravings. A notable feature of the number will be an entire section depicting and forecasting the Los Angeles of 25 years hence. This will not be an expression of lurid imagination, but a sane, convincing prophecy deduced from absolute data carefully compiled.

The production of The Times Annual Midwinter Number is not a work of weeks, but of months. It requires a large force of specially-qualified men—writers, artists, photographers, solicitors. It is a source of especial pride to the publishers, and is a subject of literally world-wide favorable comment in the press. Throughout the year requests are received for copies from all parts of the United States and foreign countries.

The Form Is Durable

As usual, the Midwinter Number will be issued in a series of compact magazine sections—the most durable as well as the most convenient form of publication. Only last month an Iowa citizen wrote requesting a Summer Number of The Times. He said: "We are still reading your Midwinter Number." Yet others have come thousands of miles carrying their Midwinter Numbers with them as the most useful and exhaustive printed information obtainable. This will be both a Midsummer and a Midwinter Number.

Copies, wrapped and addressed, 10 cents each; postage extra. Advertising rates on request, or solicitor will call. For special or personal information, apply (through the publication office) to Manager Midwinter Number, Los Angeles Times. All mail communications relating to the Midwinter Number should be addressed to

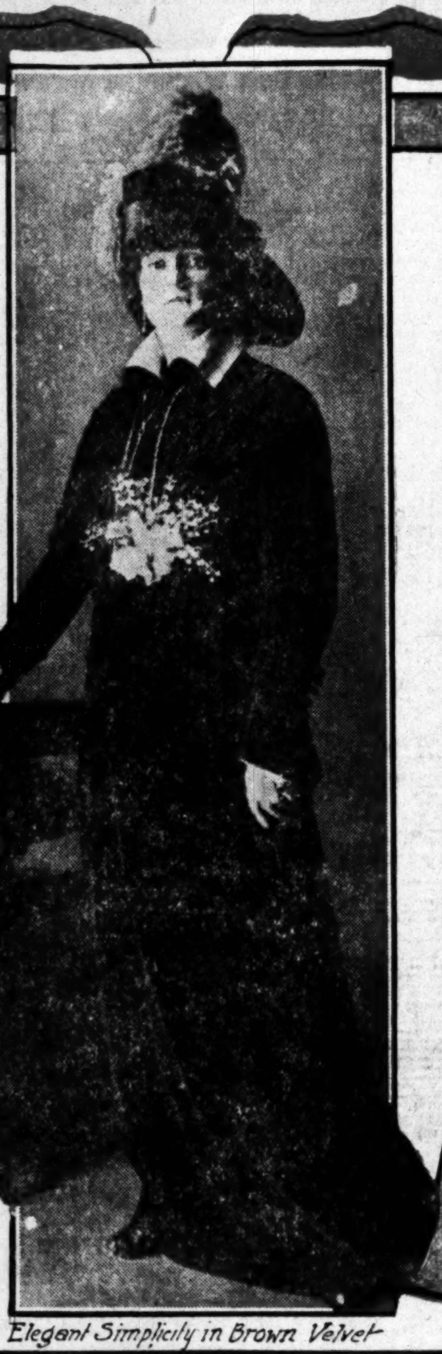
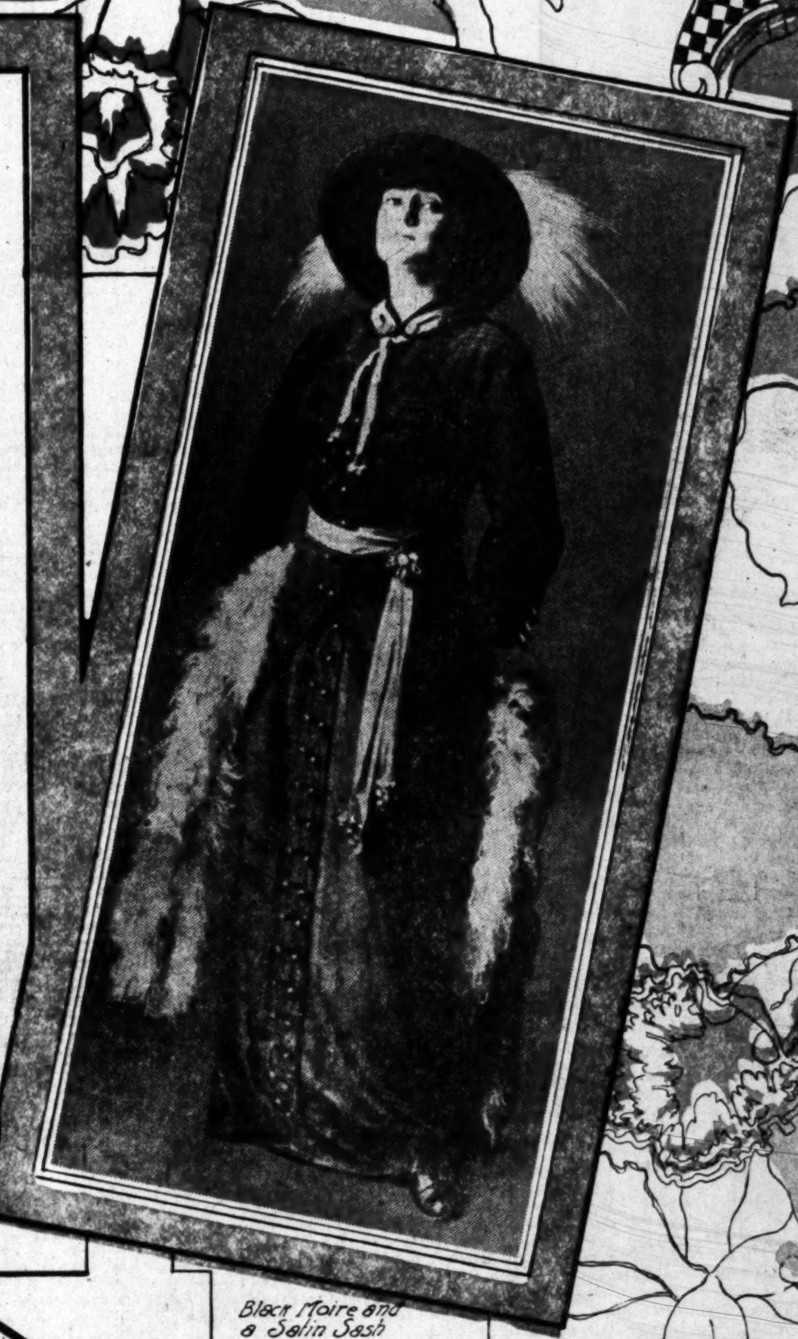
Velvet and White Cloth in Directoire Style



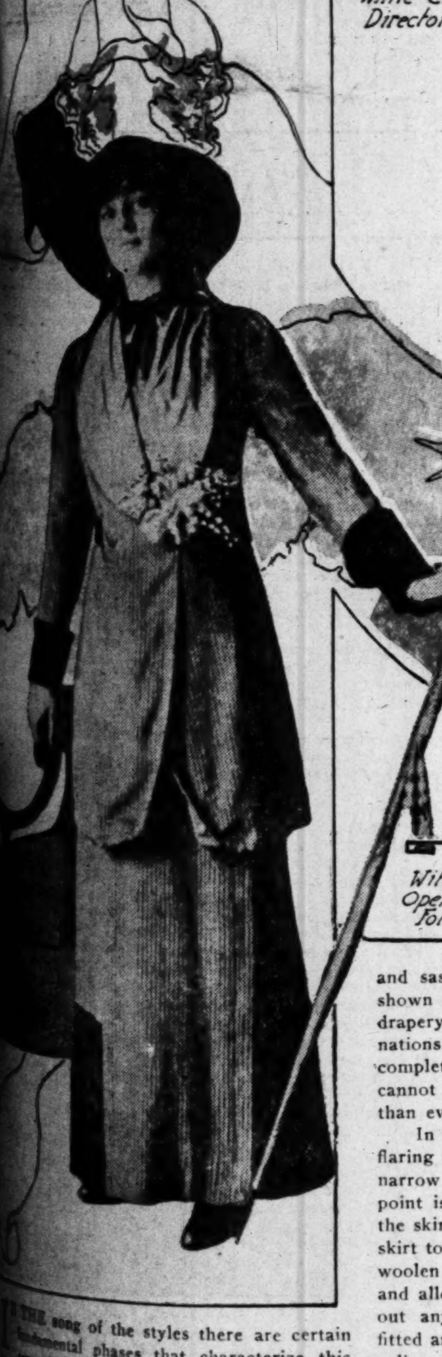
Elegant Simplicity in Brown Velvet



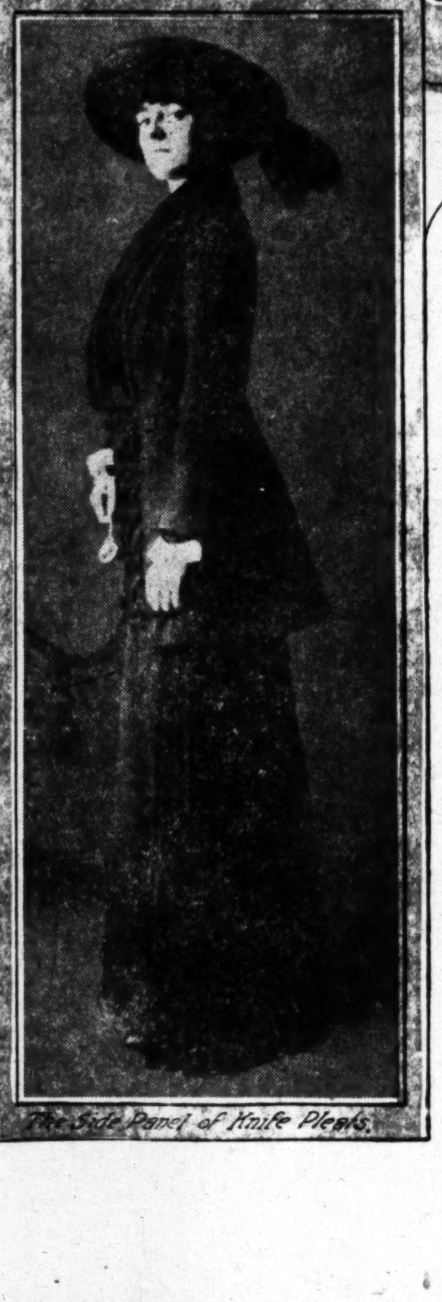
Black Moire and a Satin Sash

SUITS THAT SOUND THE LATEST NOTES

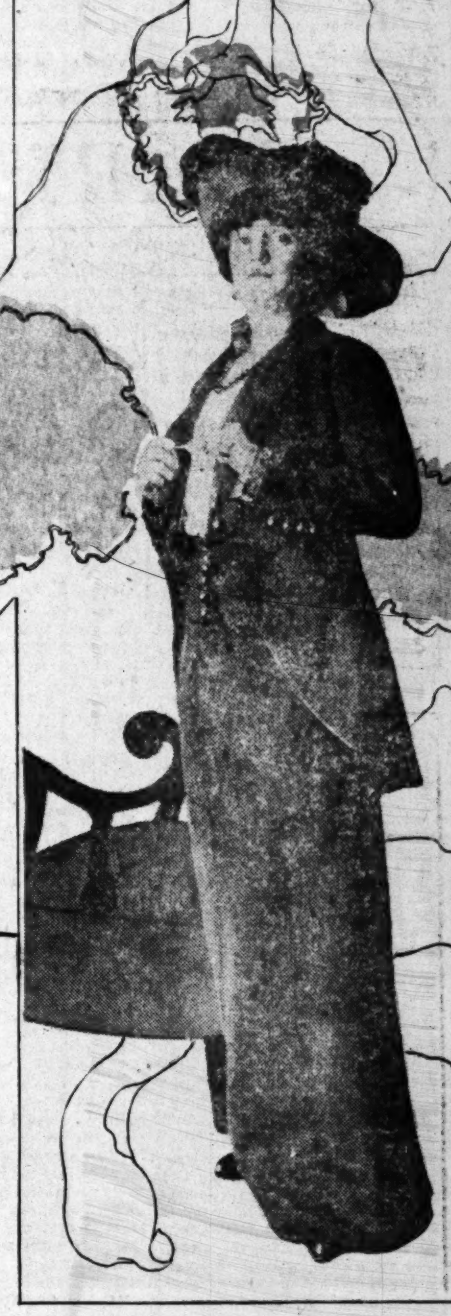
Photos from models imported by the American Fashion Co. and the Pictorial Review Co.



With Deep Cuffs, Open Collar and Folded Revers



The Side Panel of Knife Pleats



The Cutaway With Vest on the Skirt

IN THE song of the styles there are certain fundamental phases that characterize this season's models; but the latest notes are the details that tell, for these give a certain individuality to a costume and raise a suit from the standard thus to a particular exploitation.

Broadly speaking, the fall suits show a straight silhouette, but more fullness in skirts. There is a predominance of the directoire modes, and clever modifications of the Robespierre collar are noticeable. Sleeve lines are long, with many variations in cuffs. The high waist line is still retained, and cutaway jackets with vest effects and sashes are emphasized. A decided flare is shown on the jackets—to allow for any pannier drapery of the skirt beneath. Buttons, combinations of fabrics and a general grace of line complete the symphony of dress. Womankind cannot fail to walk out in a garb more attractive than ever.

In the cutaway jacket there is shown the flaring seams which have been mentioned. Long, narrow revers meet at the high line; from this point is shown a vest effect that is attached to the skirt, extending in a panel at the back of the skirt to the hem. The soft "velours de laine," or woolen velour, clings in graceful line to the figure and allows gathers at the top of the skirt without any obtrusive fullness. Sleeves are long, fitted and have cuffs of oriental embroidery, with a line of brass buttons on the outer seams.

Black moire is exploited in the afternoon model. That is very simple in line because of the ornate pattern of the material. The coat buttons in a straight line and swings back in a cutaway line. A velvet collar shows insets and ties of purple satin. A narrow girdle of purple satin defines the waist and falls in two ends at the side. A row of buttons is the decorative feature on the front of jacket and skirt.

Fullness, yet straightness, is shown in the knife-pleated side panel on the dark-blue suit. The front is plain, trimmed with soutache braid. The long coat has a straight vest effect of broad braid in short horizontal tabs. Long revers are braid-trimmed. A decided flare is noticeable at the seams of the coat.

In elegant simplicity stands the wearer of a brown velvet suit that is trimmed with oriental gold embroidery, brown cord and buttons. A Robespierre collar of white moire turns back from the front high fastening. There is a flap effect at the back of the skirt, from the under line of which fall the folds of the draped skirt.

The directoire model of black velvet and white cloth is a model becoming to any type of woman. The cutaway jacket fastens by one button over a straight double vest of white cloth. A Robespierre collar of black is tied in place by black satin ribbon. Long sleeves are self-trimmed. In the cloth skirt there is a modified pannier effect, with a lapped line in front.

Unusual is the gray suit with deep cuffs of black and folded revers of satin. It is a "robe manteau"—a coat dress—for it is not removed, and combines the features of a suit and a dress. There is a hint of the pannier in the turned-up edges of the coat tails in front. From the deep black velvet hem in back there rises a straight separate Watteau panel, which is attached to the upper part of the bodice by means of loops and buttons. The softness of the fabric insures a flat, graceful line. A certain charm of the unusual is the merit of this suit.

These are the important notes in the composition of the styles. They will recur in the best models, and will be taken up and re-echoed by the well-dressed women of the land. They emphasize excellence in line, color, fabric combination and general ornamentation. They spell harmony, and therefore artistic and practical satisfaction for their wearers.

COMMON SENSE in the HOME
EDITED by MARION HARLAND

WHAT AND WHEN AND HOW TO EAT.

"THINKING that you might, some day, be rash enough to print my 'Drink Rules, etc., for Dyspeptics,' I am sending you a revised copy.

"I am myself an old time editor-in-chief and comprehend that you have not room for everything you would wish to publish. But I know these rules to be practical and sound. I have long known and practiced them myself, although I have never until now formulated them.

"First—Drink nothing half an hour before a meal.

"Second—Drink nothing during meals—that is, force the stomach to supply its own digestive secretions.

"Third—Drink nothing for two and a half hours after meals.

"Fourth—Then drink what you please, including iced water.

"When once the habit is formed, these rules are easily followed. The resulting comfort is so great that you would no longer think of flooding the stomach with a lot of foreign liquid while eating.

"Fifth—If soups are eaten, avoid the thin and watery kind. Use instead broths and purées.

"Sixth—Avoid the excessive use of butter as a 'spread' for breads. In Europe—the bread being exceptionally good—no spread of any kind is used upon it with a meat dinner. With other meals, should an accompaniment to bread be desired, cheese is better than butter. At its best, bread is not a prime favorite with the dyspeptic. It is especially undesirable for those who are threatened with locomoter ataxia.

"Seventh—Dyspeptics will often find it well to eat only one meal a day. Give the stomach a rest during the remainder of the twenty-four hours.

"I remark in passing that this is the best 'anti-fat' rule ever formulated. It is far superior to any prescription involving the use of drugs. Food should be made tempting and there should be plenty of it, but for the overcorpulent a one dish diet per meal is better than a variety of fare.

"Eighth—The hour of eating may be any one in the twenty-four, provided it is always the same hour of the day.

"Ninth—If you feel sleepy after your meal, yield to the inclination and take a nap, no matter what wiseacres may say to the contrary. Your heart will (presumably) keep on beating while you sleep and nature knows how to carry on the process of digestion without your remaining awake to look after it.

"FREEMAN L., New York City."

Only Nature's Prescriptions Urged.

No prescription involving the use of drugs is printed in the Corner. I think it well to state this decidedly before proceeding to the consideration of our ex-editor-in-chief's interesting contribution. I am in constant receipt of prescriptions for the relief of this or that disease, some of them naming as panacea proprietary nostrums. Sometimes I am called down sharply for failing to publish what the writers affirm are blessings to the suffering human race. I may personally have faith in some of the remedies I am entreated to make public. I have no right to name them here.

But I have, and I exercise the indubitable right to write of health laws founded upon common sense and the observation of those who have made the operations of nature a study for centuries. The foregoing article is from the pen of one who has full faith in the results of experience and close watchfulness of the American disease.

We have the doubtful honor of numbering more dyspeptics among our men and women than are to be found in proportion to the same population in any other country. Whatever tends to lower the percentage deserves respectful attention. All the same, while I recognize the excellent sense of much we read here and appreciate the author's conscientious endeavor to serve his kind, I take exception to the sweeping dicta of his "formulated rules."

There are almost as many varieties of dyspepsia as there are victims of unhinged digestions. One eminent specialist, whose name would be recognized instantly by readers were I to mention it, feeds the patients under his care often during the day—hourly, I think—but gives very little nourishment at a time. His contention is that the stomach requires to be kept up to its work by strength giving food; that when a weak stomach gets empty and remains empty for hours it loses tone and force.

He founds his regimen upon the well established fact that eating when one is weary provokes almost certain indigestion. He points to the habits of wild animals and of domestic dumb creatures when they are allowed to act as nature dictates.

Rest First; Eat Afterward.

The predatory beast returning from the chase does not devour his game until he has rested. A familiar illustration of the truth of our specialist's theory in this respect is that of an experiment made in England a century or so ago by a celebrated naturalist.

A dozen dogs were devoted to the costly test. They were led for hours through an exciting fox chase and upon their return six of the pack were made to eat heartily and after a few hours were killed. The other six were allowed to obey the disposition to lie down for a long sleep. When they awoke, several hours thereafter, they were given as much food as they would eat and left until a certain time had elapsed—the same number of hours that had been apportioned to the work of digestion in the case of the first half dozen.

The stomachs of the dogs that had eaten while wearied with the chase were full of undigested food. The six that had been allowed to rest before they were fed had digested the meal thoroughly.

This is a branch of our subject to which we may revert later. What I would say now is that while one meal per diem may be a safe and wholesome regimen for four out of ten dyspeptics, it is highly probable that it would work disaster to the remaining six. If our eminent specialist is to be credited, probability will ripen into certainty.

We find wide variance of theory and practice with respect to the rules laid down by our correspondent as to drinking before and after meals and those promulgated by other writers upon hygiene and practitioners of the healing art.

One teacher bids us drink freely between meals, avoiding mineral waters and iced beverages. A second advises warm beverages with meals, urging what he calls "the cruel absurdity of stuffing the stomach with dry, hard food, which will tax the gastric juices to the utmost." He is particularly insistent upon the duty of drinking a couple glasses of boiled water early in the morning.

The stomach, as he reminds us, accumulates a coating of mucus during the night of inaction. This must be washed away before the normal secretions can assert themselves and assimilate nourishment. The same writer prescribes fruit as a first course for breakfast and decries the practice in Scotland and elsewhere of lining the already coated stomach with "a poultice of oatmeal or mush, or other viscid cereal." The bath of boiled water and the gentle acid of fruit cleanses and stimulates the digestive organs.

Who Is Right and Who Wrong?

Who shall decide when so many learned doctors disagree, and so materially? Who is right in part and who is utterly wrong?

In view of the mass of conflicting authorities and the cloud of sounding words that darken the understanding of the average reader it behooves each of us to make a careful study of his or her gastronomic idiosyncrasies and lay down his or her own plan of action.

In plainer English, it is the duty of each one of us to find out what manner of food agrees with one's own constitution; when it makes for one's comfort and health to take meals, and, having formulated a dietary, to stand by one's convictions. If you find that a damaged digestion is repaired, even in part, by eating one meal a day, excuse yourself from eating the other two. Nobody obliges you to drink before your meals or with them. And there is no social or domestic law to prevent you from taking all the liquid you want at the proper time—or what you have decided is the right time.

As we agreed upon a while ago, a rule of such general application that it may be regarded as a fixed fact in dietetics is that it is unwholesome to a perilous degree to eat heartily when one is tired in body or in nerve. Some day I shall write a paper upon "De-appetizers" that will deal with this matter of nervous excitement or derangement.

A more frequent mistake—one almost universal among the working classes, who must take the heaviest meal of the day at or near noontide—is the rapid swallowing of heavy food when the whole frame is enervated by heat and exhausted by physical labor. The tired man of the house expects and insists upon having his dinner upon the table as soon as his shadow falls over the threshold of his home.

He may go through the form of washing hands and face before he attacks corned beef and cabbage, boiled potatoes, pickles, and pie. He is "too tired to talk," he will tell the wife who plies him with injudicious questions about the outer world of which she sees little. If she be wise and prudent she leaves him to "feed" undisturbed and frowns down the children's attempts at sociability.

It never enters her head or his that he is too tired to eat. That is what he came home for, and he falls upon the mountainous supply upon his plate with energy worthy of a better cause. It would be an innovation upon ancient customs and a violation of family traditions were he to lie down for fifteen minutes in a darkened room before appeasing his hunger.

Feeds Himself, but Not His Horse.

After the manner of beasts that perish? If you choose to put it that way. Our "nobler animal" has certainly wandered very far away from nature's heart in the progress of civilization.

Yet if he is a farmer he does not shake down the hay and oats into the manger for his horses when he brings them in dripping with sweat and panting after the forenoon's plowing. He lets them cool off and rest until he has had his "feed."

He would stare at your ignorance if you asked him why he made the difference between the biped and the quadruped. If he is a town teamster he would not hold his place long after the "boss" caught him letting his team swig gallons of water and surfeit themselves with provender when they were hot and tired.

He gulps well water as cold as he can get it, and by the quart, as soon as he gets home. If the "noon spell" be not up by the time he has bolted the second slice of leathery pie he drops down upon the best room sofa and snatches his "forty winks" just as his grandfather did in the same room.

Our sprightly ex-editor says that he may do this with impunity. Nature will see to it that the heart beats regularly and goes steadily about its business while he snores away the half hour without so much as removing his heavy shoes. Here again doctors differ. Many healthy persons who do not consciously suffer from indigestion have told me that if they take a siesta immediately after a hearty meal they awake with a terrible sense of oppression in the region of the heart and an indescribable and unaccountable feeling of mental depression.

One woman who invariably has this experience when she sleeps in the hour succeeding luncheon adds that she "must have her heart examined. She cannot lie upon her left side without awaking with an awful sensation of sinking, sinking into unfathomable depths." She had never heard until I told her that the laden stomach impinges upon the rightful territory of the heart when one lies upon the left side. Hers is not the only case of "heart trouble" that might be explained away after the same fashion.

I have touched upon one section after another of the letter I have used as the text for my informal talk today without subscribing fully to any one or to the communication as a whole. Frankly, my province is to keep my constituents from becoming dyspeptics rather than to cure the unfortunates who have succumbed to the national malady.

Plague Due to Unfit Food.

I hold that the prevalence of the plague is not due to climate or to constitution. MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND.

"ALTHOUGH a mere masculine member of the exchange, I make bold to contribute the inclosed recipe which is, I take it, seasonable. Within the last few years I have, although a busy professional man, collected more than a hundred recipes for preparing choice articles of food. I can conscientiously recommend this formula for making green tomato mincemeat to the thousands of practical housewives who are regular readers of your Common Sense in the Household Corner.

"One peck of green tomatoes, newly gathered; four pounds of brown sugar; two cupfuls of cider or vinegar; one and a half pounds of seedless raisins; one nutmeg; two tablespoonfuls each of cinnamon, cloves, and allspice; one tablespoonful of salt.

"Slice and chop lightly your tomatoes, not to mangle them. Boil for fifteen minutes before adding cider, salt, sugar, and spices. Cook all together for two hours, stirring often from the bottom. Pack in jars while the mincemeat is hot as you would other canned foods. Use as needed.

"B. F. C. (Weatherly, Pa.)."

As gardeners know, early frosts catch tomato vines laden with the green fruit. Our masculine member suggests an excellent method of disposing of these for the benefit of the household in winter, when mincemeat is in high season. If there are more than are needed for this purpose, the surplus may be utilized as tomato soy.

Shiftless Husband.

"I read with lively interest the letter from the wife of the shiftless husband. She should have sent her address to you if she really wished for help. If she will confide it to you I am sure she will be protected from all possible annoyance that might attend the act in other circumstances.

"I have worked out a problem precisely similar to hers and I can help her, I know. I am willingly and lovingly waiting to hear from her through you. I shall watch for her reply. If she will send you her address I will let you have mine and we can communicate directly with one another.

MRS. S., Chicago."

It is, of course, optional with the writer of the letter which has so forcibly attracted your attention to say whether or not she is inclined to take you into her confidence. If I had your address I could say this without making public your kind offer. Should the perplexed wife accede to your wish, you will hear of such disposition through the Corner.

* *

Frosted Glass.

"Please give me a recipe to use upon window panes to get the frosted effect—something that will stay on well and will still not be hard to wash off when one wants to clean the glass. I have a bedroom window which I should like to frost in this way—that is, to give to it the effect of frosting.

"MRS. JOHN G. (Minneapolis.)"

There is a preparation of Epsom salts—a very strong solution—which in drying imparts the effect you desire. I do not know the proportions. You may try it upon a piece of glass and thus experiment until you get it right. It has the merit of washing off easily, yet it holds to the glass until water is used. Perhaps some member will send in the exact recipe.

* *

Keep Dresses Clean.

"Here is what you would call a brieflet that some housekeeper may like to use:

"I had some samples of cross-bar lawn which I used to cover coat-hangers. The wire frames may be bought, two for five cents, at the five and ten cent stores. I tied some with a bow of bright ribbon and some with a bow and ends of the lawn.

"Another way is to hem a square of lawn or organdie, and slip upon the stuffed frame before the bow is added.

"These covers may be taken off and done up when they get soiled, as must happen in dusty weather. They keep wash dresses beautifully clean and are, to my notion, preferable to the expensive hangers covered with satin or silk, which can never be laundered.

"E. J. A. (Chicago)."

A Chicago member contributes the driblet of common sense. It is a clever idea.

Salt Rising Bread.

"I cannot repress my amusement at the predicament of the correspondent who 'has made good salt rising bread and yet wants to know how it is done!' I inclose a recipe, which is, I flatter myself, explicit enough for an amateur cook to follow safely. The best cooks will tell you that salt rising bread is 'tricky.' It may be good and it may not be. Whether the success depends upon 'luck' or upon skill, is not for me to say.

"At night slice two large raw potatoes quite thin. Add a tablespoonful of flour, a teaspoonful of sugar, a half teaspoonful of salt, and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of soda. Over this pour a pint of warm, but not hot water; cover all closely and keep warm over night. In the morning put this mixture into a double boiler and keep warm (never hot, remember!) at the back of the range until it is foamy. Then take out the sliced potatoes and throw them away.

"Add to what is left a cupful of milk which has been scalded then cooled to blood warmth; a tablespoonful of lard, a teaspoonful of sugar, and a half teaspoonful of salt. Lastly stir in a pint of warmed flour and set away in a warm place until it is light. This should be in an hour or less. When it has risen well, add flour enough to enable you to knead the dough readily. It is impossible to give the exact quantity of flour, but the dough should be a little softer than for yeast bread. Mold into loaves at once; put into pans, and when it has doubled in bulk, bake about an hour in a moderate oven.

"A MISSOURI HOUSEMOTHER,

"St. Louis, Mo."

Your recipe is surely as explicit as we could desire, and simple enough for the tyro to attempt without fear of failure.

But I confess to the continued difficulty expressed after reading former communications in re salt rising bread. I do not see what makes it rise, or why it is called "salt rising!" There is more sugar than salt in the dough, and more potatoes than sugar. What makes the sponge ferment into foaminess without a symptom of yeast?

Spiced Rhubarb.

"Will you give me a recipe for spiced rhubarb—a sort of sweet pickle? I ate some in the house of a friend the other day which was delicious. It was bought at a woman's exchange. But their prices are always high, and we have quantities of rhubarb in the garden which I might utilize in this way.

"I haven't the least idea how to go about it. I never put up anything in the line of pickles and preserves until this year, having boarded for the five years of my married life.

NOVICE."

I am so fortunate as to have under my hand a recipe sent in by a practical housemother which may be just what you want:

Scrape the stalks of the plants nicely, not cutting too deeply. Much of the flavor and succulence lie close to the skin. Then cut into inch lengths and lay in iced water for half an hour. Put into a granite or enamel lined saucepan dripping wet as it comes out of the water, and strew between the layers white sugar, allowing three-quarters of a pound to each pound of rhubarb.

When all is in fit a top upon the saucepan and set it in a pot of cold water. Bring slowly to the boil and keep this up until the contents of the inner vessel are tender throughout and of a fine pink color. Then stir in for each pound of rhubarb a tablespoonful each of ground cinnamon and of cloves and a teacupful of vinegar. Cover again and cook for half an hour longer. Pour into jelly glasses rolled in hot water and wet inside. When it is cold cover with melted paraffin.

Let me say that gooseberries and grapes are fine put up in the same way.

I agree with the correspondent to whom we owe the recipe in preferring to cook rhubarb without the addition of water to stewing it, as is usually done. I never add any other liquid than the moisture which clings to the stalks after they are washed and laid in cold water. Then I cook it in the inner vessel of a double boiler, and when it is clear and tender put in the sugar. Color and flavor are preserved in this way. If the rhubarb is for "sauce," and is to be used at once, I do not cook the sugar with it at all.

Prepared in this way it has the flavor of fresh fruit and not of preserves. If you like you may stir in a handful of cleaned sultana raisins when the contents of the inner kettle have cooked for [illegible]

This is for rhubarb sauce [illegible] with meat, or as a simple [illegible] bread and butter.

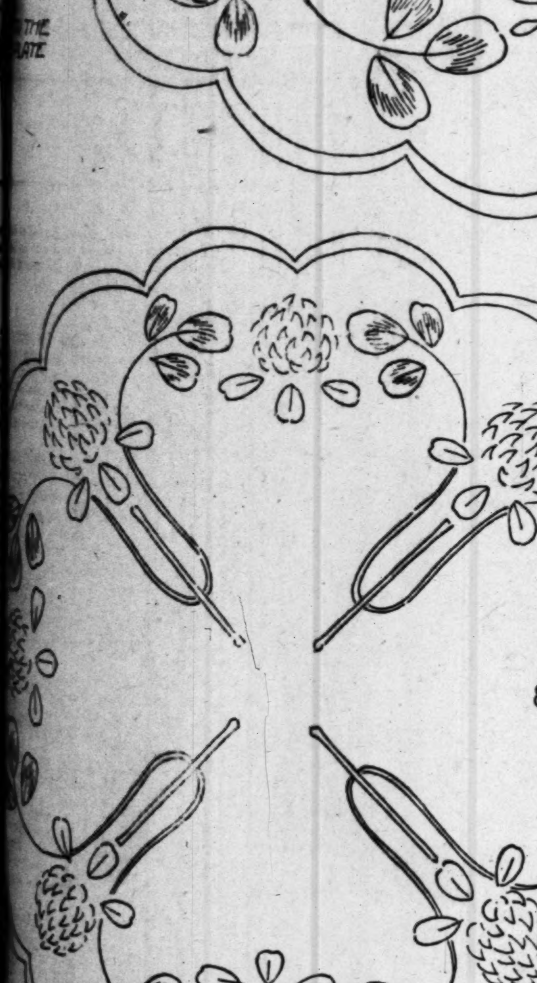
CLOVER DOILIES



RIBBON RUCHINGS MADE AT HOME

THIS is undoubtedly a ribbon year. Everybody is wearing ribbon-trimmed gowns, and in nearly every case the ribbon is made into dainty ruchings, frilled and puffed so that it will appear in its lightest form. Yards and yards of these ruches are used on the frocks of silk and light-weight cloth, but to buy them ready-made is very expensive; that is why they are seen on the most exclusive frocks.

But why spend your money for trimming that any girl can make at home? Besides, the work is fascinating and not hard to do. I am sure you will enjoy making your own ribbon ruchings, once you know how.

It is well to choose a ribbon with a fancy edge; picot edge is pretty, as are shaded stripes or a figured edge. Black edged with white or white with black is always good, and sometimes you can match the material of your frock in ribbon with a contrasting edge.

The amount of ribbon required for ruchings depends upon the style adopted, and varies between one and a half times the length of the ruche to five times its length.

A plain shirred ruching is especially suitable for dress trimming and for juvenile millinery, and it is the most simple to make.

Measure the length of trimming required and allow one and a half times that length of ribbon, no matter what the width.

Run a gathering thread along its length about a quarter of an inch inside each edge. With wide ribbon the thread may be placed further inside, and with very soft ribbon the two gathering threads may be so placed as to form a puff in the center.

A billowy ruching is made by creasing the ribbon its width across so as to form squares. The creasing of one-inch ribbon must be one inch apart; two-inch ribbon, two inches apart, and so on. Now take a piece of tape and crease it one-half the width of the creases in the ribbon—for a one-inch ribbon crease, a half-inch tape crease, etc.; then gather the end of the ribbon to the end of the tape. The first crease is gathered to the first crease on the tape, and so on to the end.

Scalloped ruching is easily made if the ribbon is creased first. Fold the ribbon over on itself so as to form a right angle, then square it, then a right angle again, continuing in this way until the end of the ribbon is reached. This will give a series of bias lines; then, beginning at the end, run a gathering thread along these creases and draw the ribbon up on the thread until you have the proper length, and tack the ruching in place with the gathers well regulated.

Flat ruching is a novelty of the season, and is very effective when a ribbon with a bordered edge is used. With this the ribbon quills up into one-third its length, so that if one yard is required for trimming it will be necessary to buy three yards of ribbon.

Lay the ribbon in single pleats half as deep as the ribbon is wide, and fasten in place by firm stitching through the center. Then the top and bottom of each pleat are caught up and fastened together in the middle of the width of ruching.

Rose quilling or rose ruching, as it is sometimes called, is made by folding the ribbon in double box pleats, one or two inches wide, according to the width of the ribbon. Then catch the center of the two edges of the top pleat together by sewing them securely with fine thread. This requires five times the length of ribbon to make, but is the most effective of all ruchings.

Made in very narrow ribbon, these ruchings make stylish dress trimmings, hat trimmings and garnitures for the neck of coats and wraps. These latter are made of chiffons and net, but in exactly the same way that ribbon ruching is developed.

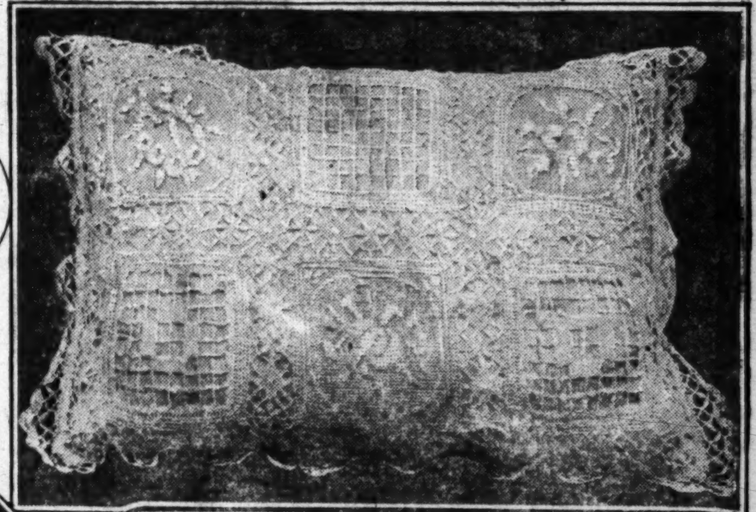
Summer Tablecloths

IN SUMMER, when the busy housekeeper should save herself every particle of labor that is possible, she will find it much easier not to use large tablecloths, which are in themselves a task to wash and iron properly.

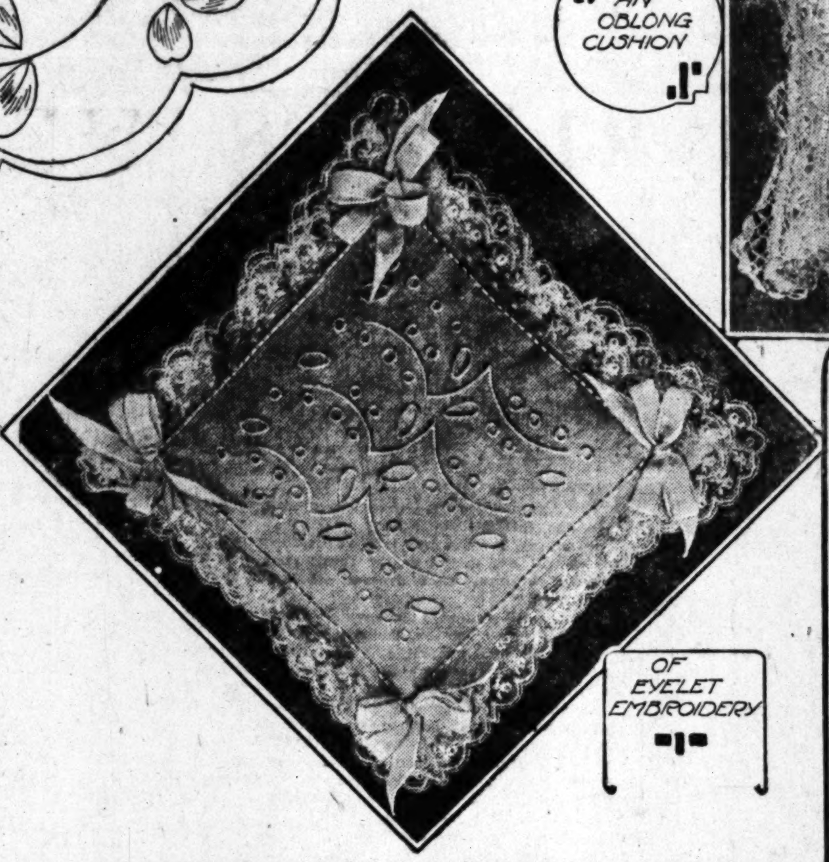
Take two runners of huckaback toweling, long strips that will extend several inches beyond the length of the table, and hemstitch them on the ends, or work some pretty simple design on each end in cross stitch, or with the outline stitch trace a dainty floral design.

These may be taken off, washed and ironed between meals and will be found far easier to handle than a long linen cloth. Place them side by side over the table top to take the place of the cloth.

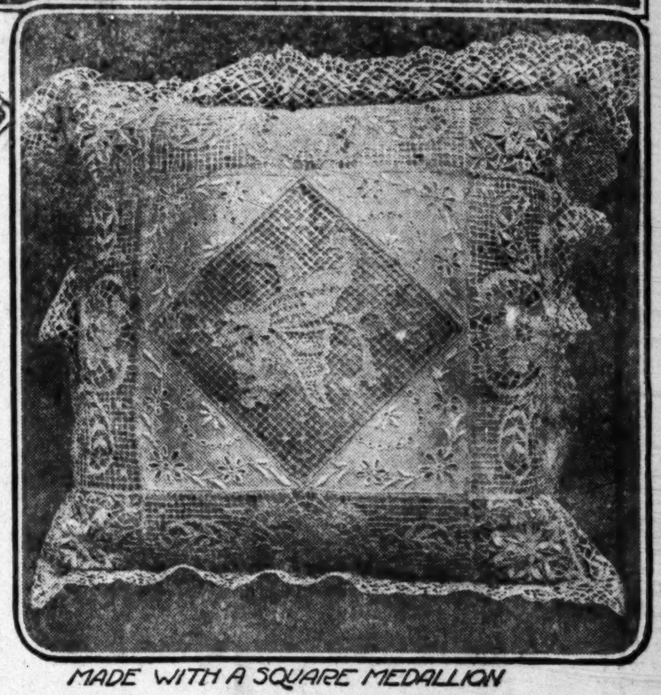
WHAT TO DO WITH MEDALLIONS



AN OBLONG CUSHION



OF EYELET EMBROIDERY



MADE WITH A SQUARE MEDALLION

[illegible] time I am offering doilies [illegible]. The larger one is for the [illegible] doily of a luncheon set, and [illegible] smaller one for the tumbler or [illegible] saucer. You will find the [illegible] fascinating, and I am sure that [illegible] will receive a set from you [illegible] very cherished gift.

[illegible] also pretty if used as odd [illegible] small dishes. One clever [illegible] is always doing unusual [illegible] worked the larger doily on gray [illegible] white thread for the blossoms [illegible] a silvery green for the [illegible]. She picked a bunch of large [illegible], tied it with green ribbon [illegible] the doily and the blossoms to [illegible].

[illegible] them on white linen, the [illegible] is good, and thread, soft [illegible], or silk will help in the [illegible] clovers the whole year. [illegible] stitch for the stems, outlining [illegible] curved stems at the top of each [illegible]. Work the leaves at the base of [illegible] blossom in wallachian stitch. This, [illegible], is a buttonhole stitch the purled edge coming on the outside line, the central vein acting as a guide.

The clover can be worked in solid stitches, then fill in each point. French knots are an effective way. Make them large, the top ones a little smaller. This means that fewer twists of the thread are required.

Outline the leaves and use long-and-short stitches for the markings on the lobes. If you prefer the solid work, use the wallachian stitch. It is easy, quick and effective.

Pad the scallops with darning cotton and work in buttonhole stitch. To prevent fraying, a second buttonholing can be used.

There are many uses for these round designs. You can make the large one into a pincushion top by adding eyelets around the edge, making a plain circle the same size, with embroidered scallops, and running ribbon through the eyelets, using a bought form for the pincushion.

Clever embroiderers never are limited by the one design offered. They adapt it to their needs and make one pretty pattern play many parts.

Good luck to you in the clover work. May every one be as good as if it were of the unusual four-leafed variety.

Pressing Pleated Skirts

NOW that pleated skirts are creeping back to the realm of fashion, women who like to attend to their own clothes will want to know just how to go about keeping them well pressed and in good condition.

First of all, you must baste the pleats in place just as they were when the skirt was new; run a line of basting on the outside edge of each pleat the full length, catching it down firmly to the material underneath. Lay it over the ironing board wrong side out, place a damp cloth over the pleats and press with a hot iron until the damp cloth is dry.

Allow the basting threads to remain in the skirt after it is pressed for several hours; then remove them, and your skirts will keep their shape and look nicer for a long time.

This same rule applies to all pleated garments.

NEEDLES AND HANDS

I HAVE often heard women complain of the thread "roughing up" when they have been embroidering with silk, and they wondered what was the cause thereof.

We are always more ready to find a defect in some external object than in ourselves, yet the fault is often with the worker's hands when this is the case. Therefore, every woman who embroiders should be careful that she keeps her hands soft and smooth, the nails well manicured and the fingertips free from all pricks or abrasions of the skin.

Oftentimes when the silk does not work smoothly and looks rough on the linen, the fault lies in the needle. The best needle for embroidery is one which has a perfectly smooth eye that allows the silk plenty of play without pulling or roughing it in the least.

Be sure your needle is adapted to the thickness of the silk. If the eye be too small it cuts the silk and it frays out, because it gathers in a thick lump at the eye of the needle, which has to be forced through the fabric, to the detriment of the silk.

If the eye be too large, the work has the appearance of having too few stitches, and holes mark the edge of every stitch. Experienced workers find that a No. 9 or 10 needle is adapted to general use with filo silk, while a No. 12 needle is used in the finest work with a single thread.

Use a No. 7 needle when working with Roman floss; No. 8 for twisted embroidery and outline floss, and a No. 3 for rope silk.

In working on certain materials, either very heavy or very sheer, it may be advisable to select some size other than those mentioned here; but the above selection will be found suitable for general use.

In shading, when a number of colors have to be used alternately, an experienced worker will not confine herself to the use of one needle, which has to be threaded and rethreaded with the different colors at a considerable loss of time, but she will have a needle for each color and use them in succession as that color is required in the work.

Always keep the needle point free from dampness and rust by the frequent use of an emery bag, and the hands smooth to insure the best results in your work.

How to Transfer

HERE are suggestions for transferring the pattern before you to any material before working.

Perhaps the easiest way is the "window-pane" method. This is successful when the material is thin, like linen, batiste, etc. Pin the sheet of paper and the material together and hold them up against the glass of a window. With a sharp pencil draw on the material the design, which can be easily seen through the goods. If one-half of the design only be given, unpin the paper and turn the other side to the fabric. The strong light behind will make it plain.

If you have carbon paper, you should place the sheet between your fabric and the newspaper. This latter is on top. With a sharp pencil go over the outline of the design. The impression will be left in fine lines and will last until worked. This method is successful on heavy material.

THE energetic woman wants something interesting to keep her hands and brain well occupied. Reading becomes tiresome after a while and she resorts to sewing.

Many fascinating articles may be made with lace and embroidered medallions. They may be purchased in the needlework department of any store.

These medallions are very effective combined with cluny lace to form table covers, sofa cushions, bedspreads, bureau scarfs and other articles for the home.

One of the prettiest sofa cushions noticed recently was composed of these medallions. In the center was a diamond-shaped medallion of Arabian point lace. The corners were filled with small triangles of eyelet embroidery to form a square. To each side of this was sewn a rectangular medallion of cluny lace, and the corners were filled with squares of the same. An edging of cluny bordered the cushion. This was void of fullness, excepting where the corners were turned.

The cushion should be lined with silk of a pastel tint. Oblong cushions are especially favored at the present time.

A very lovely one was made of cluny and filet lace medallions. This was combined with insertion and edging of cluny. Six medallions five inches square, three in each row, were joined with insertion two inches in width, to form the oblong. Cluny lace edging two inches wide was used to border this lovely pillow.

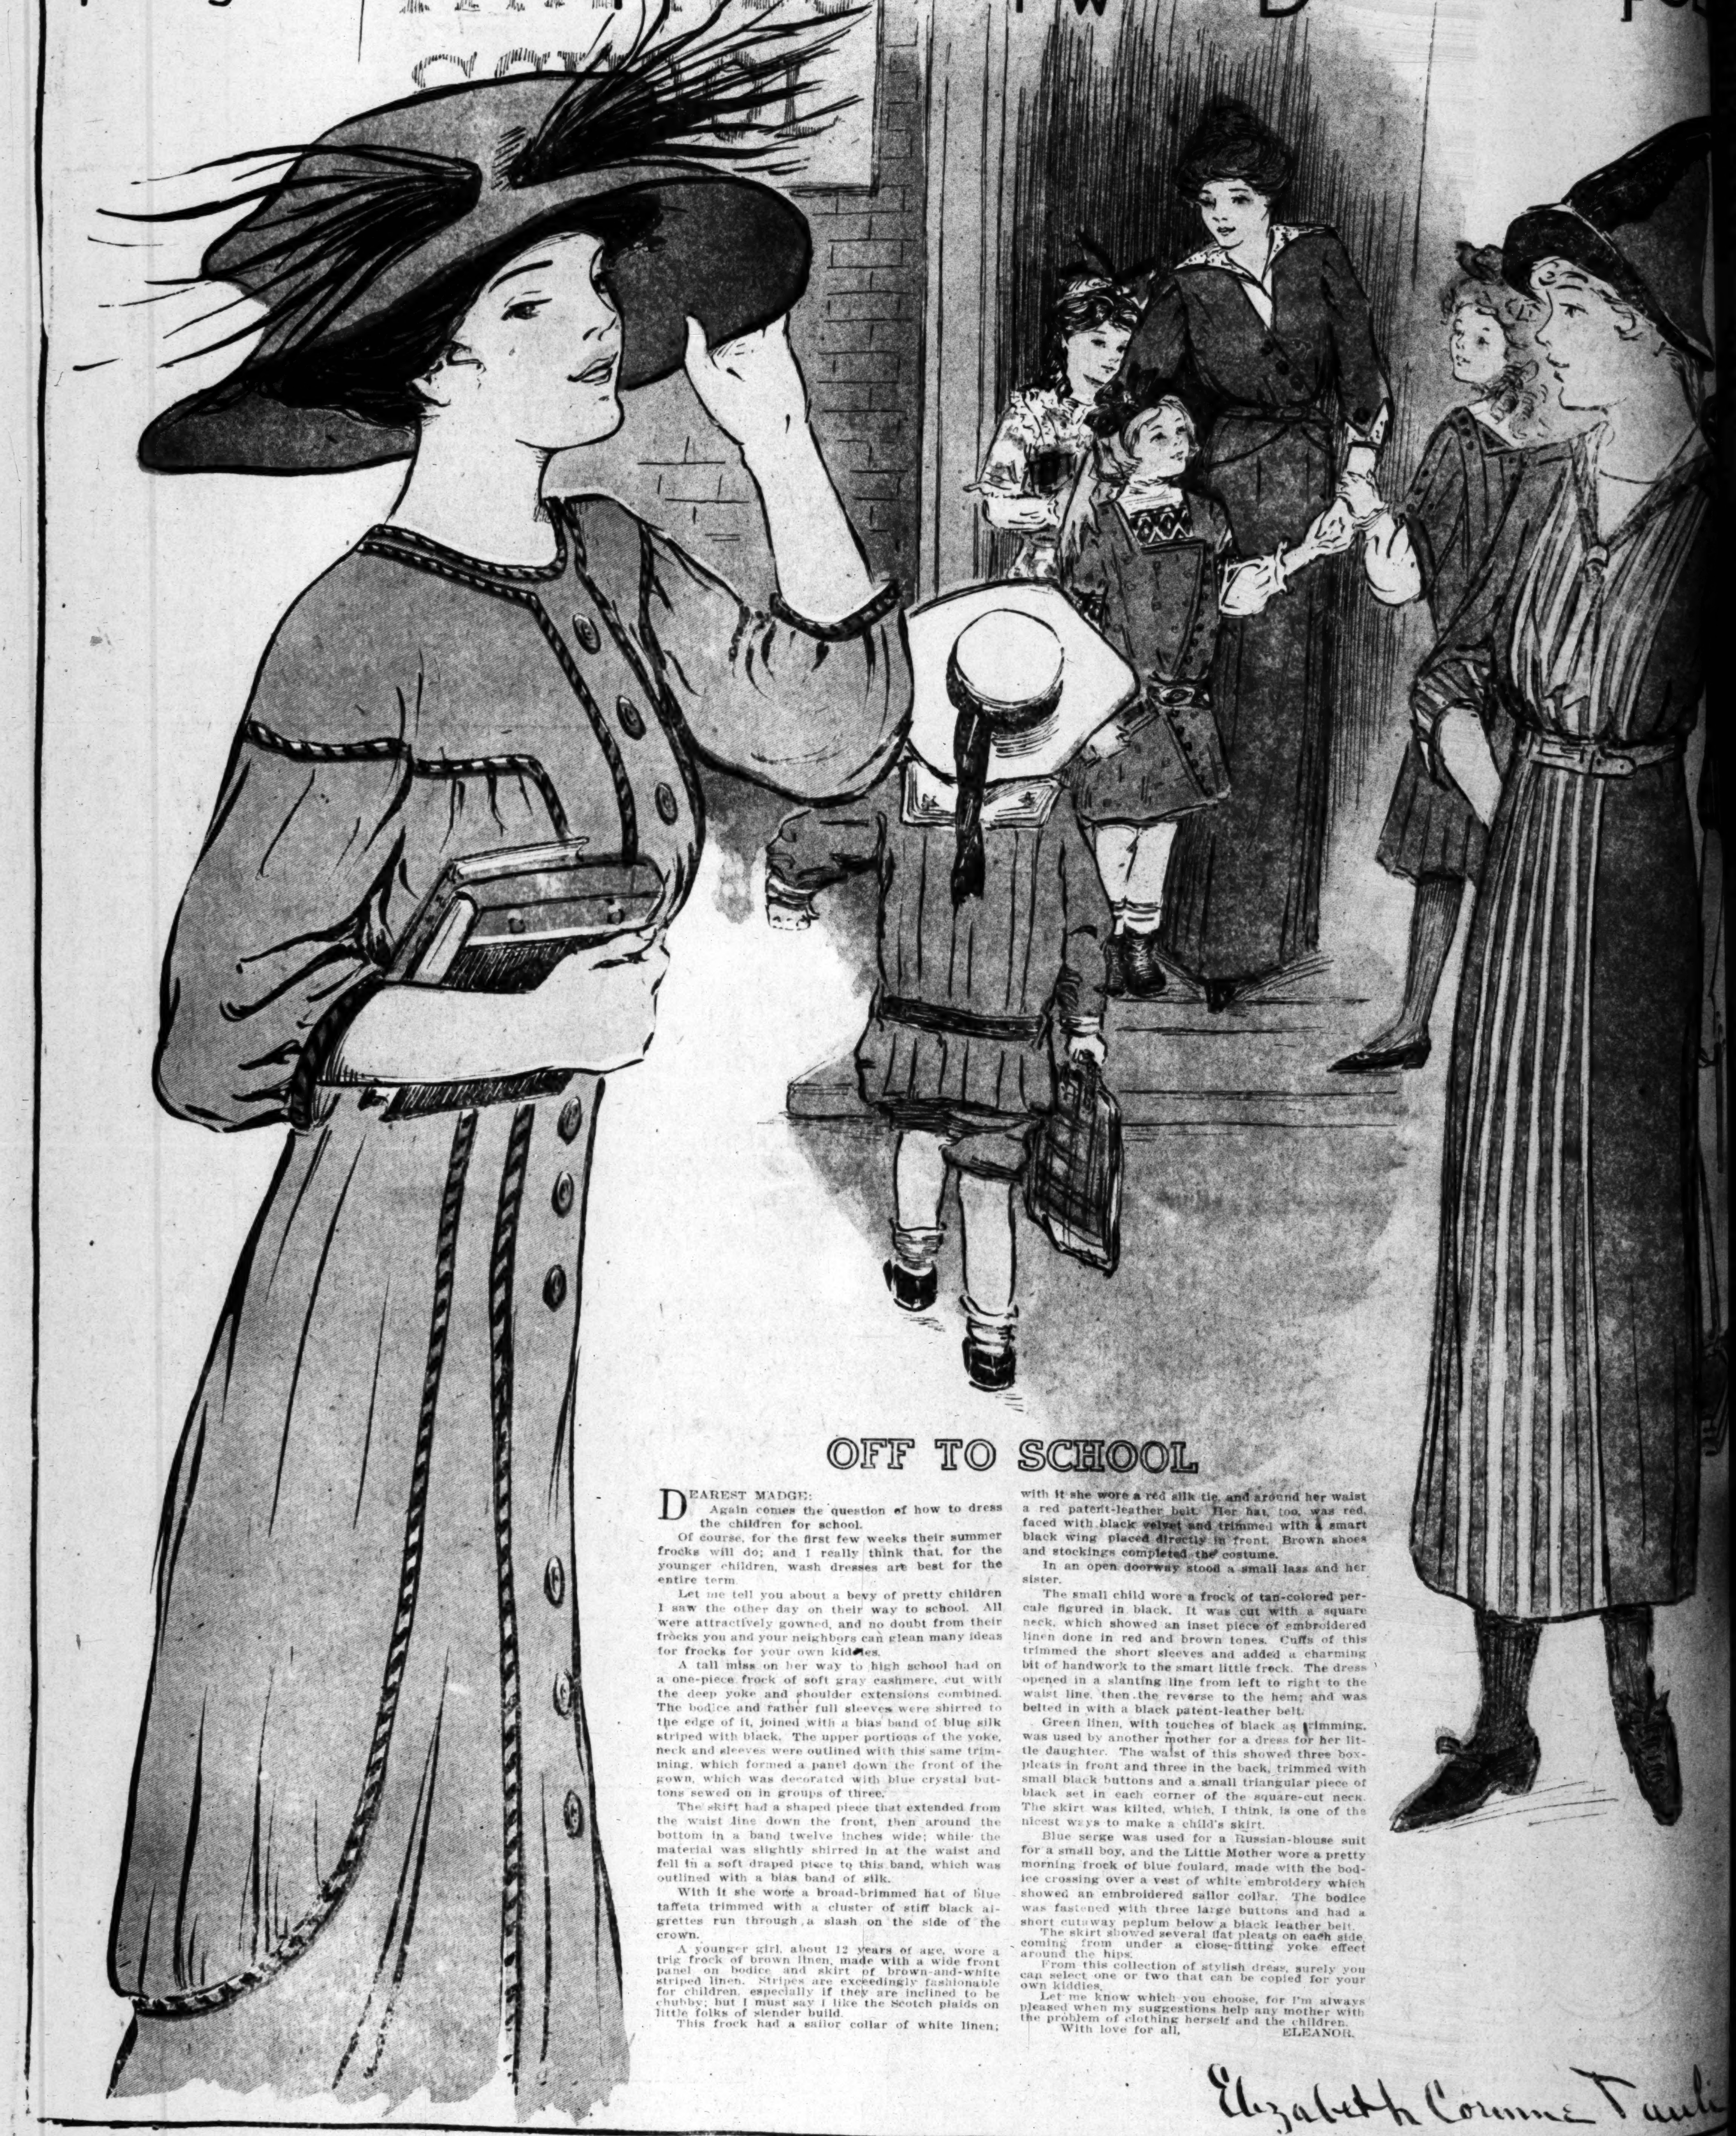
Dainty little pincushions may be fashioned with one square medallion of lace or eyelet embroidery.

These are four or five inches square and are joined to a square of plain linen, which forms the back. Three rows of narrow lace edging make a pretty finish to the pincushion. Each corner is adorned with a bow of narrow pink ribbon.

Lovely scarfs for the bureau and luncheon cloths for the dining table are fashioned of these medallions. They adapt themselves to any arrangement and combine with any laces. Carriage robes for baby are lovely when formed of lace and medallions. These articles are exceedingly high-priced if purchased in the shops, but cost very much less if made at home. The work is not complicated and is unsurpassed, so far as beauty is concerned.

Articles made of medallions and lace are practical. They launder beautifully and suffer no ill effects from having come in contact with water. This work is different from the usual summer fancy work, and any one who does it is sure to be delighted with the results.

THE SMARTEST FASHIONS of WELL-DRESSED FOL



OFF TO SCHOOL

DEAREST MADGE:

Again comes the question of how to dress the children for school.

Of course, for the first few weeks their summer frocks will do; and I really think that, for the younger children, wash dresses are best for the entire term.

Let me tell you about a bevy of pretty children I saw the other day on their way to school. All were attractively gowned, and no doubt from their frocks you and your neighbors can glean many ideas for frocks for your own kiddies.

A tall miss on her way to high school had on a one-piece frock of soft gray cashmere, cut with the deep yoke and shoulder extensions combined. The bodice and rather full sleeves were shirred to the edge of it, joined with a bias band of blue silk striped with black. The upper portions of the yoke, neck and sleeves were outlined with this same trimming, which formed a panel down the front of the gown, which was decorated with blue crystal buttons sewed on in groups of three.

The skirt had a shaped piece that extended from the waist line down the front, then around the bottom in a band twelve inches wide; while the material was slightly shirred in at the waist and fell in a soft draped piece to this band, which was outlined with a bias band of silk.

With it she wore a broad-brimmed hat of blue taffeta trimmed with a cluster of stiff black aigrettes run through a slash on the side of the crown.

A younger girl, about 12 years of age, wore a trig frock of brown linen, made with a wide front panel on bodice and skirt of brown-and-white striped linen. Stripes are exceedingly fashionable for children, especially if they are inclined to be chubby; but I must say I like the Scotch plaids on little folks of slender build.

This frock had a sailor collar of white linen; with it she wore a red silk tie, and around her waist a red patent-leather belt. Her hat, too, was red, faced with black velvet and trimmed with a smart black wing placed directly in front. Brown shoes and stockings completed the costume.

In an open doorway stood a small lass and her sister.

The small child wore a frock of tan-colored percale figured in black. It was cut with a square neck, which showed an inset piece of embroidered linen done in red and brown tones. Cuffs of this trimmed the short sleeves and added a charming bit of handwork to the smart little frock. The dress opened in a slanting line from left to right to the waist line, then the reverse to the hem; and was belted in with a black patent-leather belt.

Green linen, with touches of black as trimming, was used by another mother for a dress for her little daughter. The waist of this showed three box-pleats in front and three in the back, trimmed with small black buttons and a small triangular piece of black set in each corner of the square-cut neck. The skirt was kilted, which, I think, is one of the nicest ways to make a child's skirt.

Blue serge was used for a Russian-blouse suit for a small boy, and the Little Mother wore a pretty morning frock of blue foulard, made with the bodice crossing over a vest of white embroidery which showed an embroidered sailor collar. The bodice was fastened with three large buttons and had a short cutaway peplum below a black leather belt.

The skirt showed several flat pleats on each side coming from under a close-fitting yoke effect around the hips.

From this collection of stylish dress, surely you can select one or two that can be copied for your own kiddies.

Let me know which you choose, for I'm always pleased when my suggestions help any mother with the problem of clothing herself and the children.

With love for all, ELEANOR.

MOTOR CARS AT THE FIRE.

Thomas Flyer Rushes Troops from Place to Place.

Young Drives Over Ruins at Reckless Speeds.

Fire Fighters Make Fast Run to Distant Flames.

When the fire at Ocean Park was at its height the motor fire engines were doing the best work. The fire engines were spouting water into the flames at every vantage point that could be reached.

Never before was the effectiveness of a motor-drawn vehicle so thoroughly demonstrated as when the cry for help reached Los Angeles. From Arlington street to the Speedway at Ocean Park is a long pull, yet twenty-eight minutes after the call was sent in water was shooting over the flames.

The adaptability of the motor truck to the trying situation was proved. The machines were moved rapidly from place to place. They were sent along at terrific speed, but were on the job every second. They proved to the throng that they are the right vehicle for just such an emergency as that which arose at Ocean Park on Tuesday night.

AWE INSPIRING.

It was not the array of machines on the hillside overlooking the fire, nor the long string of cars covering the boulevards between Los Angeles and the beach that attracted attention, but it was the only road-scarred fire-fighters on the battle line doing their duty almost as if they had been human.

These fire-fighters caught the fancy of the vast throng that could see the work being done by the engines. Many of the cheers that went up as the flames were subdued were for the inanimate objects which were belching forth streams of water and chemical fluid into the caldron of flame and smoke.

It was an inspiring sight. It made many realize that the day is not far distant when every city will be fully equipped with a corps of motor fire engines and trucks. The need for these down-to-date machines was never more urgent and was never more thoroughly demonstrated than during the Ocean Park fire.

CARS KEEP ORDER.

Then when the flames had died down and it was necessary to restore order the automobile came into action. Just how much good the motor car accomplished will never be figured. Looting was stopped, because the motor cars were cranked and sent into action.

The soldiers of the National Guard were placed on duty to aid the police in the stupendous task of keeping order. The cars carried these men from place to place. It was no easy matter to move so many troops in such a short space of time, but it was done with the aid of motor cars.

When the police were puzzled as to just the best way in which the patrolmen could be sent from point to point it was the motor car that solved the problem. Of course the uniformed men could be dispatched from one end of the fire line to the other in a seven-passenger Thomas Flyer.

THOMAS THERE.

While trying to prove just how fast he could send the car from one street to the other A. M. Young shot over the debris and kept his car moving in places where it would seem impossible for a car to be driven. He drove one of the latest models which appeared as good as ever after the severe and tiresome demonstration.

It was necessary to do this in order to keep the men posted as to just what was doing along the fire zone. The length of this zone can be estimated when you view the ruins. The cars shot along the roads from place to place in fast time.

Another means adopted by the police of this city was to use motor cars to convey Chief of Police Sebastian and a cordon of his men, who arrived in time to convert chaos into perfect order. Here again the motor car figured and proved of inestimable value.

This is the day of motor cars and the Ocean Park fire demonstrated this as nothing that has happened recently ever has done.

Automobiles helped to save what is left of Ocean Park.

Twenty-eight minutes after the alarm was sent in a motor fire-fighter that had made a record run from Los Angeles was spouting the largest stream of chemical fluid that was sent into the flames.

The Garford fire-fighter was one of the comforting sights in the ruins the day after the fire. It had proved itself, but was left there in case of an emergency.

The automobile touring cars which carried policemen and the soldiers from place to place in the turmoil proved a wonderful help to the firemen who battled with the flames.

The worth of an automobile was demonstrated on Thursday, when A. M. Young, in a Thomas "Flyer," proved how fast he could mobilize troops of the National Guard.

With his Thomas "wide open" Young rushed from point to point in fast time and made quick trips over ground that few horse-drawn vehicles could traverse. The Thomas was there every minute.

FORTUNE SPENT ON AUTOMOBILES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The sum of $3,203,200 was spent by the people of California during the month of August for automobiles, according to the statistics of Secretary of State Jordan. Twenty-two hundred and eighty-eight machines were registered at his office and the average value of automobiles is $1400. The registration brought the State $4576, and licenses to 544 chauffeurs totaled $1088.

FANS ARE TO HAVE WINTER LEAGUE BALL.

Los Angeles is to have baseball all winter. The Southern California Winter League was organized last week with Ed. Tufts, president; W. H. Palmer of San Diego, vice-president; S. D. Tipton, secretary; Jack Doyle, treasurer, and Jim McCormick, press agent.

There are four teams in the league this season. The Tuft-Lyons, San Diego, McCormicks, and American Giants, a fast colored team from Chicago, managed by Bud Foster. There will be three games each week in San Diego and Los Angeles, on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The league will open November 1 and is to extend through to the last week in March. The teams are to play on a 60 and 40 basis. All local games will be played at Jack Doyle's Vernon park.

Ed. Tufts said yesterday that it was impossible to state who would play on any of the teams except the colored club, as it was too early for him to know what big league stars were coming to Southern California. He seems to believe that the winter league will furnish baseball of sufficient calibre to satisfy the most fastidious fans however.

All at Once.

M'CORRY GETS HIS QUICKLY.

Angels Knock Him Out of Box in Second Inning.

Hammer in Six Runs Before Baker Drives Up.

Chech Touched Freely, but Is Never in Danger.

BY GREY OLIVER.

After McCorry had gotten by the first inning with hardly a scratch on him, he blew up in the second yesterday with a bang that you could have heard clear across the Golden Gate. During the noise, the Angels piled up six runs and at that they were lucky that they did, for they could get no more in the game.

Half way through the blow-up, Bill Reidy of the Seals stopped the game long enough to throw fat Bill McCorry into the clubhouse and put in Baker. Grand thing for the Seals that he did, for there is no telling how many runs might have been made off McCorry.

Pity Bill had not stuck in Baker at first, for but one of the locals got to third base off this bird, for he was too good. Didn't strike many of us out, but was simply there so strong that but two hits were made off him in eight innings and these were by Heitmuller and Daley, who are liable to slam any pitcher. The others considered themselves lucky if they got to first base.

All this time Chech was getting away with it, for although the Seals knocked him for twelve hits they got but two runs. Doubles by Schmidt and D. Howard and a single by Baker made one in the third and three singles got another in the ninth. In between these Chech stuck the harpoon into the Seals and kept it there.

No use in saying anything about the game except the second inning of it, for in that spasm it was won and lost.

Heitmuller began it for the Angels by beating out an infield single and got to second when Howard dropped Dillon's fly to right after a long run. Metzger forced Heitmuller at third on a grounder to McCorry. With two on and one out, Core forced Metzger at second when he slapped a grounder to McAvoy.

At this point Schmidt tried to catch Core off first base but heaved the ball into right field, Dillon scoring and Core going to third. Boles was soaked with the ball and Chech hit the next one pitched for a hard single to center that scored Core. McCorry was so near all in by this time that he walked Page, filling the bases and to his great surprise, Berger cleaned them with a triple to the score board.

END OF M'CORRY.

This was the end of McCorry for after this drive by Berger, Reidy chased him and rung up Baker, but it was too late, for the Angels had scored their six runs in that inning. Heitmuller singled and stole second and Baker finally ended the inning and the slaughter by fanning Dillon.

Although the Seals marred the game with three errors, the fans got more than the price of it in fine fielding by Berger and Page, some of their assists being marvelous ones. Core got the big hand of joy for his fine running catch of Schmidt's short foul mack of third base in the seventh and he made a fine throw to second in the first inning by which he completed a double play after his catch of Zimmerman's fly.

McAvoy switched up to second position in the batting order by Bill Reidy, had to quit the game in the fifth when he was spiked by Heitmuller. Heinie had singled to left and was forced at second by Dillon. McAvoy got the ball near second and threw it to Corhan. The three runners got to the bag about the same time and in the gathering, Heitmuller stepped on McAvoy's right foot and the kid limped himself to the club house. Wagner taking his place.

Both Daley and Heitmuller cracked out three hits in four times up and Wuffli. Wagner and Zimmerman were also there with swats.

Seems funny that the Seals could make twelve hits to eight by the locals and yet lose, but they did because

BOOTHE BACK WITH PLAN OF ACTION IN ROAD RACING

Fails to Meet Chairman Schimpf of Contest Board, but Question of Suspension of Young and Hillman and that of Kuster Will Be Taken Up at Once by Automobile Dealers' Association—Interesting Sidelights.

BY BERT C. SMITH.

BACK from Indianapolis and Chicago, with a definite plan of action, Earle Y. Boothe, the National agent, reached this city on Thursday. He failed to see William Schimpf, chairman of the Contest Board, through no fault of his, and also was unable to present the matter of the ruling of the A.A.A. against Attorney Edward G. Kuster, former representative of the Contest Board, Roy P. Hillman, referee of the Santa Monica Road Race, and A. M. Young, the manager.

These three men were forced out of the Automobile Association of America, following the Santa Monica Road Race. The resignation of Attorney Kuster was accepted and Hillman and Young were both suspended for six months. Exception has been taken to this ruling by almost every automobile man in Los Angeles and at a meeting of the Automobile Dealers' Association on Tuesday the matter is to be thoroughly thrashed out.

Much was expected from the visit of Earle Boothe, who is secretary of the Automobile Dealers' Association. It was believed that he could get the views of the members of the Contest Board. He was unable to bring them into a conference. Now it looks as if they will be forced into a controversy.

REFEREE BEECROFT.

David Beecroft, member of the Contest Board, looms large as one of the big men. He is out with a flat-footed statement that he will favor a rehearing of the case. He was referee of the Elgin road race and, according to Boothe, was one of the best race officials ever seen on a course. His rulings were right and were received with the greatest favor. He has a standing with the automobile men and drivers that places him among the top-notchers. He is fair and square and has a host of friends in Los Angeles.

Chairman Schimpf, when seen by the automobile editor of The Times, was willing to grant a rehearing of the peculiar case. Boothe, however, says he was unable to get in touch with the chairman of the Contest Board, and says he received a rather crisp note from Schimpf saying that it most unusual for the rulings of the board to be questioned.

Chairman Schimpf received me cordially in New York and granted a request for a rehearing and even went so far as to promise to come to Los Angeles if he deemed it necessary to settle this controversy. Here is a chance for Mr. Schimpf to come and referee the Los Angeles-Phoenix road race and at the same time unravel the tangle in the affairs of the Santa Monica Road Race.

The visit of Boothe has thrown considerable light on the situation as it follows a letter received from Paul Bruske, manager of the racing team of cars, who was one of the men vitally interested in the ruling at Santa Monica.

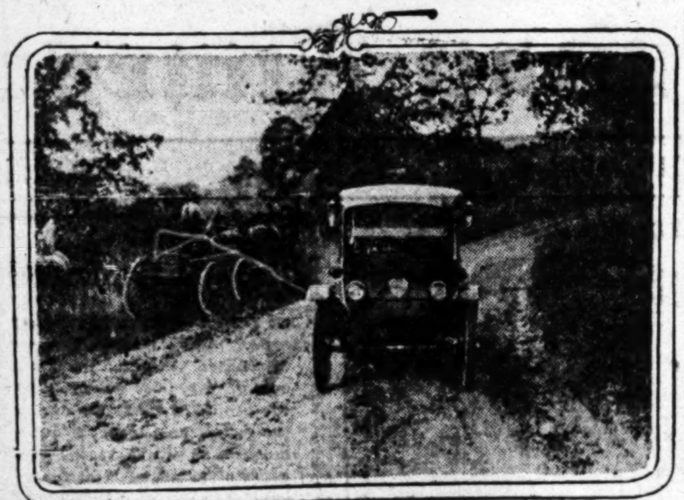
FLANDERS SIX MAGIC NAME.

Sensation Is Sprung by Great Manufacturer.

Harrison to Handle Car With Famous Name.

Young Blood Mixed With New Motor Plant.

BY BERT C. SMITH.
The Flanders Motor Car Company



Flanders Colonial Electric Near Cave City

On route of Glidden tour. Above the car is sailing along the good roads and below it is just about to enter the hard stretches where good roads work is a necessity. This electric covered the entire route of the proposed Glidden tour and is the first machine of the kind that has ever been driven over such a long route.

is the name of the new concern which is to market the Flankers "Six." Well it's enough to say that Walter E. Flanders, one of the biggest men in the business, is back of the new factory. The plant is complete to the minutest detail. This is not all. Some of the best designers now in the business have associated themselves witn the new concern.

The motor world has waited a long time for this announcement. When Norman W. Church was in the East the deal was almost consummated. The proposition to buy the Atlas Engine Works fell through and Church dropped out of the deal voluntarily. This did not even halt negotiations which were completed after long conferences. The new concern will make the Flanders "Six" one of the lowest-priced six-cylinder cars to be placed on the market.

Backed by the experience of more than a decade, men who have figured in the automobile industry since it was first started, are to steer the affairs of the new plant. This means much, but it also means that the Flanders "Six" is not a new car. It is the evolution of several makes of motors, and will bear the magic name of the man who became a millionaire because he made the right kind of a car.

BIG GUNS.

Leroy Pelletier is one of the men associated with the Flanders Motor Car Company. He knows the game. This is perhaps putting the matter lightly. He has figured as one of the "makers of men" ever since the first car was sent out. He has remained firmly with W. E. Flanders ever since his first association with the big manufacturer. He has decided to stick with the new concern.

Cogs in the great wheel of the new Flanders plant seem to fit accurately. The name Flanders is to be dropped by the Studebaker corporation. What more natural than that Flanders should give his name to a new car. With the elimination of the name Flanders from the small cars made by the Studebaker corporation, the motor world is handed a Flanders "Six" which appears to be a sensation as great a sensation in its field as was the first little low-priced Flanders car.

SMITH THERE.

Paul Smith, vice-president of the new concern, is one of the big motor men in the new plant. Here is a man for whom everybody speaks a good word. He is one of the youngest men in the industry, being only 28 years of age. For that matter Pelletier has just turned the forty-year mile post, and Flanders has not reached that mark yet. He is 38 years old.

Young blood in the big plant means much. The entire equipment of the Everitt "Six" is to be used to advantage. The Flanders Motor Car Company really means the combining of several plants, and the combination spells all the latest equipment possible in the motor industry.

HARRISON ALSO.

H. O. Harrison is the local agent who is to share in the big plans of the new concern this coming year. Harrison seems to have come into his own in the right way. At the Flanders factory he is regarded as one of the big young men of the West. It looks as if Harrison will measure up to the full stature of the ideal motor man.

The prestige of the Flanders name is to be handed to Harrison as agent for the Flanders in the West. He has a handsome home in San Francisco and has just made plans for another big building in this city. Harrison seems to be in just the position that is desirable to handle the new product. Unless I miss my guess, he is the right man in the right place.

The big manufacturers have been waiting for the announcement that is made today for the first time. The Flanders "Six" is to be marketed on the same gigantic plan which was used to introduce the smaller car.

Here for the first time, Charles Boothe, Pacific Coast representative of the new Flanders Motor Car Company, has completed a tour of his agencies. He started from the H. O. Harrison place in San Francisco and came down the valley visiting many of the smaller towns and ending his trip at the H. O. Harrison branch in Los Angeles.

Boothe left San Francisco in an Everitt "Six" with Mrs. Boothe. This was the first extensive tour the Flanders man had made in the State, and both were highly pleased with conditions as they found them. From San Francisco he drove to San Jose, and from there started inland, visiting Stockton, Lodi, Modesto, Turlock, Porterville, Visalia, Lindsey, Merced, Maders, Fresno, Hanford, Exeter and several other towns.

He covered over 600 miles and had a good opportunity to study trade conditions. That was the purpose of his trip, and he is pleased with the outlook for the coming season. Boothe is enthusiastic over the wonderful field in California. Everywhere he found the greatest enthusiasm over the six-cylinder car. The people are demanding a six and this demand must be satisfied.

The H. O. Harrison company and the new Flanders company are to combine in a campaign, which will stir things in California. They will have a car which promises to be a sensation, and one of the plans calls for the establishing of service depots in all parts of the State.

Harrison arrived from San Francisco Friday and will return the early part of this week. He has made half a dozen trips back and forth during the past month.

WILL WE EVER GET IN?

Entering Wedge for Automobiles in Yosemite Seems to Have Slipped a Trifle.

Despite the requests of several California Congressmen that automobiles be allowed in Yosemite Park this year, Secretary of the Interior Fisher has ordered that motor cars be not allowed in the park. The superintendent has reported that the roads are too narrow and steep for safety.

Legislation is to be pushed at the next session to improve these roads. In this connection Louis W. Hill of the Great Northern Railway has been granted permission by the government to construct a second great scenic highway lnkng Glacer and Yellowstone parks.

It s estmated the hghway will cost upward of $50,000, and the total expense will be paid by Mr. Hill. It will be an automobile road from Gardner in Yellowstone Park to and along the eastern slope of the continental divide to Midvale, and will be about 360 miles in length.

From One Who Knows.

ELGIN ROAD RACE NOT EQUAL TO WESTERN CLASSIC

BY EARLE Y. BOOTHE.

When I was asked to tell just what happened at Elgin I dedecided to be fair and square. Of course, the National holds the record for the course. Because I have promised to tell just what happened I must admit that this record was not broken. Here is the account of the race:

Mulford, in his big Knox Six, was sent away at 11:10 by Starter Wagner, and was followed thirty seconds later by Clark, in the Mercedes, and the other cars followed at intervals of thirty seconds. Mulford drove the first lap in 7:15, wnich is four seconds faster than the fastest lap made by himself at the Elgin races last year. De Palma promptly lowered this time by driving his first lap in 7:08. The first few laps driven were very fast, and the fastest lap of the day was driven by Bergdoll in 6:40. Bergdoll took the lead at the start and maintained it until within a lap or two of the finish.

The greatest interest during the early part of the race was the fight between De Palma and Mulford for the Elgin trophy event, which ended at the thirtieth lap, and then their chase after Bergdoll for six more laps for the free-for-all became the center of interest. For twenty-eight laps De Palma and Mulford see-sawed between first and second place with Merz (Stutz), and Roberts (Mason) a lap or two behind see-sawing between third and fourth places.

As De Palma finished his twenty-eighth lap he came into the pits, and as he leaped out of his car and raised the hood a general feeling went through the crowds that his usual hard luck at the eleventh hour had returned. A few seconds later Mulford came over the hill and down the stretch, signaling his pits for tires. As soon as Mulford got into his pit De Palma jumped back into his car and was away, with tremendous cheers from the crowd. Mulford made a very quick tire change, and was away close on De Palma's heels, and they tore around the course on the last lap of the Elgin trophy event. For seven minutes the excitement was intense, and then De Palma crossed the line, finishing 254 miles in 223m. 20s., averaging 65.4 miles per hour. Closely following De Palma, Mulford crossed the line, completing his thirtieth lap in 226m. 9s. Ten minutes later Merz crossed the line, completing the thirty laps in 236m. 43s., taking third place from Mason by a minute and thirty-four seconds.

Merz and Mason not being entered in the free-for-all, drew off the course, leaving it to Bergdoll, De Palma and Mulford to fight out the last six laps of the race.

At the end of the thirtieth lap Bergdoll was five minutes ahead of De Palma and it looked as if Bergdoll was sure to win, as he had had much less tire trouble than either De Palma or Mulford.

But, with the Elgin national trophy event won, De Palma went out after Bergdoll, and in the next three laps gained four minutes on him.

Half-way around on the thirty-second lap Mulford became prostrated from the terrific heat, and was only saved from going into the ditch by his mechanic reaching over and grabbing the wheel. Billy Chandler, Mulford's mechanic, steered the car this way into the pit, and, calling for the referee, asked permission to replace Mulford, which was granted, and as Mulford was taken out of the car Chandler took the wheel, and, with another mechanic from the pit, started away after Bergdoll and De Palma.

At the end of the thirty-fifth lap, with only one more to go, Bergdoll came into the pit with his right rear tire flat and on fire. While he was changing, De Palma passed the pits at a tremendous pace, and started on his last lap with the look of a winner, and drove one of his fastest laps, finishing 305 miles in265m. 36s., averaging seventy miles an hour; Bergdoll finished second in 270m. 28s.; Chandler finishing for Mulford third in 274m. 8s.

The course was in the best condition it has ever been in, and it was expected the record of 66.45 miles per hour, made by Zengle in a National last year, would be broken.

The only accident of the day occurred in the sixth lap, when Clark, driving Mercedes No. 2, drove into Hornbeck's turn about forty miles an hour, skidding against a lot of baled hay piled on the outer edge of the turn. As the car struck the hay, Clark and his mechanic were thrown out, and Clark sustained a bad laceration of the scalp by hitting his head on the radiator cap. When the race was over the doctors had not yet ascertained whether Clark's skull was fractured or not. His mechanic was badly bruised, but not seriously injured.

Eddie Hearne, driving the Fiat 70, came into the pit on the third lap and turned his car over to George Hill. Hearne's hand, broken in the Cincinnati road race in July while cranking the car, went back on him, and he was forced to stop. Hill retired from the race in the twenty-sixth lap with transmission trouble.

The Mercer team, consisting of Spencer Wishart and Hughie Hughes, did not have the luck that was with them yesterday, and made repeated tire changes, Hughes going out in the seventeenth lap with a broken connecting rod, and Wishart in the twenty-fourth lap with a broken oil line.

Today was the hottest day of the year, the thermometer registering 94 deg. at 4 o'clock this afternoon, and this excessive heat was very hard on the drivers, as well as tires.

Teddy Tetzlaff was out on the course at 8 o'clock this morning warming up, and while going thirty miles an hour his differential broke, making it impossible for his to start in the race. This caused a great deal of disappointment to everybody, as Tetzlaff was picked as a strong contender for first place in the Free-For-All.

The crowd was much smaller than at last year's race, and there did not seem to be the interest in the race that there has been heretofore.

The course was excellently patrolled, but the management of the race was not nearly as good as that at the Santa Monica road race. Facilities for getting to the course and the handling of the people were also far behind those at the Santa Monica road race. In fact, in no way was the Elgin race to be compared with the races held at Santa Monica, and only twice during the race was there excitement enough to bring the crowd to their feet.

BUILD KNOX TRUCKS.

Rights Secured to Manufacture High-class Commercial Cars in Canada Where Demand Is Keen.

The Canadian General Electric Company of Toronto, Can., after making exhaustive investigations of the different trucks built, have decided to take out a license to manufacture Knox trucks in Canada. The trucks will be manufactured under the name of "Ajax" and supplied in two, three, four, five and six-ton capacity, for practically every class of haulage, including express service.

The Knox company are the oldest builders of gasoline-propelled fire-fighting appliances, such as hose wagons, ladder trucks, chemical wagons and gasoline-operated fire engines, and they have already made installations in all parts of the country.

The new company will also manufacture the Martin Tractor on a royalty basis. This new invention can handle fourteen-ton loads very satisfactorily and has already made good in the United States.

The Knox trucks are well and favorably known in California and it is gratifying to note their success in foreign countries. The Vance-Canavan Company, Southern California and Arizona distributors for Knox products, anticipate quite a large business on the truck and fire apparatus, as well as pleasure cars.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 30, 1912.

Smith Brothers,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Dear Sirs:--

I purchased from you a Stearns Knight touring car.which was deliver to me April 13th, 1912. Since that date the car has been driven 5212 miles over all sorts of roads throughout Southern California.

I have been to Baldy Camp, Pine Crest and Matillaja, besides four trips to SanDiego and to all the week-end trips out of Los Angeles. At no time has the motor given me one minutes trouble, nor have I ever made a single adjustment. I am getting twelve miles average on a gallon of gasoline I am still riding on the same tires delivered on the car, and the same air in two of them. My total outlay for repairs to date is 65¢ for exhaust pipe hanger.

I have owned five cars previous to purchasing the Stearns Knight from you. Three of these cars gave me good service, but none of them gave me the real pleasure and service I am enjoying from your wonderful car. I believe my Stearns Knight car is the easiest riding and smoothest running car I ever was in.

I heartily endorse the Stearns-Knight motor and the easy riding qualities of your car.

Yours truly,
Walter E. Brown

KNOX TRUCK IN THE YUKON.

COMMERCIAL CAR SENT TO SNOW FIELDS OF ALASKA.

Another New Field Is Open for Cars in the Far North, Where They Make Good in Spite of the Deep Snow and Treacherous Ice. Alaska Latest Section Annexed.

Charles F. Barrett, a representative of the Knox Automobile Company, announces the sale recently of a Knox two-ton truck to the managers of the White Pass and Yukon Railroad, to run on a stage line, which has been maintained between the northern terminus of the railroad and Dawson during the closed season along the Yukon River. Alaska is one of the latest sections to adopt the use of the motor truck, and until a few years ago was considered a veritable wilderness.

The purchase of the truck will ultimately result in the doing away with the horses, which have been used ever since the building of the White Pass and Yukon Railroad and the stage line was first maintained. It has required from 350 to 500 horses and a large number of men to operate the stage line successfully, and it is with the intention of lessening the expenses of maintaining the line that the truck was first purchased, and it is almost certain from present indications the Knox truck is fully capable of overcoming obstacles, such as steepness of grades and the rough roads, and in a short time will bring about the complete motorization of the stage line.

SUMMER SUN ON AUTO PAINT.

Force at Local Plant to Be Doubled Because of Extra Business of Coleman & Bentil.

Now that the season of summer dust is nearing a close the rush will be on in the paint shops. In order to prepare for this fall and winter dressing up the Coleman & Bentil Company has enlarged the painting department and the force will be doubled. This work is now being done on an extensive scale by the local firm.

The summer season in California is trying on the paint of cars, especially if the machines are left standing in the sun. The desert sun and sand is ruinous. Another thing that causes the paint and varnish to soon disappear from a desert car is the fact that a car is seldom washed when it goes into the desert country.

But it is remarkable to see what a little paint and varnish will do for an old desert rat. Many owners of old models take advantage of the painting work to have foredoors put on. The time for foredoors is when a car is being repainted as the work can then be done without the loss of extra time.

CARTERCARS MOVING RAPIDLY.

Factory at Pontiac Busy Getting Orders Out for New Cars in the United States.

The Cartercar Company of Pontiac, Mich., reports an almost record-breaking demand for their gearless car. Never before have the orders been received so fast and so regularly, and these orders are coming from all over the country.

In the last few days four splendid new agencies have been appointed. They cover a remarkable scope of territory—from Maine to Colorado. At Shawhegan, Me., the new Cartercar sales company is known as the Clyde H. Smith Auto Company. The Minnesota Cartercar Company was formed at Minneapolis, and the Colorado Cartercar Company at Denver. Also L. H. Gardner of Utica, N. Y., another live wire, is added to the Cartercar salesmen.

A large number of Cartercar salesmen handle no other make. This is unusual, and few cars can boast of such a percentage of exclusive agents. It speaks well for the qualities of the Cartercar as a ready seller in any

Mr. Ben Kardell,

My Dear Cousin: You will find inclosed a clipping from our Highland Leader, in regar dto the Ocean-to-Ocean Times special. If it is possible wish wou would send me several of the special numbers of August 18 in reference to the ocean-to-ocean journey. I had occasion to meet Bert Smith here at Marshall where I am located in business. I had a short talk with him and asked both Mr. Smith and his chauffeur about you and they told me you are day foreman of The Times composing-room.

Hope Highland will get the monument to be presented by President Lowe of the National Old Trails Ocean-to-Ocean Highway Association as that city is doing its best to have better roadsfi as they have some pretty fierce roads in southern Illinois. Highland has sent between fifty and seventy-five colonists to Los Angeles in the past year and it would be fine if we could make the trip over a new national highway from Highland to Los Angeles.

Hoping these lines have made you a real good roads booster I remain.

Going Some.

ON LONG TOUR IN STODDARD.

THROUGH CANADA IN HIGH-POWERED MOTOR.

Makes Overland Trip Over Some of the Worst Roads, but Car Is in Good Shape After Strenuous Trip Through the Wilds of the Dominion—Good Roads Scarce.

From Edmonton, Alberta, to New York, a distance of 4300 miles, is a tour which has been completed by B. H. Taylor and S. S. Franklin who made the trip in a fifty-eight-horsepower Stoddard-Dayton, in seven weeks' time. The two motorists reside in Edmonton, a town a thousand miles northwest of Winnipeg, and in the center of a grain belt. They bring with them stories of record crops that are amazing and also tales of an automobile famine.

According to Taylor and Franklin, who are real estate brokers, their town has grown from 5000 to 68,000 in less than six years' time, and the inability of automobile dealers to get a sufficient number of cars has been a source of bitter disappointment to the farmers who might better enjoy the money brought by the monster crops.

During the trip, which was considered by friends of the tourists, as impossible, they traveled through grain higher than the top of the car for nearly a thousand miles. They drove through Winnepeg, Minneapolis, Chicago, Detroit, Toronto and Kingston.

CROSSES WHITE MOUNTAINS.

I. Sharpless of Quebec, Can., has returned with his family from a long motor tour to New York. The trip involved the crossing of the White Mountains of New Hampshire and is one of great difficulty in other respects. Sharpless drove a Kissel Kar and reports at the end of his tour that the car behaved splendidly, meeting every emergency with no trouble whatever.

Another New One.

NEW BUICK DEMONSTRATOR HERE ON DRESS PARADE.

THE showroom of the Howard Automobile Company, Pacific Coast distributors for Buick automobiles, is a scene of great activity due to the arrival of the classy 1913 model "25" demonstrators.

This new model, which is a five-passenger self-starting touring car, includes a full equipment of top and top cover, glass front, prest-o-lite tank and self-starter. The new Buicks are finished in nickel, which, in conjunction with the gray and blue body, makes an attractive color combination.

C. S. Howard, president of the Howard Automobile Company, is leaving tomorrow for the factory at Flint, Mich., where he will keep a watchful eye on the shipping list and see that his territory gets its share of Buicks.

The coming season will undoubtedly establish a new precedent in Buick sales, the number of prospects calling and the number of cars sold with only photographs to show what the new models will be, seem to point to a record season, and the arrival of demonstrators will close a number of orders now pending until prospects can see the actual cars.

Hope He Does.

TETZLAFF AFTER RECORD IN VANDERBILT CUP RACE.

WORK has been completed on the Milwaukee race course, over which the Vanderbilt, Grand Prize, Wisconsin and Pabst trophy contests will be run on September 17-21. The course, which is 8.2 miles in length, has been improved at a cost of more than $25,000. Experts say that it is the speediest course in America. In building the course the greatest thought was that of safety to the drivers of machines. Spectators will not be permitted to be within 300 feet of the road.

Teddy Tetzlaff says he expects to break some records there during the races. He says the Milwaukee enthusiasts will see the greatest speed events ever run, as the long straightaways, with the wide, fast turns, permit of record-breaking speed. Tetzlaff, with Bruce Brown, Hughes, Bragg, Mulford, Wishart and other drivers, if not at the present time at the course with camps set, will arrive within the next day or two and begin tuning their cars for the big events.

E. G. Williams, an expert road builder, sent by William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., chairman of the Automobile Club of America and donor of the Vanderbilt cup, to inspect the construction of the work on the course, in giving his opinion said: "New records are almost certain to be made on the Milwaukee course. It is both speedy and safe, with long straightaways and just enough roll to provide a thrilling tinge. The wide turns will permit a great speed without adding to the danger materially."

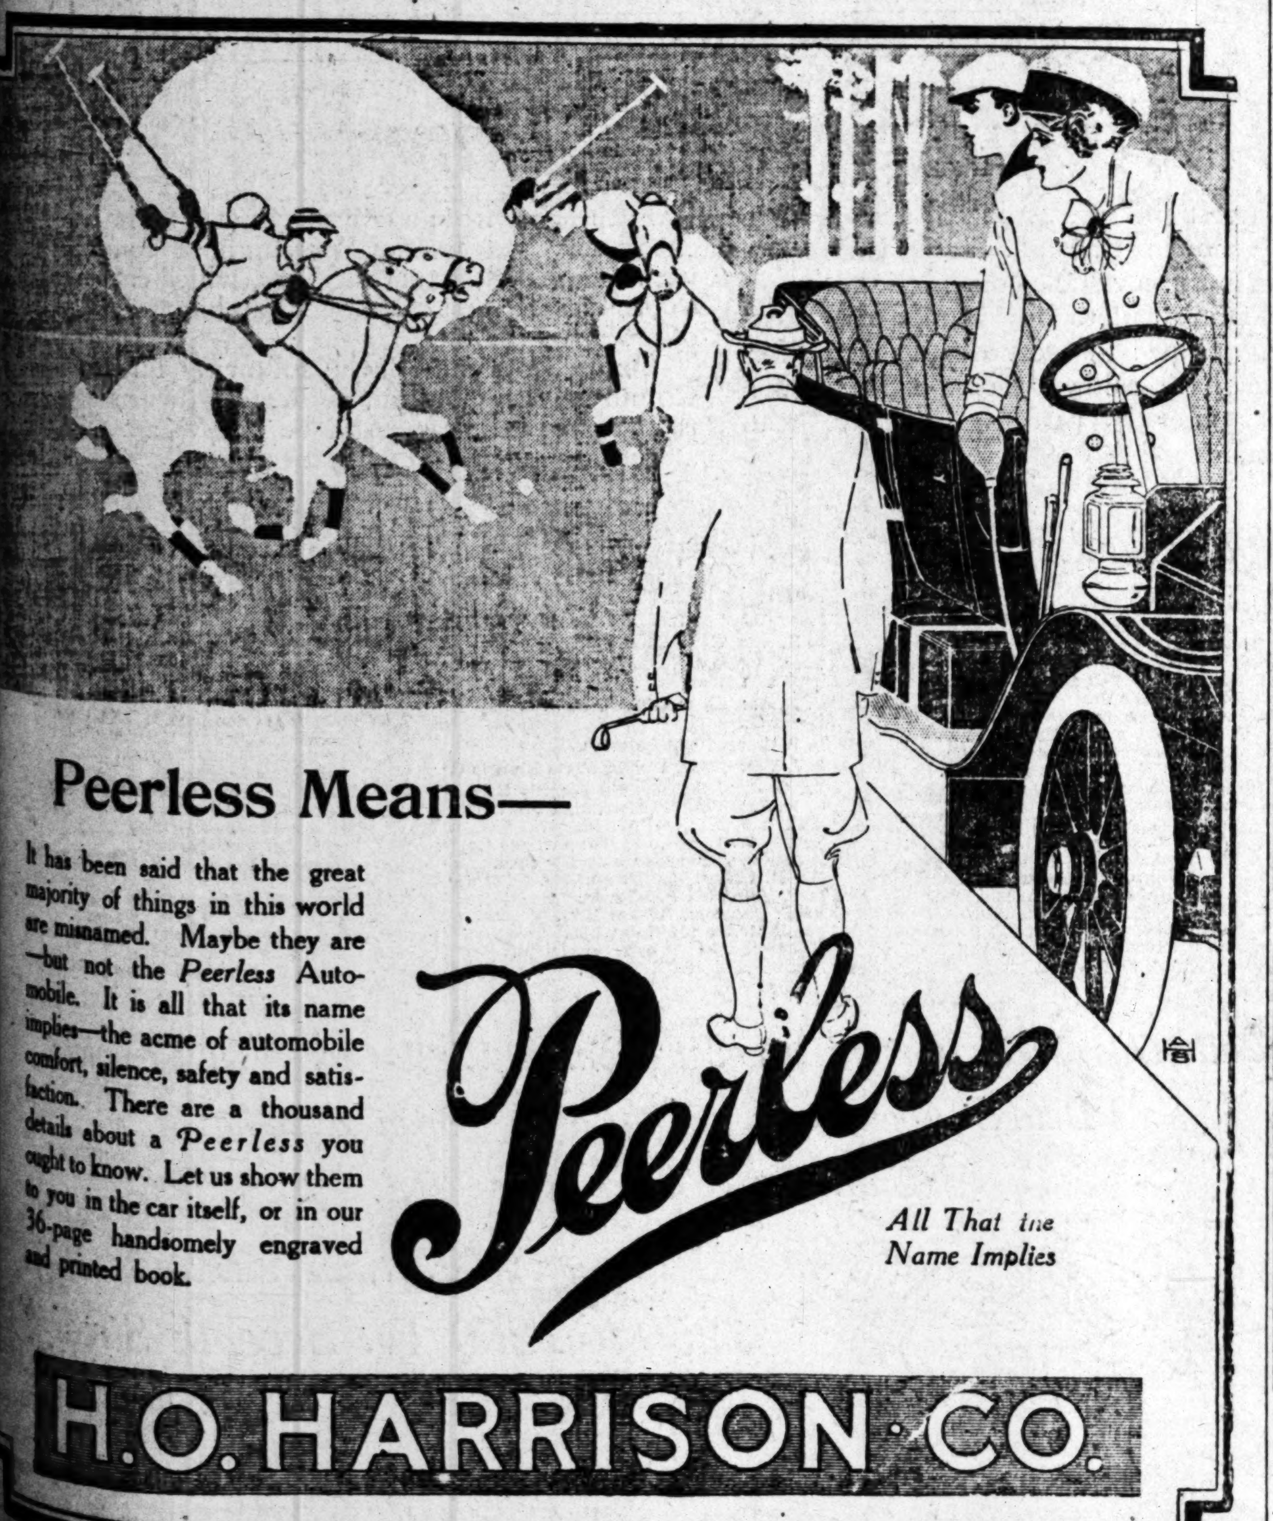
One Tonner Now.

FEDERAL FIRE TRUCK JUST RIGHT SIZE FOR BLAZES.

AFTER several months of experimenting the Federal Motor Truck Company has succeeded in meeting the demand of the market for a light and speedy one-ton chemical and hose motor truck. The body is mounted on a standard model "D" chassis and is equipped with the latest improved fire apparatus obtainable. There are also the side seats and brass "grab" rails running around the edge of the body. It will accommodate 1000 feet of the regulation two-and-one-half-inch fire hose, some of which is placed on reels, which enables instant delivery of three or four hundred feet of hose.

The extension ladders, which are twenty-five feet in length, are placed one on each side of the body. The "Badger" chemical tank of thirty-five-gallon capacity, with connection for hose from hydrant, and 200 feet of three-quarter-inch hose with brass nozzle, is placed just back of the driver's seat. On the right hand running-board is placed two five-gallon hand fire extinguishers in brass receptacles. There is also two five-foot crowbars, one "Detroit" door opener, two fire axes, two ten-foot plaster hooks and four tine hooks distributed about the machine. On the left hand running-board is placed a tool box.

Elevated several feet above the truck bed is a wire basket containing 200 feet of cotton hose, and on each side is swung a "Dietz" hand lantern. A search lamp is placed in the center of the dash-board and there is the usual side oil lamps. When carrying eight men beside the two operators the speed of the truck is governed down to twenty-two miles per hour, which is about twice the speed of the horse-drawn wagon. Everything about the truck equipment is so arranged as to give the operators the quickest action possible. It is thought that it will not be a long while until these trucks may be seen in many of the leading cities, as the fire commissioners of Pawtucket have been investigating and trying out the truck. They recommend it and are thinking seriously of doing away with the teams and installing the Federal chemical and hose wagons.



All That the Name Implies

Peerless Means—

It has been said that the great majority of things in this world are misnamed. Maybe they are —but not the Peerless Automobile. It is all that its name implies—the acme of automobile comfort, silence, safety and satisfaction. There are a thousand details about a Peerless you ought to know. Let us show them to you in the car itself, or in our 36-page handsomely engraved and printed book.

The Practical Way to Select a Car

First—Go where an opportunity is afforded to select from a large number of models—a wide variety of real masterpieces in up-to-the-minute cars.

Second—Don't expect that you can do yourself justice in trying to select a car from a house that carries only one or two cars in stock. This is neither fair nor consistent.

Third—Be sure and come to the house that carries the largest and finest stock of automobiles in the city—showing the fashionable Columbus cars, the last word in vehicle construction.

Fourth—Don't fail to buy from a company thoroughly equipped in every detail to care for you after they have sold you a car. This house loyally looks after its patrons—it makes real friends of them.

Fifth—Buy from a company noted for its long experience and financial strength—a company with unequaled factory facilities, which enable it to produce the best car money can buy, regardless of price.

Sixth—Go to any of the following Firestone-Columbus or Columbus Electric owners—ask them about their cars—and be sure to ask them about our system of caring for patrons.

In addition to the above list of Los Angeles owners of Firestone-Columbus cars and Columbus Electrics, we have over fifty cars in Pasadena, in the hands of satisfied owners—Ventura county has fifteen cars—Long Beach, ten cars—Orange county, fifteen cars—Redlands, fifteen cars—San Diego, ten cars—Santa Barbara, ten cars. In fact, you can go into any section of California and you will find enthusiastic owners of gas and electric vehicles built by the Columbus Buggy Company. If you are in the market for a dependable Electric or Gasoline car, a demonstration of the Firestone-Columbus or Columbus Electric will undoubtedly result in adding your name to our long list of satisfied owners.

We have some very desirable territory in Southern California open to live agents. Don't forget that it PAYS to represent a GOOD COMPANY WITH GOOD CARS.

Nineteen-Thirteen Chalmers Limousine, One of the Latest and Newest Motor Sensations.

This enclosed "Thirty-six" is finished with all the latest novelties and is in the high-grade class, with whipcord upholstery, electric lights and the latest refinements. A distinctive feature is the complete line of toilet accessories carried in the limousine.

ter driver could not be chosen and a better man could not be seated at the wheel of a racing car.

This year's Cadillac is a hummer. No one knows what the motor will do in a race, but it is an easy guess. The tests give us some idea of what it should do, and now we are to have another real demonstration on the hardest course ever chosen for any road race. The Cadillac entry is one that will bear watching every second of the 500-mile road race.

Three cars are entered—the Cadillac, the National and the Franklin. At least four times that many machines will be in the race. These three cars would make a race worth while, however. They give us the chance to judge again between the air and water-cooled, the medium and higher-priced cars. This race is positively on the square, but then there will be other cars.

WILD BILL.

Many are waiting until the last moment to join the lists. This speed battle will claim its cars from many more agencies on automobile row and several of the Phoenix machines will be started. Our old friend Bill Tremaine has a car at Phoenix he would like to start. When Bill makes up his mind, he usually starts. He has the Pope-Hartford he drove last year, but he will not start this car. He may send the Hudson into the battle. In any event, the car Tremaine handles will be a contender.

It is foolish to prophesy. We have lost some of the former warm sports who figured in the Phoenix road race. Hamlin is one of the men who will stay clear through. He is the only one of the original starters who has stuck fast. He has the right kind of spirit and at least is good for second, but seems stronger for first place than he ever was before.

Important Meeting.

FIRE FIGHTERS IN CONVENTION.

QUESTIONS OF MOTOR TRUCKS TO BE DISCUSSED.

Goodyear Man Plans Campaign and Will Tell the Motorists Just the Way Tires Should Be Placed on the Fire Fighters Which Are to Be Used to Subdue Flames.

Now that the question of the motor-driven fire apparatus is definitely settled by the fire chiefs as to the reliability of the gasoline engine and its ability when properly geared to supply the adequate amount of water, the self-propelled fire apparatus is coming into its own, is the opinion of F. H. Sawyer, head of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company fire truck tire department. He will attend the convention of the International Association of Fire Engineers, which will convene in Denver this fall.

Programmes for the convention have already been announced and questions and discussions will be largely devoted to the efficiency of motor-driven fire trucks. There will also be many exhibits which will include all varieties of fire trucks. According to statement from Sawyer a well-informed estimate of the amount of fire apparatus bought in the United States during this year will amount to all of $75,000,000.

"The interval of time elapsing between the sending in of an alarm and the arrival of the apparatus is important in fire fighting," said the Goodyear man. "The motor-driven engine displaces the stations with horse-drawn apparatus which have to be built and maintained in the outlying districts in order to cope with the situation. The radius of service is increased with motor engines, and thus the outlying stations are done away with. The expense of operating positively ceases when the apparatus is out of service, and it is thus possible to give increased protection with fewer men and less expense.

"Fire chiefs throughout the country are favorably impressed with Goodyear non-skid tires. One of the important features of motor-driven apparatus," continued Sawyer, "is the danger of overloading, and the use of Goodyear non-skid 10 per cent. oversize tires is a prevention, inasmuch as they will carry a larger load than any standard tire of the same make and size."

GOOD TRUCK ROADS.

As the truck depends upon good roads, it is rather appropriate that it should find success in road building. This has been the experience of Sioux City, Iowa, which has been using road trains in road work for the past year. Two of these trains, each consisting of one six-ton truck and two trailers, have delivered an average of 44.25 yards of material per day over a distance of three and a half miles. The contractors who five miles. The contractors who used the machines estimate that to do this work, over ten two-horse teams would have been required, at a cost of over twice the motor cost. The machines negotiated grades of from 3 to 7½ per cent. without difficulty.

LATE LIMOUSINE NOVELTY ATTRACTS MANY AUTOISTS

"THE manufacturer of automobiles is always glad to have visitors inspect his plant," says Charles E. Anthony, local Chalmers agent. "His manufacturing methods and his product are his best advertisements and he takes just pride in them.

"I again went through the factory of the Chalmers Motor Company during a recent trip to Detroit. There every visitor is welcome. It makes no difference whether he owns a Chalmers, or some other car, or no car at all, he will be shown the whole plant.

"Their treatment of the visitor is hospitable. He is not met by an office boy and merely guided through the plant, so that after it is all over all he remembers is the noise of hundreds of wonderful machines.

"In the reception-room the visitor is introduced to a factory expert. At the Chalmers plant they really build Chalmers cars and the visitor may watch every stage of the development from the foundry through the various machine-assembly departments until he sees the finished and fully-equipped car come from the top department. And he may not only see these processes, but he will be told why each operation is necessary.

"The factory expert who guides the visitor will explain every process in terms which the layman can comprehend.

"It is interesting to see the change from the raw material to the finished automobile. And the most interesting part of that change is the rigid inspection at every stage of manufacture.

"Each piece of metal is tested, every distinct part is tested after it is built, every assembled chassis is driven, tested and tuned by experts. Finally, before the finished car is shipped, the final inspector must put his O.K. on it.

"There are about 250 inspectors. The part he is inspecting must measure up to these specifications. If it does not it gets a red or blue tag. A red tag means 'rejected,' and it goes back to the melting pot. A blue tag sends the part to be repaired.

"All through the factory these colored tags tell the tale of a rigid inspection, and the visitor cannot help but feel that there is honesty in automobile building and that manufacturers are taking no chances with their product. They know it is right when it leaves the factory."

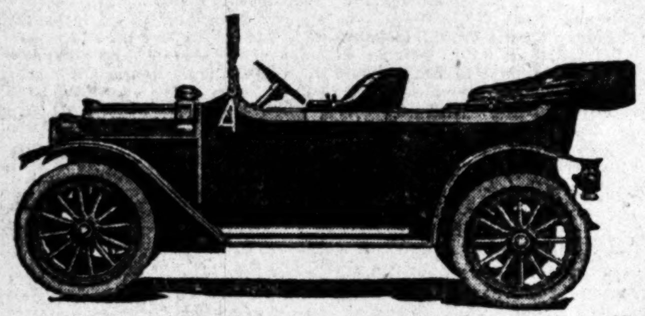
The first 1913 Chalmers "36" limousine has just been received. There are a number of refinements in lighting and upholstering in this car that have never before been attempted in limousine construction. The car is upholstered in the light whipcord and is electrically lighted throughout with the Gray & Davis dynamo system, including an automatic step light under the rear doors on both sides. There is plenty of room for seven passengers, with all of the usual limousine conveniences. A distinctive feature of equipment is an imported portable toilet case, in which is carried a complete line of toilet accessories. The local Chalmers dealer reports a big demand for closed cars, limousines and coupes, and has taken a number of advance orders for both models.

CUTTING CARS READY.

The Clark-Carter Automobile Company is anticipating the largest export trade for 1913 models of Cutting cars than that during any year since the organization of the company. Nearly every day brings requests for catalogues from the foreign countries and results in many sales of the Jackson product. During eight successive days the Clark-Carter company recently averaged one foreign shipment of its cars per day. Three of these went to Australia, three to New Zealand, one to Brazil and one to Italy.

No Fire Talk

The One Hundred Point Low Price Car.



Detroiter $975, f.o.b. Los Angeles
A Standard Car

No startling innovations are found in the Detroiter. No experiments are being tried out on the buyer. Only those standard and tested features that are of known value are embodied in this car, and, mark you, every one of these features that is fundamental is found here.

No, we do not equip with vanity glasses nor furnish ear muffs or two kinds of cold water with Detroiters, for the value of these cars is not in trinkets. Gaudy ornamentations and faddish accessories do not any more determine the value of a car than does the necktie make the man, and when perfume is used extravagantly you are justified in suspecting that noxious smells are being smothered.

We find no fault with a man selling whatever he may desire, if only he calls it by the right name; but we do welcome the day when the automobile business will be conducted under the pure food law plan, so that a buyer will know at a glance the nature of his purchase, and not be led to pay automobile prices for glass and hardware values.

THE COMFORTABLE THOMAS

With its mechanical and structural features the efficiency of which is easily proven by demonstration, the New Thomas marks an epoch in automobile riding comfort.

The eleven inch upholstering, the three quarter elliptic springs, the secondary springs, the shock absorbers and recoil straps give a degree of tonneau comfort, especially in touring, not yet attained by any other American or foreign car.

The underslung gasoline and oil tanks give an extremely low center of gravity causing the car to hold the road better at high speeds and on sharp turns and further enhance the physical comfort of the passengers.

The sturdy Thomas construction, the extra large brakes, the safety loops and the wonderfully strong yet easily controlled steering mechanism give ample assurance of safety and mental comfort to both driver and passengers.

Another Move.

MICHIGAN NOW IN CALIFORNIA.

With Many Plans for Large Selling Campaign.

Cars Seem to Be Right in Line for Big Things.

Branch Established, Men of Affars n Charge.

C. P. Kiel, has returned to his home in Portland after a visit to Kalamazoo, Mich., and as a result of his trip East the announcement is made of the organization o fthe Michigan Motor Car Company, California branch, of which Kiel will be the head. He is one of the best known automobile men of the West and although the organization has so recently been effected that not much can be given in detail it is probably one of the biggest moves in the automobile business for California. The company which will have in charge the distribution of the mighty Michigan cars for 1913 in California, Nevada, the Hawaiian Islands and the Orient will have back of it $1,000,000.

The officers of the new corporation are: V. L. Palmer, president; F. B. Lay, Jr., first vice-president; W. H. Cameron, second vice-president; George H. Daugherty, third vice-president; C. P. Kiel, treasurer and general manager; C. C. Bobb, secretary, and with H. L. Kiel the above-named men constitute the board of directors. All of these men are well known to the industry, and while the company will have entire charge of the appointment and supervision of all future agencies, the present selling connections are not to be interfered with.

It has been known for some time that the "Mighty Michigan" was to be placed in the forefront of the medium-priced cars, by a great enterprise on the part of the manufacturers. There has been four years of preparation and thousands of cars have been sent into test territories, and the success has compelled the company to bring its plans to a head. The factories have been enlarged, a new building being added of 50,000 square feet of floor space in addition to the 600,000 square feet already provided gives them ample factory room. It has been thoroughly equipped as an up-to-date automobile plant.

In branching out, California will be the first and most important point for the company's activities, as the Michigan has met with great success already in this field. It has been authoritatively announced that they will erect a modern office building, with display rooms, service station and all the equipment, which will be the center of the business for the "Mighty Michigan" for California. In all probability this building will be located in San Francisco.

BIG PLANS.

The management of the new organization will be under the general supervision of C. P. Kiel. He has had the handling of the Michigan product from the start and it is only fitting that he should continue as the leading representative of the Michigan as it begins its great epoch. It might be said that Kiel introduced this car into California, and has succeeded in making it a success during its four years as among the best medium-priced cars in the country.

The announcement of the "Mighty Michigan" for 1913 has just been made and has been awaited with interest by many motorists. The 1913 car selling at $1585, fully equipped offers motor buyers a motor of from forty to forty-six horse-power, four forward speed transmission, 21.5 per cent. excess tiring, the left-hand drive with center control, electric lighting by generator system throughout, 118-inch wheel base, and an unusual amount of room. It is the product of W. H. Cameron, one of the members of the new company, and who is considered one of the most successful automobile engineers in America, having at one time been engaged in work on the Marmon, Oldsmobile, Packard and the American Mercedes.

The transmission of the 1913 model Michigan embodies four forward speeds and reverse, with direct drive on fourth. This transmission is the special design of Cameron after much experience and study among all the leading English, French and American cars. Another feature upon which much emphasis is laid is the excess tiring. The Michigan "40" has 21.5 per cent. excess overtire capacity and is equipped with 35x4½-inch tires. Electric lighting throughout is a general equipment and is by generator system. All lights are operated by push buttons on the dash. The two front searchlights are 12½ inches in diameter and of a wonderful power, throwing a steady light 1000 feet away.

The left hand drive and center control is another feature of the Michigan which meets with the approval of critics. It is now conceded that the left hand drive and center control will be the universal practice within twelve months. It clears the right door of levers and makes entering and leaving cars by the right as easy as the left side. It brings the driver to his rightful position on the left side of the car, and places him so he can see how closely he is passing to other vehicles. The center control is mounted on the transmission cover. The levers move in a compact housing, using the minimum space. A hard rubber ball on top of the gear shifting lever fits the hand and adds to the ease of operation.

LOOKS GOOD.

The front axle on the 1913 Michigan is the special design of Cameron. It si drop foregd in one piece I-beam section. Every part is heat treated, even the tie-rods. The knuckle bolts are full one inch in diameter hardened and ground. Extraordinary strength is embodied in the rear axle which is of the full-floating type. The drive shafts are solid one-piece, heat treated chrome nickle steel 1½ inches in diameter. The brake drums are very largefi 16 inches in diameter by 2½ inches wide, an increase of two inches in diameter over last year. They are faced with asbestos fabric, copper riveted.

One point in improvement in the 1913 Michigan is in the springs, which have been largely increased in width. The front springs are elliptic 36x2¼ inches. The rear springs are three-quarter elliptic, 50x2½ inches wide. Five-eighths-inch bolts are used. All spring suspensions are lubricated by hard grease cups. The steering wheel is at the left side, with worm and worm wheel steering gear fully adjustable for wear. There is a full supply of oil and grease cups for the entire system. Adjustable seetring post is used which can be easily raised or lowered.

The body design is by J. A. Campbell. It is roomy, big and is a straight lined body, giving utmost space in front and rear seats. Twenty two coats of paint are required to get the lasting finish put on the Michigan bodies.

The upholstery is of soft high grade leather filled with the finest curled heair. The cushions are of unusual depth. White nickel mountings are used throughout.

In addition to the forty-horse-power car the manufactureres of the Michigan build a thirty-three-horse-power machine with 114-inch wheel base. Both five passenger touring cars and rodster bodies are fitted to the chassis of this car, the touring car body being known as Model L and the roadster as Model O.

GOSSIP ALONG GASOLINE ROW

BY BERT SMITH

Every member of the Automobile Club of Southern California will be enabled to insure his automobile with the association at a figure that should please each of the 4300 autoists. A plan has been perfected whereby the association will handle the big proposition on a scale that looks to be about right. Sybil Geary, the secretary, says that 40 per cent. will be saved each of the men who insures his car with the club.

The new association will be known as the Inter-Insurance Exchange of the Automobile Club of Southern California. With a name like that almost any association ought to be impressive. The concern will be handled by a board of governors composed of directors of the club. The plan seems to be a winner and makes a hit with every autoist who learns of the proposition. May we all become members.

Sybil Geary, secretary of the Automobile Club of Southern California, has recovered from an attack of appendicitis, and is in better health than ever before. The work already mapped out by the secretary would keep about ten men busy. But then, never mind, with the right kind of a determination it is possible to accomplish anything. The membership of the club will soon reach the 5000 mark.

B. L. Graves, the Ford agent, is busy looking over the plans for that new Ford factory. Think what it will mean to build 5000 Ford cars every month in a factory in Los Angeles. Graves is taking the place that was left vacant, and is filling it amply and well.

Lewis Schwaebe is busy on the good roads proposition. He has been handed a job, and the Premier agent is equal to the task. When it comes to after-dinner speeches there are few who can equal Schwaebe, for he is right. Has anybody here seen Schwaebe, S-C-H-W-A-E-B-E? Has anybody here seen Schwaebe? Schwaebe of Premier fame; for his hair is black and his eyes are brown. He's the best known man in town. Has anybody here seen Schwaebe? Schwaebe of Premier fame. Try that. It goes well to that once-popular tune.

Clarence Smith is preparing for a campaign that should be what many call a humdinger. The Stearns cars were sold at record pace last year, and this season everything points to another clean sweep. Clarence Smith knows how. He showed us last year, and it is best to look out for him this season, as he is certain to cut another wide swath.

H. O. Harrison is in San Francisco and is expected here this week. He must look over the plans for that new building which is to be one of the handsomest places in this city. As we said once before. H. O. has come into his own right and there is nothing that can stop him this season. Watch us grow, and when I say that we do not mean anything physical, as Harrison never looked more sylph-like than he does at present. He is reducing rapidly in preparation for a hot campaign.

Earle Y. Boothe, agent for the National, is home from the Elgin road races, with an interesting account of the big affair. He compares the race in the Middle West with the classics we have here, and we have nothing to be ashamed of. The road race at Elgin was not as exciting as many of us supposed it would be. It did not compare, according to Boothe, with the Santa Monica road race. Read his account of the contest.

Baldy Smith is bald again. The toupee he wore so becomingly has been wafted off so many times that he has decided to go without his hirsute adornment, which has been thrown into the discard. Incidentally, A. J. is as handsome as ever, and is just as mighty a Nimrod. Last week the Elmore man bagged a five-point buck. Bill Ruess please take notice.

Watt Moreland and C. E. Smith went hunting together yesterday, and will remain near Elsinore today trying to bag the limit of doves. The pair of mighty hunters went equipped for bear. They carried enough ammunition to start another revolution in Mexico. Watt is a crack shot, but it is impossible to say that much for Smith, who admits he could hit the side of a barn if he was inside with the door shut and there were no knot-holes in the sides.

The market in right this year. We are selling cars, but breaking no records. The extravagant stories about a thousand cars a month are not coming in so fast, however, as the business has settled down to a staple proposition with the wild-catters out of the game.

Ned Mellus, one of the greatest deer hunters in this country, is piloting Bill Ruess, the Pope-Hartford man, into the wilds of Calabasas, where Bill has a big five-pointer staked out. Ruess is out after his second deer this season and expects to return Monday with his animal dressed and ready to eat.

Charles H. Bigelow, who is putting the Phoenix road race course in shape, will start a corps of men out from Mecca on Tuesday and another from Brawley on Friday. He expects to have the roads in shape for fast work in two weeks.

Paul Bruske is peeved because he seems to have said the right thing. Now in order to square matters it is only right that Paul be given a chance to square himself with his friends. When he cools off he will be given a chance to explain just why he hauled down his colors after we had been led to believe that he had nailed them to the mast.

David Beecroft is one man who seems to be lucky enough to steer straight every time. It's not fair to call it luck. It's good sense and right judgment. Just think what it would mean to have a new racing association with Beecroft at the helm. There, perhaps we have said too much already. Let's wait.

The East and the West should join heart and hand to boost the racing game. It is possible, if we are all willing to concede a point or two. If our rules and ruling are to be arbitrary, well it may be necessary for the West to look out for itself. If it ever does look out for the cyclone. Somebody will think a Kansas tornado hit them before they could get into the cellar.

The deer season will soon be over and to tell you the truth I'll be glad of it. Seems a shame to kill off the animals. They make our hills more beautiful. They add to the attractiveness of a week spent in the Sierras. They are becoming so scarce that it will be only a few years before they are all killed. Let's have a closed season of at least five years and give them a chance and then open each year for one month and make the limit one buck. Do I hear a second?

The dove limit is too large. Ten doves is enough for one bag. If you don't believe me, ask Tom Williams. Of course, to tell the truth, ten doves is a big bag for Tom, but "Doc" Spinks is the real shot of automobile row. He has been known to kill as many as twenty at one time. Not at one shot, now.

Shirley Christy is in town looking as handsome and as hairless as ever. The genial Phoenix Beau Brummel is the favorite in Arizona society, and here he looks best as host at a well-filled dinner table. Shirley always takes White Rock. He is on the front seat of the water wagon and may he remain there.

J. C. Adams of the Adams Hotel was in the city the past week. He is to do big things this year for the Phoenix road racers, but he was doing enough while in this city to make him many friends. He has the right kind of a spirit when it comes to road racing.

Automobile dealers are beginning to return from their camping trips. This means that there will be more happening along automobile row than ever before. The 1913 models are coming in fast. They are handsomer than ever with every convenience that it is possible to think of.

The Cincinnati Automobile Club is negotiating for the property known as the Williamson farm on Colerain Pike, near Groesback.

FINE COUNTRY CLUBHOUSE.

Seventy-five Thousand Set Aside for Automobile Home and Place Is a Delight to Many.

The Automobile Club of Buffalo's Country Clubhouse, at Clarence, N. Y., which was constructed at a cost totaling $75,000, is said to be the finest country home owned by any motor organization in the United States. The estate on which this clubhouse is located comprises seventy acres, on which are stately pine and hickory trees, as well as apple trees and shrubbery.

The clubhouse is approached from the main highway by a broad, smooth road leading directly to arched driveway. The building itself, which is 200 feet long by 136 feet at greatest width, is of mission architecture and represents a spacious bungalow. The general reception-room on the first floor has seating capacity for 500 people. This room is finished in weathered oak, unpolished, with vaulted ceilings and five fireplaces of red brick to hold large logs.

ell you why I'm the leading the Coast League? Impossible me why I ain't, and I'll through with the big talk. I leadin' hitter, because Del happens along and grabs off duction."

the native modesty of humble Heitmuller asserted itself. "Heinie" takes his little more seriously than the fans. Howard has passed Heitmuller in the race for premier batsman, but he hasn't been on enough to establish himself real leader. Howard is a smith, but until he finishes the season in front, the fans, those south of the Tehachapi will refrain from proclaiming the peer of "Heinie."

these things, "Heinie" is refuses to be comforted. His of mind and soul is so acute threatens to "choke" his bat out the home-run stuff.

"Heinie" is Heitmuller's name only by adoption. "Heinie," whose maiden name is William Frederick, the same being given him in honor of a certain gentleman who once had a job as Emperor, came by his alias, not because he felt the need of an alias, but because he couldn't prevent it. Finding himself under the necessity of making a trip from San Francisco, his native city, to Seattle, William Frederick made the horrifying discovery that the family boasted only one suit case. This was the property of his brother, Henry T. Heitmuller. So Will, without consulting his brother, borrowed the suit case, loaded it with purple and fine linen and grabbed the "rattler" for Seattle. Other members of the party, noting the initials, "H. T. H ." on the suit case, took it for granted that Heitmuller's name was "Heinie," and this cognomen has clung to him like an octopus through all the succeeding years.

Like many other famous athletes, Heitmuller is a product of the University of California. "Heinie" frequented that place from 1901 to 1905. He might be there yet but for the rule preventing any young man from playing on the 'varsity for more than four years at a stretch. But it was not a burning desire alone to play baseball that lead "Heinie" to the university. He was equally fond of football. Between his devotion to these two pastimes he found time to familiarize himself with mechanical and electrical engineering. "Heinie's" friends say that he can build a boiler better than Jim Jeffries. This probably is true, as, contrary to general belief, Jim wasn't a boilermaker, but a tank builder.

FOOTBALL AND BASEBALL.

"Heinie" played right tackle on the California 'varsity eleven for four years, and during that time greased the landscape with many promising Stanford students. Among his fellow-assassins were numbered "Ovie" Overall, "Locomotive" Smith and "Bob" Sherman. "Heinie" likewise took a full course on the baseball 'varsity, oscillating between first base and the outfield until Overall graduated with signal honors. It then devolved on "Heinie" to do the pitching. This in a way wrought his ruin in an educational sense.

"Heinie" and Jack Bliss formed the prize battery of the California 'varsity in 1905. They were engaged in upholding the honors of the Blue and Gold against Stanford in the annual series, which stood two all, when they received an invitation to play in Fresno with a San Francisco semi-pro team. With the deciding game with Stanford two weeks away, they accepted with avidity. The names of Heitmuller and Bliss did not appear on the printed score card.

By a strange coincidence, a Stanford student, who was doing "space" on a San Francisco paper, was present to record the deeds of Heitmuller and Bliss, and he recorded them to a finish. Incidentally, he casually pointed out that there was not a name in the printed line-up that bore any resemblance to that of Heitmuller or Bliss. "Heinie" swears to this day that this was due to the fact that they were pressed into service after the programmes were printed, but this did not save them.

For a collegian to be found playing under an assumed name either by accident or design is fatal. From that moment they were marked men. All this was highly pleasing from a Stanford standpoint, but before the rival university had a chance to register a roar, a learned gentleman, holding down the chair of lost languages, or some other equally cultured seat, sallied out on the campus a couple of days later and shooed them off the campus. Thus baseball was enriched at the expense of higher education.

"Heinie" signed with Seattle the following year. He finished the season with Oakland, and continued to make baseball history as a member of that club until 1909, when he graduated to the Philadelphia Athletics. In order to win an outfield berth with Mack it was necessary for Heitmuller to oust both Joe Jackson and Amos Strunk. "Heinie" started into do this with a will, and he didn't stop until he had temporarily crowded both of them off the major league map.

"Heinie" was shipped to Baltimore late in 1910, but he was not snubbed when it came to apportioning the world's series money. His little cut amounted to $500. When "Heinie" received that check he was as overwhelmed with joy as the poor man who has been remembered in the last will and testament of a rich uncle.

Heitmuller joined the Seraphs last season in time to hammer the ball all over the lot and out of it in seventy-eight games for a percentage of .843. He is likely to be here for quite a bit yet. At least, Berry and Dillon haven't said anything about releasing him.

CRAVATH BOOSTED AS WONDERFUL BATSMAN.

Charles Clifford Cravath gives every promise of becoming the home-run king of the National League. While "Gavvy" has not played regularly all season with the Phillies, he has already accumulated something like eight circuit clouts. It is a noteworthy fact that each of Cravath's four-timers has had a direct bearing on the outcome of the game.

When Gavvy lands on the ball it is always a safe bet that it will go for extra bases. Cravath is one of the heaviest hitters in either league. Not since the days of old "Pop" Anson, the Delehantys and other old-time sluggers has a man appeared in the big league that hits the ball any harder. The second home run that Gavvy hit in Boston was probably the longest hit ever seen on the South End field. The ball sailed over the right field fence, clearing the top by full twenty feet, and went through an open window in a new building across the street.

Cravath proved himself a fielder of rare ability throughout the Boston series. There are few better throwing arms in the league than the good right whip possessed by the former Minneapolis star.

Both the Kohlemainen brothers of Finland are vegetarians. The winner of the two running races at the Olympic games in Sweden is a bricklayer by trade, while the other one is a clerk. Each has a perfect stride for long-distance events, of the short-step variety.

Guessing Required.

SKILL NEEDED TO PLACE MEN.

Managers Spend Much Time on Batting List.

Arrangement of Batsmen Is Important Factor.

Most Desirable Person Is the Clean-up Man.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

The average fan picks up his programme at the ball park, runs his eye up and down the batting order to see who is playing and who isn't, and then refers to it occasionally as a guide during the progress of the game.

Further than that he is not greatly interested in the batting order, beyond wondering, possibly, why the pitcher isn't allowed to bat first, the catcher, second, the first baseman third, and so on down the line; a batting law that was unchangeable as that of the Medes and Persians when the kids congregated on the vacant lot and proceeded to select sides by "choosing up." You remmebr it all. The yarn ball, the 10-cent bat and the rock or the battered tin can that served as a home plate. The honor of "choosing up" was accorded the two "natural born" leaders—you always find 'em, even among the sandlotters—and between themselves, with the aid of a bat, they decided who should have the first choice. When the teams were selected in the order of the skill of the players, there ensued a scramble for positions on the field. But there was no scramble when it came to lining up at the plate. The right of the pitcher to bat first and the catcher second was inalienable.

MATTER OF SKILL.

The arrangement of a team's batting order, is in fact, an important factor in any club's success. The problem of sending his men to the plate in the order that will give the club the maximum of run-getting power is one on which the manager expends considerable brain force each year, and which sometimes is not definitely solved until a month or more after the season opens. Mid-season changes, in fact, are not infrequent, form reversals necessitating a shuffling of the batting order.

The batting order of the Seraphs until recently, when Howard and Moore were temporarily shelved, was as follows: Howard, Berger, Daley, Heitmuller, Moore, Metzger, Lober, catcher and pitcher. The battery people nearly always enjoy a monopoly on the last two positions. Dillon placed his men in this manner only after carefully analyzing the work of each player at the bat and on the bases.

The lead-off man should be a patient waiter, and fast; a man who knows how to follow out the instructions, "anyway to get on first." With the lead-off man on first, the club has a good chance of taking a one-run lead in the opening round.

It is up to the succeeding batsmen to see that the lead-off man is shoved around the circuit.

The second man must be versatile, heady and fast, a good hitter, a thorough master of the sacrifice and skillful at the hit-and-run. He is expected to lend the lead-off man a helping hand as far as second, and sometimes can shove him around to third on a well-executed hit-and-run.

The third batter should have qualifications similar to those of the second man. Speed, reliability as a straight-away hitter, the ability to bunt and knack of "mixing 'em up," are among the requisites for that position.

Howard, Berger and Daley measure up to the requirements of these positions admirably.

This brings us down to "Heinie" Heitmuller, who occupies the honorable position of "clean-up" hitter. This gent should be a slugger from 'way back; a man with the ability to score a runner from first should there chance to be one lingering there. All he is expected to do is to drive in the bulk of the runs. What a snap!

The ideal fifth-place man should be fast and a hard hitter. Consequently, Charley Moore was selected for the place. Dillon figures that the fifth man is frequently the first man up in the second inning, and in that event his speed is likely to come in handy.

The lighter batters are accorded the succeeding positions, which as a rule, are assigned on the basis of the respective batting ability of the men. There are but a few points difference in the hitting of Metzger and Lober, but the former is given precedence over Lober because he is superior on the hit-and-run, and a wizard as a sacrifice hitter. In fact, when it comes to the sacrifice, Metzger is the peer of any man on the club. Again and again Metzger aids the speedy Moore around the circuit with his skill in these departments.

Those over-worked individuals, the catcher and pitcher, bring up the rear in the order named. Neither of them is expected to be a bear with the bat. Should they fail to get more than four hits between them in a season it would not arouse adverse comment. But at that, some fine hitters are now and then found lurking among the battery people. In Brooks and Boles the Seraphs have two who rank among the deadliest sticksmiths in the league, while among the Seraphs' pitchers are some who love their base hits well enough to get them every now and then.

In addition to the specific reasons cited for the placing of the batters is one more general. By placing the stronger and more skilful of the crew at the top they will go to bat more often in the average game than the lower half of the batting order. This means a big batch of additional runs during a season.

While it might be stretching a point to single out any one position in the batting order as the most important, it is a significant fact that a majority of the winning clubs have a true and tried "clean-up" gent on the job.

JEFFRIES REPORTS MUCH GAME IN BEAR VALLEY.

Jim Jeffries returned from Bear Valley Friday after several delays. The big fellow was to have been in for the Mandot-Rivers match last Monday, but went out after deer with Warren Hopperstead and could not make it. Jim brought in his two bucks and several limits in dove and fish.

While up in the valley Jeffries did nothing but fish, hunt and eat game. He landed the biggest trout ever caught in the lake and a member of his party caught the record trout for the season in the creek.

The party shot several limits of doves during the first days of the season and brought back reports of thousands of quail, which will attract the nimrods in another month.

Jeffries says that the coming duck season will be a winner. Already there are many ducks in Imperial Valley and there are thousands at Bear Lake.

MANY GOOD ONES HERE.

The latest football announcement comes from the Los Angeles Athletic Club. The club expects to put out a Rugby team this fall and on the list of candidates appear the names of such celebrities as Stan and Mow Mitchell, Ted Giesler, Elt. Brown, who played fullback on Stanford's first Rugby fifteen; Elwin Caley, Tom Higgins, Dave Brant and Eddie Smith.

Harold H. Hilton the British amateur golfer, who holds the American title, accompanied by Norman Hunter, another first-class player, will sail on August 9, and expects to reach Quebec on August 17. They intend to visit several Canadian links before reaching Chicago on August 28.

MULES KICK AT AUTOMOBILE.

Driver Sued for Damages When Hay Wagon Blocks Road—Animals Hard to Drive.

Because his two mules, attached to a hay wagon, didn't like thecompany of automobiles, John Taylor, an Indiana farmer, has been sued for $2500 damages by his farmhand, Jesse Hobson. Hobson says that he was employed by Taylor and was hauling hay to Elizabethtown, having two mules hitched to his hay wagon. He says Taylor was driving a load of hay directly in front of him. Hobson alleges that the mules he was driving were afraid of automobiles, but that Taylor had given him instructions how to drive them.

They encountered D. M. Branham of Elizabethtown in the latter's machine, the plaintiff says, and that while he signaled Branham to stop, Taylor insisted that the driver of the machine go ahead. This Branham did, the complaint alleges, with the result that the mules took fright, overturned theload of hay and threw Hobson to the ground. He was injured by the fall, and by being partially covered with hay.

Play in the New York-Havana international chess championship tournament will begin in New York on November 30. Invitations have been sent to seventeen of the world's masters to take part. The matches will be played four days each week and after every contestant has encountered each of the others once, an adjournment will be taken until Saturday, January 4, when the second half will open, in Havana.

George Hodgson, the young Canadian swimming marvel who won both the 400 and the 1500-meter swimming races at the Olympic games, has been invited to take part in the American outdoor championships and has promised to take part if the dates do not conflict with his home schedule of races.

Foxy Bill.

JOE MANDOT IS MATCHED: FIGHTS WILLIE RITCHIE.

Bill Nolan, Manager for Willie Ritchie, by a Sudden Stroke of Diplomacy, Gets the Whole Fight World by the Hair of the Head and Is Now Dictator of the Lightweight Situation.

Willie Ritchie, Hard Scrapper.

Well-known pug who is always looking for a match with any lightweight and whom no sensible boxer ever challenges.

AS A result of the adroit manipulation of Bill Nolan, Joe Mandot has signed an agreement to fight Willie Ritchie instead of Joe Rivers, as planned by Tom McCarey.

Nolan arrived here in the interests of Ritchie after an agreement for a return match between Mandot and Rivers had practically been made, and it was thought that Ritchie had no chance whatever.

Mandot was then planning to go to San Francisco to be the guest of Jimmie Coffroth at the Burns-Hogan fight, and it was only a question as to whether he would fight Rivers here or the winner of the Hogan-Burns fuss in San Francisco.

Nolan sat up all night with Harry Coleman, manager for Mandot. He not only persuaded him to cancel the San Francisco engagement, but when Mandot left for the East yesterday morning, Nolan held Coleman's signed agreement binding Mandot to fight Ritchie some time in October.

Not only did he do that, but Coleman agreed to waive the weight difficulty and allow Ritchie to weigh 133 pounds at 3 o'clock.

The exact date for the fight is not set; it is to be some time in October.

It looks very much as though Nolan, by a remarkable feat of diplomacy, had suddenly transformed Ritchie from a lonesome outsider, forlornly looking for a fight, into the very center of the fight world with a share in ALL the matches.

It will be noted that this leaves Ritchie free to fight on Thanksgiving Day or between now and this indefinite "some time in October."

To tell the truth, it looks as if Bill is holding all the cards.

Unless Rivers wants to accept a fight from Ritchie on pretty much Ritchie's terms, it looks as though the Mexican were frozen out altogether, as it is natural to suppose that Wolgast would rather fight the winner of the Mandot-Ritchie fight than Rivers.

From the hints that Nolan has let out, it is apparent that he would like to get a fight for Ritchie with Rivers before the Mandot fight; then fight Wolgast here on Thanksgiving Day (providing, of course, that Ritchie wins from Mandot.)

Nolan says they are not going to stand around and coax either McCarey or Wolgast.

If Wolgast continues to hold out for prohibitive purses, Ritchie and Mandot have agreed to ignore him entirely and leave the champion marooned.

As to McCarey, Nolan intimates that the Mandot-Ritchie match could easily be shifted from New Orleans to Los Angeles, if McCarey is of a mind to see the light.

If not, Nolan, as present sole proprietor of the only real match in sight at the present time, will go elsewhere to fight it.

On the Way.

NEW CADILLACS COMING; MANY AUTOISTS ANXIOUS.

AHIS is the big week at the Don Lee Company. The 1913 Cadillac should be on exhibition. The first shipment on the way to Don Lee consists of two touring cars. These will be used for show and demonstrating purposes in Los Angeles.

The coming of the Cadillac is always an event of great importance in the motor world. The Don Lee Company has booked many advance orders and these Cadillac owners are anxiously awaiting their first glimpse of the new car. Great things are predicted for this machine and the next few months will be the busiest of the year in the Don Lee camp.

The San Francisco demonstrator is also expected in this week and Lee will go there to officiate at the opening ceremonies. The Cadillac company will make a big shipment in September and a great many Cadillacs will be delivered before the first of the year.

The new Cadillac has 25 per cent. more power and is rated as a forty-fifty horse-power. The motor measures four and one-half by five and three fourths. The machine has been silenced to the point beyond belief by enclosing the valves and using silent chains to drive the auxiliary shafts. The car will come fully equipped with a top, wind-shied, Warner's speedometer and the perfected Cadillac electric starting and cranking system.

SENDING OUT OUR CARS.

We Are Shipping Many More Automobiles to Foreign Countries Than We Did Last Season.

According to an announcement from the Bureau of Statistics in Washington, the value of the exports for the fiscal year just ended exceeded the billion-dollar line for the first time. The total value of manufactures exported, exclusive of foodstuffs, was $1,021,753,918. Of all the many components of this enormous figure, automobiles show the most rapid growth when compared with preceding years. During the fiscal year of 1912, no less than $28,000,000 worth of machines and parts was exported, while ten years ago, in 1902, less than $1,000,000 worth was exported. The value of the complete machines exported this year was $21,500,000, to which is added about $4,000,000 worth of parts and $2,500,000 of tires.

In 1903 the total was only $5,250,000 for complete machines, parts and tires. Imports for foreign automobiles into the United States during June, 1912, reached the lowest number recorded since 1903, only forty-two cars being shipped to this country, valued at $100,927. In June, 1911, there were imported 117 cars, values at $256,514. Every one of the five divisions enumerated in the statistics shows a considerable loss. Germany sending only three cars valued at $8806 to this country.

The United Kingdom, too, showed a heavy loss, only seven cars being imported from there. As the imports during the first few months of 1912, and also in the last half of 1911 showed considerable gains over the corresponding periods of the preceding year, the figures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, register a slight gain over the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911. The figures given herewith show the number and value of cars imported in June, 1912, and in the twelve-month ending June, 1912.

BOOTHE BACK.

Bruske denies an interview he gave to the automobile editor of The Times and goes back on a statement he made that he would testify at a rehearing of the case.

BRUSKE REFUSES.

"As you very well know I made no such statement" says Bruske. "I consider that you have done me a radical injustice in making me appear in an apologetic light before your readers. I am enough of a newspaperman myself to appreciate the fact that you have manufactured out of whole cloth, a false interview with me."

It is to be regretted that Bruske refuses to stand by his colors, after he had hauled up the flag. He is one of the men who could throw light on a matter that is of especial interest to the men of the West. He is one of the men who can help clarify a situation that may result in a revolution and in the creation of a new racing association.

"'It is not my purpose to write anything for publication on the situation as it exists" says Bruske.

This is entirely opposite to his attitude at Detroit when he offered to go before the Contest Board if the affairs of the Santa Monica road race are brought up again at a rehearing. This eliminates Bruske from the controversy, and loses for the West a man who could have helped matters materially.

The question of why Bruske was not made an outlaw, in a controversy in which he was associated with the very men against whom the ruling was made, has not been explained. Bruske, however, has always appeared to be fair and until he has been given a chance to explain why he has "flopped" so suddenly it is only right that a ruling should be reserved.

BRACE UP BRUSKE.

When he agreed to stand by the men who had stood by him so staurchly Bruske made many friends out here. When he refuses to do this the whole situation has been changed as far as the racing manager is concerned.

A. M. Young has a letter from Bruske in which the racing manager writes always the same statement as that quoted in the pink. Manager Young, with a number of other autoists, was more than surprised to learn that Bruske has apparently turned him down after his repeated promises to do all in his power to help the manager of the great hace who certainly went to the bat for the man who was "in wrong."

Referee Hillman also helped Bruske and the action of the racing manager in also turning him down seems peculiar and can possibly be explained when Bruske is once more interviewed. This also applies to Kuster, who proved a staunch friend of Bruske's, as, when the automobile editor of The Times accompanied Bruske, these two men helped him in a fight for the prize money which had been held up pending a ruling of the Contest Board with regard to the cars Bruske had entered in the Santa Monica road race.

Earl Boothe did not go into the matter as thoroughly as he desired. He comes back, however, determined to fight this out if it takes all summer:

BOOTHE SAYS:

"When I was in Indianapolis I wrote to William Schimpf, chairman of the Contest Board of the Automobile Association, asking him to meet me in Chicago. I was acting as secretary of the Automobile Dealers' Association of Los Angeles and thought Schimpf and I would have an opportunity to discuss the recent ruling in the Santa Monica road race when Attorney Edward G. Kuster's resignation was accepted and Roy P. Hillman and A. M. Young were suspended.

"Imagine my surprise when Schimpf, in a letter something like this, replied by saying: 'It is a very unusual proceeding to have anyone ask the Contest Board for an explanation of any action taken by the members.' He inferred that the Contest Board is not accountable to anyone for its rulins."

In explanation of the way he felt on receiving this letter Earl Boothe said:

"I did hope that I could meet the chairman and members of the Contest Board and get their reason for accepting the resignation of Atty. Kuster and suspending Hillman and Young.

"It seemed to me that the action of the Contest Board was not fair and I wanted to put the matter squarely up to them. In this I was disappointed as I wanted to get their side of the question before taking up the matter at the Automobile Dealers' Association on Tuesday, as I wanted the members here to be thoroughly posted on both sides of the question before taking any action so that no one would be treated unjustly."

MAY REBEL.

When this matter is taken up with the automobile dealers this week the question of organizating another racing association will be one of the vital issues. There are those who favor such a plan. Of course nothing is to be done hastily. The directors of the association will have a chance to decide and then action will be taken.

Another racing association could be formed in the West. We have the cars and we have the drivers. We have made drivers out here. Now, as a matter of fact, it is my candid opinion that it would be better to remain loyal to the Automobile Association of America if such a thing is possible and still retain our honor.

We deserve consideration. The Santa Monica Road Race was one of the greatest ever held. Another road race held here with a purse of $25,000 is a possibility. We should demand a resident member of the Contest Board with power to rule in all such matters. We should demand a hearing in all cases to prevent what many consider an arbitrary ruling such as was made in the Santa Monica road race.

Let us be careful. Let's not take the goat by the horns. Chairman Schimpf is open to reason though many of us think differently. David Beecroft is one of the white men, also. Though Paul Bruske seems to have shifted the responsibility when the matter is put squarely up to him he may be willing to help the men who helped him.

There is plenty of time. We will not have a road race for several months. In the meantime let us wait, thrash out this matter carefully and try to keep the A.A.A. a united body.

M'INTYRE FOR MILWAUKEE.

Mattie McIntyre, veteran outfielder of the Chicago Americans, has been sent to Milwaukee in part payment for Catcher Roy Schalk. McIntyre was released two years ago by Detroit on the theory that he had outlived his usefulness, and after joining Chicago he batted .323 for the season.

The Heart of a Motor Car Is Its Motor

THE LONG-STROKE MOTOR has for years found favor with the big makers and users in Europe. It recently has by leading makers here.

But the MOLINE LONG-STROKE MOTOR was the first long-stroke motor in America;

Built over seven years ago, improved yearly since;

And the MOLINE LONG-STROKE MOTOR is today the leader in this field in this country.

Perhaps you never saw a Moline car, or a MOLINE LONG-STROKE MOTOR. But you, and every one who bile news, know of the world's records in reliability and economy runs and Glidden tours that this sturdy car has won. telling you here that those records were won by the MOLINE LONG-STROKE MOTOR in a Moline car built in the Moline Automobile Company, Moline, Illinois.

The Moline has come into its own. It is acknowledged leadeer by years and achievement in the manufacture of the developed type of explosive engines known—THE LONG-STROKE MOTOR.

The power plant is carried on three points of suspension, one forward and two in the rear, insuring perfect alignment and transmission shafts under any and all road conditions. All operating and mechanical parts are readily accessible floor boards and hood and every part—back to the universal joint is opened to view. Simplicity is as marked here as ing of the car itself. This makes a hit with every buyer.

And, oh! the joy of that noiseless, sweetly-running, LONG-STROKE MOTOR in the city's crowded streets when THROTTLE down to four or five miles an hour; the ease of control on bad roads where slow running is imperative; power in hill climbing, and on long, heavy gradients where it provides greater power development, obviates long starts; will 'hang on" and you know confidently your motor will not "lie down" even under the worst of conditions.

Another consignment of 1913 cars has just arrived.

instead of getting the ball
scrum for a passing rush, it is kept in, and the scrum forms around it and starts a dribbling rush down the field, which leaves the backs out of the game, except as they come up and boost a little from the rear. Passing rushes, kicking into touch and dribbling are the only ways to advance the ball in rugby and the American college man with his natural instinct for tackling and blocking has found out the way to stop all of these methods with more telling effect than the offense has found of driving through. This problem of offense particularly refers to the southern teams. Last year U.S.C. had a great defense, but was nearly helpless in the other end of the game. Now, Manning will have to develop an attack, as he has the defense of last year already as an asset and with the great collection of ironclad veterans at his command, the task should be accomplished this season.

New Plays are what are wanted in rugby, and the coaches are looking for them and it is only a matter of time until we see some entirely new formations sprung, for when an American coach starts on a still hunt for ways and means to gain ground, he generally finds them.

AMERICAN PROBLEM, DEFENSE.

Now for the intercollegiate puzzle. With the change in the rules, the coaches will be sitting up nights with the scratch pad, looking for ways to stop the hundred and one new plays made possible by the changes in the rules.

In taking away the twenty yard limit for the forward pass, the play has increased twofold in ground-gaining value. Then four downs to cover ten yards, makes it possible for straight football to work havoc with the rush line. A good team will make three yards on almost any kind of a buck, and four bucks will net 12 yards as will be readily seen. Then shortening the field has made it possible to score more frequently.

Now to beat these plays the coach will have to work from tackle out and in. The line men will have to bear the brunt of the attack, but in the case of the forward pass the secondary defense will have to be pulled down the field a few more yards, thus making the first defense stand alone against the straight football. As soon as the secondary line crawls up to stop the bucks and line plunges, the brainy quarter, will shoot a long forward pass down the field and there will only be the defensive quarter to stop the man with the ball and his interference.

Oh! It will be a sweet job to beat this game and they will never do it the first year, so we can look for large scores this season, but the games will be more uncertain than before, as all the advantage will lie with the team holding the ball and each team is going to get it some time during the game.

It will probably be like this: Team "A" will kick off to team "B" and "B," by a series of bucks and forward passes, will shore a touchdown, then "A" will take the kick-off and will repeat the dose, so the score will see-saw back and forth until the end of the game, and the team keeping the ball in its possession the longer time will win the game. The ball will count this year.

SPEAKER MOST VALUABLE.

Speaker is the most valuable man in the trio. He is the most valuable because he is more sensational. He is the glitter of the Boston outfield for the same reason that Cobb is the brilliant light of the Tiger far gardens. He pulls off more spectacular catches, he hits better and he is more speedy and daring on the bases.

Furthermore, Speaker has had the most publicity. He is the best known of the three men and therefore is the best drawing card.

For these reasons this would be worth half of the $50,000, with Duffy Lewis bringing $15,000 and Hooper $10,000.

Taken all in all, this trio is worth more than any other big-league outfield today.

the velocity was almost nothing. In the shoals he said that the velocity was very swift, while the pressure had almost disappeared.

"This is the principle that governs the flight and curve of a ball. If the ball sails straight through the air with no spin, the air is pushed aside equally in all directions and the ball is directly under the control of gravity so far as its curve is concerned, and it soon falls to the ground. Whereas, if the front of the ball is given a downward spin, there is in it, in addition to the straight forcing aside of the air, a circular motion of the air around the ball. This motion being over and then under the ball tends to increase the speed with which the air passes beneath the ball and it retards it above the ball."

SHOOTING NOTES.

W. A. Bruner has received word from D. Morrill to the eeffct that he is working on the machinery for his blue rock factory which will be operated on the coast. Morrill has a plant in Omaha and is well-known as a manufacturer of blue rocks. The establishing of a factory here will reduce the price of the clay birds, and be a great boost for the trap-shooting game. It will take at least four months for Morrill to get his works started and he has not yet decided whether he will locate in oLs Angeles or in the northern part of the State.

Jack Nugent of Pomona was in the city yesterday and returned to his home with two new guns and enought ammunition to stock up a store.

Nugent is well-known in Southern California shooting circles, as the head of the Pomona Gun Club and one of the fathers of the trap-shooting game in this section.

The Pomona Club is gaining in popularity and every Sunday there are many shooters on the grounds, breaking the blue rocks.

Members of the Pomona Club are spending a great deal of their time shooting doves lately, according to Nugent.

S. O. Miller returned from Pascoe yesterday with all the doves he dare carry and the limit in rabbits.

William L. Hack is spending a few days shooting in the mountains near Santa Barbara. It is reported that there are a great many doe there.

John M. Flowers is shooting dove in Topanga Canyon today and if he has the luck that Bill Cornett's party did lost week, will come back with the limit.

D. J. Hansel is spending a few days hunting in the Santa MonicaMountains. Several bucks have been brought in from the range this year there according to reports brought in from the range this year and there are many dove to be found there according to reports brought in by the hunters who hav visited the range.

F. W. Johnson and A. F. Gardner left last night for a few days dove shooting at Whittier. Several parties have returned from there with the limit and there are still hundreds of birds in that vicinity.

W. A. Bruner says that notwithstanding the attractive dove shooting there is more trap practice going on in Southern California now than ever before in the history of the sport. Bruner predicts that this will be a great trap-shooting year all over the country.

Bernal Dyas received word from Walter Hawk at Brawley yesterday saying that there were thousands of ducks in the valley. This means that the coming duck season will be a winner.

Harry Burt says he has discovered a new hunting ground and has gone out all alone to see how it looks. Burt would not allow even his friend Jim Jeffries to accompany him this time, but says that he will take a crowd of the fellows up next week if the shooting is good.

The four Wilshire brothers are out after the dove again today. Last Sunday all returned with the limit, early in the afternoon. One had to put his gun out of commission at 8:30 in the morning. W. H., used a 20-gauge gun and says it is the heal thing. No more of the wide nozzle shooting for him. He got his limit and shot birds as far away as 58 paces.

OXY'S HOPES ARE VERY BRIGHT THIS SEASON.

Occidental's pie-season foot ball hopes are brighter this year than for several seasons and if all the stars and near stars who are pledged, show up when Pipal calls the roll, there will be a choice lot of material on hand.

There should be keen competition for places this year. Sterns, Lane and McNary are slated to try out for center. Bradbeer and Gilkey will return to try for guard positions. Wyman and Bob Smith will be the leaders of the tackle list. For ends there will be Dill, Kirkpatrick, Yakeley, Crawford and Jones. Seay, Bill Travernor and Henry will be out for quarter. McClung will go out for full and Sid Foster Chambers and Smith will be the promising halves.

LEADS IN GOOD ROADS.

Claim Is Made that Rhode Island Leads With New Highways and, of Course, We All Are Glad.

According to the Office of Public Roads, in Washington, D. C., the State of Rhode Island leads in good roads percentage, having 49.14 per cent. of its highways improved. Massachusetts is second with an even 49 per cent., with Indiana following with 36.7 per cent. Next in order come Ohio, Connecticut, New Jersey, Kentucky, Vermont and California, the latter having 17.87 per cent.

The States of Wisconsin, New York, Maryland, Utah, Tennessee, South Carolina, Maine and Michigan range from 16 to 10 per cent. Between 10 and 5 per cent. stand the States of Alabama, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Minnesota, New Hampshire and Oregon. The other States with less than 5 per cent. of their roads improved end with North Dakota, which has only .23 per cent.

HANK O'DAY FANS ON SENSELESS KICKING.

"The players who kick the most don't last as long on the diamond as the players who behave themselves," says Hank O'Day, manager of the Reds, who umpired for twenty years. "The greatest players, with few exceptions, are the best sportsmen.

Take Christy Mathewson, for instance. How often do you see him kick over balls and strikes? He is even-tempered and has sense enough to kno wthat he cannot get all the breaks. Nine times out of ten the player kicks to cover up his own foult. How often have you seen a player kick over a third strike when the ball cuts the plate? The player knows he is out fairly; yet he makes the howl to square himself with the fans.

I have been trying to teach my players to refrain from kicking against the decisions rendered by the umpires. Three of my men have been ruled off the field this season and they have heard from me. Umpires make mistakes sometimes, but I find that in the long run one club benefits as much as another from bad decisions."

The Russian government has bought five of the American-made cars which went through a test arranged by the Czar's officials to determine the adaptability of motor vehicles for army service in all of its branches. A reliability run of 1960 miles over very hard roads was held.

Farewell to $1,055

By R. E. Olds, Designer

I publish this ad to give 30 days' notice that Reo the Fifth must advance in price.

The costliest materials are all going up. Labor cost is higher. And our margin at present is entirely too small to permit us to stand these advances.

I am sorry, but this underprice must end forever on October 1.

Only $1,000 More

Between now and that date our output will be an even thousand cars. Go to your local Reo dealer and see if he can get you one.

If so, this is your last chance—here or anywhere else—to get a car like this for 1055 dollars.

This Season's Sensation

Reo the Fifth, at this price, as you know, has been the year's sensation.

There were times when orders ran five times our output. Even now we are not caught up.

But the future demand will break all the past records. Men are only beginning to find this car out. Now thousands of users are telling to others what a wonderful car is my final creation. And legions of men are now coming to want it.

Nothing Newer

Other new-model cars now being announced show how Reo the Fifth is followed.

The center control and the left-side drive are coming next year into widespread adoption. But no other car has such simple control as my latest Reo.

And the best of other cars will now use roller bearings, but none will use more than I. In Reo the Fifth there are eleven Timken bearings, and four of the Hyatt high duty.

The most important changes in 1913 models are the features I brought out in Reo the Fifth.

Where I Excel

I claim no ability beyond other designers. In fact, Reo the Fifth is a hundred-man car. A hundred have helped to perfect it.

But I have behind me 25 years of motor car experience. I have had 60,000 cars of my creation to guide me.

I know the need for big margins of safety. I know where economies ruin a car.

I realize the need for slow, careful building. My men are never rushed. I employ extreme tests and endless inspection, for I know how defects otherwise creep in.

Reo the Fifth owes its splendid perfection to the caution which the years have taught me.

Each lot of steel is analyzed twice. Gears are tested in a crushing machine of 50 tons' capacity.

For 48 hours I submit every engine to five very radical tests. And finished cars are given tests which rarely are employed.

Reo the fifth is a marvel of silence, because parts are ground over and over—ground to utter exactness.

The body gets 17 coats. Every detail of finish and upholstering shows the final touch. You can see the evidence of the care I use.

Then there are in this car 190 drop forgings. There are nickel steel axles, vanadium steel connections. We consider nothing too costly for Reo the Fifth. Those are the reasons for this amazing success.

My Center Control

I suggest to all car buyers the vital importance of getting a center control. Also a left-side drive.

Center control means free entrance in front. Both of the doors are clear. In the Reo it means a single small lever between the two front seats. All the gear shifting is done by moving this lever only three inches in each of four directions.

Both brakes are operated by foot pedals. So there is no reaching—no lever in the way.

This arrangement permits of the left-side drive, the same as in electrics. The driver sits close to the cars which he passes and on the up side of the road.

These are coming features in all leading cars. You get them in perfection in Reo the Fifth.

Get Today's Price

If you want such a car, try to get it before the price goes up. Go to the nearest Reo dealer. We have them in a thousand towns. Ask him to get you the present price, and he will if he possibly can.

If you don't know our dealer write us for his name. And write for our catalogue showing all styles of bodies. In view of the facts here stated, you will save by acting now.

Simon Gillis, Weight Thrower, Can Eat Four Dozen at a Sitting. Never Takes the Trouble to Peel the Skins Off—Olympic Meet Proved Men Marvels at Eating.

Most likely you have eaten eggs, raw, boiled, fried, scrambled or in half a dozen other styles, but undoubtedly eating them with their shells on is something beyond your imagination, Ralph Craig, just back from the Olympic games, tells a story on Simon Gillis, the New York policeman and weight-thrower, who was a member of the Olympic team, that may result in your putting them on your menu—just eggs, neither fried nor boiled and enclosed in their original shells.

"I had heard a story about Gillis eating four dozen raw eggs, without removing the shells, at one time," said Ralph Craig, "and naturally thought it even too far-fetched to be a good story. But one night on the Finland after finishing dinner I went over to the table where the weight men sat. These men were such big eaters that an extra force of waiters had to be assigned to their table to keep their plates filled. Their meals were no small items in the expense account. It was always a whole beefsteak, of no small size, for each one at dinner and with the rest of their meal in proportion they each received a quart of ice cream for dessert. After Gillis had finished one of these 'ordinary' meals that night he called the waiter and ordered a half dozen raw eggs. They were brought in shells and Gillis, taking time only to put a little mustard on each one, put the whole eggs into his mouth one at a time and swallowed them, shells and all. After that I wondered if he couldn't down even more than four dozen on an empty stomach."

MANY DUCKS DYING ON TULARE'S BIG LAKE.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

TULARE, Sept. 6.—As was the case last year, to the complete confusion of the State fish and game officials, large numbers of ducks are dying about the shores of Tulare Lake, and a sensational report has been going the rounds to the effect that the birds are dying of a disease identical with infantile paralysis.

Andy Ferguson of Fresno, the head game warden for this district, has just returned from a trip of inspection to the lake, as a result of which he states that the exact cause of the death of the birds cannot be learned. Several hundred of all varieties of wild fowl were found lying about the tules and on the bank of the lake, none of them giving evidence of having been shot or trapped. Some of the residents of the lake country believe the birds have been killed by squirrel poison, although those familiar with the birds claim they will not eat dry grain at this time of year.

The question of lifting the ban against automobiles in Bermuda is being considered. Motor cars have been prohibited on the island for several years, due to recklessness that characterized their operation when first introduced into Bermuda.

UMPIRES MOVE UP.

American Association umpires appear to be finding favor with the major leaguers. Following the success of Clarence Owens with the Nationals, Charlie Ferguson is to wear the spangles of Ban Johnson's organization next season. It also might be recorded in passing that Ollie Chill probably would have been secured for the American League for the season of 1913, but unfortunately for him he has a three-year contract which still has another year to run. Ferguson's contracts never have been for more than one season. There has been a great deal of complaint in the American League this season oon the work of some of the indicators and apparently the big chief thinks some new blood is desirable.

Very Lucky Man.

AWKWARD RUBE HAS BIG YEAR.

Fortune in Sight for Heaver if Giants Win Flag.

Rich Vaudeville Contract Has Been Offered Him.

Victory Will Enable Him to Gather Much Wealth.

That baseball can make real fortunes for owners of major league clubs has been demonstrated time and again. That it can do almost as well for ball players is about to be proven by Rube Marquard, this year's sensation in a pitching way. Ability and application are requisites when it comes to making money, but the combination possessed by Rube, ability and luck, is the happiest.

Rube is lucky in that he is pitching for New York instead of Boston, St. Louis or Brooklyn. He is lucky tot be with a winning team of heavy hitters, which makes victories easy for him. Nothing but the Giants' downfall in the race for the pennant can prevent Marquard's making more money than ever was accumulated before in a single year by a ball player. If the Giants repeat and then capture the world's championship, so much the better. But if they only succeed in getting the National League flag, and if Marquard can pitch one good game in the big series his fortune is made.

In the first place, there is his salary. Because of the fact that he was of very little use to the Giants for three years, the chances are that his annual stipend is not more than $4500, if it is that much. But there will be a bonus this year for him amounting to at least $1000. Then, New York sporting men have promised to reward him for his great work, and it is safe to say he will be presented with at least another $2000 by them. In addition, he will be given an automobile, whether he is chosen as the National's most valuable man or not. If the sporting writers do not elect him his friends will. The world's series split will net him either $2700 or $3500, depending on the Giant's success or failure.

And then comes the real money. On the best of authority, it is learned that one of the big vaudeville syndicates has offered Marquard a twenty-two weeks' engagement at a weekly salary of $1000. This offer holds good only if New York wins the pennant, so you may rest assured that at least one member of the Giant pitching staff is pulling against the Cubs.

If the Giants hold their lead to the end Marquard's earnings for one year will easily reach $35,000. If they win the big title, he will make more than that. Furthermore, he will be in a position next spring practically to name his own terms. Let Rube's luck, or part of it, hold out for another season or two and it is safe to say that his baseball career will mean at least $100,000 to him.

Marquard is still a young man and if he takes care of himself there is no reason why he should not last seven or eight years more. He cannot hope to go on as long as Mathewson has, for he hasn't the ability to conserve his strength when it is not needed. This is undoubtedly Rube's best year, and it is up to him to make the most of it.

Six years ago Marquard was pitching for the Canton club in the Central League at the princely salary of $125 per month. Every batter in that circuit had a wholesome respect for him, but the almost unanimous verdict was that he would never "stay up" in the big show because of his awkwardness and his weakness in fielding. In those days Rube never dreamed of the good fortune awaiting him. He was content to go along winning a big majority of his games and taking his frequent scoldings from mates and manager.

Yes, Rube was "bawled out" just as often in the bushes as he has been since McGraw took hold of him, and it was undoubtedly his early teaching that made him take McGraw's abuse so calmly.

Well, as everyone knows, he came up, was sent back, and came up again. He isn't graceful nor a good fielder today, and there are those who say he would be out plowing but for his luck. But he is getting more money than an overwhelming majority of us, and he has taken enough verbal punishment to deserve it.

WHISKERS CAUSE OF GREAT PLAYER'S DEFEAT.

George Sutton, the veteran Chicago billardist, who has held the 18.1 balk line championship of the world, has for many years been nicknamed the count. Possessed of luxurious whiskers and a flowing mustache, worn in the style affected by many European grandees, Sutton could easily pass for a member of the French or German nobility.

Some years ago the champion was competing in a tournament in Pittsburgh, and, much to his chagrin, lost his first two games, in both of which he played poorly. The late William Catton was among the contestants, and to him Sutton went for consolation.

"I can't understand my poor play," said George.

"Well," responded Catton, "I think I can account for it. You are thinking so much about your whiskers you cannot concentrate your mind on the game. Cut them off."

Sutton took the advice and went through the tournament without another defeat.

AMERICA CONSISTENT.

There are five standard events on the Olympic games programme in which America has never been defeated. They are the 110-meter hurdles, the running broad jump, the standing high jump, the shot put and the hammer throw. In four other events the United States athletes have sustained only one defeat, and this includes the 400-meter race, the running high jump, the standing broad jump and the pole vault. In the 400-meter race in London in 1908, Lieut. Halswelle of England, ran the final alone, the Americans refusing to run on account of J. C. Carpenter's disqualification. The other defeats were in the pole vault and running high jump, Coulder of France winning the former in Paris in 1900; and P. Leahy of Ireland, the latter in Athens in 1906.

Some day you may kill your engine on a railroad crossing

Nine out of ten fatalities at railroad and street car crossings are caused by the nervousness of the driver, who, at the critical moment, "kills" his engine. With an Electric Starting Pathfinder, you and your passengers are safeguarded—you simply press a foot pedal without disengaging your gears, and are instantly carried out of danger. You may never get caught on a railroad crossing, but the ease and convenience of being able to start your car instantly from the driver's seat contributes to your safety and adds to your motoring pleasure.

Pathfinder "40" is endorsed by the U.S. Government

When the United States Government Office of Good Roads decided to survey routes for three ocean to ocean highways, the official engineers selected the Pathfinder "40" because of its dependability and stipulated that it must perform the unprecedented feat of crossing the great American continent three times in one season. Not many motorists will ever put their cars to so severe a test, but surely this official endorsement by the U. S. Government should go a long ways toward helping you to decide in favor of the Pathfinder.

Look them all over—and then see the Pathfinder

Here at last is a beautiful car, built along symmetrical lines—pleasing to the eye and comfortable to ride in—a car that is built to climb the steepest hills, to travel the roughest roads, to skim over level boulevards and through parks, with the least amount of wear and the most genuine enjoyment.

Don't imagine for a moment that because Pathfinder prices are low that we have sacrificed quality, material or workmanship—you can't get a more satisfying car, no matter what amount of money you are willing to pay.

At least investigate Don't decide now—all we ask is that you investigate before you decide on any car. This you owe to your good business judgment and your pocketbook. And remember, we are not coming to you with an untried, unproved car.

The Pathfinder has stood the acid test of time and wear—the new series is better than ever before. In sending us the coupon below you promise nothing, obligate yourself in no way—so send it to us today, now, before you turn this page—or a postal card will do.

GOLFER SOLVES PROBLEM.

It has remained for a golf player of experience to solve the question of the spike by eliminating it, and he insists that his "invention" will work as well for the ball player as it has for him in playing golf. Golfers wear spikes so that they may not slip when they drive and make iron shots.

This player has fastened in his golfing shoes some blunt-headed little screws, which are about deep enough for the sole, and project slightly into the turf.

He uses fifty or sixty of them in his shoes, and says that they not only make it impossible for him to slip, but are a perfect safeguard for quick turns and are twice as comfortable to the feet as the spike plates which the ball players wear.

Spikes are not the easiest thing in the world on which to walk. They make the ball of the foot pain like a young bunion.

GUARANTEES INVENTION.

"If any ball player wishes to try my invention," says the golfer, " will show him what to do with the greatest of pleasure, and I will guarantee that he prefers my plan to the spike and, more than that, I will guarantee the owners of baseball clubs that they will not be losing valuable young men at ticklish times in a championship season because some player's leg, foot or hand is laid open with the murderous spikes which are in use now."

The baseball spike is such a weapon for offense that all players know only too well what the outcome of a severe case of spiking may be. Occasionally there is a player who is mean enough to try to intimidate another. More than half a score of the best players of the major and minor leagues have been spiked this year, and there are three or four men out now because the shoe blades have done their mischievous work.

MUCH BIG GAME FOUND IN ALASKAN WILDS.

Word has been received from Walter Tingley, the popular local sportsman who is now hunting in Alaska.

Leaving Juneau, accompanied by an old Indian who acted as his guide, Tingley worked into a choice hunting ground, where he seems to have made a decided hit with the northern Indians.

In the letter which Pete Peterson received from Tingley, it is reported that all the late high-power rifles are in use in Alaska and that there are many 16 and 20-gauge shotguns to be found there, the smaller bores proving more popular than the larger ones.

The game there is plentiful. Deer, bear and seal come under the head of big game.

English Jockeys.

LORD LONSDALE DISAGREES WITH JOCKEY TOD SLOAN.

LORD LONSDALE, one of the greatest English authorities on every branch of sport, has replied to the sensational indictment of the horsemanship of English jockeys made by Tod Sloan after the classic Derby race had been run, says a London writer.

Many admit that Sloan's criticisms of jockeyship are entitled to be listened to with respect. He is undoubtedly one of the greatest geniuses who ever sat on a horse.. He revolutionized jockeyship in England. It was he who introduced "the American seat"—the style of crouching over the horse's withers instead of sitting almost bolt upright, as Fordham. Archer and Cannon used to ride. "The American seat" has been riddled with criticism, but whether it is good or bad it has been adopted by every jockey who is riding with any success today.

Sloan said:

"It is surely a reflection on the horsemanship of Englishmen that eight of the twenty jockeys riding in the Derby should be either American, French or colonial. I can't imagine anything worse than the horsemanship of the English boys. There were some of them I wouldn't allow to ride exercise at the racing stables, more of them ought to be chef's assistants in the kitchen of a restaurant.

"It isn't only that they have no skill, but they have no nerve. They are afraid to seize an opening, afraid to take the slightest risk. They just jog along the safest way they can.

"I don't think English horses are as good now as they are in France. The French horses do less work in the training grounds and more on the race course. In France it is nothi for a horse to run thirty times in the course of a season. If a colt runs in half a score of races in England everybody says he is being overdone.

'All this coddling of jockeys and coddling of horses is not doing English racing any good. I think England has a good deal to learn from the French methods, where the jockeys have to do real fighting if they want to win a race, and the horses pass their days on the course instead of in the stables."

LONSDALE MAKES DENIAL.

Lord Lonsdale does not altogether agree with Sloan, but, all the same, sees much to find fault with in English riding and traces back the origin of this to the introduction of the "American seat."

"It is not want of pluck or nerve," he said, "that prevents our English boys riding as well as their predecessors.

"The fault lies in the adoption of the unnatural 'American seat,' with the absurdly short leathers. It is this practice which is playing havoc with riding in this country.

"The position of the jockey is so unnatural that he has to be of abnormal physique if he is to be in a position to ride the race properly.

"It is impossible for a jockey nowadays, sitting crouched up in this abominable way, to display the horsemanship with which a man like Mornington Cannon used to win races.

"I watched the introduction of this method of riding with great distrust and am convinced that it is responsible for many of our present shortcomings, although, as far as the introduction of the new method of carrying the weight well forward is concerned, I am fairly alive to its benefits.

"I do not think there is anything in Tod Sloan's accusations against English methods of training, for conditions are so entirely different in France that a comparison of the systems is hardly applicable."

STANFORD TRACK MEN BEGIN FALL TRAINING.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Sept. 6.—Fall training for the Cardinal cinder path men was ushered in tonight when a big track rally was held in Encina Hall. Nearly 100 men have signified their intention of turning out for the work and the practice this fall will be much more extensive and undoubtedly of more benefit than in any previous year.

Track Capt. E. P. Campbell, '13, "Dad" Moulton and others prominent in athletics, addressed the gathering, which was the first fall track rally that has ever been held at Stanford.

The early work is to consist explusively of cross-country running, for which six trophy cups have been provided.

All athletes who are not out for fall training are being urged to join the big track squad. "Dad" Moulton is to devote all his time to the track men this year, as H. W. Maloney will handle the football men, and from now on "Dad" will be at the training-house on the oval every morning and afternoon. All candidates will receive his personal attention and it is expected that the work will have a decidedly beneficial effect on track athletics here.

The sprinters are to be kept off the cinder path for several weeks. Their preliminary work will be done on a turf track that has been laid out near the oval. This is an innovation on the Pacific Coast.

At least a dozen veteran athletes are to assist the trainer in handling the squad. Never before have such elaborate plans been made for carrying on the pre-season training.

GLOVER HAS PLANS FOR RIVERSIDE Y.M.C.A.

Robert Glover, former physical director at Redlands University, was in the city last week. Glover is the new director at Riverside Y.M.C.A., and he says that he will have a big year in all branches.

With exceptional basketball material, Glover is contemplating a sweeping campaign in that branch and he will also put out a track team in addition to the usual baseball team and the gymnasium team.

ANGELENOS GET GOOD "GYM" JOBS.

WYCKOFF, CHAPMAN AND SCOTT BUSY AT STANFORD.

Well-Known High School Athletic Directors of This City Are to Have Leading Positions Among Gymnasts at Cardinal Institution This Year.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Sept. 6.—Three men, well known in interscholastic athletic circles in Los Angeles, are to be connected with the Stanford gymnasium this year. H. A. Wyckoff, '07; J. F. Chapman '09, and Earl T. Scott, '13, have been appointed to important positions on the instruction staff, and have started to systematize their work among the several hundred students who are taking gymnasium work.

Wyckoff, formerly was physical director at Los Angeles Polytechnic. He was also a member of the A.A.U. Commission in Southern California three years ago. In 1909 he went to Baltimore ,where he attended Johns Hopkins University and was physical director at the Baltimore Athletic Club. This year he came to Stanford as one of the first Jordan scholars in medicine.

Chapman was formerly connected with the physical training staff at Los Angeles High. Scott, who is still an undergraduate, is the champion middleweight boxer at the university, and will be assistant in boxing instruction.

The addition of these Angelenos to the gymnasium staff will result in a big boost to all kinds of gymnasium sports here.

RIBS REALLY BROKEN.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Charlie Miller, the big "white hope" defeated yesterday by "Pueblo Jim" Flynn, is nursing two broken ribs today—the ninth and tenth on the left side—in recognition of the beating he took. Miller broke two ribs on the same side two years ago in another fight and will be laid up for some time. The physician who examined him said he was in no danger.

OLYMPIC HEAD TO RETIRE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Cable messages received here announce the impending retirement of Lord Desborough, chairman of the British Olympic council and one of the foremost English authorities in track and field athletics. A former great athlete himself, he has been for years giving his time and knowledge for the furtherance of sports.

St. Louis is to have a new quarter-mile saucer-shaped motorcycle track.

BASEBALL COLLEGE TO BE ESTABLISHED.

A baseball college is to be established somewhere in the South next fall, if plans now being made are completed. The idea is to eliminate a large part of the expense of spring training trips and at the same time furnish trained material for the managers of the major league clubs to take their spring camps.

Clubs which have a number of new players may send them to college, where each recruit will be taught individually by a former star.

Charles Carr, manager of the Kansas City American Association team will be proprietor of the institution and owners of all major leagu clubs will be invited to contribute and take part of the benefits.

Will He Do It?

FANS ANXIOUS ABOUT CLARKE.

Pirate Bugs Are Talking of His Retirement.

Contract of Player-Manager Expires This Year.

Has Earned All the Honors Due a Ball Player.

Will Fred Clarke manage the Pittsburgh baseball club next year?

In some quarters there prevails the belief that Clarke—rich and a power in Kansas politics—is about to retire from the game to devote his entire time and attention to his ranch and flour mill in the Sunflower State, writes David J. Davies in the Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.

Fred's contract as manager of the Pittsburgh club expires this year. He doesn't know whether he will renew it or not. It was believed when he last signed that the document was a two-year affair. It wasn't; it was for one year only—till the end of the 1912 season.

The writer believes the greatest left fielder that ever lived is growing tired—that he is becoming awearied of the hurly-burly life of baseball—that he believes the time has come when he should settle down with his family to enjoy the good things his many strenuous years of endeavor on the baseball diamond have earned for him. Clarke cannot achieve greater honors than are his. He has shown himself to be one of the great leaders of baseball; he has won pennants and also a world's championship. No greater reward exists for the baseball manager.

The other day the writer found Clarke busily engaged playing fan-tan with five or six of his players. The game had been called off owing to rain and adjournment had been made to the clubhouse.

Where two or three or four or five or six or seven Pittsburgh baseball players foregather, there will be started a fan-tan game. This seductive Chink pastime has the Corsairs on the hip and the manager is not immune.

"What about next year, Cap?" was asked. (Clarke is Cap to every one.)

"How do you mean?" came the parry.

"Will you be with the team in 1913?" was the next shot.

"Be with the team? Well, I expect to see them play some games."

"No, no! Are you going to manage the Pittsburgh club next year? Have you signed or are you going to sign?" was the elucidation.

"Well—" and here was noticed a hesitation foreign to the speaker's usual manner of address—"Well, I may sign and I may not. I haven't decided yet."

"Your last contract; what was that? Was it for two years as announced at the time of your signing, or was it only for one year?"

"It was for one year—and I (with emphasis on the personal pronoun) never said it was longer!" Continuing along this line, the manager said: "There is still time to talk concerning next year. The present season is only a little more than half over and we are having our hands full meeting the demands of the present. The future will be met when it becomes 'the present.'"

Clarke has been at the head of the great Pittsburgh club since 1901, when, with Wagner, Phillippe, Leach and other stars, he came from Louisville, the Colonels being transferred bodily to that city. He has made a name for himself—a name that will live as long as baseball lives. He has made his team a team that has been feared by all others—a team which has always been up front in the National League race.

But, all things must come to an end. So must Fred Clarke's tenure of office as manager of the Pittsburgh club be concluded some day. Fred is now past 40 and a wealthy man. His wife has been urging him for years to quit the diamond life and settle down. Mrs. Clarke, ever since her marriage, more than fifteen years ago, has been experiencing the hardships that fall to the lot of a ball player's better half. Two years ago, from all accounts, her entreaties nearly had the effect she desired, and the task of securing a new manager was almost put up to President Dreyfuss.

Followers of the Pirate's fortunes profess to believe that Clarke has decided to quit. Early in the season, when they appeared to be strong contenders for the pennant, it was believed that Manager Fred would put forth every effort to land another flag in order to make his retirement a noteworthy event. Goodness knows he tried hard enough, and now that he has failed—that the men under him have failed—the question arises: "Will Clarke quit a loser?"

CHESS NOTES.

In the fourth Southern California correspondence tournament P. R. Ruth has won a Danish gambit from George E. Hart, who sticks to his old love in spite of adversity in the score sheet. Hart intimates that he would rather lose a lively gambit than win a poky close game. All the contestants have now met with losses, with the exception of Asher, Frazier, Lemberger and Pearsall. At least two of these four are reported to be wrestling with precarious situations, and prospects of clean scores are receding. Games won and lost to date have been credited as follows:

Pearsall, 2-0; Asher, 2-0; Frazier, 1-0; Lemberger, 1-0; Keys, 1-1; Ruth, 1-1; Davis, 0-0; Hafford, 0-1; Hazen, 0-1; Spooner, 0-1; Hart, 0-2; Thompson, 0-2.

The following game, played in this tournament, shows one of the snags encountered by a student in defending the Scotch gambit:

FORE!

BY ALMA WHITAKER

Obviously all future international championships held on this side of the Atlantic should take place on the Pacific Coast, where our temperature knows how to behave like a gentleman. The Chicago brand has shown a preposterous disregard of the laws of hospitality—we thought the roasting of guests was exclusively a barbarian institution.

Poor Harold Hilton—he is about to have a personal illustration of paper bag cookery. And just when he had published that lovely book, too, explaining how championships are won. As for that popular Scot, Norman Hunter, he will be able to indorse Tennyson very heartily in his assertion that "The thoughts of men are widened with the process of the suns." Widened, strengthened, emphasized—inexpressible.

The Silver Lining.

The Chicago Tribune says that more than ninety tons of silver are used annually in the making of golf trophies. That is just what my estimate was when I saw the Del Monte prizes arranged in glittering array. How much of it is coming South, I wonder?

Panama Expositon Tournament.

The plans are already in the making for a big international golf tournament in San Francisco to celebrate the Panama Exposition. Lincoln Park, which is part of the exposition grounds, is already laid out with a nine-hole course. Plans for improving this and adding another nine holes are now being made. It is a ripping idea and one that will find ready response from British and French golfers.

I recall the enthusiastic suggestions that were put forth for the last great exhibition in Paris anent a golf tournament, but France had not then taken golf properly to heart and the idea never materialized. It is a noteworthy fact that such places as Baden-Baden, Monte Carlo, Homburg, Bad Nauheim, Biarritz and like continental resorts of permanent popularity ascribe the larger number of their regular (and incidentally wealthy) visitors to their golf tournaments.

When those much-eulogized and luxurious Monte Carlo links were opened last year, the chairman remarked in his speech that the links had become an absolute necessity, if the prosperity of the principality was to be maintained, for every other well-to-do man is a golfer nowadays and golfers will not go where no golf links exist.

Pacific Coast Golf.

Golf on this side of the continent has certainly been making rapid strides during the past two years and the magazine started by the northern players, Dr. Frederecks and Macdonald Spencer, under the above title, already has its existence fully justified.

New golf courses are being laid out in no less than seven towns at the present time and nearly 100 already exist. The Midwick Country Club at Ramona hopes to be ready for play this winter, but when I was last over there this seemed an ambitious desire. The Altadena links should be in good playable condition this year, however, if the fall rains do their duty.

Then there is the new country club and links being planned for San Jose, and the Duarte links begin to materialize satisfactorily. Fresno expects her course to be in good condition this winter, too.

Star Writers.

The new magazine has started well with star writers, champions and golf celebrities. Miss Edith Cheeseborough writes on women's golf and denies that women excel in the short game, or, indeed, in any part of the game, and that they can ever equal the men players.

Norman Macbeth writes intimate reminiscences of John Ball, the British amateur champion for the eighth time, and calls him "Johnny" throughout the story, which naturally makes us feel delightfully pally with the great celebrity.

Mrs. Van Dyke.

There is little hope that Mrs. Henry Van Dyke will return from Cleveland in time for the Del Monte meeting, and we must content ourselves with the good play she is putting up in the women's western championship. She is certainly one of our most graceful and distinguished women players, and, as Miss Katherine Moulton, enjoyed a national golfing reputation for many years.

Flossmoor Open Championship.

Macdonald Smith of Del Monte won the money at the open tournament at Flossmoor, Ill., his second success since the Del Monte Golf Club sent him East.

Colored Champions.

The Yorkshire Post (Eng.) is asking why America does not produce some black golf champions, since so many of the caddies are of ebony hue. The lad, John Shippen, who finished fifth in the Open Championship in 1902 seems to be the only case of the kind on record and even he failed to maintain progress.

Certainly the Zulus and the Basutos in Africa make fine golfers. When traveling up through Central Africa with my father I can recall a fine improvised golf course—it took the Englishmen of the party exactly two days to make it—fine natural sand bunkers, a real water hazard in a little "spruit" and a picanniny kopje near the sixteenth hole, which they called Mt. Sanai and where they invariably broke the Ten Commandments in the spirit, at all events.

We stayed there nearly three weeks and the Englishmen amused themselves by teaching some of those Zulu giants and Basutos to play golf. Imagine their joy when, on the return journey six months later, they found that the Zulus had made themselves some clubs—my father treasured two of the queer-looking weapons for years—and had become astonishingly good players, notwithstanding the handicap of their crude implements. With commendable generosity they presented the blacks with their own sets of drivers, brassies, mashies, cleeks, irons, putters, and for years afterwards it was a point of honor for Englishmen traveling up country to send down news of the Zulu Golf Club. The old gutty balls were in use then, of course, and the Zulus evolved a very passable imitation that served their purpose well, cow hide and ox blood were among the ingredients, I remember.

1913—Abbott-Detroit—1913

The demand of the day is that an organization shall be judged by its PRODUCT and not by what it CLAIMS for itself.

A careful inspection of our product will convince you of the efficiency of our organization and the thoroughness of our engineering force.

The number of splendid improvements and ments which have yearly been incorporated in Detroit cars confirm the fact that we are pace- not stragglers.

These six new styles, ranging in price from $3050, all well equipped, are unquestionably THE CARS IN THE WORLD AT THE PRICE.

THE ABBOTT-DETROIT ELECTRIC SELF-STARTER

1913 Abbott-Detroit cars are equipped with our own specially designed, self-contained electric self-starter. This is not an experiment—not an attempted combination of ignition, lighting and starting, but an electric SELF-STARTER—a real one—a dependable one—built as a part of the engine—the first reliable one ever placed on a car—complete—part of the regular equipment. Visit our salesroom and have in operation explained.

Two of these models, the 34-40 FORE-DOOR ROADSTER and the 34-40 5-PASSENGER FORE-DOOR TOURING CAR, have a 116-INCH WHEEL-BASE, while the other four models, the 44-50 DEMI-TONNEAU, the 44-50 7-PASSENGER, FORE-DOOR TOURING CAR, the 44-50 BATTLESHIP ROADSTER and the 44-50 LIMOUSINE, are built upon a 121-INCH WHEEL-BASE chassis.

LIFE VERY EASY NOW FOR NICK AND HERMAN.

SHAEFER and Altrock are the Washington jesters. Like the fools of the old-time kings, their purpose is serious.

Clark Griffith says that he has retained these two princes of baseball fun-makers to win the American League pennant. They will furnish that extra little push that will send the Nationals across the line ahead of the Red Sox, the only team that Griffith fears to any extent. So thinks the Washington manager.

Herman and Nick are engaged partly to furnish amusement for the Nationals on the field and partly to add to the drawing power of the Washington bunch while at home and away, thus helping to reimburse the Capital club's management for its outlay in providing a ball team.

But these two duties of Herman and Nick are only a very small part of what they are paid for. They are paid to keep their teammates in good humor off the field, mostly. The playing time of a ball player is the easiest part of his life. There is more of interest, more of excitement, more to make life worth living then than during the pilgrimages to distant cities with all its inconvenience and boresomeness of travel and hotels.

It is to life the minds of his men off the game and keep them in good humor and optimistic that Griffith has engaged these two prizes. And they fulfill their duties. They are natural clowns. What they can't think of to brush the frowns from the alabaster brows of their fellow-unfortunates was never imagined by Barnum and Bailey's best.

The Nationals think that they have a corner on the spirit uplifters of the national game. This is no insinuation whatever that they recline themselves along the mahogany with their feet on a shiny brass rail overly much. Not that kind of spirit uplifter is meant. But the Nationals believe that they have the only living forceps that can extract humor out of the jaws of Nemesis.

Manager Griffith doesn't ever consider Charlie Faust, the famous Giant mascot, in comparison with his two jesters. Charlie Faust is simply a bug who furnishes amusement unconsciously by his bugism. He doesn't know when he's going to be funny and when he's going to be tragic. Faust will do anything him to without to a bunch of ball him ideas. The him, and not with
